Communist China May Be Substantial Wheat Market For Canada for Many Years

TORONTO (CP) — Communist China, now making extraordinary wheat purchases from Canada, may be a substantial market for Canadian grain for quite a few years, Max Forsyth - Smith, Canadian trade commissioner in Hong Kong, said Tuesday.

He added that even when present demand, arising from crop shortages, subsides, China may still wish to buy Canadian grain so that she can export her rice at good prices.

Mr. Forsyth-Smith, whose territory includes China, is in Canada to accompany the current Chinese trade mission or to make advance arrangements for it at the various centres it is visiting.

Speaking at a press conference here, he indicated that the mission hopes to increase sales to Canada from the present level of around $6,000,000 to perhaps $12,000,000.

Sales to China this year, with extraordinary wheat sales, will total between $340,000,000 and $350,000,000, thus making China one of Canada's biggest customers.

The current mission, headed by Chen Ming, director of the department of the ministry of foreign trade which has to do with trade with non-Communist countries, already visited Ottawa, now is in Montreal, will come to Toronto Saturday and, after a fortnight's stay will proceed to Winnipeg and Vancouver.

At each centre it meets firms interested in Chinese trade. In Toronto, for instance, about 150 firms have expressed interest. Although primarily here to sell, the mission is seeking about 40 many Canadian exporters as importers.

Mr. Forsyth - Smith said he thinks there is no question of Chinese ability to pay under the credit terms arranged for the wheat they have purchased. Outside of wheat, he didn't know of any requests for credit.

Possible exports from Canada to China include fertilizers, pulp, paper, metals, scientific instruments, medical equipment drugs, chemicals, plastic raw materials, synthetic rubber, special steels, as well as grain.

Possible imports from China run a wide range including food specialties, hardware, glass, musical instruments, cigarettes, mercury, manganese ore, tin, tin ore, various chemicals, feathers and down, bristles, rugs, hides, walnuts, tea, bamboo wares, spices and various handicrafts of ivory, wood and pottery.

Mr. Forsyth-Smith is a graduate of Acadia University Wolf. He served in the Canadian army in the Second World War with the Royal Canadian Regiment and joined the trade commissioner service in 1947.

Russians May Bungle Second Chance in Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—The Russians have been given another chance in The Congo.

Patrice Lumumba, the slain Congolese leader of last year's independence movement, gave them their first chance. He invited them to help him crush the resistance to his high handed rule.

The Russians responded enthusiastically. They sent in 16 Ilyushin planes to ferry his troops around the country. They sent 100 trucks in more. But ammunition and a horde of propagandists disguised as technicians. They pumped money into the country to create confusion and doubt. But they overdid it.

Col. Joseph Mobutu climbed on a table in a downtown hotel and announced he had given the Russians, Czechs and Polish embassies 48 hours to close down and evacuate their personnel. They went out in the Ilyushins, leaving the trucks behind.

Now, the Russians, Czechs and Poles are back on a government invitation. They came here from Stanleyville where they had been helping the rump government of Antoine Gizenga, Lumumba's deputy. Lumumba's here. But in August he agreed to join the central government as second vice-premier.

ECONOMIC LEFTISTS

The Russians hadn't been in Leopoldville long when Congolese officials began to get large sums of money were being distributed. The Russians would like to see Mr. Kristjanson and other Lumumbaist back in power.

The Communists have spent a great deal of money trying to glorify Lumumba. They named streets, libraries, universities, and youth clubs after him. Thousands of Negro Africans, Lumumba was the greatest Congolese.

Even in the moderate West-ern-oriented countries of Africa Lumumba is accepted as the father of the Congo republic and a martyr to the cause of African progress.

With apprehension, diplomats and United Nations officials watch Cyrille Adoula's Ghanaian-backed efforts to govern. They call and ride. While they think the premier's hands is firmly in control, somehow nothing usually happens in The Congo without the approval of economic Left Leaning Christophe Gbenye, interior minister, controls the police. He is a powerful Lumumbist and many believe he is acting on instructions of the Adoula government in Ghana.

Riots and trouble could bring about Adoula's fall. Riots and trouble could bring about Communist - supported Lumumbists are ready.

Sudbury Mining Engineer With Scheme for Diversion Of Water Ejected by Parley

MONTREAL (CP) — A Sudbury mining engineer whose pet idea is a gigantic scheme for a series of water diversion projects completed Tuesday he was "physically ejected" from a workshop discussion at the Resources for Tomorrow conference.

Thomas W. Kierans said he has been trying for three months to be accepted as a conference delegate and finally was told he could attend in an unofficial capacity.

He said B. J. Kristjanson, head of the conference secretariat, ejected him from a workshop meeting which was called to discuss development of river basins.

"I was not just told to leave, I was physically ejected," Mr. Kierans told a reporter.

He said the idea of his attending the conference was first suggested in a letter from Jean-Jacques Martel, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons Agriculture committee.

Mr. Martel wrote and telephoned the conference organizers without success.

Mr. Kierans said he made several attempts through the provincial government, including an approach to Lands Minister Rogers, but was refused.

His receiving a registration card when he sent it to Ottawa there was no trouble.

He said Mr. Kristjanson told him he was not wanted at the conference because he was "compromising."

Mr. Kierans advocates a plan to divert water from the Hudson Bay River, now flowing into James Bay, to provide fresh water for the Great Lakes area.

The Sudbury engineer attended the general opening session of the conference Monday. Later he decided to "force the issue into the open" by going to the workshop session.

to Tuesday's workshop meeting.

He said the chairman of the meeting agreed to let him stay but Mr. Kristjanson showed up and put him out before he discussions began.

Mr. Kristjanson was not immediately available for comment but an associate on the secretariat staff said Mr. Kierans' application to take part in working sessions arrived after the deadline set for applications.

He said Mr. Kierans was referred to the Ontario and Quebec governments for possible sponsorship of a late application but the secretariat which organized the conference did not receive word from either provincial government.

Mr. Kierans was welcome at all plenary sessions of the conference but because of a past policy of limiting workshop groups to 20 persons, he could not be admitted to the work shop session.

TORONTO (CP) — A resolution dealing with liquor laws and administration has been struck from the draft policy report of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party because of its controversial nature, Frederick Gardiner, chairman of the party's policy committee, said Tuesday.

Mr. Gardiner, who later introduced the report to the convention being held here, told reporters that the committee felt it did not want to try and influence the party's new leader in regards to such a controversial subject.

The resolution recommended that liquor laws be modernized "so as to make them more in line with the circumstances and conditions which now prevail in this large and cosmopolitan province."

It said the large tourist industry requires reasonable laws in respect of the sale and administration of alcoholic beverages.

Mr. Gardiner said it was felt that the leader, to be soon chosen Wednesday, should make his own policy on liquor.

The report of the 130-member policy committee was read to delegates by the chairman of each policy section.

The committee recommended that the Ontario government make use of any aid received from the federal government under its physical fitness program to establish a provincial program, provide grass roots assistance to amateur teams, expand coaching by train coaches and instructors, grant fitting pay.

recognition for outstanding achievements in amateur sport and physical fitness, and provide bursaries and scholarships to athletes who enter degree institutions.

Consideration should also be given to appointment of a special committee within the government to inaugurate and co-ordinate a comprehensive physical fitness program for all citizens.

The labor front, the committee urged legislation to expedite and strengthen the collective bargaining process, speed up machinery of certification in the construction industry, and provide adequate penalties under the Labor Relations Act for persons who violate provisions.

Another recommendation was for the establishment of a select committee to study the working conditions of the agricultural worker in Ontario.

The committee condemned any political party which raised membership funds through unions but did not publish statements, but the recommendation clearly meant the New Democratic Party.

The committee asked for an agricultural marketing act "to improve the availability of research and service to Ontario purchasers of farm implements and to ensure a continuous supply."

A workmen's compensation act for farmers was recommended. The act would include farmer's liability and contain a mandatory clause in order to bring the rates for coverage within the farmer's ability to pay.

British Guiana Not Likely To Get Loan

OTTAWA (CP) — Observers here are doubtful that Canada will make long-term development loans available to British Guiana, at least in any great volume.

Canadian assistance to the South American country after it becomes independent possibly next year—likely would be along the broad lines of existing economic aid policy, it was reported Tuesday.

This is generally to channel funds to underdeveloped countries through such multilateral arrangements as the colombo plan in the form of capital aid for approved projects.

British Guiana Premier Cheddi Jagan is understood to have been given little encouragement by Canadian officials when he came here this last week when he came here this last week when he came here this thing because I was head shipper.

He said he gave Crysdale a catalogue from which he chose a bedroom suite, a desk and chair which were delivered to his home about a week later. Young says he paid about $175 in cash.

In the weeks that followed, Young testified, he delivered occasional chairs, a dining room suite, a liquor-cabinet bar, television table and other items and received about $500 to $550 cash from Crysdale in all.

Young said he told Crysdale he was "overloading" his truck from the warehouse. He said he felt it would be a little too coarse to say he stole the furniture.

Young said he left Montreage in January, 1960, without any of the thefts being discovered and did not meet Crysdale again until April of this year.

At that time he telephoned Crysdale to ask whether he would like to buy a portable television set. Crysdale offered him $75 or $85 for the set and he accepted.

The set had been stolen by a companion from a downtown television store, Young testified.

"I told him (Crysdale) then I was overloading my truck. I was driving a transport-trailer at the time."

He said Crysdale asked him whether he could obtain a kitchen set. Young and a companion, now in custody, obtained a set from a furniture store with a fraudulent cheque, and a chesterfield from another store with another bad cheque. They were delivered to Crysdale's house last April or May, he testified, gave his "best wishes" to the seven candidates seeking leadership of Progressive Conservative party in Ontario, describing them as personal friends. Sports Broadcaster Sold Furniture at Fraction of Cost Prisoner Tells Court

TORONTO (CP) — A former warehouse worker who now is a prisoner at Kingston penitentiary testified Monday he sold more than $5,000 worth of stolen furniture at a fraction of its cost to sports broadcaster Joseph Crysdale.

Michael Young, 25, serving a two-year sentence for theft and fraud, testified at the opening of Crysdale's preliminary hearing on four charges of possessing stolen goods.

Young said he first met Crysdale in 1959 when he was living at the home of Crysdale's brother-in-law. Young then was head shipper at the warehouse of Modernage Furniture Company.

"I explained that I could get furniture out of the warehouse where I worked without any risk. Nobody would say anything because I was head shipper.

He said he gave Crysdale a catalogue from which he chose a bedroom suite, a desk and chair which were delivered to his home about a week later. Young says he paid about $175 in cash.

Cuba Is Strong Export Market For Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Cuba, now Canada's third - largest export market in Latin America, shipped "a relatively small quantities" of Canadian goods for some time to come, reports Alfred Savard, Canadian trade commissioner in Havana.

Mr. Savard's statement is included in a series of reports on export prospects in Mexico, Central America and three Latin Caribbean islands published in the trade department's magazine, Foreign Trade.

Canadian exports to Cuba have multiplied more than threefold to $15,400,000 in the first half of this year from $4,800,000 a year earlier.

Now that much of the island republic's trade lies with the United States have been curtailed, Cuba ranks third in size—behind Mexico and Venezuela—as a Latin American market for Canadian goods.

Mr. Savard reported that most of Cuba's trade now is carried out with the Soviet bloc, other Eastern European countries and Communist China. Canada had at most traditional export sales because of this, for example, Cuba now bought its wheat and newsprint from Russia.

But Cuba had become Canada's second-largest market for livestock and poultry. It continued to be "an excellent customer" for wood pulp. Canadian farmers had won contracts for seed potatoes and was also the major part of Cuba's requirements of table potatoes for November and December.

TORONTO (CP)—The gap between the cost of drugs to hospitals and institutions and their cost to retail pharmacists was discussed Tuesday before the federal government's restrictive trade practices commission.

Manufacturers sell drugs to hospitals and government agencies at a lower cost than they sell to retail druggists, a brief presented by the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association...

Commission Chairman C. Rhodes Smith asked John C. Turnbull, secretary-manager of the association, whether the body was arguing that the difference between the two sets of prices was greater than was warranted by cost factors. Mr. Turnbull said it was.

The brief held that the individual consumer was helping to subsidize the price at which drugs are offered to hospitals, institutions and government departments. It called for equitable pricing policies.

Mr. Smith suggested the raising the prices to hospitals in order to lower individual consumer spending cause hospitals to switch their buying to foreign sources, whose prices presumably would not increase.

The commissioner's hearing continues.

Amber-Colored Beer Bottles To Be Extended

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Sale of beer in amber-colored bottles will be extended by Ontario brewers next month in various sections of the province.

The new type beer bottle was introduced by the brewing industry in Peterborough and Lakefield on a trial basis last May. On Sept. 22 the industry announced beer will be sold all over the province in the new bottle by next spring.

Effective Nov. 1, amber-colored bottles will be used in the Sault Ste. Marie and Sparks areas. A week later, the existing plain glass bottle will be replaced by the amber container in an area extending eastward from Peterborough to Ottawa.

OTTAWA (CP) — A long-simmering feud between Mayor Charlotte Whitton and Brig. R. F. (Buck) Walker Sharpe over Tuesday when the latter resigned as Emergency Measures Organization co-ordinator for Ottawa-Carleton district.

Brig. (Ma). Walker, 49, flayed the mayor in a statement for ignoring civil matters and for "nefariously" attempting to use his post to that of a junior city official.

Mayor Whitton, reached in Toronto where she is attending the Progressive Conservative leadership convention, said she is "not greatly concerned" with the resignation.

The four city controllers, in Toronto to attend a municipal court building, immediately rallied with the mayor in the dispute, charging the mayor with "political interference" in EMO building and "empire building" Ma). Walker.

Controller Ernie Reid said the mayor, as chairman of the city emergency measures committee, has ignored his recommendations for saving lives in the event of a nuclear attack.

"Meetings of that committee have become monologues and irrelevancy, with tongues running wrangling over petty issues, and little or not consideration of vital and important matters.

"But I can't all be attributed to Charlotte's antics," he added. "Department heads, who solely have the policy matters, been wasting time."

Mayor Whitton retorted: "He had a greatly exaggerated opinion of the importance of his post." The executive of Ottawa-Carleton will meet. His resignation from the $7,000-a-year post automatically removes him from the post of EMO co-ordinator for Area 8, made up of 10 eastern Ontario counties.

Show Britain's Murder Rate Little Changed by New Law

LONDON (CP)—A slim, red-covered book entitled Murder, issued today by the home office, indicates that the 1957 law that all but did away with capital punishment has had little or no effect on the homicide rate in Britain.

Although it provides heavy ammunition neither for those in favor of capital punishment or for those opposed, it does give some interesting statistics on who commits them and why.

The Homicide Act passed four years ago confined the death penalty to murders committed in the course of theft, in resisting or escaping from arrest, or by shooting or by causing explosions. Those found guilty of these or kill a policeman or prison officer also are liable to the death penalty.

Murder, compiled for Home Secretary R. A. Butler, shows that the recent increase in the number of murders has been small compared with the general increase in crime.

However, since it is impossible to say how many people convicted of manslaughter under the "diminished responsibility" clause of the Homicide Act would have been found guilty of murder before the act, husband.

these cases are listed as murders. The change in population has made accurate comparisons difficult.

The total of 186 murders during 1960 is high, the report says but not unprecedented and cannot be taken as an indication of any general continuing increase in the murder rate.

The annual averages for the three decades 1931-40, 1941-50 and 1951-60 were 136, 152 and 149, respectively. The increase in population about 15 per cent from 1931 to 1960.

Some other facts in the report:

Less than 15 per cent of all murders are of the types now punishable by capital punishment. This proportion has not changed since passage of the act.

The average number of murders for financial gain rose to 12 a year from 8 during the year before the Homicide Act, despite the fact murder in the course of furtherance of theft is capital murder.

Mercy killings amount to only one or two a year and murders with an apparent sexual motive average eight a year.

In more than 40 per cent of the cases in which a woman was the victim, the suspect was the

Salmon Return In Vast Numbers To Alaska

ANCHORAGE (Reuters)—The unpredictable salmon are returning in vast numbers to Alaska's fishing grounds from which they disappeared for no obvious reason more than 10 years ago.

As a result, Alaskan fishermen this year took in 3,500,000 cases of salmon. 1,000,000 more than last year and 2,000,000 more than the average over the last six years.

This year's catch ranks with the fine catches during 1930-1950 period when salmon fishing and packing was one of Alaska's main industries.

No one really can be sure why the salmon vanished after 1959, or, for that matter, why they have returned this year. But there is no shortage of theories.

CHARGE NO ESCAPE

The cannery owners were accused of carrying out the policy of "escapement" — by which a certain percentage of the salmon were allowed to escape the nets and return to the streams and rivers of Alaska to lay their eggs.

Other explanations include one that Japanese fishermen were to blame because they fish in the deep sea, using nets five miles long, which the fish are broke they reach Alaskan territorial waters.

The United States government also came in for blame. It was the view of the United Church of business of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to halt indiscriminate dust breed before it could operate to the detriment of the industry and the economy of large area.

Scientists, trying to determine where the salmon have been in recent years, say that only the salmon may know the answer.

HUMAN WIND-GAUGE — Lauchie MacDougall, a retired railway section hand, has one of the most unusual jobs in Canada. From long experience he is able to calculate wind strength along the Wreck House stretch of the Newfoundland Railway, 15 miles from Port-aux-Basques. No train is allowed to pass until Lauchie gives the word that gales are not strong enough to blow it off the tracks. (CP Photo).

705-Mile Nfld. Railway, Longest Surviving Narrow Guage Road, Far From Dead

By DAL WARRINGTON

PORT-AUX-BASQUES, Nfld (CP)—Railway fans like to talk fondly of now - dead narrow-gauge lines that once flourished in some parts of North America, notably the West. Yet here in Canada's eastern most province the 705-mile Newfoundland Railway, longest surviving narrow-gauge road on the continent, is far from dead.

In fact, it is probably in better shape than ever during its 80-year history.

The seven-longest stretch of narrow track still carrying trains is a 20-mile line of the Denver and Rio Grande Western in the United States.

A trip on the Newfoundland Railway's main line across the island — 547 miles from St. John's to Port-aux-Basques — takes about 23 hours. This breaks no speed records but for those who like trains and scenery it is a memorable experience. You get a close - up look at some of the most rugged landscape this side of the Rockies and meet a lot of hospitable people.

MODERN EQUIPMENT

Train travellers don't have to rough it either. They ride in modern sleepers and coaches hauled by diesel locomotives. The Canadian National Railways, which took over the Newfoundland Railway in 1949, has spent about $200,000,000 bringing the equipment up to date. Chief difference from mainland railroads is that almost everything is built to smaller scale. So-called standard-gauge flats—practically all those in the rest of Canada and the United States—have rails laid four feet, 8½ inches apart. Newfoundland's narrow gauge is three feet, six inches.

When they started to build the Newfoundland Railway in 1881 the cost of a standard-gauge line was considered prohibitive for the sparsely settled island. The legislature bill authorizing the road specified that "the railway intended to be constructed shall not be what is deemed in England or the United States a first-class railway."

Taking their cue, engineers laid out a line that twists and turns, climbs and descends like an amusement park railway. Only 131 miles of the main line is about a quarter of the length, is level track. There are grades up to 2¼ per cent; the Gaff Hill climbs 2¼ feet in a 100-foot stretch.

Income Tax Explained

INCOME TAX FOR WORKER

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By: C. A. Miller — Former Supervising Assessor Income Tax Department.

There are certain jobs which a taxpayer may hold where he is required by his contract of employment to supply his own office and all items connected therewith.

These jobs could be, rural township clerks, treasurers, secretaries, of rural school boards, game wardens etc. Such positions usually carry a designated salary for the year, and the taxpayer will receive a T4 slip showing this amount. Under "Other Deductions" on the return, the person holding such a position on the conditions just outlined, will deduct all the expenses incurred in the operation of the office.

Such expenses, would include, stationery, small items of office equipment, and the cost of anything required to run to the office. Other items such as a typewriter, and filing cabinets which are of a capital nature should be depreciated at 20 per cent of the cost. This depreciation is added to the other expenses and the total deducted on the tax return.

If one room of the taxpayers' home is used exclusively as an office and definitely for no other purpose, then the cost of heat, light and applicable depreciation allowance may also be claimed as an expense. To arrive at this cost the taxpayer would keep a record of the total expenses of the home such as heat, light, taxes, mortgage interest and insurance. If the house consisted of 7 rooms, then one seventh of this total would be an allowable expense.

Expenses claimed should never be shown in a lump sum. It is very necessary that the taxpayer attach an itemized list to his return and support any large outlay by receipts. It is not necessary to cover each item claimed by an individual receipt as the tax department will accept the expenses claimed if they appear to be reasonable for the type of position concerned.

Question? I am the clerk treasurer, constable, fence viewer, sanitary inspector and road foreman in a small rural community. I am paid a lump sum per year to perform these duties. What expenses may I claim against this income? I have to supply my own car.

Answer: You may claim as an expense anything you pay out, that is necessary in the performance of your various duties. Attach an itemized list of all expenses in your return, and if the claim is reasonable it will be allowed by the Income Tax Department.

Question? I am a game warden and issue certain licenses from my home. I also conduct interviews in my home. I do not use any specific room as an office. Can I claim any expenses in this respect?

Answer: No. You must have a room in your home set aside for office use only, before a claim is allowed.

SEEK POISON SOURCE

WINNIPEG (CP) — Government scientists have embarked on a search for the source of a poison which caused paralysis and loss of hair in a family of five at a nearby Lake Winnipeg resort community. Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Monkman and their three children are believed to be Manitoba's first victims of thalium poisoning. Thalium is used in the manufacture of insecticides and rat poison.

Khrushchev Opposition Most Unexpected Feature

By JOHN EARLE

LONDON (Reuters) — Usually well - informed Western sources believe Soviet Premier Khrushchev's ability to manoeuvre over Berlin may be limited by opposition to him being displayed at the Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow.

The strength of Khrushchev's opposition in the Communist world was regarded by many here as the most unexpected feature of the congress.

Albania now is openly defiant of Khrushchev, while receiving implied support from China. And the persistence of the attacks at the congress on the "anti - party group" has led Western circles to question whether Albania and China have more powerful friends inside the Soviet Communist party than previously imagined.

There was speculation whether any of the anti - party group, or their sympathizers might be bolstered by the split in the Communist world, and try to challenge Khrushchev openly before the congress finishes at the end of the month. Any anti - Khrushchev forces to emerge would be regarded here as probably tougher toward the West over Germany and less amenable to compromise over Berlin than Khrushchev himself.

If Khrushchev has to come to a compromise with his critics, the possibilities of finding a basis for East - West negotiations over Berlin could become more remote.

Emergency North

The World's Most Expensive Citizens

Canada takes good care of her 12,000 Eskimos. To protect their health the government spends out more than $23 million a year. In emergencies such as the one shown above, for instance, flying an injured Eskimo from his remote village to a modern hospital may cost up to $4,000. All this makes the Canadian Eskimo the world's most expensive citizen.

No one complains of this expense, however. There is a very good reason for it. Until not too long ago Eskimos were dying out. This came about when to the Eskimo's naturally hard lot of hunger, cold, and accident, contact with the White Man added tuberculosis, syphilis, polio and many of the other ills of civilization. The government realized that unless something were done to help them, the Eskimos might well disappear from the Canadian scene.

Now, a regular network of health stations protects the well being of these indigenous residents of Canada's Far North. Costs are high because the country is wild and rough and dispersed, great between the widely scattered Eskimo communities.

The story of how Canada has accomplished this impressive task is told in the September-October issue of "World Health," the bimonthly magazine of the World Health Organization. This latest issue of World Health is devoted exclusively to health in the Americas. Other articles cover the water crisis in Latin America, the building of model health services in Brazil's new capital city of Brasilia, and the history of the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, the world's oldest international health organization and since 1949 WHO's Regional Office for the Americas.

May Exchange Zoo Animals With Red China

GRANBY, Que. (CP)—An exchange of animals may take place soon between Granby zoo and Red China.

He said it would be a tangible token of friendship. He offered to send to a Chinese city two typical Canadian animals.

Chen Ming, president of the trade delegation, replied he believes Granby zoo will soon have some animals from China.

By JIM PEACOCK

FORT NELSON, B.C. (CP)—The days of the dog-team patrol in the vast bailiwick of the Fort Nelson conservation officer are ended, a result of the widespread search for oil and natural gas in the North.

"We did have a dog team here," said Game Warden Barry Paul — in official language he's called a conservation officer—"but the country is so cut up now with oil roads you don't need one any more. In winter you can go 200 miles on oil roads in a car."

Mr. Paul has patrolled the Fort Nelson district for five years, travelling by river boat, horseback, aircraft, dog sled and on foot as well as by road in covering an area that stretches to the Alberta boundary on the east, the Yukon boundary on the north and Cassiar in the mountains on the west.

Two or three times a year he makes 15-day trips up and down the river system that crosses his territory, enforcing game laws, aiding sportsmen tourists and generally advancing the public relations of his department.

LIVES AMONG TRAPPERS

Winter time is the busiest for Mr. Paul, whose area lies in British Columbia's northeast corner and whose home for five years has been among the Indian trappers still living at the original Fort Nelson site.

The main settlement moved more than 15 years ago to the north side of the Nelson River and three miles away to a location along the Alaska Highway, 300 miles north of Dawson Creek.

"We still have the largest fur-producing area in the province here," Mr. Paul said in an interview. "We issue 5,000 beaver tags each year here alone."

In addition to commercial trapping, most of which now is done by native Indians, Mr. Paul must supervise operations of 15 or so guides and their assistants who escort visiting sportsmen through the region seeking trophies. Five trophies are allowed on one ram—sheep, caribou, grizzly, moose and goat.

"I have to settle disputes on the trap lines and in the guide areas," Mr. Paul said, "but there aren't too many now."

HOME IS LOG HOUSE

He keeps an eye, too, on operations of oil crews located in isolated areas in the bush country that makes up most of his region, but he said there's been little trouble with these men.

Meanwhile his wife, Mona, cares for their two children, a boy, 4, and a girl, 2, in their two-storey log house on the south bank of the Nelson River, awaiting the day when new quarters in the new Fort Nelson community will be completed.

The quarters were built as a police post on this side of the river before anything else was here," said Mr. Paul, explaining that in summer the only means of crossing the river to the new community is by motor boat. In winter there's an ice bridge.

"They've long ago outlived their usefulness."

Mrs. Paul, who came with her husband from Vancouver, has put up with the lonesomeness and loneliness in sporting fashion and now jokes about having had to keep her son on a rope leash for his first three summers to keep him out of the swift-flowing Nelson River.

"We've enjoyed it up here," she said bravely. "Home is where you make it and if we had to do it over again, we'd do the same thing."

USEFUL TREE

Farmers in Turkey use poplar trees as windbreaks, fences and a source of fuel.

NORTHERN WARDEN — Game warden Barry Paul and his wife Mona stand in the doorway of their two-storey log house on the original site of Fort Nelson, B.C. The main settlement was later moved three miles to the other side of the Nelson River. Mr. Paul has patrolled the northeastern B.C. district as conservation officer for five years. (CP Photo).

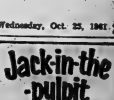
Mrs. Curtis Stanton is ill at her home and also Mr. Wallie Vick is seriously ill in Prince Edward County Hospital. Both are wished a speedy recovery.

—Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lisefield on the arrival of a son at the Prince Edward County Hospital on Sunday, October 15th.

Trent Canal Traffic Up About 10 PC

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—W. C. Bennett, Trent Canal superintending engineer, said Monday he expects canal traffic to be up 10 per cent this year over last year.



The system closed Oct. 15 for the season and traffic figures will be compiled by the end of December. During the 1960 season, 15,439 lockages took place.

Mr. Bennett said the marine railways at Swift Rapids, 25 miles north of Orillia, will undergo repairs before the canal system opens next year. The marine railways at Swift Rapids and at the Big Chute powerplant, eight miles downstream, are the only major bottlenecks in the 235-mile system.

Dr. P. D. Eynard, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Simcoe East, said the railways deter large boats from using the system.

Although there has never been a major accident, boats are frequently damaged by being carried around the rapids and Dr. Eynard advocated the installation of hydralic locks such as those at Peterborough and Kirkfield.

HODGE-PODGE

The well-known British Columbia senior league from the Okanagan Valley, home of the Kelowna Packers, has gone the way of a lot of Canadian senior flesh. Only one team, the Vernon Canadians, will operate, if they can find a league home. Penticton, Kamloops are definitely out. While the Packers' hopes are dismal . . . Russ (Mad Russian) Kowalchuk who played for the Packers for the past three seasons, has signed with the strong world champions from Trail . . . Ray Miron, ex-manager of the Cornwall Colts, is the new boss man of the Knoxville club in the Eastern Hockey League. Miron must be jinxed. He was with the Washington and Haddonfield clubs the past two seasons. Both franchises are now defunct.

Hear Floyd Crawford and Ron Hull will play with the Ingersoll club this season . . . Eleven rookies were dressed for the 1961-62 opener between the Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers in Boston. They're Orland Muckler, former Belleville senior "B" player, is the coach of the Long Island Ducks. . The Ducks replaced the former New York Rovers . . . Cold weather prevented the slated Commercial Softball League All-Star game. However Bobby Strachan held the winning ticket on the set of golf club or $50 cash. Bobby didn't take the clubs. . . . Fourteen out of sixteen sportswriting experts pick Chicago to win the National Hockey League gravy . . . That sound you hear is Paul and Andre Mercier gnashing their teeth.

On the Knife and Fork League front, the South Hastings Baseball League is holding its annual banquet on Saturday at Camelton United Church . . . The Belleville and District Softball League takes to the dance floor at Club Lenara on Friday, November 17 (Thanks, Cliff), and the Belleville Minor Sports Association is holding its yearly cha-cha at ANAF Auditorium Saturday, November 18th.

"Can't remember such an ovation even for Howe and the Rocket," commented some of the NHL brass . . . Letter from that boxing consultant of mine, Harry Robinson, the railroader's Marco Polo: "Every tourist England and particularly everything that was worth seeing. He stopped at Helston, in Cornwall, and worshipped at the thatch-covered cottage shrine, the birthplace of Bob Fitzsimmons, world heavyweight champion in 1897. Harry has seen a lot of heavyweight championship fights "live", but figures "I'd be a sucker" to see the Patterson-McNeeley club-jam in Toronto, December 4. He visited former Belleville railroaders Frank Auxten in London and Frank Revell in Hull. Speaking of Hull, he ran into Bobby Hull's uncle on the ocean liner while en route to England.

Harry visited what sounded like a division of the English Football League while over 'ome. I don't know if he is a descendant of the Swiss Family Robinson but he took in enough spots over there to lay claim to such an honour—if he had ringlets he would be touched. How's this for an itinerary: London, York, Plymouth, Stratford-on-Avon (I wonder what ring title Bill Shakespeare won), Torquay, Penzance, Land's End, Blackpool, Scarborough, Whitby, Huddersfield, Barnsley, Leeds, Harrogate, Ripon, Knaresboro, Grassington and other places. Now I understand Harry is home again, loosening up his bowling arm.

Cardinals Hard Hit By Injuries

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy is still playing musical chairs with his injury-riddled St. Louis Cardinals.

Five of his scats are out of action, plus for the balance of the National Football League season.

The Cardinals, tied with Dallas for fourth place in the Eastern Division with a 3-3 record, have suffered 11 major injuries.

Earlier this year quarterback Sam Etcheverry, who came to the Cards from Montreal Alouettes, had a long spell of pitching-arm trouble.

Still off the roster are full-back Mal Hammack, halfback Joe Childress, centre Charlie Kilroy, tackle Ken Panfil and end Hugh McGinnis. Childress and Kilroy are lost for the season. All five suffered knee injuries.

Hawks Grounded By Overconfidence

Meet Blues Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks, picked by many to win their first National Hockey League title this season, are off to an unimpressive start.

What's wrong?

Overconfidence, say coach Rudy Pilous.

"It seems," says Rudy, "that some of our players believe what's been written about them since they won the Stanley Cup last spring."

The Hawks, who have never finished higher than second in 35 years in the NHL, are running fifth after two weeks of play. Their only win in six games has been at the expense of the hapless Boston Bruins.

HURT SHOULDER

Pilote suffered a shoulder separation against Montreal Canadiens Sunday and is expected to be out of action five weeks. Tonight's game will be the first one he has missed since he came into the NHL in January through the 1953-56 season.

He will be replaced by Wayne Hillman, 32, called up from Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League.

Hay, who recently underwent surgery for removal of a carbuncle on his right knee, is not expected to dress for the Hawks' three games this week. On paper, the Hawks look potent.

Last season they finished third before eliminating Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings in playoffs for the Stanley Cup, their first in 23 years.

WORSLEY STILL OUT

New York also has an injury problem. Goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley, suffered a severe concussion when he hit the side of his head on the ice in a game at Detroit Saturday.

He is expected to be back tonight. He was replaced by Marcel Paille in another game against the Red Wings Sunday.

Worsley said in a hospital interview in Detroit, Tuesday he expects to play Saturday in Toronto. He added that he appreciates the well-wishing communications from the concussion he suffered.

Whip Stratford 4-2

Woodstock Wins Opener

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Four new faces gave Woodstock Athletics the big lift Tuesday night as they defeated Stratford Indians 4-2 in their Ontario Hockey Association Senior home opener.

Johnny Asselin, with Hull-Ottawa, sparked Woodstock with a goal and two assists. Ron Lawrence, Jim Myers, who was with the Dundas Intermediate A club, and Tommy Wilson, a recruit from Toledo Mercuries of the International League, notched the other Woodstock tallies.

Rookie defence man Bernie Lawrence scored the first Stratford goal and picked up an assist on the second one, scored by veteran Mickey Roth.

Al Cullen, young Woodstock netminder, kept them away 38 drives. Stratford's Steve Lantos stopped 36.

Two major flareups occurred in the contest with the main affair occurring at the end of the second period between Woodstock's Bill Searles and Stratford's Ray Roy. They started a stick-swinging fight and were banished from the game by referee Frank Sicko with match penalties.

Play Larks Sunday

Argos 'Wounded' Ready

TORONTO (CP) — A host of limping Argonauts are ready to run again, pressedlegs coach Lou Agase with the unusual problem of what to do with the healthy ones.

So many injuries plagued the Argos last Saturday that Agase had to reshuffle almost his entire backfield and call on defensive players for two quarters of forts. The result, was Toronto's best - balanced attack of the season and a handy 21-7 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders that punctured an Eastern Football Conference playoff berth.

Aston's return is particularly cheering Agase since it will enable him, if he desires, to send Stan Wallace for another week in hopes of further strengthening the damaged knee that has kept him on the sidelines the last three games.

Shatto, wearing a face guard for a broken nose and facial injuries that cost him one game was running well in practice Tuesday night although Agase said he's run better.

Ochiena definitely will see action Sunday, Agase said. As to Schriewer:

"That's going to be a problem. The other end (Ron Morris and Bob Jewett) have been doing fine work."

Unique Twin Bill

Fight Fans To See Doubleheader

TORONTO (CP)—New York fight promoter Al Bolan Tuesday announced terms of the Sonny Liston - Albert Westphal contest in Philadelphia Dec. 4, southern half of a unique international boxing doubleheader.

The 10 - round heavyweight scrap between Liston and West Germany's Westphal will be shown on closed-circuit television to fans attending the Floyd Patterson - Tom McNeeley title fight here the same night.

Likewise, patrons of the Philadelphia promotion will be able to watch Boston's McNeeley try to take Patterson's world title away from him in Toronto.

The Liston-Westphal bout will be limited to 10 rounds, and the Patterson-McNeeley match an hour later, said Bolan, vice-president of Championship Sports Incorporated of New York, which is promoting the twin fight.

TelePrompTer of New York will operate the closed - circuit TV bookup, which will also include theatres in centres 100 miles more away from both Philadelphia and Toronto.

Liston will be paid $50,000 plus half the live gate or $25,000 whichever is greater, Bolan said. Westphal will get $12,000 and expenses.

Mantle Slugging Champion

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees, who took a long seat to teammate Roger Maris in the 1961 home run race, captured the American League slugging crown for the third time with a .687 percentage.

Outfielder Frank Robinson of Cincinnati Reds won the National League slugging title for the second straight season with a .611 average, figures released by The Associated Press showed today.

Mantle's 54 home runs tied him for second best to Maris' record of 61, and his 128 total bases is 514 at-bats. He won the slugging crown in 1955 with a .611 and 1956 with .705.

Robinson, whose productive work was interrupted in 1961 by a wrenched knee, had 134 total bases in 345 trips to the plate.

REDS BY SHARES

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Baseball Club Company President Bill Dwyer has bought 1,004 shares of Cincinnati Reds stock owned by James D. Hutton Jr.

The purchase means that virtually all the stock held by the National League champions now belongs to either the club or the trust fund set up by the late Powel Crosley, Jr., owner and president of the Reds.

Hutton paid $798,000 for the stock a month ago, buying it from former general manager Gabe Paul, the Arthur T. Kyle estate and the Crosley Broadcasting estate. It amounted to 17.3 per cent of the club's stock.

Hutton said he felt the Reds' club was announced as "substantially the same" as Hutton paid.

Kingston Clobbered 6-1

Trappers, Beavers Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

North Bay Trappers scored two goals each period and their brilliant offence was matched by the sparkling performance of Claude Dufour, their goaltender.

Dufour, who as a result of the game has 2.50 goals-against average, turned away 31 Kingston shots, and was only a gift-goal away from a shutout.

Norm Walsowski, a member of last season's Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds, led the Trappers with two goals. Rookie defenceman Bob McCamman and Mel Pearson, Bob Hallett got a goal and an assist for the losers. John Roger firing the other Cataraqui goal.

The Beavers gained the win on a bouncing shot by Len Rochon at 15:07 of the third period. A crowd of 1,345 watched the puck hit Canadiens goalie Claire Maniago on the chest, drop to his feet after he seemed to get his glove on it, then just trickle across the goal line.

But the win was well earned. Kitchener holding a wide edge in play throughout. Only Maniago's spectacular goaltending held the score in hand. The Beavers outshot Hull - Ottawa 36-21.

Other Kitchener goals were scored by Bob Cunningham and Mel Pearson. Bob Hallett got a goal and an assist for the losers John Roger firing the other Canadiens goal.

Five Jockeys Escape Injury In Big Spill

CHICAGO (AP)—Five jockeys escaped serious injury in a spectacular spill in the eighth race at Sportsman's Park Tuesday.

The spill, which left all but three of the eight starters in the 1 1-16-mile race strewn on the muddy strip, started when Challenge Ship, ridden by Larry Sprake, fell for no apparent reason near the head of the stretch.

Four other horses, unable to avoid the fallen Challenge Ship, who was in lead, tumbled in a wild melee. They were Jamboree Jones, ridden by Leonard Pong; Under Control, ridden by Eugene Curry; Sauce Time, ridden by Bobby Baird; and Proud Tell, ridden by Sidney Lejeune.

Lejeune suffered a bruised side and Baird minor abrasions on his hand. None of the horses was injured.

Americans Bow to Aces 7-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took Quebec Aces, led by righthander Claude Lahaie to just one sizzling game Tuesday night to match their total scoring output in four previous American Hockey League appearances.

In last place in the eastern division with a 1-3 won - lost record after scoring only seven goals, the Aces broke loose against Rochester Americans and goaltender Don Simmons for seven in two periods and wound up with a 7-2 victory.

Lahaie was the leader with three goals and an assist. Guy Rousseau scored twice and Ray Brunel and Moe Mantha added singles.

The loss was the third in seven games for Rochester and kept them in first place tie with Buffalo Bisons. Bill Dineen and Wally Boyer got their goals.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh Hornets said left-winger Earl Balfour has agreed to report to them.

Balfour, 28, played for Chicago Black Hawks of the National League last season. Boston Bruins drafted him for $20,000 but he did not report to them.

A Hornets spokesman said the Bruins gave Pittsburgh per, making it talk in Balfour.

Two games are set for tonight. Springfield Indians meet the Bears in Hershey and Cleveland Barons take on the Hornets in Pittsburgh.

Riders' Offence off Beam

'Not Having Good Season'-Stewart

OTTAWA (CP) — If defensive Rosenen Gillespie Archambault and Ron Stewart get hurt, Ottawa Rough Riders will lose two - fifths of their scoring punch.

At least, that's the way it appeared on the basis of Ottawa's last three Eastern Football Conference games. Ottawa's offensive team scored only three touchdowns in those three games compared with two by the defensive team. Moreover, the offensive team is making the defensive unit's job a lot tougher by committing fumbles.

In the last two games, the offensive team has fumbled eight times. The opposition profited from the miscues to the extent of four touchdowns and a field goal.

Meanwhile, Reynolds, defensive left end, plucked a Hamilton fumble out of mid-air for a touchdown run and Archambault, defensive tackle, picked up a blocked Toronto kick for a touchdown.

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Stewart, Ottawa Rough Riders' commuting football player and budding lawyer, doesn't think he's doing a good job this season for the Grey Cup champions.

The speedy little double-threader who gets in only one practice a week because of his law studies in Toronto, is disenchanted although he leads the Big Four Football League in scoring with 90 points and is fourth in ground gaining with 696 yards, averaging 6.3 yards a carry.

"Never mind my 10 touchdowns," he said. "That doesn't prove anything. I'm not having a good season."

He doesn't think the lack of practice is what has cut his effectiveness this season. It's the tough routine he has to follow all week, which involves attending day-long classes at Osgoode Hall here Monday through Friday, studying every evening except Friday and a plane flight to Ottawa that day.

He arrives in time usually to take part in the Riders' final pre-game workout. After playing Saturday, he flies to Toronto to start the routine over again.

"It's been tough," he says, "and I'm tired."

James Nudges Parker

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A late-season drive has put fullback Jerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers within striking distance of his record consecutive Western Football Conference scoring title.

The 36-year-old veteran pro-pared one of his best efforts of the year Monday night, scoring 17 points as the Bombers trounced Calgary Stampeders 42-7.

The total boosted him out of a second-place tie with Edmonton's Johnny Bright and gave him 77 points, 14 behind leader Jackie Parker of Edmonton. All teams have two games left.

Athletic Union Seeks Share of Grant

REGINA (CP) — A major item of the annual Amateur Athletic Union of Canada meeting in Edmonton Nov. 3-4 will be the appointment of a committee to approach the federal government for a share of $5,000,000 being allocated for physical fitness.

The AAUC controls seven sports in Canada — boxing, wrestling, gymnastics, fencing, handball, track and field and weightlifting.

"We have been approaching the government for financial assistance through the Sports Advisory Council," Clarence Bligh of Regina, AAUC president, said in an interview. "But it looks like we'll have to make our own requests now."

Another major item on the agenda will be reaffiliation of three applications for affiliation with the AAUC and one application that is to be "considered."

Two applications for ratification are from the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, which has set up the Sports Hall of Fame, and from the Royal Canadian Legion sports training program.

The meeting will also examine records broken or tied during the year and set the locations for the British Empire Games trials to be held across Canada.

Name Four To Ring Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Pancho Villa, Jack Root, Lew Tendler and Tom Spring were named Tuesday to the Boxing Hall of Fame. Sixty-nine former boxers now belong to the hall.

Tendler, great Philadelphia southpaw lightweight, was the only boxer to receive the required 75 per cent of the total vote of 144 sports writers and sportscasters.

A special committee of 30 veteran authorities picked Villa and Root, first light - heavyweight champion in 1903, is the oldest living ex-champ at 85. Villa, famous Philippine boxer, won the flyweight title in 1922. Spring was selected by the hall's directors as "this year's pioneer" entry. He was regarded as the ring's first-scientific boxer during the bruising bare knuckle days. He held the international heavyweight title from 1831 to 1834.

Giants Coach Likes Both Conerly or Tittle?

NEW YORK (AP) — Who is the No. 1 quarterback of the New York Giants? Charlie Conerly or Y. A. Tittle?

Coach Allie Sherman says they both are.

Sherman was passing out bouquets to his Giants Tuesday after the club's fifth straight victory. The Giants beat Los Angeles 34-14 Sunday.

"Conerly's performance speaks for itself," said the former coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers. "After the game Bob Waterfield (Rams' coach) asked me to be sure to give Charlie his congratulations for a very outstanding job. That's quite a tribute to do after losing a tough game like that."

"Is it safe to assume from what you said that Conerly will start Sunday against Dallas?"

"No," said Sherman. "I honestly haven't thought about it. Why is there such pressure for

Remarkable Safety Record Established at Base Where Many Missiles Destroyed

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP)—The mighty Atlas missile spewed a triple ball of flame as it knifed into the sky.

"Gee, looks like a good one," remarked a Cape observer as the giant rumbled aloft. Nearby everyone watching had the same impression.

But a U.S. air force lieutenant-colonel looked at the profusion of electronic indicators on an instrument panel and saw that the rocket was slightly off course.

He placed a finger of his right hand on a switch labelled "destruct." He let the Atlas rise a few more seconds, then pushed the switch, sending radio impulse to an explosive package within the missile.

The Atlas erupted into a boiling ball of fire 15,000 feet above the Cape and showered flaming debris back to earth.

"We don't like to destroy any of the missiles fired here," said Lt.-Col. Harry Cannon, senior range safety officer. "But when there's an course and a threat to life and property, we have no choice."

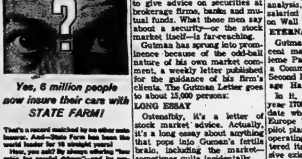
NO DEATHS



More than 1,000 missiles have been fired in 11 years of launchings here. Because this is a lasting ground, it is inevitable that a few of them—the percentage is minuscule—go or have to be destroyed. But not one fatality or injury has resulted from an exploding or runaway rocket.

There were only three recorded instances in which missile fragments landed on foreign territory and one in which debris dropped on United States soil outside the Cape gates.

The Atlas guided missile, flew off course and plunged into a Brazilian jungle in 1958; two chunks of an Atlas-Able moon rocket landed on a South African farm a year ago and in November debris from an exploding Thor-Able-Star satellite vehicle fell on Cuban countryside. Precautions have been taken to prevent similar incidents.

The closest call to disaster occurred Sept. 24, 1958, when a Polaris missile somersaulted out of control seconds after launching. The safety officer pressed the button, blowing the two stages to bits.

The first stage crashed on the Cape, starting a brush fire. The second spiralled crazily to the southeast. It sailed over the Cape boundaries like a flaming

Walter K. Gutman, Beatnik, Artist and Millionaire Is Also Stock Market Expert

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—A beatnik, a millionaire. An artist. A stock market expert.

A controversial figure in Wall St., he's Walter K. Gutman of Strauss and Company.

By profession, he's a security analyst—one of an elite 6,000 banded together in the National Federation of Financial Analysts Societies, and 2,000 of these are in New York.

They're a new breed in Wall Street developed in recent years to give advice on securities at brokerage firms, banks and mutual funds. What these men say about a security or the stock market itself—is far-reaching.

Gutman has sprung into prominence because of the odd-ball nature of his own market comment, a weekly letter published for the guidance of his firm's clients. The Gutman Letter goes to about 13,000 persons.

LONG ESSAY

Ostensibly, it's a letter of stock market advice. Actually it's a long essay about anything that pops into Gutman's fertile brain, including the market—sometimes quite incidentally.

A former art critic, Gutman writes occasionally about art, especially abstract art.

He also writes about existentism and other aspects of philosophy, off-beat dreams and literature, oddities of history and economics, national and foreign politics, space age technology, and his friends — among them Jack Kerouac, novelist and father of the "beat generation."

At the end of an article on Zen Buddhism or a "beat" party in Manhattan, for instance, the man throws in a few references to obscure over - the - counter stocks. He specializes in unearthing these—the kind of long shots that could make you rich or broke.

HAS GOOD RECORD

At the same time, he has a professional security analyst's understanding of macro economic and stocks and a good forecasting record on the general stock market trend.

Last June, just before leaving for a six-week European vacation, Gutman wrote a letter entitled Why the Next Bull Market Will Start in August. Wall Street was going through a period of soul-searing decline at the time but, once enough, when Gutman returned in August the market was reaching a succession of record highs.

A pudgy, round-faced man of 38, Gutman was graduated from Harvard in 1934, dropped up culture in Europe for a couple of years, then got a job as a social worker. He also wrote art criticism for intellectual magazines.

But the hand-to-mouth existence wearied him and he took some night courses in security analysis, yearning for a regular salaried job, and finally landed on Wall Street.

ETERNAL VOYAGE

Gutman entitled one of his recent market letters, La deuxieme Partie du Voyage Eternel (Second Part of the Eternal Voyage Has Begun.)

In it, Gutman said that the year 1700 "can be taken as the date when the human race in Europe took out of the large pilot plant in which it had been operating for centuries and entered its present stage of massive existence."

In a long and erudite essay on the increase in population, Gutman said that "present indications are that we are expanding to unbelievably large magnitudes of existence."

In conclusion he recommended the stock of a manufacturer of baby carriages and related items, selling for $9 a share over the counter.

"You have all the qualifications for the job. You're attractive, your name is Edna, so is my wife's and I talk in my sleep."

Indian Chief in TV Special Wins High Praise for Role

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Dispossessed, Tuesday night's special on CBS, was that rare and prized commodity, an original TV drama. It was based on a true story and it was high-minded, and it had point and purpose.

But it was also slow-moving, completely devoid of action and consisted almost entirely of courtroom oratory, ornate, formal and static.

Saul Levitt, the author, was interested in the tragedy of American Indian tribes ravished by 1879 laws to reservations. The laws were construed to mean that the Indian was not a person and had no status as a human being.

The drama was about a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Chief Standing Bear of the Ponca tribe, held in the county of the army, Earl Holliman played the impassioned young lawyer representing the Indian chief, John Beal as Bodlamy was government counsel and Robert Webber, the judge. Most interesting performer, however, was Juano Hernandez as Chief Standing Bear, chief, an actor of such skill the program stirred to a little life when he spoke.

Some half - hearted attempts were started, then dropped, to develop the characters. Mostly they strode around a courtroom making long flowery speeches about human rights. The crowning irony of the court battle came with Standing Bear's victory. He could no longer stay with his tribe—when he was adjudged a person he became an exile who had to live with the white men.

The Dispossessed was based on a fascinating, shocking bit of history. But it just wasn't a good dramatic show.

Milton Berle, of all people, played a dealer in a gambling house in an extremely well-done show on NBC Tuesday night. He proved a gifted and interesting actor in Dore Schary's Dark Night Against the House on the Dick Powell Show.

Will Operate 12 Teams

Form Squirt Division

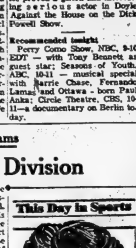
The Squirt division of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, strongly recommended at a meeting earlier this week that the minimum age limit for boys playing squirt hockey be dropped from nine years to age of seven, as of August 1.

The recommendation will be forwarded along to the president of the hockey division of the Belleville Minor Sports Association for approval.

The squirt group also stressed at its meeting that all teams must rotate players in order this season, both in regular season and playoff games. This will eliminate a coach using his top few players for most of the game, giving each player an equal amount of ice time.

Parents are being asked this year to have their children wear helmets and gloves whenever possible, to cut down the possibility of head and hand injuries.

The squirt schedule will open on Tuesday, November 7, and will operate each Tuesday night thereafter from six to eight o'clock.



Registrations to date number 240. The league expects to operate with 12 teams.

At this week's meeting, D. Wilson was named assistant convener and N. Carter recording secretary. Fred Joard is the squirt convener.

Coaches and assistants named are: Bruno, D. Kaye and C. James; Hawks, B. Wilson and D. Wilson; Broncos, Powell; Bruins, F. Bradley; Canadiens, M. Acquafredda; Flyers, C. Bronan and Mrs. Sharpe; Frontenacs, J. Cressman and H. Adamson; Leafs, T. Nell; Rangers, N. Carter and H. Watkins; McFarlands, B. Downes and J. Pierce; Red Wings, S. Caughlin and J. Hyde; Royals, W. Mills.

Tailor Says Teen-Age Boys Dress Like Cowhands

LONDON (CP) — Most Canadian teen-age boys dress like cowhands, says Toronto Tailor Morris Gee.

"They go to secondary school and university in cowboy jeans and hamburjacks-windbreakers. Their mothers are to blame—all the family's attention to dress is for the girls.

"North America's economy is ruled by moms. We must fed our women on better clothes for boys."

Gay, 38, was the only Canadian attending this year's tailors' conference in London and its social sidekick, the Beau Brummell ball.

Together with Dior of France and Beirel of Italy, his company recently shared honors in a fashion award given by a New York magazine, the Gentleman's Quarterly.

Gay feels strongly about teaching the young how to dress. If boys don't learn the "social and economic value of correct dressing in their teens, he says, they'll never learn it.

The Toronto designer doesn't confine his criticisms to the teen-agers. Half the men who attend a formal function in Canada today wear rented tuxedos or tails, he says, and he'd like tailors to encourage their customers to buy evening dress and take a pride in wearing it.

Gay suggests that British tailors take a tip from the trends in U.S. Evening clothes, where the "penguin look" is giving way to brighter colors and a hint of cavalier frills and ruffles.

Frankford

FRANKFORD — Those attending the Y.P.U. conference at Almonte from Frankford and district were: Sandra Morrow; Marilyn Hall; Eleanor Beach; John Beach; Nancy Faulkner; Vlasta Rabel; Anna Judd, Judy Whitmore and Dean Arseltine.

Sincere sympathy from Frankford and community is extended to Mrs. Lawrence Way and daughter, Gail, in the loss of a dear husband and father.

Mrs. H. Casey of Belleville is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morrow and daughter, Sandra. Mrs. Casey celebrated her birthday on Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Morrow.

SOVIET TOTAL

The 1959 census for the Soviet Union showed a total population of 209,000,000.

U.S. Troops Move Into East Berlin To Assert Rights

East German Police Closed Border for Time

BERLIN (AP)—United States troops moved across the border into East Berlin for the second straight day today to re-assert the right of the Western allies to move unimpeded through this divided city.

The East German police then closed the Friedrich Strasse crossing, but reopened it when calm was restored. U.S. tanks provided a backdrop for the convoy across the dividing line but were withdrawn later.

The situation flared up and died down within 45 minutes.

The Friedrichstrasse crossing is the only one between East and West Berlin that is left for the use of foreigners wishing to enter East Berlin from West Berlin.

The day's main incident began when an American, driving a sedan with U.S. Army license plates, drove up unexpectedly seeking admittance to East Berlin. The East German police refused to admit him unless he showed his passport, and he declined to do that.

FRIENDLY EXCHANGE

When the driver came back three U.S. Army jeeps, carrying American military police, joined him for another try.

The East German police stood aside to let the military group and the sedan go by.

After conveying the sedan into East Berlin the military police-men withdrew, and the sedan cruised alone in the Communist-controlled sector. East German police stopped the car when it tried to re-enter the West sector. The U.S. jeeps escorted the car safely back.

Then the East Germans, backed up by a show of 50 or more of their Vopos (people's police) decided on the crossing closed.

"We are closing the border until the nonsense stops," said a officer of the East German police force.

In the hour preceding the new closing of the force, the U.S. Army brought up six platoons of steel - helmeted military police armed with rifles and pistols wearing bullet-proof vests.

Behind them came 10 American tank tanks and other armored personnel carriers.

The French and British claim that, as victors of the Second World War, they need not show identification to enter Berlinners.

But the problem also concerns Western refusal to recognize the East German Communist regime.

A representative of the U.S. commandatura in Berlin was turned back earlier in the day when he tried to enter the East Berlin sector on official business. He made it on the second try, after changing from civilian clothes to uniform.

The American, Irwin Fireston, was in civilian clothes the

EXPLOSION KILLS MAN

NEW YORK (AP)—One man was killed and three relatives were injured when a wine barrel exploded in a Brooklyn cellar Wednesday night. The night lit a sulphur candle in a 50-gallon barrel and sealed the lid to purify the barrel in preparation for making wine. When the barrel blew up the lid hit Attilio Bisignani, 55, in the chest and killed him. Two other men suffered burns, and the third suffered a bruised chest when struck by a piece of the barrel.

HEALTH OFFICERS OF EVERY STATE STUDY FALLOUT

Call 2-Day Parley; Spring Critical Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—Health officers from every state meet here today in an extraordinary session designed largely to consider protective measures that might be taken if nuclear fallout reached acute proportions.

The two-day private session, called by the U.S. Public Health Service, brings together about 100 federal, state and local health officers.

Dr. Francis Weber, chief of the service's radiological health division, said there is no cause now for serious concern. He added that while information still is lacking about the effects of Russia's big nuclear blast of last Monday, any significant hazard springing from the current Russian test series probably would not arise until next spring.

Then, most of the fallout from the Russian tests, now lodged in the stratosphere, will begin to drop toward the earth.

It cannot be stated as yet, Weber said in an interview, that there would be a serious hazard even in the spring.

(In Ottawa, Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, Canada's chief defence scientist, said in an interview that all fallout is bad but that there is no real cause for worry over the current Soviet testing. Health Minister Monteith said in a statement that the Soviet shots so far have not exceeded maximum Canada's fresh milk supplies.)

REPORT 34 BLASTS

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has announced 34 Soviet nuclear blasts—32 in the atmosphere and two underground since Russia resumed nuclear testing Sept. 1. The AEC reported Saturday the Soviets possibly had the punch of a 50-megaton explosion, but more likely was in the 30 - megaton range.

Today's session is aimed at drafting possible protective "counter - measures" ranging even to possible condemnation of certain food supplies if that should be necessary.

"There's certainly no need to introduce any drastic emergency measure now," Weber said.

He stressed that, in considering measures to protect the

ROBARTS WINS — Ontario Premier Leslie Frost (right) holds up arm of John Robarts, education minister and Mr. Frost's successor as Ontario Progressive Conservative leader. UN COMMITTEE OPPOSES TEST OF SUPERBOMB

Votes 75-10 to Ask Reds to Drop Plan

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Delegates pressed today for quick general assembly action on a Canadian - led appeal to Russia to refrain from exploding a 50 - megaton hydrogen bomb. The UN political committee Wednesday night approved the appeal by a thumping 75-to-10 majority.

Canada was one of the original sponsors of the appeal which broadened into an eight-country resolution. Denmark, another sponsor, asked that the General Assembly give top priority to the resolution which figured in the explosive fifth stormy day of Soviet opposition.

Only the nine-country Soviet bloc and Cuba voted against the appeal. Mali abstained and 15 nations — two of them from Africa—were absent. India was one of the absent countries.

In support for the resolution mounted, Russia and its allies finally abandoned attempts to stall off the committee vote. But Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin, leader of the Kremlin will reject the appeal, asserting it answers by the NATO powers and Russia from perfecting its defence.

ADMIT TWO MEMBERS

The Security Council, meanwhile, finally approved UN membership for Communist Outer Mongolia and Mauritania, French West Africa that had imperilled Nationalist China's seat in the United Nations.

The Nationalists had threatened to veto Outer Mongolia if the Soviet Union vetoed Mauritania, but both lifted their threats. The applications of the two countries were sent on to the General-Assembly, which is certain to admit them as the 103nd and 104th members of the world body.

The deal admitting the two small states was conducted behind the scenes Wednesday during which the Kennedy administration reversed Chiang Kai-shek's regime that a Chinese veto of its 1955 veto against Outer Mongolia would mean a number of UN members to favor Communist China's replacement in the UN by the Communists.

Nationalist China did not participate in the vote in the 11-country council. United States abstained, Mongolia approved by a vote of 9 to 0.

The Security Council then lifted its veto threat against Mauritania and the African state was admitted 9 to 1. Five United Arab Republic cast the sole negative vote in protest of solidarity with Morocco, which claims Mauritania. The Russians abstained.

Will Be Named Premier Within Next Few Days

Defeats Kelso Roberts On the Sixth Ballot

By DON BRENNT

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister John Roberts, a 44-year-old London, Ont., lawyer, catapulted six other candidates Wednesday night to win the leadership of the Ontario Progressive party.

Mr. Roberts, who was referred to on the occasion as "the greatest single day of my life," won by 333 votes the post held by Premier Leslie Frost for the last 13 years.

He will be named premier within the next few days.

Mr. Roberts, with only three years of cabinet experience behind him, defeated Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, Energy Minister Robert Macaulay, Provincial Treasurer James Allan, Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond, Reform Institutions Minister George Wardrope and A. W. Downer, member for Dufferin-Simcoe and former speaker of the legislature.

Mr. Roberts was elected on the sixth and last ballot on the wind-up day of the three-day Conservative leadership convention held at Varsity Arena. He led the field from the second ballot.

The convention, described by party officials as the largest and most colorful ever held in Canada, ended with Mr. Roberts having 976 votes as compared to the attorney-general's 643. Mr. Macaulay, the other strong contender, was defeated on the fifth ballot.

SUPPORTERS CELEBRATE

Supporters of Mr. Roberts greeted his victory with a cheerleaders and loud renditions of his campaign song "John P. Roberts, we're riding the Tory Line." Also on the agenda of "A Bicycle Built for Two."

Mr. Roberts, shook hands with the other candidates then was led to the speaker's rostrum by the 66-year-old Mr. Frost, who shouted "here is your leader and the next prime minister of Ontario."

Mr. Frost told reporters he will not relinquish the premiership immediately but will wait a few days to discuss it with the new leader.

"The transition from one administration to another is not a matter of three days—three a matter of 10 days or so," he said.

Mr. Roberts, who appeared calm but somewhat tired, said the leadership campaign has helped the party in that it had given the grassroots a new connection with the grassroots of our party."

He did not announce the date for a provincial election, but said "we have been getting on a strict preparation for a general election we have ever seen."

PROMISES CONSULTATION

Mr. Frost held his successor's arm aloft in a victory salute at the podium.

"You must work unceasingly to put the people of this province first," he told delegates over everything else. You must forget many of the conflicts of interest."

Mr. Roberts paid tribute to Mr. Frost and his administra-

Britain Places Orders for 37 Ships Abroad

LONDON (CP) — Britain has placed orders for 34 ships valued at £23,000,000 ($66,700,000) abroad in the 2½-year period ending last July.

The orders came as no surprise to British shipbuilders, but it was a slap in the pride of the country that 50 years ago was building 40per 'to two thirds of the world's shipping and had made the stamp "British" the mark of quality.

The government released a report Wednesday saying the main reasons for British orders being placed abroad were price and combination of price and delivery date.

Of the 34 orders, 13 went to the Netherlands, nine to Germany, five to West Germany, France, Sweden, Spain and Norway.

British prices ranged from four to five per cent higher than the average price in all but two cases, the report said, and in these there was no significant difference. There was no order in which a British shipyard quoted a lower price.

The British Shipbuilding Conference pointed out that during the period foreign and Commonwealth owners placed orders in Britain for 72 ships valued at £32,000,000. Also, British owners ordered 42 ships valued at £173,000,000 at home.

No Real Cause for Worry Over Fallout Says Expert

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's chief defence scientist says the fallout is bad but that there is no real cause for worry in Canada over the radioactive dust from the current Russian nuclear tests.

Dr. A. H Zimmerman, chairman of the Defence Research Board, said in an interview Wednesday:

"I don't want to gloss over the seriousness of the matter but as yet, even with explosion of a 50-megaton bomb, there is no real cause for worry in Canada."

Earlier, Health Minister Monteith said in a statement that fallout from the Soviet series of nuclear tests has not contaminated Canada's fresh milk supplies.

"In view of the public concern about fallout, I want to emphasize that current supplies of fluid milk are safe for human consumption," the statement said.

Cattle now were moving from pasture to barn and therefore were consuming feed harvested before the nuclear tests. Their milk therefore contains no contamination with radioactive iodine, Dr. Zimmerman said there has been a "terrible bulkshaker" about fallout.

"I am not alarmed personally and would not — spoken recently.

"Fallout has not yet reached levels where there is need to worry in Canada."

Fallout wasn't good for anybody. But fallout from the current Soviet series still was not as high as from the United States tests in 1958.

Dr. Zimmerman said it is "quite possible" the 30 - megaton bomb detonated by Russia Monday was intended as a 50 - megaton blast but that the bomb had proved inefficient.

Dr. Zimmerman, quoting figures of "the British Medical Council, said the 1958 total radioactivity on the world's population was only .111 roentgens.

He compared .10 roentgens from natural radiation such as rocks and cosmic rays, .01 from x-rays and .001 from American nuclear tests last year. A similar count from the current Russian tests is not available yet.

For a comparison, a universally lethal dose of radioactivity would be 400 roentgens, he said. Most would be gone survivors from a dose of 300 roentgens, and widespread sickness from 200 roentgens.

Rumors Rife Russia May Force Albania Out of Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rumors are circulating in Western diplomatic quarters that Russia may force Albania out of the Communist bloc's Warsaw pact.

These rumors are being studied by U.S. and other allied officials and suggest the possibility that the Communist camp is grappling with its worst internal crisis since 1946.

In its quarrel with Moscow, Albania broke wide open at the current Communist party meeting in the Soviet capital, Albania has been the Soviet Communist China. The struggle between Russia and China personality has been intensified by the Soviet-Albanian dispute.

Albania itself is relatively insignificant. But as a pawn in the struggle between Russia and China it could be politically important.

Authorities here think it possible that Soviet Premier Khrushchev feels the time has come for a showdown with the Chinese.

MAY EASE TENSION

Washington authorities doubt that the intensified strain between Moscow and Peking will have any decisive influence on Khrushchev's strategy in dealing with the Western powers over the Berlin crisis. But they do not rule out the theoretical possibility that dissension within Communist ranks might cause Khrushchev to go more slowly toward a showdown with the West.

The Soviet premier told the Moscow party congress last week that he would not insist on signing a separate peace treaty with East Germany before the end of the year. He linked this to a statement that Russia thought it might be able to arrive at a negotiated settlement.

Almost Missed Fourth Ballot

TORONTO (CP)—A group of delegates to the Ontario Progressive Conservative party's leadership convention almost missed out on the fourth ballot Wednesday night.

The delegates, most of them from Simcoe East riding, were returning by chartered bus from a caucus in the Park Plaza Hotel across the street when their elevator jammed between the second and third floors.

Ontario Progressive Conservative Donald Crawford said the 12 or 13 delegates trapped in the elevator were held up about 20 minutes.

"We got to the arena with less than a minute to spare."

Premier Frost May Be Picked To Head Centennial Committee

TORONTO (CP) — Speculation Wednesday centred on Premier Frost might be picked to oversee Ontario's centennial celebrations in 1967 when he retires today as an aftermath of the Ontario Progressive Conservative leadership convention.

The convention chose London lawyer John Roberts to succeed Mr. Frost as leader and, later, as premier.

The speculation about Mr. Frost's future was touched off Tuesday during a luncheon by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who told delegates that he would give him the opportunity to make use of his services for the good of the province and the country."

Further remarks about Senate reform led to guessing that Mr. Frost might be useful in that area.

Mr. Diefenbaker, before talking off the Ottawa and Tokyo, declined that he had anything specific in mind.

Diefenbaker's Substitute Plane Stops to Refuel at Aleutians

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (CP)— Prime Minister Diefenbaker of Canada arrived at Shemya in the Aleutian Islands today on the first flight from Anchorage en route to Tokyo. The prime minister's RCAF plane stopped briefly at Shemya to refuel.

Mr. Diefenbaker Wednesday had a brief acquaintance with wintry weather when he stopped here.

The ground was covered with snow and the temperature was 22 degrees in a bone-chilling wind as the prime minister received his first word on the Soviet explosion of the Tzeretio for the Ontario Progressive Conservative party leadership candidates after the fourth ballot.

He expressed surprise that the race had gone to that many ballots. He had relayed a request 40 Ottawa just before leaving Vancouver for word in night on the leadership contest.

HASTINGS COUNTY TEAM WINS AT OTTAWA FAIR

A Hastings County team took first place in the inter-county livestock judging competition at the Ottawa Winter Fair this week. Accumulating a record 1,825 of a possible 2,100 points, Owen Ketcheson, Moira; Bob Keene, Madoc and Kenneth Bedore, Marmora, won out against teams from Lanark, Carleton and Renfrew counties.

Tops in their class were the twins of Owen Ketcheson in dairy cattle and Bob Keene in sheep. The coaches for the team were Sid MacDonald and G. H. Patterson, the Hastings County Agricultural representative and his assistant, respectively.

SLIGHT DAMAGE IN COLLISION

Damage was slight as the result of a truck-car collision at the intersection of Pinnacle Street and east Bridge Street, Wednesday night.

Police said a half-ton pickup truck owned and driven by Percy Gaylord of Tweed, Ont., had been stopped for the red traffic light, facing north on Pinnacle Street, when a car driven by William Bailey, 20 Russell Street, collided with the rear of the truck.

It is understood the driver of the car told police his attention had been drawn by his daughter for a moment and he glanced over at her and when he looked back at the road he was too close to the truck to avoid the accident. Police said it was raining hard and the pavement was wet at the time of the mishap.

CONTRACTORS GET SHELTER INQUIRIES

Belleville residents may not be exactly flocking to city hall to obtain permits for the construction of fallout shelters, but apparently there is just a smattering of interest.

Two local contractors today said they had been asked a number of enquiries about fallout shelters and one of them, Kenneth Durrant, said he had what seemed like a definite prospect.

This one prospect was favoring an underground shelter built in the back yard. Plans were for a concrete shelter with about three feet of earth over the roof.

ACCUSED OF DRIVING WHILE LICENCE UNDER SUSPENSION

Ronald F. Marks of Deseronto was fined $35 and $4. costs in county magistrate's court this morning when he was found guilty of a charge of driving a motor vehicle while his licence was under suspension.

Chief Coroner of Deseronto said he observed the accused driving his vehicle in Deseronto, but said he followed it and after stopping the car, asked the driver for his licence which he could not produce. The chief said he then advised Marks that his licence was under suspension.

Marks told the magistrate that he was unaware of this because the morning he left for Quebec he did not get a chance to look at his mail.

Magistrate Willis said he thought a penalty of $15 and costs would be sufficient. The magistrate said he was not abolishing the word of the accused but that he should have looked at his mail.

374 STUDENTS TO BE HONORED AT GRADUATION

Tomorrow evening the Rev. Dr. E. G. B. Foote, O.B.E., C.D., Assistant Chaplain-in-the-Fleet of the Royal Canadian Navy will be the guest speaker at the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School's annual graduation exercises.

Some 374 students will be receiving recognition for their scholastic achievements and over $18,000 value in scholarships, bursaries and prizes will be awarded. The graduation ceremonies start at 7.30 p.m.

BAHA'I MEMBERS OBSERVE UN WEEK

On the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve on Tuesday, Oct. 24th Baha'is from the Reserve, Deseronto and Shannonville observed United Nations Week by reading prayers for peace.

There is a striking parallel between the principles of the United Nations and the Baha'i Faith, Baha'is point out, in that "the world is one country and mankind its citizens", Baha'is believe that "the era of work - wide peace is possible and very close to us, and that it must be seriously sought after.

Woman Jailed For Car Theft, Drunk Driving

Mildred Young of Shannonville was sentenced to six months in jail this morning when she pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk driving and a charge of automobile theft. She appeared in county magistrate's court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

She was sentenced to three months in jail on the drunk driving charge and three months on the theft charge, consecutively, on the theft charge.

Ontario Provincial Police constable Ken Williamson said his office received a call on Saturday, October 22 of an accident on a side road just north of the York road in Shannonville.

He said upon arriving at the scene of the accident he found the accused lying unconscious beside the car that had been taken to the Belleville General Hospital, where she was examined by Dr. D.C. McVicker, who said she was not hurt but that she was intoxicated.

Constable Williamson said another vehicle owned by Charles Maracle, was involved in the accident. Maracle stated the accused was a passenger in toward him in an erratic manner. Constable Williamson said she went off into the ditch and came out again, striking the rear of the Maracle car. The car then continued on and collided with a hydro pole.

The Constable said while he was investigating the accident, A. Brant of Deseronto appeared on the scene and said the car in the ditch belonged to him and had been stolen since the accused. He said while he and his mother were at a residence buying fish, the woman got into his car and drove away. He said he ran after her to try to stop her but he couldn't.

He said he will dedicate himself "physically and mentally" to continue Conservative policy.

His attractive brunette wife, escorted by her father, the feli, replied:

"I am delighted and very happy, but I don't seem to be having all the usual reactions."

Mr. Pearl took her arm, and said:

"I think you will probably have them all tomorrow."

The two Roberts children, a daughter Robin, 8, and five-year-old Timothy were at home in London and watched the proceedings on television.

Mr. Roberts told an estimated 4,000 persons who sat amidst torn posters and crumpled campaign literature that he will give serious study to the party policy hammered out at the convention. He said that resolutions, the last of which were passed Wednesday, will be a guide for his administration.

Among them was policy that would encourage Ontario industry, increase educational opportunities, improve labor legislation and help farm income.

MOVED UP RAPIDLY

Mr. Roberts, who began his political career in 1950 when he was elected to the municipal council of the legislature in 1951. He became a minister without portfolio in 1958 and a year later was appointed minister of education.

Party sources said he was favored as leader by top Ontario Tory MP's and by many who have supported him publicly.

But Mr. Roberts made it clear he intends to be his own man. At a press conference after the convention he told reporters:

"I am a tremendous admirer of Mr. Frost—but we are different men. I don't suppose any two people in society are the same things in the same way."

Mr. Roberts, 46 last May, is Bonsaliaw and Wesley of Peterborough.

Red Scientist Visiting City

A distinguished Soviet scientist, Professor Ilya Ivitch Steinberg, is here to-day and Belleville to spend a month studying the insect problems of Canada's Eastern Agricultural Research Institute for Biological Control. The visit is sponsored by the National Research Council of Canada as part of a program for temporary exchange of scientists between the country and the Soviet Union.

Professor Steinberg was born in Leningrad and educated at Lenin State University. In 1931-34 he conducted research in entomology at the All-Union Institute of Plant Protection and at the Leningrad Medical Institute. He was on an officer in the Soviet Army at the front for four years, through the siege of Leningrad and the invasion of Germany. Since 1945 he has been on the staff of the Soviet Academy of Sciences where he is head of the Laboratory of Experimental Entomology. He is author of a number of research publications.

Before coming to Belleville Professor Steinberg visited research centres in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec, and will go from Belleville to research centres in southern Ontario and at Ottawa. He is not a stranger to Belleville as he, with several colleagues, paid a brief visit to the city in 1956.

Santa Claus Parade Meeting Told of Progress and Needs

A meeting of the Santa Claus parade committee, held last night was assured that there will be some very fine entries in the parade this year, Chairman Andrei L. Solowyew.

A letter was read at the meeting, and had been mailed to some 300 people by Secretary of the Committee, H. Vaughan. It reads as follows:

"Another year has rolled around and it is time to organize and make plans if we expect to have a worthwhile Santa Claus parade in the City of Belleville.

"The executive committee, feel that it is worth the effort and expense but hope we do better than last year. This is progress.

"Chief Vance, the chairman of last year's committee, called a meeting for all persons interested in a Santa Claus parade in Belleville, on September 19, 1961, at No. 2 Fire Hall. The meeting was small but good enough to get started.

"Action was taken and we need the support, both in person and money, of all the residents, business firms and industries.

"May we have your help now? We have had two meetings since September 19, 1961 and can only fail.

"Organizations and committees are set up and working, but the parade will depend on the support of the public as to the amount of money we have to put it on with, and also the attendance to appear on the job the committees will be increased.

"Organizations and committees working to give Belleville the best Santa Claus parade.

"Please help us now, put on this parade so please send your donation to G. Hodgson, Treasurer, at Bush's Funeral Home located at 80 Highland Ave., Belleville, Ont. We are now our budget. A receipt will be mailed to you.

"Send the money from any organization or individual will be appreciated.

The committee is asking local merchants who wish to assist the Santa Claus parade to contact Captain Ted Foote or Detective Sgt. "Wimpy" O'Brien, at No. 2 Fire Hall.

The committee was advised at the meeting that all of the wagons and the jeeps which will be used in the parade will be insured by insurance for 15 days by the Lorne Mc-Donald Insurance Co.

To date there are some six floats entered in the city parade, it was made, three of which the committee was advised of at the meeting, are from the Transport Command Band, the Colborne Boys' Band, and the Albert City Cadet Band, and five groups of drum majorettes.

The Tag Day committee held a meeting on October 25, and it was decided that it would need 4,000 more tags for the tag day which will be held on Nov. 17 and 18. J. Darrell, a member of the tag day committee, said that at least 20 taggers had been contacted but that more were needed. He said they would need at least 100 taggers for both tag days.

It was suggested by the police department, at a special meeting, that the parade be shortened from that of previous years. They suggested that the parade should go up Market Street, instead of continuing on to Bridge Street and back up Pinnacle. This matter will be discussed at the next meeting. It was also stated that free parking would be in effect all day, the day of the parade.

The attendance was fair at last night's meeting, but it is the hope of all committee members that more citizens of Belleville will become interested in this parade and attend the parade committee meetings in the future.

"Larger committees will mean a better parade," said Deputy Chief O'Brien.

It was decided the next regular meeting of the Santa Claus parade committee would be held on Wednesday, November 8, at 7.30 p.m. in No. 2 Fire Hall.

Two Visitors Enjoy Holiday

Two visitors from Bermuda, here for the first time, will take back to their island home many memories of Belleville, of Belleville, the Bay of Quinte and the Thousand Islands.

Mrs. J. C. Cooper and Miss Ethel Harriett are spending two weeks here, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Follwell and Mrs. Jane Agnes Steers.

During their stay here they have enjoyed renewing friendships made during many Belleville residents who were their guests in Bermuda. They were interested visitors at Albert College, where Mrs. Cooper's son was a former student.

Mrs. Cooper and Miss Harriett were particularly impressed with the beauty of the Quinte district. They enjoyed a "tour of the Thousand Islands and the Islands of Hastings.

first time. He refused to bow to new East German regulations and show his identification papers to East German police. A spokesman said he was en route to deliver a message to the Soviet commandant in East Berlin, Andrei I. Solovyev.

Troops by the East German to tighten controls over allied traffic is considered so important that U.S. Commandant asked Washington for instructions before making new challenges of Communist East Germany's traffic controls.

On his first trip, Firestone was accompanied in a U.S. Army sedan by an officer and soldier in uniform.

Firestone went back to West Berlin, put on his uniform as a reserve U.S. Army major. This time, because the officer is ranking, he was allowed to proceed to deliver the message.

The message refused to say what message Firestone took to Marshkov. It seemed unlikely the was reaction from Washington.

Although Allied civilians in West Germany have in recent days been turned back repeatedly in the last year, Washington officials would not show identity papers, the East German guards previously demanded. Instead, they let civilian passengers to pass if a uniformed soldier was at the wheel.

During the morning several other allied U.S. army staff officers had passed in and out of the east sector without a hitch.

But a French car bearing officers in uniform was turned back rather than submit to an identity check. It were a British civilian clothes and a French man in a French army uniform, the officials said.

A British military car with civilian and military occupants passed through Checkpoint Three without challenge.

The allies appeared to be trying out various combinations of requirements to meet Ber, in police reactions. Why the Russians did not intervene also was waved through without a challenge while the Americans had no trouble difficulties was not clear.

Secretary Albert Watson the U.S. military commander in the divided city, asked Washington for new instructions Thursday night after his Russian counterpart insisted the Allies would have to recognize the Communist East German regime as the "sovereign power" in East Berlin.

Col. Andrei I. Solovyev, the Soviet commander in East Berlin, rejected a personal protest by Watson against the refusal of East German police demanding identity papers of Allied civilians entering the city's East Berlin.

Solovyev insisted the East German regime is in control of access to East Berlin and the population binding. Watson replied that the contention was incorrect and their potentially so serious" that he was putting the issue up to Washington on a "top priority basis."

In an attempt to avoid further incidents as the issue approached a showdown on upper Friedrich Strasse, the Soviet division announced that "American civilians will not be allowed their personnel not to submit to checks by the East German police. Twice this week detachments of armed U.S. troops have escorted cars with the U.S. mission into East Berlin to demonstrate the Allied right of access.

"The healthy increase in memberships this fall over the same period last year is indicative of the necessity of a new "Y" building in order to accommodate this condition. Increase in members wishing the services of the YMCA," Mr. McDonald said.

The "Y's" building committee is currently exploring the possibilities of modifying the original plans for the new building, in consultation with a national YMCA adviser from the building and equipment bureau, so that a building commensurate with the pledges received may be erected, he advised.

Council Declines to Plan For Vote on Sunday Movies

TRENTON — A special meeting of town council Wednesday morning, the councillors declined to approve a request that a public vote on the subject of Sunday movies for Trenton be taken at the general elections in December.

The theatre owners now have the option of getting together a petition, signed by ten per cent of the voters, to oblige council to arrange for a referendum.

It was felt by council that this action could not be taken this year, considering the time element. Election day is a little more than five weeks away. The petition would have to be prepared, and presented to council, following which council would have to pass the necessary by-law calling for the vote.

Councillors McNair, Worrall and Vagn Lange were solidly against the idea of Sunday movies.

"We don't want 'em," said Councillor Lange.

"I go along with Councillor McNair," said Councillor Vagn Lange.

"I agree with you one hundred per cent," said Councillor Worrall.

TWO UNDECIDED

Councillors D. R. Fraser and Ross Burtt were undecided as to whether the townspeople should be allowed to vote on the matter.

"Don't we get quite a tax from the theatres?" asked Councillor Burtt. "The movie business is pretty good right now. Besides, it's only a matter of time before we have a plebiscite on Sunday sports."

"Could we insist that they pay a certain amount towards the expense of holding a plebiscite?" asked Councillor Fraser.

"They'd have to get a petition signed by ten per cent of the voters before they could force us to take a vote on the subject," said Councillor Lange.

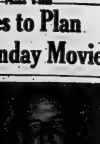
"Council is allowing a vote on one or two matters, such as fluoridation and an east side fire hall without a petition," said Councillor Fraser. "Shouldn't the people be allowed to decide how they want to spend their leisure time?"

Mr. Fraser was told that a suggestion that a law be prepared for a general vote on the issue had been rejected before he entered the council chamber, and he withdrew his objections to the majority decision.

TO GIVE INFORMATION —

It was decided that some means of acquainting the voters with the issues involved in voting for or against the fluoridation of the town's water supply, and signifying "yes" or "nay" to the question of whether the town should have an east side fire hall, in the coming elections, would be found. Newspaper or radio advertising was thought to be the best way of getting the picture across to the public. Fire Chief Cecil Ellis will be asked to report on the number of men required to run the hall, basic equipment necessary, and so on. Costs of installing fluoridation equipment and the annual cost of operating such equipment, will be made known.

"I've got a whole pile of literature on fluoridation," said Councillor Burtt, "and I can't understand it."



"The Health League and bona-fide dentists seem to be in favor of it," said Councillor Fraser, "You can't get the doctors to criticize it or back it up.

BOARD'S AFFAIR

A committee of council, composed of the mayor and Councillors Fraser and Vagn Lange, will meet with members of the Trenton Board of Education to inform the board that the matter of a franchise for a school bus service comes under board jurisdiction. An out-of-town operator, who is at present providing this service, has asked for some sort of protection.

A letter from a Roscoe Ave. mother was read to council, asking that the present operator be encouraged to continue the service.

Members of council will meet with members of Sidney Township council to discuss the town's plans for annexation of parts of the township. Members of Murray township council have been asked to attend the meeting but have indicated that they could see no worthwhile purpose in coming to such a meeting.

VAGN LANGE

Lange Decides Not to Seek Re-election

TRENTON — Councillor Vagn Lange, a member of Trenton council for the past six years, said yesterday that he would not seek election to any public office this year.

Councillor Lange was finance chairman for four years and last year was appointed to the chairmanship of the public works' committee as well. This term of office is running out and the councillor told a reporter yesterday that he felt full in his political career was indicated at this time. He said however, that he might consider standing for public office at some time in the future.

The two-year term of Mayor D. James MacDonald expires this year. Yesterday, Mayor MacDonald said that he had not made up his mind as to whether or not he would seek re-election.

Councillor N. J. McNair, whose term of office also runs out this year, is as yet undecided as to whether he will appeal to the voters for re-election.

Councillor Claude Graham, also up for re-election if he chooses to run, was out of town and unavailable for comment yesterday, but told an Ontario Intelligencer reporter last week that he was still undecided on the matter.

As the situation stands now, Trenton voters will be asked to select a mayor and four councillors. Councillors Worrall and Burtt have another year of their two-year terms of office to serve.

Ed. Todd, who polled 801 votes in last December's elections has indicated that he will again offer himself to this year's electors and Jim Brown, a newcomer to the civic scene has already let it be known he will appeal to the voters for a position on town council, if he is successful in completing R. J. (Dick) Whitley has also indicated that he will run for council.

Chief of Police Tells Parents About Deviates

TRENTON — How do you go about telling a child that there are "sex deviates," people who do not conform to accepted social standards?

Trenton's chief of police, F. J. Taylor, posed this question to a group of parents at a home and School Association meeting in Queen Elizabeth School last night.

Chief Taylor told the capacity audience of mothers and fathers that they could not tell the child about these matters point blank. He said that children should be told that there are some people who do not act in the same way their mothers and fathers and their friends do, and that they should be warned not to "take candy from a stranger," or accept a ride in a car from someone not known to the child or the family. He said that these points should be emphasized, but not unduly so.

"Make it clear to the child that these rules apply to any stranger," said Chief Taylor. "These men don't all wander with dirty clothes and straggly beards. They start with the well-dressed, smooth-spoken individual and go all the way down to the bottom."

Chief Taylor said that Trenton was relatively clear of such types, but that the police kept a constant watch. He said the reporters were asked to co-operate and keep isolated instances—out of the paper as a means of protecting the children involved and to save the parents from embarrassment. He said that if the police felt the case warranted publicity as a warning to parents, the press was always willing to co-operate with the department.

Chief Taylor also asked the parents to co-operate with Trenton's safety officer, Earl Gordon Steenburg, and the teachers in impressing the child with the necessity of conforming to traffic safety rules.

Hall Entered, Damage Done

TRENTON — Vandals broke into the Trenton Legion Hall last night. Entry was gained by removing a screen and breaking a rear window in the hall.

As far as is known, very little, if anything, was stolen, but the hall furnishings were broken up and thrown around the room at will.

Director R. J. Rutherford of the Trenton Police Dept. is investigating.

The Legion Hall was broken into about a month ago and a quantity of cigarets taken.

Each Test Worse Than Last

Russia has tested a monster bomb, perhaps not the 50-megaton mammoth of which Nikita Khrushchev talked but a bomb with a bigger punch that any previously tested by any of the four nuclear powers.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has called the test "callous international blackmail," and the and other world leaders have talked about Russian tests poisoning and polluting the atmosphere.

Dr. Richard Tomlinson, chemistry professor at McMaster University, has stated that the fallout from the super-bomb would be "small and negligible" in Canada and other nuclear scientists have made similar pronouncements.

Who is telling the truth?

Probably both sides, for these seemingly irreconcilable reactions are not as diametrically opposed in their conclusions as one might suppose.

There are some things which we are apt to forget about radioactive fallout.

Firstly, nobody really knows what the full effects of exposure to radioactivity are on the human body.

Secondly, everybody is exposed to some radioactivity and this has been true for every living thing on earth since the beginning of time. There are scientists who believe that any exposure to radioactivity does harm, but all around us we see living proof that this damage is far from fatal.

Thirdly, whatever may be the amount that the harmful effects of small doses of radioactivity, there can be no argument about the harmful and even fatal effects of massive doses.

Fourthly, doses of radioactivity of a size which do not cause radiation sickness of the kind suffered by the Japanese at Hiroshima and Japanese fishermen covered with radioactive dust from the first U.S. hydrogen bomb test, can still be damaging, but the nature of the damage and the strength of the dose which will inflict this damage are points in dispute between scientists. The years may well tell us the truth about conflicting opinions regarding these matters.

It is here that we start to reconcile the apparently irreconcilable. Thus the fallout from the Russian superbomb may, in itself, be "small and negligible," but because it is added to the radiation to which we have been formerly exposed from natural sources and from previous nuclear tests by the U.S., Russia, Britain and France, it may be a source of grave danger, resulting in an increase in leukemia victims amongst those now living, an increase in future still-births and possibly mutations or abnormalities in babies born in the future.

It is the cumulative effect of exposure to radiation which makes wicked nonsense of all attempts, past as well as present, to justify the testing of nuclear weapons. Moreover, there are other sources of radiation besides nuclear explosions—X-rays, for example—and every bomb tested narrows the gap which divides us from being threatened with dire results if it is necessary to have recourse to such devices. Moreover, as we have already said, despite everything some scientists may say, nobody knows for certain what will be the future effects of the cumulative radioactivity to which we are all being exposed.

Of one thing we can be certain. If enough bombs are tested "peaceably," the result will be deadly. That we are still a long, long way from such a dangerous situation is the opinion of the majority of scientists, but this is only an opinion and even if it were a certainty we submit it would still be a crime to push humanity nearer and nearer to the edge of the precipice of race suicide.

That is why the fact that the French tested low-power nuclear devices during the moratorium observed by the major nuclear powers does not excuse in any way Russia resuming tests. And that is why today's Russian tests will not exonerate the U.S. or Britain if they, in turn, conduct new tests. Every new explosion is a greater crime than the one preceding it, because even though it be small and the fallout, in itself, "negligible," it adds to the cumulative effects of fallout on all men and all living things.

A modest man often seems conceited, because he is delighted with what he has done, thinking it better than anything of which he believed himself capable, whereas the conceited man is inclined to express dissatisfaction with his performances, thinking them unworthy of his genius.—Hesketh Pearson.

Indifference Stimulates Confidence?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Many a deep secret that cannot be got out by curiosity can be drawn out by indifference.

The best method for investigating psychic beliefs was described by Simone Weil, when she said: "As soon as we have thought of something, try to get the exact way the contrary is true."

A zealot is somebody who berates us for not having the courage of his convictions.

Political questions will not, and cannot ever be settled on the political level; they must be elected, in the end, on the emotional, moral and spiritual level; and history seems to repeat itself precisely because all purely political settlements leave curious and self-defeating.

It's curious that the same people who are fond of quoting Jesus' words that "the poor ye have always with you" as a justification for gross inequalities in wealth, never quote His advice to the rich young man to give everything he had to the poor. Picking and choosing among Biblical quotations is the favorite vice of the cheap devout.

Everyone admits that "the truth hurts," but no one applies this adage to himself — and as soon as it becomes clear it is quickly repudiate it and call it a lie. It is this tendency toward self-deception (and the more active sin) that makes human progress so difficult and so imperceptible.

Marriage remains a precarious relationship because the very qualities that attract us to a person are frequently not are not usually the qualities that bind us — and the qualities that bind us are not readily discoverable under the feverish conditions of courtship.

Whenever I see a man who is contemptuous of the "vulgar rich" of others I am reminded of Franklin's definite "commentthat "He is not aware that he cannot bear ill-breeding in others."

One of the minor advantages of having a high degree of literacy is that you can read a whole page while thinking of something entirely different.

The mind is lazy, but never so fast as the instincts; that we frequently do by any task proficiently until we are able to stop thinking about it. We can rely on the unconscious reflex, as all athletes and musical performers are aware of others — have painfully learned.

The Belleville women are responsive to the appeal for recruits for the Canadian Women's Army Corps and the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force has been indicated by the fact that since the appeal was made in the Intelligencer on Tuesday, already there have been ten enquiries made at the Dominion Employment service office.

It was disclosed at last night's meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board that the lack of cheese boxes is still causing delays in the shipment of cheese. In one or two cases factories were not represented on the board owing the fact that it has been impossible to acquire the required number of boxes in which to ship their product. When cheese were boarded last night, a limited number of cheese they had to offer, several salesmen added, "if we can get boxes."

The continued practice of discharging air rifles within the city limits has brought an influx of protests from irritated citizens into the hands of city police. Today at the police station Chief Kidd displayed five air rifles which have been confiscated within the city limits this fall. "It is not only unlawful, but a dangerous practice to discharge this type of gun anywhere public is nearby", stated Chief Kidd as he requested parents to warn their children.

Great Trends Set Policies

Ottawa Journal

Two statements by British political leaders at the recent conference of the Conservative Party might be noted profitably by Canadians.

Mr. Iain Macleod, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Lancaster, Leader of the House and Chairman of the party, mentioning certain courses which the party proposed taking, told the conference delegates that:

"I will do everything I can to explain these policies to you concisely and clearly and through you to the country."

Mr. Macleod, who has voted would have no nonsense about policy resolutions from the floor being accepted and spelled out as detailed planks in a party platform; the policies would be decided on high and explained to the rank and file afterwards.

The remarks of Lord Hailsham, said Mr. R. A. Butler, underlining Mr. Macleod, was that politics could not and should not be laid down firmly in advance. Said he:

"Policy is made by the great trends and forces in the world in the same way as tides in the sea are pulled by an unseen attraction."

In Canada, over the years, our political parties at both national conventions have been in the habit of spelling out in detail, almost to the last comma, policies for nearly everything that politics touches. Nearly everything that politics touches. nearly everything that politics touches. nearly everything that politics touches.

undercarriage door failed to close because of a valve malfunction, was the same aircraft that had to return to Gander, Nfld., for overnight repairs while carrying Trade Minister Hees and Finance Minister Fleming to the Commonwealth economic conference in Ghana.

It was the first time that Mr. Diefenbaker had encountered mechanical difficulty in his many flights as prime minister. The C-5, a modified North Star, which took him from Anchorage to Shemya, was the aircraft which carried him around the world in 1958.

The prime minister was in his usual good spirits as he headed into the last part of his 7,350-mile flight from Ottawa to Tokyo. He worked on a speech and official papers on the plane.

As a result of the Comet trouble, which delayed his Vancouver departure by four hours, and the longer-than-planned stay at Shemya, he will be some 14 hours behind schedule in arriving at Tokyo.

Chiropractor's Patient Dies

GEORGETOWN (CP) — A woman who underwent an insulin-withdrawal program administered by a chiropractor died in hospital after doctors tried to correct a high blood sugar content, a coroner's jury found Wednesday night.

Mrs. Earl Bentley, 19, of Georgetown died Sept. 27 in District Memorial Hospital in this town 24 miles west of Toronto.

She had been a diabetic for 12 years and had been taking 90 units of insulin a day on recommendation of the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

Donald Manos, a chiropractor from nearby Oakville, said the woman became his patient early this year and he began to reduce her insulin dosages until in September she was taking only 64 units a day.

ANCIENT CLERKS

The Romans in the 1st century BC developed and used an organized system of shorthand.

You could scarcely call it a youth movement.

Not a man there was under 65. Many were in their seventies, some in their eighties.

They represented nearly 9,000 years of faithful, efficient railroad service.

They came from Belleville, Kingston, Brockville, Toronto, Hamilton, Ajax, Lindsay, London, Oshawa, Stratford, Hamilton, Allandale and some from western points.

Aging perhaps as years go, but young at heart in a gay atmosphere of camaraderie, good fellowship and hail-fellow-well-met spirit.

It was the second annual luncheon of the Canadian National Railway Pensioners Association held yesterday at the well-appointed Club Canara.

Some 128 of them arrived by "Number 14" from Toronto and other outside points. They were augmented by over 100 counterparts from Belleville and points east.

Reminiscence was hailed, temporarily, while they enjoyed a delicious chicken-a-la-king luncheon served by the ladies of T.'s CNRA Auxiliary.

They were welcomed by association executives and heard brief informative addresses on "the new organization" by high railway officials.

Art. Duncan, Batawa public relations official, had them almost "rolling in the aisles" with a witty humorous address climaxed with a timely philosophy on "sense of humor" and "appreciation".

They listened attentively during the post-luncheon business session of the association. Then back to the "old times," friendships and other enjoyable pastimes until the five o'clock parting.

Norman Thompson acted as chairman for the meeting. Harry Drury conducted the memorial silence and prayer period. President Joe Hunter extended the welcome of the host Belleville branch.

Special guests were Mr. J. A. Pollock, area manager, and Mr. A. R. Wilson, operations manager.

The pensioners listened closely to Mr. Pollock when he outlined the aims and policies of the "new organization." Area management, he said, was a "new sort of animal" designed to help the CNR back into the transportation business.

He said the railroad was losing its place to the big trucking companies and was fighting hard to retain it. "My job," he said, "is to get better business results. Last year was not a good due to strikes, etc., but now "we are beginning to find higher-priced merchandise and getting our share of it."

"Revenues are not fluctuating as they were — and we are encouraged."

The new organization, he explained, was the integration into one service of various departments. This has been done amicably by the brotherhoods. "In the years to come we may be able to do something about that big deficit we have."

Mr. Wilson said competition had become much stiffer and the railroad had to make changes in order to meet it. He quoted the changes from steam to diesel, reductions of staff, elimination of cests and other items.

After 40 years the division has undergone a major change, and it is beginning to feel the benefits of it. The greatest contributing factor has been the closer contact between sales, operation and transportation departments.

He anticipated this area would become self-sustaining since it is equipped to meet any type of competition. This puts it in the position to maintain and improve the railroad's present status in the transportation field, he concluded.

Mr. Duncan, one of the better after-dinner speakers of the district, put his audience in a merry mood with several humorous anecdotes and stories.

LONG TERM MEMBERSHIPS — Long term memberships in the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen were recognized in Belleville yesterday as two tired CNR employees were presented with 50-year and 40-year membership emblems. Above pictures show Albert E. Berry, 288 Foster Ave. (centre) being presented with 50-year emblem by A. McLeod of Ottawa, field superintendent of the B. of R. T., as Bill Coughlan, president of Belleville Local 108 looks on. A 40-year emblem was later presented to Frank Bateman, Coleman Street. Both recipients are former conductors with the CNR.

In serious vein he pointed out that a true sense of appreciation comes when people realize everything they have today comes from the hard work gone on before.

"Retirement," he said, "does not mean that we have to stop the production of constructive ideas. And if we are truly grateful we shall contribute what we can to our communities and to Canada."

public from taking in with food potentially dangerous quantities of radio-active materials, every possible alternative—short of actual condemnation of food —would be studied and evaluated.

For example, he said, fresh milk unduly contaminated with radioactive iodine might be stored at low temperature — without freezing it—until the iodine, which has a comparatively short radio-active life, lost its radiation.

Or, he said, consideration might be given to converting fresh milk to powdered form, or converting it to cheese and other dairy products so that children would still get their nutritionally valuable intake of calcium.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Had a writer created the incident, out of the fantasy of his own imagination, he might as a dramatic parable of the confusion of our times, be would have communicated something significant about the dilemma in which confront us.

But the story is not found in books. It was on the front page of most American newspapers that morning of the straight out of life.

In Bosko, a young soldier, disappointed in love, poised himself on a narrow window ledge of a tenth-floor room. Obviously, he intended to commit suicide. But suddenly he hesitated. In the moments that followed, two people- rushed hurriedly into the hotel room the soldier had recently occupied, a priest and a young woman. Tearfully they pleaded with him to return to safety.

Meanwhile, below in the Boston Common, a large crowd had formed during the hour or so that the soldier was on the ledge. The crowd became increasingly impatient with his decision, and slowly picked up a chant, not unlike the cheers heard at football games, rapidly repeating the shout: "Jump! Jump! Jump!"

Confused and dazed, he turned half-way toward those in the room who were offering him words of faith and encouragement. His eyes welled up with tears as he said: "I've got to jump now; down there they want me to jump!"

It was only after much deliberation that he walked back into the security of the room, deciding that the two voices emanating from there were more trustworthy than the rasping, raging urgings of the mob. Asked later why he did this, he said: "Those down below were looking for thrills at my expense. The voices from the room promised me a new life. So I went back into the room."

The story is more than a nerve-wracking event in the mixed-up life of a disillusioned lover.

It serves as a parable of the distracted, distraught world in which we live. For there are, all around us, exciting voices, irrationally calling upon us to "jump, jump!" We always walk a narrow ridge, and if we are attracted by the magnetic lure of the crowds, its values and its appeal, we can easily topple from our precarious perch and be destroyed. The voices are many and cacophonous — urging a wide assortment of quackeries. Strippet to their barest rudiments, they add to an old pagan suggestion: "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die!"

Inside the room — with him, in ourselves, as it were — other voices, softly, but urgently, plead: Pay no heed to the mob, they advise; do not go the perverted way of all flesh. There are possibilities of beginning life anew, of finding new solutions to old problems, of opening the door to a brighter world.

That brighter world seems far away, removed and remote from us. But it is the only living hope we have. If we do not stake our whole lives on the possibility of getting there, we'll slip and fall into the ugly crowd below.

Narrow is the way we trod, for there's too much of the world with us. But we're part of the world too And the only sane answer is one that will help us rise to its possible heights, and not fall to its terrible depths.

St. Joseph's CWL Sponsors Successful Fall Tea, Bazaar

The somewhat cloudy skies and slight drizzle of rain apparently was no detriment to the large number of ladies who attended the St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League fall tea and bazaar, held yesterday afternoon in the Knights of Columbus Hall, charmingly conveyed Mrs. Mary T. Kelly and Mrs. C. Murphy. They also received the many guests at the door along with the C.W.L. president, Mrs. V. Muldoon. The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. G. Bell, and the ticket convener was Mrs. D. Beirne assisted by Mrs. S. McKenna.

The L-shaped hall was appropriately decorated in keeping with the fall theme with rustic colored maple leaves and colorful 'mums; over the entrance was scutlecided with a tall wicker basket containing yellow shasta, bronze commercials mingled with evergreen boughs, and beyond this in the corner of the hall, was a white covered table adorned with oak and maple branches, yellow 'mums and sprays of bitter sweet.

Mrs. R. Hunt, convener of hospitality convener assisted by Mesdames E. Poirier, H. Bone, H. Hallett and J. Barrett.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

Wife of Newly-Elected PC Leader Happy Person

TORONTO (CP)—Norah Roberts sat quietly among the 1,700 delegates at the balloting went on for the new leader of Ontario's Progressive Conservative party.

Sometimes an anxious smile crept across the face of the slim, dark-eyed brunette, but as candidate after another dropped out of the race she still refused to predict the outcome.

Only when the moment came for John F. Roberts to be declared successor to Leslie Frost did she allow herself to cry out her admiration:

"I knew it, I never doubted for a minute."

Mrs. Roberts wore a black, middy-wool crepe sheath with black satin binding at the waist and neckline and a mink stole as she accepted congratulations from Gertrude Frost, wife of the premier expected to resign within a few days.

"She gave me some very sage advice", Mrs. Roberts said. But what the advice was remains a secret.

JOHN DOES THE TALKING

Despite her own subjugment of politics, Mrs. Roberts says she intends to retain Mrs. Frost's art of leaving all the speech-making to her husband.

Undecided as yet as to whether to establish a second home in Toronto, Mrs. Roberts intends to retain the large, old-fashioned house in London that has been home for the Roberts and their two children, Robin, 9, and Timmy, 8.

Concerned with the effect of the enormous publicity surrounding the premiership on her children, she intends to protect them from it as much as possible. But any son of politics, she says, "is part of public life and I accept it."

The Roberts, who first met as students at the University of Western Ontario, were married in 1944.

Apart from spending some free time browsing in antique shops, the wife of the 44-year-old premier-designate has no hobbies.

"I suppose you could say politics is my only hobby," she said. "Ever since John first entered politics I've enjoyed going to meetings with him and listening to the long discussions afterwards. I find them stimulating and exciting."

How did she feel now that the contest was over?

"Happy, excited and proud—very proud."

Holloway Street WA Sponsors Delightful Chrysanthemum Tea

It was "chrysanthemum time" yesterday afternoon at Holloway Street United Church for the afternoon annual tea and bazaar sponsored by the W.A. Though skies were dun-colored, with intermittent sprinkles of rain, the undaunted patrons gathered in ones, two's, and three's wending their way past the fragrant green cedars with their bases hidden in masses of French marigolds, through the north-east entrance and up the oak and Scotch pine adorned stairs to the landing above. Here, as an additional pretty accent, was a planter filled with more golden velvet marigolds, and Scotch pines.

Receiving the throng as guests were: Mrs. H. Outlingdyke, president of the W.A., Mrs. C. W. Coleman, wife of the pastor; Mrs. B. M. Moorman, and Mrs. McCorquindale. Nearby, backgrounded by heavily gladioli blooms and other flowers were the treasurers, Mrs. V. Bailey; Mrs. M. Hicks; Mrs. J. Quinney, and Miss Irene Reid.

CHILDREN'S BOOTH

The first booth was that of the children, convened by Mrs. C. Lowther, assisted by Messdames J. Knight; E. Conley; H. Hiatt; R. Lawrenson; B. Coulling, and D. Keller, who presided over "a mitten tree" with its mitten fruit in shades of brown, grey, red and black. On the table was a miniature wooden playpen bearing little blue mitts; hooded sweaters, and surrounded on one side by a number of little socks, and bathahls in colorful containers; and on the other side by a cute little Shetland pony with white tail, and mane and body of blue floral print; snowball men for Christmas decor; a lovely baby set in pink wool fashioned in medallion pattern resembling a daisy; cozy little pyjamas in white and blue, grey and blue, and white and pink, and a short nightie covered with red apples and strawberries; and completing this fine display was a yellow crib quilt.

PLAIN SEWING

Then, on down the winding aisle to the ground floor where the remaining booths lined the walls in an "L" shape. Beginning with the plain sewing, convened by Mrs. G. E. Poole and Mrs. A. Calvert, assisted by Mesdames O. Dreyer; W. Wiley; E. Zackman; and R. Ferguson, who displayed yellow hand dust cloths; baby blankets in blue; clothes pins bags; knitting bags, and pillow slips, tea towels, luncheon cloths; one long laundry bag; and a delightful cosmetic bag; pretty guest towel in pink edged with tatted lace.

The fancy sewing in charge of Mrs. W. H. Oliphant, assisted by Mesdames F. Cook; R. Cryer; W. Johns, and R. Bloor, showed driftwood novelties; hot plate stands, and teapot stands; crochet blue slippers, telephone covers; shoe bags in red with black shoe applique; bridge club menu pads; and others.

The apron booth was filled with many fine aprons of nice materials, and in both the all-over and half types. Some in grey and mauve, and mauve and green, white backgrounds scattered with tiny pink roses, while many were in check materials, and some in yellow. There were 4 fow fancy floral organdies, and aateens with colorful ties and pockets. In charge of these were Mrs. N. Brown, Mrs. Cavanough, Mrs. S. Lough, Mrs. D. Cameron and Mrs. W. Symons.

TEMPTING CANDIES

Mrs. L. May, Mrs. F. Dickett, Mrs. A. Miller, Mrs. R. Scott, Mrs. H. Richardson and Mrs. C Vader convened the tempting candy booth with its nicely arranged candy boxes, both large and small, filled with delectable maple creams; chocolate fudges; divinity fudge; almond topped creams; Turkish delight in reds and greens; popcorn balls, and Try bolts and screws.

On the delicatessen table were deviled eggs, tomato and vegetable salad plates, fruit jellies, chicken and meat pies, large and individual; jellied chicken, steamed sweet apples, sausage rolls, tomatoes and whole sweet peppers—an assortment to make one's mouth water. Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. D. Cook, Mrs. E. Elgie, Mrs. E. Murphy and Miss L. Reid had charge of these.

On the cake table was convened by Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. O. White, Mrs. H. Grills Mrs. F. Sedell and Mrs. L. Sharpe. Here were jars of relishes, pickles, jelly and canned vegetables and fruits of many kinds. A most generous assortment.

DELICIOUS HOME COOKING

The homecooking table which stretched the entire length of the alcove, was lined three deep with eager customers wanting tempting pumpkin, lemon, berry, cherry pies; cakes of all sizes and kinds; delicious chocolate layer cakes; fruit loaves, jelly rolls, cinnamon rolls, cup cakes, both brown and white; deliciously rich fruit cakes and many homemade bread. One large cake which caught the attention was in the form of a yellow owl with gumdrop eyes, one of which was shut, leading in a humorous and quizzical expression to his face. The white waistcoat was accented by black licorice feet and claws. This booth convened by Mrs. Frank Wilson and Mrs. A. Lucas, with Mesdames R. Dryden, L. Legore, C. Brethour, W. Campbell, E. Moynes C. Hitchon and W. Harrington assisting.

The "nearly new" booth, formerly known as the "White Elephant", was also a fine drawing card with its numerous articles, including Reader's Digest books, lamp shades, large and small; feather beds; dresses, various vases, centrepieces, candy dishes with satin type pebbled cups and containers in green plastic; African violets and little cactus plants; wooden electric lamp stands; candle holders, and much costume jewellery, beads, bracelets, brooches, earrings, necklaces, and also in wood, and many others. Busily attending to these were Mrs. A. Bartlett, Miss Betty Jane, and Mrs. R. Jose.

The attractive tea room with its bulrush spikes and silvered autumn leaves, pendant baskets filled with crimson leaves, bulrush spikes and silvered leaves; its windows adorned with baskets of colorful chrysanthemums and golden sprays of flowers, and here and there about the room white lamps filled with beautiful flowers, while sentinelling the tea room with its white picket fence fronts were tall stands of white filled with gladioli blooms, and large white and mauve chrysanthemums mingled with baby wine-colored roses. As an added accent a cord of Scotch pine needles and green sprays, outlined the tea room proper, making in all a most attractive picture.

The long tea table, with its ecru lace grapevine design was centred by an exquisite arrangement of yellow and mauve mums mingled with tiny mums in shades of white yellow and mauve highlighted by sprays of glossy green leaves. Tall pale-green candles in crystal holders and the gleaming silver services completed the charming setting.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Sally U. — She should fight for some chance to pursue her own interests.

Sally U. — I met Agnes 20 years ago when we were both scholarship students at a leading music conservatory. The instructors teamed us up as duo pianists and we did some wonderful work together. We gave a few well-received concerts, and then went our separate ways — she to marry Al, I to teach music appreciation in high school.

Through the years we've been meeting occasionally, either to attend the Philharmonic performances and other musical treats, or to revive our skill as musical partnership. But in the last five years, Agnes has broken more dates with me than she has kept. She says her husband doesn't approve of her leaving him for long periods of the day.

I knew Al wasn't a music-lover. But I didn't think he was a tyrant. Agnes shouldn't give in so meekly.

Agnes D. — Maybe I do spoil Al. But he was the victim of a stroke four years ago and his pleasures in life have been sharply curtailed.

Al's through our marriage, up to his illness, he permitted me to continue with my music, even though he took no particular interest in it. He's a businessman and his relaxations were those of the typical tired executive — the light Broadway shows, boxing bouts and poochie.

Now he's confined to the house a great deal. He only gets out for a trip to the doctor, and an occasional visit to his office. He grows very uneasy when I'm not around. And he's particularly irritable about my music, even when I'm just listening to an LP record.

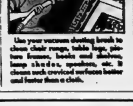
The Council — Fear can do strange things to a once self-reliant, upbeat sort of man. Agnes is wise not to be hurt and [illegible] Al's [illegible] an intelligent and devoted wife she understands that his tantrums and sulks must not be taken personally. They represent Al's explosions from his inner frustration.

This may make sense to her, but not to her friend Sally. The latter sees only a gifted woman dancing around a demanding bully. Still, Sally's impression from the "outside" has the double value of jogging Agnes into not only a defense (outlined above), but also an honest view of her own situation. She's only considered Al's needs lately.

It would take an angel not to get testy and pettish under the confining regimen Al is now restricted to, after a lifetime of freewheeling. Obviously Al's no angel. And somehow Agnes's music has become a bete-noire to him, a symbol of a dangerous rival. He'd have liked her to look to him for all satisfactions through the years. Instead she got her greatest joys, he noted, from fleeing him and courting the Muse. Her practice periods with Sally, her concert-going and her shoptalk with musicians all excluded him. And now, he can't bear any more exclusion. He feels too defensive.

To do justice to Al, to herself and even to Sally (who has a marginal "investment" here), we have the following suggestions for Agnes:



Be honest with Sally. Do you really want to get back to the piano team? Or, not wanting to have you been using Al's illness or his "prohibition" as an excuse?

If you really crave more music in your life (as both pianist and connoisseur), do try to include Al in its orbit. You may have to change from "La Boheme" to "Pajama Game," but that's how some marriages are born. And for Al, accompany it with a fine dinner.

Question — What does one do with gloves when pouring at a reception or tea — keep them on, take the glove off the hand used for pouring and lay it in the lap, or take off both gloves? To me it's unsightly to put them on a beautifully laid table. C. F. B. Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Answer — Both gloves should be removed and placed across the lap or set aside, with any other wraps. They should not be put on the tea table.

Question — My son is in high school and very often I have to write an excuse of some kind for him. I am confused about how I should sign my name. His teacher often writes notes and signs her name simply "Helen Jones."

How should I sign my name: Mrs. John Jones? (Mrs.) John Jones? Mrs. J. Jones? Mrs. Margaret Jones? Margaret Jones? — Mrs. N.A. Park Ridge, Ill.

Answer — Since a letter to your son's teacher would come under the heading of "business" as opposed to a purely social note, you can sign it Margaret Jones and, in parenthesis underneath, write (Mrs. John Jones.)

Question — A woman I know only slightly shows has her hair done so beautifully that I'm been tempted to ask her where she goes. It's cut and waved in the style I've been trying to achieve. Would it be rude to ask her the name of her hairdresser? — W. B. Chicago, Ill.

Answer — The name of a hairdresser isn't considered "classified" information, I'll grant you, but if the store where one buys one's clothes, so I doubt you'll be considered nosy for asking. Of course, if she gives you only a vague answer, then you'd better drop your request.

Seafood for Inlanders

By Mary Moore

In the McDonald Hotel in Edmonton at 5:30 late one afternoon I was the first diner, so I had plenty of attention. I ordered Lobster Cardinal, a hard roll, blueberries, and tea. Ever since, that Lobster Cardinal has been on my mind and body, I made it.

Fish 'N Seafood Week was last week but I had to include this lobster dish in my tribute to it so we are one week late — but it's worth it.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Lamb Chops; Mint Jelly; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Buttered Brussels Sprouts; Shredded Carrot and Celery Salad; Apple Pie with Cheese; Tea.

SUNDAY

Roast Prime Ribs of Beef; Horseradish Cream; Cheese Popovers (see Wednesday); Stuffed Green Peppers (see Wednesday); Relish Tray; Radishes,— Celery, Olives; Lemon Meringue Pie; Coffee.

LOBSTER CARDINAL (Emcee style):

Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-3 cup chopped raw tomato pulp (no seedy pulp), ½ cup 18% cream, ¼ cup rich chicken broth, 2 table. spoons sherry (optional but if not used increase chicken broth to 1-3 cup), 1 egg yolk, ½ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon accent, ¼ to ½ teaspoon salt, 2 7-oz. cans lobster (or 1 can lobster and 1 can shrimp). Gently melt butter, stir in flour, add chopped tomato pulp and cook gently, stirring one minute. Stir in paprika, accent and salt. Then add cream, chicken stock and sherry, stirring until thick. Add a spoonful of this hot sauce to the egg yolk, stir then mix into hot sauce. Add lobster meat coarsely broken up and heat through.

(Note 1: All of this may comfortably be made in your chafing dish if you want it for a party). Spoon into individual baking shells or ramekins. Sprinkle with paprika. Serve as is or made in advance cool and chill and hold in refrigerator until meal time and heat through in oven at 375 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. Note 2: In the Maritimes and in the McDonald Hotel this would be served in lobster shells. Note 3: Chopped mushrooms may be added if desired.

LOBSTER ROLLS:

An ordinary hot dog roll looks a generous portion of lobster salad and makes a hearty snack. To prepare the salad, simply moisten chunks of cooked or canned lobster with mayonnaise. Should you wish to extend the lobster add some diced celery in the proportion of half as much celery as lobster. For a professional touch, toast the rolls and tuck a crisp lettuce leaf into each before adding the salad.

FISH PUFFS (an economical Norwegian recipe):

One-half pound haddock or cod (if cod when ground — see below), 2 eggs, ½ cup cream, ½ cup fine cracker crumbs 3 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon anchovy paste, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, dash of pepper; 4 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, chopped parsley, paprika. Put fish through food grinder 2 or 3 times; mix with eggs, cream, cracker crumbs, flour, anchovy paste, salt, sugar and pepper; shape into small 1" balls. Drop into boiling salted water; cook 8 minutes. Arrange on serving platter; pour over combined melted butter or margarine and lemon juice. Sprinkle with parsley and paprika. Serve hot.

Former Salesman for Water Softeners Says Company Had Strong Sales Pitch

KITCHENER (CP)—A former salesman "for a distributor of water softeners testified in Division Court Wednesday that the firm's sales pitch was "one of the most powerful sales talks I've run across in my sales career."

Now a commercial pilot, Ronald Craven of Waterloo was testifying at a lawsuit brought by Seaboard Acceptance Company against a Kitchener couple who had bought one of the water softeners from his former employers, Water Conditioners of Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cruickshank are being sued for a $350 balance on a promissory note and conditional sales contract Seaboard purchased from the distributor following the sale.

Craven said he staged with the company about the same time as James Askin of Kitchener, one that the defence the Cruickshanks in November 1959.

He said the salesmen were given a tape recording from which they learned their sales presentation.

"Then there was a money close — punch line," Craven testified. "The recording would show that there wasn't much money to be spent to get the machine."

(The machine was sold under the firm promised a $25 "bonus" for each sale made by a prospect named to the manager, plus $25 for any purchaser named by the prospect.)

"It was like a test driving," he said, "but it had to end promptly because made sure that somebody had to lose . . . you run out of people."

Joseph Mattson, acting for Water Conditioners of Canada, referred to Mrs. Cruickshank's testimony Monday that Askin had lied and misrepresented his product. He asked Craven: "Were there any lies in what you were told to say?"

"Objecting I'll prevent gall bladder trouble . . . I wouldn't say it was the truth . . . I don't know. I'm not a medical man," Craven replied.

He said the sales pitch led customers to believe they would make more than $300. (The device was priced at $260 plus a $50 installation charge.)

"Did you believe it?" Mr. Mattson asked.

"No. It was numerically impossible," the witness replied.

Mrs. Cruickshank had testified that after her husband received $350 in "bonuses."

The husband denied signing a promissory note for $260 and said his wife did not sign such a note "of her own free will and knowledge."

Asked whether he read the agreement before signing it, he replied: "I tried to, but he (Askin) kept talking all the time I was trying to read."

Cruickshank said he felt the salesperson "was trying to represented in that it didn't work properly and was not worth what for it was not free, as the salesman had promised; and payments were high on a bank loan as well" as promised by Askin.

The case continues next Tuesday.

In a report on the opening day of court Monday, The Canadian Press erroneously identified the company bringing the suit as the Superior Acceptance Company.)

Deteriorating Situation In South Viet Nam Seen

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States, concerned over the deteriorating situation in South Viet Nam, is prepared to increase its military aid to the pro-Western Vietnamese.

But there is reluctance to make any immediate large-scale commitments of American troops to that area in fear that it might invite Red China into active participation in the Communist fight against the South Viet Nam government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Thus there is doubt, no matter what Gen. Maxwell Taylor recommends to President Kennedy following his on-the-spot investigations of anti-major Western military build-up in South Viet Nam for some time to come.

Americans hope the situation there can be stabilized through an increased flow of American military supplies and instructors through increased local support of Diem and by pushing the lower Interna tional Control Commission into greater effort to investigate complaints of border violations, subversion and murder by Communist guerrillas from neighboring North Viet Nam.

The control commission is made up of Canada, Poland and India with India as chairman. American authorities, attach no blame to Canada's efforts, but they are sharply critical of India's leadership and lament the fact that Communist Poland is more a hindrance than help in solving the border crisis.

The commission, acting under the authority of the Geneva conference co-chairmen, Britain and Russia, are supposed to investigate quickly any complaints of border violations between North and South Viet Nam and generally supervise peace terms that ended the six-month war in Indochina in 1954.

An alternative to any decision to send direct troops into South Viet Nam would be to intensify training of South Vietnamese troops and send them into North Viet Nam in counter-guerrilla operations.

American authorities say they are determined to keep South Viet Nam out of Communist hands.

Form New Govt.

BEIRUT (Reuters) — Rachid Karamch, former premier of Lebanon, agreed Wednesday to form a new government at the request of President Fuad Chehab.

There have been disputes recently between Salam and his public works minister, Kemal Jumblatt. This split was seen as mainly responsible for the government's collapse.

Party Congress Turns Spotlight On Berlin Issue

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The 22nd Soviet Communist party congress resumed today with the spotlight on Berlin and East-West relations.

Attention switched to the cold war scene itself. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko took the floor to appeal for a U.S.-Russian summit which it would "guarantee peace for a long period of time."

Before Gromyko's speech, most of the sessions had been devoted to heaping abuse on the two main congress targets—Albania and the "anti - party group" within the Soviet leadership.

Gromyko, just back in Moscow from talks with American leaders, declared that President Kennedy and U.S. Nikita Khrushchev must go down in history as "presidents of the era in which wars became impossible."

The Soviet foreign minister disclosed to the 4,500 delegates that U.S. Secretary Dean Rusk told him in their recent talks the search for peace "all on grounds of equality" between the U.S. and Russia who represent the two biggest powers in the world. Rusk told him now he told him "we all understand that neither the United States nor Russia want all sectors of resources developpment. It would enable universities to play their "vital role" in this research.

A workshop on administration, endorsing the idea of a National Resources Development Council, felt "it should be composed of high-class citizens not in government."

D. W. H. Starcke, president of the National Research Council, had a workshop on research problems there must be "a vigorous national drive" to attract more scientists, engineers, technicians and skilled workers.

At a workshop on jurisdiction, some of the country's top legal minds on the division of federal and provincial powers at-sity, "unless you have a spirit fects all renewable resources of maximum co-operation."

Two Concepts of National Council Emerge From Conference Study Sessions

MONTREAL (CP)—Two concepts of a national council acting on renewable resources emerged Wednesday at study sessions of the national conference of Resources for Tomorrow.

D. B. Turner, British Columbia's deputy minister of recreation and conservation, said the council should be composed of men who have power of action and a direct responsibility to the people.

It is already in existence, he said, in the form of the steering committee that set up the resources conference. Its members are federal Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale and the cabinet minister from each province.

At other workshops the idea of a completely new body that would stimulate research and take a continuing inventory of the nation's resources was brought forward.

M. W. Mendis, adviser to the federal agriculture department on grain policy, said there should be an independent body — comparable to the National Research Council — that would come through such a council."

Heavy emphasis has been placed throughout the conference, attended by 700 delegates from all 10 provinces, on the need to provide more trained manpower for any resources development program.

D. W. H. Starcke, president of the National Research Council, said a workshop on research problems there must be "a vigorous national drive" to attract more scientists, engineers, technicians and skilled workers.

Accused Admits Firing Rifle At His Father

CAYUGA (CP)—Bruce Blanchard, 20, testifying in his own defence against a manslaughter charge, said Wednesday a day he fired a rifle at his father because "he hadn't let me" he shouldn't have stopped he would have killed the whole family."

The youth is charged in the slaying of his father, Albert Blanchard, 51, April 2.

He told Mr. Justice G. T. Walsh he saw his father's face and he was sneaking through the door of their barricaded house.

"That wasn't Dad coming through the door, it was an animal," he said.

The youth told the court he fired a .22-calibre rifle at his father's shoulder to stop him coming into the house.

"I didn't think I could hit him. Then he fell."

The father had been arrested the previous day on an assault charge laid by his wife, the court heard. He had been freed on bail and warned to stay away from the family home pending a court hearing.

The trial continues.

EX-PREMIER BURIED

ST. GEORGE (CP) — More than 700 persons crowded into the United Church in this village 15 miles northeast of Brantford as funeral service was held today for Harry Corwin Nixon, 70, who died Sunday night. Mr. Nixon, Brant member of the legislature for 22 years and former premier of Ontario, suffered a heart attack while driving to his farm near here.

Canadian Movie Gets Premiere In N.Y. Theatre

TORONTO (CP)—A Canadian produced 3-D thriller, that depends on audience participation for its cinematic impact has gone south of the border for its first public screening.

Billed by its makers as the first feature-length movie produced by a Canadian company to be picked up by a major world distributor, the film gets its premier showing Friday night at New York's Warner Theatre.

Called The Mask, the movie was made by partners Julian Hoffman and Ralph Foster of Toronto's Meridian Films Limited. They first teamed up during the Second World War when they worked together on a combat pictures unit for the National Film Board.

Meridian shot the 90-minute science - fiction thriller in 10 weeks at a cost of about $300,000. Warner Brothers acquired the world rights and "returned a large proportion of the cost in an advance on distribution," Mr. Foster said today.

The story, based on an idea of Canadian movie house owner N. A. Taylor, features a scientist who discovers a magic mask that reveals a "wonderful new world."

MASKS FOR ALL

Matching masks, with 3-D lenses, are supplied to each member of the audience. They can share in the three-dimensional vision of the scientist by putting on their masks whenever he does his.

Mr. Foster said in an interview that the scientist is the human being who is the real star of the film."

Meridian used a new 3-D process, putting the action on one film strip that can be screened in every small movie house without special equipment, Mr. Foster said.

Hoffman, 42, directed the film and Meridian's Herbert S. Alpert directed the camera work.

Paul Stevens, an American actor who played in Exodus and Advise and Consent, plays the scientist. The female star is Claudette Nicholas, American stage and TV actress.

Drug Companies Have Made Significant Contributions To Research Says Dr. Best

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Charles H. Best, head of the Banting-Best department of medical research at the University of Toronto, said Wednesday drug companies have made significant contributions to research by his department.

Dr. Best, co-discoverer of insulin with the late Sir Frederick Banting, said:

"We accept grants, provided no strings are attached to them, from a variety of pharmaceutical companies."

He outlined how such gifts have helped the department's work, in a statement to the federal government's restrictive trade practices commission which is investigating the manufacture, distribution and sale of drugs in Canada.

Part of the cost of operating the department comes from federal government grants, Dr. Best said. But individual firms manufacturing drugs also had helped. The department now was receiving grants from five or six such firms to aid in research projects.

Land Developer Charged With Bribe Attempt

GEORGETOWN (CP) — Millionaire land developer Rex Heslop was arrested Wednesday night and charged with attempting to bribe Mayor Everett Hyde of Georgetown.

Mr. Heslop was later released on $20,000 property bail.

The charge followed a series of exchanges between the land developer and the Georgetown municipal government over development of 1,162 residential building lots he owns here.

He was refused building permits for the residential lots following a dispute over bringing industry to the town. Last year Mr. Heslop lost a suit against the municipality over the building permits.

Mr. Heslop built the Rexdale residential and industrial development, the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke. He is also developing a residential site near Georgetown, about 25 miles northwest of Toronto.

PARIS (Reuters) — A plastic bomb exploded Wednesday night outside the apartment of Pierre Brisson, managing director of the Conservative newspaper le Figaro. Accused Freed On Non-Capital Murder Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—Alfred Madden, a 46-year-old construction worker, was acquitted Wednesday of non-capital murder after an eight-day trial.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty immediately after being directed to do so by Mr. Justice D. C. Wells of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Madden was charged in the strangulation death of Kenneth Turner, 38, of nearby Gatineau. Turner's body was found Aug. 20 in a parking lot in the national defence headquarters in central Ottawa.

After the jury was dismissed, the judge warned Madden to "control your appetite for liquor" or he might find himself in serious trouble again.

Defence counsel argued that the Crown had produced nothing more than "very weak circumstantial evidence" that could be interpreted several ways.

Madden was represented by Arnel Goldberg and John Sigouin of Ottawa. W. Newell of Huntsville was Crown counsel.

Katanga Hands Over Prisoners To UN Forces

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — Katanga province and the United Nations exchanged prisoners Wednesday night, marking an end to the armed conflict between secessionist Katanga and the UN.

The government of President Moise Tshombe handed over the 190 prisoners — mainly Irish— in the last month's clash. The UN forces had moved them to disarm foreign officers serving in Katanga. The action amounted to an attempt to bring Katanga back under control of the central Congo government in Leopoldville.

The UN returned some 250 Katangans. At the same time UN forces withdrew from the Elisabethville post office and other strongpoints held during the fighting.

Physicists Seek Information On Big Soviet Nuclear Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the next day or two, U.S. military physicists will begin plucking out of the thin air some highly tangible information about the composition and efficiency of the big nuclear bomb Russia exploded Monday.

The prediction of weather bureau experts that the edge of the contaminated mass of air from Monday's explosion should arrive over the Aleutian Islands and Alaska by tonight is of great interest.

Entirely aside from the overriding question of radioactive contamination, they will bring the first opportunity for detailed laboratory analysis of the various features of the explosion.

Microscopic samples of the debris from the detonation, captured by high-flying planes, can be used to provide details not possible in the initial, quickly procured reports.

These first bits of information came from seismographic stations, from highly sensitive microbarographs instruments which detect abrupt changes in air pressure, even at ranges of hundreds of miles—and possibly some from such sources as submarine detectors and observation.

For obvious security reasons, the military never discusses the location of particular ships at particular times. However, U.S. and Soviet submarines roam to far distant places.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has included in his approximate date—the end of this month—in proclaiming last week his intention to test a 50-megaton bomb. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission reported Monday's Soviet blast possibly was in the 50-megaton range, but more likely was about 30 megatons.

Given Khrushchev's advance notice that a big explosion was planned, and with the knowledge that Novaya Zemlya had been the location of several earlier tests in the Russian series, it is likely the United States made arrangements to procure all possible information on the blast.

Some of the navy's atomic submarines, including the huge Triton, could be especially useful on a mission to obtain data on such an explosion. The Triton made a round - the - world voyage submerged.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: New power plants for submarines, monkey ovaries and vibrations.

NEW PEP FOR SUBS

The U.S. Navy expects to begin converting its diesel-powered submarines to a new super - quiet power plant in two years. The new power plant will use fuel cells, those remarkable devices which borrow electricity directly from chemical reactions.

Fuel cells are up to 80 per cent efficient, twice as efficient as current engines.

Later the Navy hopes to power small attack submarines with fuel cells. Like nuclear power plants, the fuel cell power plants don't need air and will enable submarines to remain submerged for longer periods. Rising near the surface to get air for its engines makes the conventional submarine more vulnerable.

STATION O-V-U-L-Y

Scientists have opened three new broadcasting stations—each in the ovaries of young rhesus monkeys.

Sooner or later there will be 15 monkeys so equipped. University of Pennsylvania scientists will use the signals to find out the exact moment ovulation occurs, when the egg is released from the ovary.

By studying the state of the body at that moment, scientists may be able to learn more about how ovulation and fertilization occur, and may find a test to determine reliably when ovulation occurs in the human.

GET THE VIBRATIONS?

The earth — and every physical object in the world—vibrates, and has its own particular pitch, much as a violin or guitar string. The earth vibrates about once an hour.

So say scientists at Israel's Weizmann Institute. They report that data analyzed from the 1960 Chilean earthquake confirms their formula as to how the earthquake excited the natural vibrations of the earth.

SHE'S THE BOSS

The average married woman between the ages of 20-24 in the United States today expects to have about 2.8 children—and women have a remarkable record for predicting the size of their families.

That's the report from scientists, drawing on data from the University of Michigan survey research centre. Women polled in 1955 expected to have an average of 3.1 children—and a follow-up showed they hit that figure remarkably well.

CHURCH FOUNDING

The United Church of Canada was formed in 1924 by union of the Methodist, Congregational and some Presbyterian churches.

FINE PROGRESS

The number of diphtheria cases recorded annually in Canada dropped from 1,201 in 1934 to only seven in 1960.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Back in 1832 a bunch of the boys of the rural areas close to the city were touting around an overstuffed baseball as a recreational respite from the routine of milking, pitching hay, plowing, and other exercises that made the day's work on the farm.

Their village cousins joined in the fun and the result was the formation of teams that played softball and dared their city-slicker counterparts to duels on the pasture-field diamonds.

After a while they got tired of looking for last minute home-bottom brush and sliding into what they thought was first base in a cow-inhabited alfalfa field, and decided to organize their own form of recreation.

So they got together, decided they could miss a bat better with a baseball and christened the South Hastings Baseball League.

They gave their softball to the dairymaids, their mushball bludgeons to the girls' league, their datebooks to younger brothers and got under way.

Foxboro, Melrose, Shannonville and Camilton are charter members of the League. The following year, 1931, Latta decided to try baseball, went to Melrose, borrowed its "hardball" equipment, played the local squad, beat them—and were sold. The next year they formed a five-club circuit.

Today the South Hastings Baseball League is still going strong. It is one of the oldest, if not the oldest rural loop of its kind in Ontario, thanks to abiding by its own constitution and rules, standing strictly to sportsmanship and hurdling the monetary and player pitfalls that have ruined many another organization.

And to its outstanding credit the league is behind a minor organization of its own, giving the youngsters a chance to play and assuring a feed-box for the future.

Frank Pringle was the league's first president. Associated with him were: Art Hall, Jack Stewart, Ed Shorey, Ken Juby, Gord Walker, the Osborne brothers, the late Dr. Harold Welch, Clayton Hamilton, Ken Vivian and many others.

"We operated on a shoe-string," said Mr. Pringle. "Each team bought its own equipment." Mr. Hall said, "we stuck strictly to our own players. Sometimes one or the other would use a Belleville player but this never reached serious dimensions."

Back in the thirties, the league "caught on" like wildfire. It grew in popularity and crowds of several hundreds were common sights at all of the diamonds. And the fans were as loyal as a burr to a horse-blanket.

The sky was their roof and a converted pasture field their stadium. The bleachers at times and at places, were cedar logs. (I know, I came home once with sore splinters in the seat side of the lap.) Their enthusiasm was boundless as evidenced in 1.300 at a championship playoff in the Fair Grounds not too long ago.

They augmented their funds with "Field Days." Each club had its own field in consecutive years. There were horse races, and other forms of entertainment. We used to draw thousands of people," Mr. Pringle said. "Cars in those days were not as plentiful, the roads were not so good, and everybody looked forward to the events."

In the earlier years the umpires were local boys, who were brave enough to take on the job. The umps were human like those of today and erred occasionally.. And lusty-lunged fans made no bones about giving forth with their opinions.

The South Hastings district is one of the best of its kind in the province, closely-knit by common bonds of friendship, neighborliness, and the willingness of its people to help one another.

And one of the strongest threads in this pattern of "love thy neighbor" (even on a baseball diamond) has been the South Hastings Baseball League.

More power to its homer-hitting elbows!

Lead Habs By Point

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens are no scoring slouches as their 4.4 goals average for five games indicates.

But consider how much tougher the Habs would be if they had all the goals being scored in the National Hockey League this season by some of their former possessions.

Bob Turner, one of the league's most versatile players who now toils for Chicago Black Hawks, Wednesday night got the 20th goal scored by a former Montreal chattel this season. which is only two weeks old.

It was Turner's second goal in seven games with the Hawks, matching the entire output during 114 games with Canadiens in 1959-60 and 1960-61, and gave Chicago a 1-1 tie with the Rangers at New York.

With the tie the Rangers moved back into first place, one point ahead of the lofty Canadiens. The Habs play host to the Hawks tonight while Detroit Red Wings are meeting the Bruins in Boston. The Bruins, still seeking their first victory of the season, recalled centre Bob Beckett from Providence of the American League Wednesday.

SCHINKEL NOTCHES FIRST

Turner's goal came at the 57-second mark of the second period. Ken Schinkel tied it for Rangers with his first goal of the season at 10:37 of the same period.

Turner scored only two seconds after a penalty to teammate Ab McDonald had expired. But McDonald had not left the penalty box so the Hawks were actually shorthanded.

Turner picked up a loose puck at the New York blue line, moved in a couple of steps and rifled a 30-foot slap shot past goalie Marcel Paille. Schinkel scored on a rising 20-footer that eluded Chicago goalie Glenn Hall.

Each team had numerous scoring chances after that but were thwarted by fine goaltending. Paille, replacing injured Lorne (Gump) Worsley for the second straight game, wound up with 25 saves while Hall had 29.

Andy Bathgate's point-getting streak was halted, the veteran New York right winger, who leads the league in scoring, race with 15 points, had picked up at least one point in his eight previous games this season.

Detroit's Eddie Litzenberger, with six, and New York's Gay Gendron, with five, have 11 of the 20 goals scored by former Canadiens-owned players. Next comes Terry Gray, a rookie with Boston, who has three. Cliff Pennington of the Bruins and Bronco Horvath, Murray Balfour and Turner of the Hawks each have two. New York's Doug Harvey and Al Langlois and Boston's Andre Pronovost have one each.

Score Was 4-2

Dogs Defeat Maroons

CHATHAM (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs defeated Chatham Maroons 4-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A-2 game before 912 fans Wednesday night.

The Bulldogs tallied once in the second period and added three markers in the third period.

Irwin Gross, Bob Brown, Bill Mitchell and Lou Berado were Windsor's marksmen and Jim Connelly and Ron Male scored for the Maroons. Defencemen Jerry Servisir assisted on three Windsor goals.

Bulldogs' goalie Ross Childs made 37 saves. Rookie Chatham goalie John Campbell stopped 42.

Windsor collected five minor penalties and one major. Brown drew three minors and a major. Five-minute sentences went to Windsor's Ed Switzer and Bulldogs' Ed Switzer for fighting.

Meanwhile, OHA president Lloyd Pollock announced in Toronto that ANAF Hall-player suspensions of the season, stemming from a stick-swinging duel in Wood stock $25.

'It Felt Terrific'

Boos Don't Bother Leapin' Lou

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The boos that greeted the sarcastic display of muscle by Lou Fontinato during his first National Hockey League appearance in New York as a member of Montreal Canadiens should not be misunderstood.

It may be that New York fans have found within themselves the capacity to hate the man who became an idol during seven seasons of rugged defence play in a Ranger uniform.

But there's likely to be another element. For New York fans don't waste their boos on a nonentity. There is a certain amount of respect involved, grudging though it may be.

Of course, an opposition player must be tough as well as popular to be a hero in Madison Square Garden. For example, New York fans cannot abide Maurice Richard more with awe than zeal.

Fontinato they saved some of their most detestable hoots for Ted Lindsay in the days when the little left-winger was combining pugnacity with skill as a Detroit Red Wing.

PENALTY KING

Leaping Louie, a 29-year-old native of Sudbury, Ont., who stands six-one and weighs about 195 pounds, was the bleeding penalty-scoring king of the Rangers.

Any opponent mussed up one of the more fragile New York forwards, it was expected Lou's Footloose would retaliate on behalf of his teammate.

Defence partner Dert Gordie Howe put a crook in his nose in one bout, New York fans still boo him for it. Gordie who stands six-one and weighs about 195 pounds, was the bleeding penalty-scoring king of the Rangers.

Any opponent mussed up one of the more fragile New York forwards, it was expected Lou's Footloose would retaliate on behalf of his teammate.

Defence partner Detroit's Gordie Howe put a crook in his nose in one bout, New York fans still boo him for it. Gordie who has been overlooked along the way was that he was developing into a pretty fair defenceman.

When Rangers traded him to Montreal in return for the playing-coach services of the great Doug Harvey, New York fans never figured New York Manager Muzz Patrick had pulled a fast one on the boss of the Twin Robbery.

Fontinato and Montreal manager-director Frank Selke are going to be under considerable pressure because of the deal. But there's no question that Lou distinguished himself in his first appearance before his old fans.

DOMINANT FIGURE

Canadiens won 5-2 and although Lou didn't get any goals, he was the dominant figure. Star says "Footsoals easily was the most dominating figure on the ice."

What did Footinato think of the bout? "It felt terrific, just terrific' to get booed." he said. "It means I was doing my job."

And He Is Still in One Piece

GALT, (CP)—Emile (The Cat) Francis, former penminder with New York Rangers in the National Hockey League, counted up his battle scars and called himself lucky.

Speaking at a minor league softball banquet Tuesday night, he listed 230 stitches, two shoulder separations, one ankle operation, 18 lost teeth and six broken noses he suffered in his playing days.

And, he said, he missed only 12 games through injuries.

Tuesday night between defenceman Bill Rawson of Stratford Indians and rearguard Jim Searles of the Athletics in Rawson was suspended for Saturday's next two games and Searles for Woodstock's next three. Searles was also fined $25.

Wanted to Quit Hockey

Andy Bathgate Took Mom's Advice

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

No one can accuse Andy Bathgate of being a mommy's boy, but it's a well-known fact around the National Hockey League that his mother talked him into staying with the game. It was sound advice.

The nifty New York Ranger right - winger wanted to quit hockey eight years ago when Rangers sold him to Cleveland of the American Hockey League. That's when his mother got into the picture.

"Ranger" had promised to send me to Vancouver if I didn't make it, but they shipped me to Cleveland instead," Bathgate recalls. "I called my mother and told her and she said that maybe it was a turning point in my career and that I should stick it out. . . I scored some goals and Rangers brought me back."

It's a matter of record he scored 23 goals and had 19 assists in 36 games with the Barons in 1953-54 and the dark-haired Andy was made. Since then, he has worn a Ranger uniform and this season is off to a big start.

HOLDS CLUB RECORD

After the first eight NHL games, the 25-year-old Winnipeg - born winger leads the league's scoring. He may not win the title but, barring injuries, he and Bobby Hull of Doug Harvey could lead Rangers into the playoffs after three seasons in the wilderness.

He already has established himself as one of the all-time Ranger greats.

In the 1958-59 season he scored 40 goals, the highest of any Ranger since the club was formed back in 1926. He also added 48 assists for an 88-point season—the fourth consecutive year he set a Ranger scoring-point record.

He slipped to 36 goals and 48 assists in 1959-60 and last year had a fine 29-goal 48-assist season.

All of this has been accomplished the hard way. His right knee suffers from what he calls "slipping kneecaps." It aches on damp and rainy days and shows the marks of stunts that hold a silver plate. The other is protected by a brace.

He's also somewhat of a storybook hero. Andy twice failed to stick with the Rangers as a rookie, up from Guelph Biltmores, the 1952 Memorial Cup champions. He was farmed out to Vancouver of the Western Hockey League and then was ticketed for Cleveland when he made that phone call to his mother.

Groza Back With Browns

Stampeder Nears Rush Mark

REGINA (CP) — Earl Lunsford, hard-running fullback with Calgary Stampeders, is 217 yards shy of equalling the Western Football Conference season rushing record set in 1958 by fullback Johnny Bright of Edmonton Eskimos.

Statistics released Wednesday night show Lunsford with an aggregate net gain of 1,300 yards on 251 carries.

Lunsford has two games remaining in which to try to break the Eskimo veteran's mark of 1,722 yards on 296 carries.

SEEK $50,000

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association has filed a request for a $30,000 grant in which the government's recently - announced $5,000,000 athletic development budget. Doug Philpott, honorary secretary of the association, said Wednesday the money would be used "for the continual development of Canadian junior and Davis Cup players and financing of the Canadian annual tennis championship."

CLEVELAND (AP) — "Heck looks more like a banker than a football player," observed coach Paul Brown in just before the start of the 1961 National Football League season.

"We brought him back because he adds class to the club and looks so good sitting around total hobbies."

Brown was talking about Lou (the Toe) Groza, Cleveland Browns' remarkable 37-year-old kicking specialist who has come out of a one-year retirement for his 15th season in professional football.

The banker—actually he runs a profitable insurance business when he's not golden toe for Ned Hanlon provides fourth quarter decisions' in -half of Cleveland's four triumphs this season.

Freed of the gruelling tackle duties he handled in prior years Groza, a six . foot-three, 240-pounder, is kicking like a colt. He has completed 11 of 13 field goal attempts and 14 of 16 convert attempts.

The other horse withdrawn was Proud Chieftain, who had been rated a 20-to-1 outsider.

Indians, Bears Stage 8-Minute Brawl

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh Hornets came close—but are still looking for their first American Hockey League victory this season.

They came from behind a 3-0 count, took a 4-3 lead, then lost 5-4 in overtime to Cleveland Barons Wednesday night. It was the Hornets' sixth straight defeat.

Hershey Bears broke out of a three-way tie and took sole possession of the Eastern Division lead with a 7-4 win over Springfield Indians. The game was marred by an eight-minute fight and an attack on an official.

The fight broke out in the second period when Pete Conacher moved to give Hershey a 4-2 lead. Defenceman Don Cherry of the Indians, a former Bear, rode Conacher into the boards after the shot and-playfrom both teams charged onto the ice for a skirmish.

Minor penalties were assessed Kent Douglas, Cherry and Bob Harris, all defencemen with the Indians, and rearguards Larry Zeidel and Bucky Hollingworth of the Bears. Hershey goalie Jack McKenzie picked up a 10-minute misconduct.

A minute and, two seconds were left in the fight when Douglas struck linesman Don Foreman with his first, then cracked him over the head with his stick. Douglas was banished with a game misconduct, which carries an automatic $50 fine.

Conacher and Les Duff each scored twice for Hershey before 3,766 hometown fans. Singles went to Marcel Bonin, Herb Lalande and McKenzie. Cherry, Douglas, Brian Kilrea and Bruce Cline scored for the Indians.

At Pittsburgh, 3,791 customers were on hand as Dick Van Impe scored at 1:53 in overtime to scuttle the Hornets. Other Cleveland marksmen were Hank Ciesla, Cal Stevenson, Ed Mazur and Bill Sutherland. Ray Ross scored twice for Pittsburgh, and Rochester's meteoric Bob Blake and Jack McIntyre.

Pittsburgh netminder Gerry McNamara was hit by the puck in the third period and had to leave the game. Hornet trainer Tony Parisi took over in the nets.

Only one game is scheduled tonight — Rochester-Americans meet the Aces in Quebec.

Edmonton Blanks L.A. Blades

Coach Hal Laycoe of Portland Buckaroos once aired up his Western Hockey League club as sometimes defensively weak but "generally hot as a scoring unit."

The defending champion Buckaroos were hot offensively and defensively Wednesday night. Lone winger Geoff Fashoway led the attackers by scoring his 48th and 49th goals as the Bucks beat St. San Francisco Seals 3-1.

Meanwhile, goaltender Dennis Riggin scored the first shutout of the season when Edmonton Blades beat Edmonton. It was Flyers blanked Los Angeles the unbeaten Flyers' fourth victory.

Fashoway, playing his 14th WHL season, put the Bucks ahead to stay at the end of the first period, following up a goal by Arnie Schmautz. Bob Solinger had given the Seals a 1-0 lead two minutes after the game started. Fashoway's third period slap shot rounded out the Portland scoring.

Riggin made 31 saves for Edmonton as Marcel Pelletier came up with 46 for the Blades. Roger DeMoor scored twice for the Flyers. Singles went to Lee Lande, Don Chic and Doug Messlir.

Evening of Song, Comedy, Dance a Welcome Relief

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — If you had an adroit hand with a TV dial Wednesday night you could have watched a variety show from after dinner coffee until the bedtime snack.

The evening of song, dance and comedy started with ABC's Sing along Show, directed by a brief hiatus until NBC's Perry Como opened for business, and then took over ABC minutes special.

There were many gay moments in the special, Seasons of Youth. On this frail theme were hung the dancing of Buzz Chase and Bob Fosse, some sharp political satire the Premise Players and the smartly professional singing of Ottawa's Paul Anka and Jill Corey.

Most delightful was Barrie Chase's dancing. She was also an engaging, easy mannered showman.

In fact, it was a good evening and a nice change from a TV diet which lately has consisted largely of homicide and neurosis.

Women of star calibre still are finding the going rough on television. Last season network TV cut itself loose from Lorraine Young, June Allyson and Barbara Stanwyck, leaving only two feminine stars who luckily were tied into successful situation comedy series of the family type: Donna Reed and Harriet Nelson.

This season, Marilyn Maxwell was the only woman star with a series, 'Bus Stop on ABC. Now comes word from Hollywood that the producers have dropped their option on completion of the first 13 episodes.

NBC has wrapped up Prime Minister Nehru for a Meet the Press broadcast Nov. 5, the day he arrives in New York.

Fred Astaire will make his first acting appearance Nov. 9 on the weekly ABC series on which he performs as host in Moment to Decision. He plays a magician and escape artist . . . Broderick Crawford, who was such a brusque but brave policeman in his successful Highway Patrol series, is a private investigator in his new King of Diamonds, for acts as if he were playing the heavy instead of the hero.

Recommended tonight:

Dr. Kildare, NBC, 9:00-9:30 EDT—Hollywood - based story about an accident case; The Untouchables, ABC, 10:11—Eliot Ness against the narcotics traffic.

Richard Boone heads Big Cast in "A Thunder of Drums", Rousing Action drama in MetroColor

One of the most colorful and exciting periods of history is when the U.S. cavalry was the only protection against murderous Apache and Comanche Indians, is depicted in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's outdoor adventure drama, "A Thunder of Drums".

Famed Western historian and writer James Warner Bellah wrote this action-filled drama of events taking place at a remote cavalry post in Arizona of the 1870's, with the picture given authenticity in location scenes filmed in Cinemascope and color in the desert mountain area near Tucson.

Richard Boone, cast as the rugged commander of the garrison stationed at Fort Canby, plays his first major film role following his success on television's "Have Gun Will Travel" and "Medic" series.

An unusual love story threaded through the narrative involves George Hamilton, as a West Pointer newly arrived at the Fort, and Luana Patten as an Eastern society girl. This leads first scored together as the young lovers of "Home From the Hill".

Others in prominent roles include Arthur O'Connell, Charles Bronson, Richard Chamberlain, James Douglas, little Tammy Marihugh and Carole Wells. Making his film acting debut is popular recording star, Duane Eddy, who sings two Western songs composed by himself.

"A Thunder of Drums", is a Robert J. Enders production, directed by Joseph Newman. The picture's climatic episode depicts the desperate battle between Apaches and an outnumbered cavalry patrol in one of the most realistic and suspenseful Indian vs soldier fights ever staged for a film.

John Boles in Hollywood On a Sentimental Visit

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Boles, who can smile when he is called "the Elvis Presley of the stone age," was back in Hollywood this week for a sentimental visit.

The tall man hung on him recently by a Houston newspaper man. Boles takes it in good humor. In fact, he smiles all the way to his oil wells.

Hollywood hasn't seen much of John Boles in recent years. He is remembered as a robust, handsome leading man who could lead desert wars with his baritone (The Desert Song), act fatherly to Shirley Temple (Curly Top, The Littlest Rebel) or husbandly as a host of anguished actresses (Rosalind Russell in Craig's Wife, Barbara Stanwyck in Stella Dallas).

He returned here to help celebrate another of his old tearjerkers, Back Street.

Boles was the apex of the triangle that included Irene Dunne and Doris Lloyd in the 1931 version. Today, Irene, Margaret Sullavan and Nella Walker played the same game in the 1941 remake.

TO ATTEND PREMIERE

Now Ross Hunter, the noted exhumer of tried-and-true movie plots, has decided on a 1961 version with John Gavin, Susan Hayward and Vera Miles as the troubled trio. Boles was invited to help beat the drums and to attend tonight's premiere.

"The picture business has changed," said the former actor, now silver-haired. He was sitting in the commissary at Universal, where he was a star in the early 1930s.

"Everyone seems to be frantic these days. All the fun appears to have gone out of making movies. In the old days we used to enjoy ourselves."

Boles still is, though he has been removed from the performers life for 10 years. He has devoted himself a new career in the oil business and operates from San Angelo, Tex. He keeps a Beverly Hills apartment, but spends most of his time among the oil fields of Texas and Louisiana.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:—Although there is a beneath-the-surface confidence bringing some disappointments or delays, on the surface all is fine with nothing in a very dramatic and sparkling manner to obtain, whatever is vital to your progress and development. But be sure that you do show you are willing to let go of the past to bring to yourself the new, inspired ideas that imbue you now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) You have a fine opportunity today to get out with dynamic and interesting friends in the things most vital to you or that you like to do. However, be careful not to irk some higher-up or you lose out in your plans.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Important you heed the advice of Isis and do whatever you can to make them happy. Don't forget to bring home little gifts that be thoughtful about the house in P.M. Also, don't permit strangers to deter you from right action.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Be certain to contact those powerful individuals who can release the favors you seek at this time. Be self-assured and use ingenuity. Also, don't permit the pessimistic attitude of others to disturb you in any way. Succeed.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Carry through with any constructive ideas you may have that will help you to advance quickly despite the would-be deterring influence of some jealous partner. Be of your very best with others — helpful, kind, fascinating.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't waste a second on whatever is dull and uninteresting now, since you have an opportunity to get into new and fascinating outlets that will prove far more remunerative too. Carry through with big ideas as befits a Leo.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Get an early start reorganizing your life and activities in such a way that you have more free time for enjoyment and purely creative pursuits. However, get into the habit of thrift where extravagances are concerned.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) See to it that those who are pretend to be your friends do something today to prove their loyalty. Have patience with kin in P.M., who are busy with personal affairs.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) Added prestige and success can be yours now if you impress higher-ups favorably by showing that you can listen as well as talk and have real logic. Take care while out driving, or keep away from the road if possible. Speak kindly.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Seeking new places and outlets with associates will open many an interesting and lucrative door for you and you can reach your goals that much faster. Increase financial acumen by living on a higher plane of consciousness.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can advance far more quickly now by conferring this morning early with those individuals who are very familiar with your type of work and can give you the advanced ideas you need, in any sphere of your endeavor. P.M. Retire early.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your time will be within closer reach if you step out today with people you admire who have the right advice and answers for you. However, do not waste their, or your time with petty worries and bemoaning your fate or you lose out.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) At last you are able to see the things you must do in order to become more efficient and happy either in your work or with home and family. Forget going out for a good time and concentrate upon making repairs, handling duties wisely, etc.

If your child is born today there will be a very great ability for success here for the reason that there is much self-reliance in this chart which comes from having a powerful mind, and little talk is necessary to put his, or her ideas across. Give plenty of exercise and sports during adolescence and be sure to send your child to college. There is bound to be fame in this chart, so be understanding and helpful, not critical.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Only a Miracle Can Help

DEAR DORIS:—Nothing short of a miracle can help me. Have you got one handy?

DORIS CLARK

My husband drinks. I have eight children, all boys, and the youngest is six months. Last year I had an illness which was both mental and physical and had to have psychiatric treatments. I am still depressed.

It wouldn't be so bad, but my husband cannot understand why I get sick. He says I look healthy and to stop worrying about things. Then he goes on a binge and uses up too much of the money which should go to our support.

He says I am getting awfully cranky, and who wouldn't? —EXHAUSTED.

DEAR EXHAUSTED:—Nobody ever needed a social worker more. Talk it over, talk it out. Get some ideas about how each family member can help carry the load—including your bingeing husband.

The miracle can happen—with professional help—and they've heard it all, before! Get an appointment, pronto, with your Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira St., Belleville.

DEAR DORIS:—All my life I have wanted to be the top fashion model. I studied modelling from a small agency, which has never helped me find a job. I have often been told I would be a good model.

You may think this is a stage I have been going through for the past fifteen years but it is the only goal I remember ever longing for. Do you think it is possible to find someone who could show me the right way to get on top?—L. J.

Scan the yellow pages for "Designers—Women's Apparel or some such title and visit one to offer spare-time services.

When you get really serious about it, or feel you are justified in looking for steady work at modelling, visit the dress manufacturers and strut a bit to show them what you can do.

DEAR DORIS:—I am 21, single, and have been pregnant four times, always the same guy. I gave the children for adoption.

I like him O.K. and he wants to marry me, but I know he has been living with other girls besides me.

He might never be unfaithful if we were married, but what worries me is his big bug eyes. They seem to follow me wherever I go, so you see if I married him, it would probably end in divorce. What do you suggest I do—PREGNANT FOUR TIMES.

DEAR PREGNANT:—You're living in Canada, girlie. It's not for nothing that we object to intimacy outside of marriage. Conventions are the traffic lights of society. If you go against the lights, you get hurt. So do your children.

Break away from him; insist on a month completely away from him. Then see how you feel about the bug eyes. It seems to me you both need to grow up a lot before linking up for life.

Your poor moral standards—and his—leave me gasping.

DEAR DORIS:—Please give me a short speech to say when a boy asks you for a date and you are not allowed to accept due to your mother's feeling you are too young to date. We are 14.

We asked friends but did not receive any satisfying answers.—LOSS OF WORDS.

DEAR LOSS OF WORDS:—"I would love to go out with you but I have to wait until I am a little older before I can start dating. Please come back next year."

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, may have the answer to your problem. Write to her in care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Third Session Of Legislature To Open Nov. 22

Premier Robarts Dodges Questions on Cabinet

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will have a new premier — its 17th since Confederation — when the third session of the 26th legislature opens Nov. 22.

He is 44-year - old John Robarts, a London, Ont., lawyer, elected leader of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party here Wednesday night.

Premier Leslie Frost, 66, who has held office the last 12 years, said Thursday he will remain in office for another 10 days to effect "a smooth and efficient transfer of government responsibilities."

He told reporters following a cabinet meeting the next legislative session would proceed as scheduled Thursday, November 22. He will enter the House at that time as member for Victoria riding, the constituency he has represented since 1937.

Premier-designate Robarts beside Mr. Frost in the doorway of the premier's office, dodged questions about possible cabinet changes. However, he said he was sure the membership of the union's negotiating committee, said that it talks "have just started" and are "progressing."

Negotiations will continue Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in Toronto.

Other union locals participating in the talks are 979, Hamilton, and 938, Toronto.

Chairman of the companies' bargaining team is L. G. Teskie, of Woodstock.

The union members include highway and city truck drivers, mechanics and warehouse workers.

KINGSTON (CP) — Eastern Ontario members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) voted Thursday to form a new local separated from their former Toronto based local.

The decision means a loss of 802 members from the 5,000-member local that formed.

The vote was taken at the direction of James Hoffa, international president of the union. The break-away was supported by Edwin Haggart, vice-president of Local 938 and secretary to local president Kenneth MacDougall.

Seat for Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Andre Dufour, 23, a onetime art student, Thursday was committed for trial, charged with two bank holdups and slashing five paintings valued at more than $2,000 at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts.

No date for the trial was set.

Det. - Sgt. Leo Plouffe testified Dufour was linked to the vandalism at the museum by a handbag the police found on him when he was arrested for the bank holdups. He said tests showed the knife in the bag had a slightly - curved point that fitted the pattern of the slash marks.

Dr. Evan Turner, director of the museum, said the paintings can be restored.

MINISTER HOPES REDS WILL STOP BIG BOMB TEST

World Opinion Building Up

OTTAWA (CP) — There are indications Russia may cancel its 30 - megaton nuclear blast for fear of being isolated against virtually unanimous world opinion, Acting Prime Minister Howard Green said Thursday.

The external affairs minister emphasized, however) that no one can foretell what the Russians will do.

"I'm very hopeful the Soviet Union will not go ahead with that test," Mr. Green said. "Of course they may do so; I can't guarantee that they won't."

Speaking to reporters after a 90 - hour cabinet meeting over which he presided in the absence of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, the acting prime minister based his remarks on two points.

1. The Russians don't want to be isolated and have the rest of the world against them. Wednesday's United Nations political committee passed, by night - power resolution proposed by Canada urging cessation of nuclear tests. Vote was 70 to 10, with only the U.S.S.R., Czechoslovakia and Cuba voting against.

2. For the first time since premier Khrushchev announced Russia's intention to end the current tests with a 50 - megaton blast, Soviet Premier Kosygin has reported that there have been "doubts" raised in the UN against the explosions. Mr. Green hoped Pravda would also report the 75-kb vote.

TURNS OFF PEARSON

Mr. Green ticked off Opposition Leader Pearson, who in a statement to the press Thursday morning criticized the government's failure to invite Russia for "an act of aggression" and to condemn the exploding of its big bomb last Monday and planning a bigger blast.

"Goodness, where's he been?" Mr. Green said. "Mr. Pearson has been quiet long enough to keep in touch with what's going on as to be aware of that."

He said a motion as strong as Mr. Pearson proposed could not have been pushed through the UN.

"It might have been defeated in the 11th hour," he said, "and of course would have been a very big propaganda victory for Russia."

Mr. Green said that the UN's vote on the Canadian resolution was significant in that it showed that UN action is possible, even in an issue in which Russia has refused to submit to become involved in controversial situations.

"This is a very clear case of world opinion being focussed on a particular Russian activity, and you will have noticed that Pravda, I think it was, refused to vote whether there was a right to discuss or not discuss on the question of giving priority to the resolution over the other two resolutions which are before the committee.

"This is the first time there has been any report in the Russian press of the doubting, and the questions being raised in the United Nations."

33 Soviet Tanks Ready To Dispute Border Crossing

U.S. Repeatedly Sends Cars Into East Berlin

BERLIN (Reuters) — Soviet tanks and armored cars were hidden away near the tense Friedrichstrasse crossing point between East and West Berlin today, watching for the next move by the United States in the battle with East Germany over identity passes.

Thirty - three Russian tanks and four armored troops carriers which arrived overnight within half a mile of the crossing point during the night were parked behind high walls and closed gates in the rules of an old palace near the border.

They could not be seen either from the Western side or by residents of East Berlin.

The situation was quiet at Friedrichstrasse, where American civilian officials have been refusing to comply with East German demands that they show identification papers before entering East Berlin.

No U.S. reinforcements had been moved up to the border in addition to the Russian buildup, but Britain sent three tanks and a troop carrier platoon up near the border this morning in what was described as "a purely precautionary measure."

The tanks remained there for a short period and then pulled back with some of the Russian forces.

The three Western commandants met, meanwhile, in West Berlin.

Reuters, 73, already has been fined on five other charges involving alleged fraud and the theft and use of liquor for election purposes.

RED BLOC SEEMS ON BRINK OF ADMITTING SPLIT

Rift With China Is Deteriorating

LONDON (Reuters) — The Communist bloc is today appeared on the brink of publicly admitting a major split in its ranks as Sino-Soviet relations deteriorated overnight.

Reports from Communist capitals indicated that the current 22nd Soviet Communist Party congress in Moscow had brought to a head the long-standing feud between the Moscow and Peking branches of the party.

The inter-party struggle has focussed in recent days on Peking's ally, Albania, but the differences are considered to run much deeper.

Diplomatic sources in Peking said Thursday that denying the existence of a rift for the last 18 months, was ready to announce it stands with Albania against Soviet Premier Khrushchev and the Communist leaders at the Moscow congress.

The Chinese party press has already given details of Soviet attacks against Albania at the congress and of Albanian replies to the charges.

Most diplomats in Peking, including those from Communist Europe, now expect Chinese and Soviet leaders to acknowledge soon that the accusations levelled against Albania also apply to China.

The new attacks on Albania have centred on charges that the tiny Balkan state is leaning on tough Stalinist line in defiance of more moderate domestic and foreign policies adopted in Moscow.

However, many observers consider the feud is basically a struggle between Moscow and Peking for primacy within the Communist bloc.

Victor Zorza, a commentator on Communist affairs in The Guardian of Manchester, says the crack in the unity of the Communist bloc . . . yesterday became sufficiently wide to indicate the possibility of an open rift as a matter of days if not hours."

Japan's Emperor and Wife Give Diefenbakers Audience

TOKYO (CP)—Emperor Hirohito talked about the Canadian Rockies and Empress Nagako about duck hunting when they chatted with Prime Minister Diefenbaker in the Imperial Palace today.

These interests of Japan's royal couple, expressed when they gave an audience and luncheon for Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker and their Canadian party, couldn't have been closer to the heart of the visiting prime minister.

It was one of the highlights of the first day in Tokyo for the avid duck hunter whose government is dedicated to a program of opening up the Canadian northland.

The Diefenbakers talked to the emperor and empress mostly through an interpreter but no translation was necessary when they spoke with Princess Michiko, first commoner to marry a prince of Japan's royal family. The 27-year-old wife of Crown Prince Akihito speaks excellent English, having gone to an Episcopalian school here and toured the United States in 1953.

Members of the Canadian party were captivated by the charm and conversation of the princess, whose father is the 30-year-old heir to the throne which uses considerable quantities of Canadian wheat.

The Diefenbaker suite is also 30-year-old house - drawn carriage to the Imperial Palace for the 30 - minute audience luncheon. Some bystanders waved Canadian Red Ensign and Japanese flags as the closed carriage wended its way through the heavily - guarded city drinking rain.

The short walk later John Diefenbaker the parliamentarian was in his element as he visited the Japanese Diet, or parliament, and saw the three-storey marble and granite parliament building erected in 1925 at a time when the militarists were gaining a hold on the country.

Diefenbaker visited the House of Representatives just as it started its afternoon sitting, receiving a warm round of handclapping from the members of Japan's lower house as he stood up in a small corner gallery on the upper floor.

Then he was shown the House of Councillors, the upper chamber, which was not in session.

World's Largest Known Rocket Success in 1st Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Saturn, the world's largest known rocket, scored a success on its first flight test today and gave new impetus to the United States' drive to land astronauts on the moon in this decade.

Pre - launch calculations had given the rocket only 30 per cent chance of complete success.

With its massive eight-engine power plant generating 1,300,000 pounds of thrust, the rocket thundered away from Cape Canaveral at 11:06 a.m. EDT, carving a tremendous ball of fire.

The eight engines pushed the 162-foot rocket approximately 85 miles high. Then the rocket plunged to the Atlantic Ocean and sank to record more than 200 miles southeast of the launch pad.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the entire flight covered about eight minutes and the spent rocket fell into the ocean about six miles of its intended landing point.

Only the first stage was tested today. Two dummy upper stages were filled with water for ballast.

The flight, although brief, signalled U.S. intention to race Russia to the moon, a pledge made earlier this year by President Kennedy.

Inspection of U.S. Food For Fallout Stepped Up

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States government has decided to step up inspection of food for possible radioactivity but it urges Americans to be calm, saying fallout from persistent Soviet nuclear tests does not warrant "undue concern."

This statement from the public health service, aimed at allaying some public alarm, added: "At every level of government, research and programs are being expanded to cope with the potentially hazardous situation the government now faces."

Amid a weather office fallout expert added another note of pessimism. He commented that he were not tied down to his table his family to the southern hemisphere.

The long health service statement said down policy for expanded fallout surveillance and acknowledged that "very little is known about the effects on animals or humans of very low or prolonged exposures such as from natural background radiation, radioactive industrial wastes or fallout from distant nuclear tests."

At the same time a spokesman for the health service said he tended to agree with Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the Canadian Defence Research Board, who said at Ottawa that even if Russia explodes a 30 - megaton bomb "there is no real cause for worry in Canada."

The spokesman said that as far as the general public of Canada and the United States is concerned, the rise in fallout may not cause any major human damage in this continent. But he

Maurice Tessier, former - secretary - treasurer of the QLP, charged with permitting his subordinates to submit fraudulent expense accounts.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Contract talks between the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, representing about 8,500 workers, and the major trucking companies in Ontario will move back to Toronto next week after a three-day session in London, ended Thursday.

About 35 company and union representatives met to negotiate on a new agreement. The current three-year contract expired Sept. 30 but there is no deadline when a new one must be signed.

R. L. Wilson, secretary-treasurer of Teamster Local 880, Windsor, and chairman of the union's negotiating committee, said that talks "have just started" and are "progressing."

Negotiations will continue Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in Toronto.

Other union locals participating in the talks are 979, Hamilton, and 938, Toronto.

Chairman of the companies' bargaining team is L. G. Teskie, of Woodstock.

The union members include highway and city truck drivers, mechanics and warehouse workers.

Anybody Could Easily Get a Drink At Police Station on Election Day

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Anyone could get a drink at Quebec Provincial Police headquarters here on the last provincial election day, Corporal Gerard Gosselin admitted Thursday.

Constables Fernand Vadnais and Alfred Morin said ex-constables Lucien Pinsonneault were testifying at the trial of Montreal lawyer Jean-Marie Beriault on charges of fabricating evidence.

All three witnesses said it was easy to get a drink in QPP headquarters, especially in the office of Hormidas Savoie, the officer in charge.

Beriault is accused of planting bootleg liquor in the car of Edouard Fortier, a political opponent and well-known Liberal alderman.

Fortier was jailed overnight on the charge of illegal possession of liquor, but was later honorably acquitted of the charge.

Const. Vadnais said he arrested Fortier on the orders of Beriault, an active organizer for the Union Nationale party.

Vadnais and Pinsonneault both said they had two or three bottles of beer in the provincial police station, and that they saw

To Assume God Always on West's Side in Cold War Called 'Idolatry'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prominent Protestant clergyman said Thursday that anyone who opposed to communism as a religion "is guilty of idolatry as a political system," it is a "covert idolatry" to assume that God is always on the West's side in the cold war.

Dr. Paul Lehmann, dean of the faculty of Union Theological Seminary, New York City, made his remarks in a speech at the 34th annual conference of the Canadian Council for International Peace.

Speaking of possible success against communism, the dean said:

"The fact that the United States is a status quo nation, fearful of radical change and influenced by a large body of opinion that is still committed to an uncritical capital ideology is one of the greatest obstacles to the success of the free world in upholding its own values against communism.

"The utterly self - defeating character of the intransigent forms of conservative anti-communism in this country is amazing to contemplate."

In stating that it should not be assumed that God is always on the West's side, Dr. Bennett said:

"It is our temptation to assume that, because our opponents are atheists, God must be on our side.

"The very atheism of communism is a judgment on the churches which for so long were unconcerned with the problems of the industrial revolution and early capitalism and which have left the humanitarianism of Marxist ideology to the secularists."

He said the temptation to turn the cold war into a holy crusade is ever with us and in so far as we yield to it we make impossible the tolerance and humaneness which must yet come into human and national relations if there is to be a future for mankind."

British Empire Dairy Show Month Away

With the city of Belleville expecting its right as a landlord to take over the city hall marshalling yards for recreational or office space, the British Empire Dairy Show staged annually in the city will this year be held at a different location.

The show this year will be held in the presently vacant quarters formerly occupied by Hudons Tea Room on Front Street just north of the four corners. Dates for the show and for the annual convention of the sponsoring body, the Conference of Ontario Cheesemakers' Association are November 29 and 30.

Stanley Shaw secretary, Mrs. Lillian Matthews noted today that a few entries for the show have already been received although the date is still a month away. A number of new exhibits are expected this year from Eastern Ontario.

The cheesemakers' banquet which each year concludes the dairy show, is being held at the Quinte Hotel on November 30th. The guest speaker will be Rev. A. M. Lavery, chaplain at Queen's University.

Get Third Set Of Twins in Four Years

KINGSTON (CP)—The wife of a young advertising salesman has given birth to their third set of twins in four years.

The latest shock to Paul Rea, 27, may cause him to ignore his profession's favorite dictum about it paying to advertise. The latest twins, a boy and a girl, were born Wednesday night but Paul didn't tell his colleagues until a day later.

The latest births raised the total of junior Reas to seven, all under six years old. Karen, Lynn is 5½, twin sisters Patti and Paula 4½, and twin brothers Michael and Michel are three.

"After the second set I became a bit of an authority on twins," Paul says. The odds against two sets are 1,500,000 to one. You figure out the chances for three."

"Checkpoint Charlie" took no notice of it as it drove past.

Meanwhile, British reinforcements began a three weeks from the Western sector down East Berlin's Unter den Linden, through the Soviet tanks were parked.

Two British anti - tank guns stood under camouflage nets on either side of the avenue leading to the Brandenburg Gate.

The Russian tanks and armored troop carriers rolled into the centre of East Berlin two hours after the publication of an East German note protesting the United States over its "provocation" by U.S troops at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point.

The Americans have sent military police in jeeps into East Berlin during lines since Sunday to provide an escort for civilians barred back by the East Germans for refusing to show identity passes.

Both Thursday and Wednesday, the U.S. Army moved tanks and troops up to the border to back up the right of free access for civilians in official cars.

Both the Americans and the French refuse to show identity documents to the East German, maintaining that only the Russians have rights to exercise any traffic controls under the city's four-power status. Officials of East Germany's protest note Thursday night against American action at Friedrichstrasse was delivered to Czechoslovakia to the American embassy in Prague since the United States has no embassy in the East German regime.

The note also repeated demands that all civilians must show passes and said this state of affairs would continue until a German peace treaty is signed.

It warned the U.S. that it would have to take "all the consequences" for further "provocations" by the West Berlin border.

The Russian tanks in the border area appeared to have come for a long stay since the pens around construction of the Soviet field kitchens.

The Associated Press said it was the first appearance of Soviet armor in the heart of East Berlin since the Hungarian crush the 1953 anti - Communist revolt.

Their arrival had been presaged by a statement by a Russian spokesman Wednesday that "concrete action" could be expected in the event American military moves on the border.

West Berlin police reported that during the night a man was shot by East German guards when trying to get through the wire. The guards then dragged the man away.

Railway Vets of First War Reunited After 42 Years

Forty-two years ago they came home from World War One.

They came back to their jobs with the Canadian National Railway.

Four of them now living in Belleville met occasionally. The fifth, residing in Toronto, was a memory.

There was a heart-warming reunion of these five railway veterans at the Canadian National Railway Pensioners' luncheon at the Club Canara on Wednesday.

For the first time in over five decades Ernest Parrington, Toronto, Tom Hallam, A. L. Johnston, Jack Bone and Albert Stirland, all of this city, met and talked of railway experiences in France and Canada.

Back in 1916 the quintet joined a Canadian Army Railroad Battalion. They were posted to the 36th Broadgauge Operating Company of the First Section of Skilled Railwaymen.

They served in France and Belgium and went to the battlefields for over two years. In 1919 they returned to Canada and were discharged.

Mr. Parrington was the quartermaster sergeant of the company. Messrs. Hallam, Johnston, Stirland and Bone were sappers.

The four Belleville veterans served the railroad in this and other districts during their long tenure of service. Mr. Parrington is also in the railway service.

Mr. Hallam who lives on Elm Street is 68 years of age and had 44 years railway service here and in Toronto.

Mr. Johnston who resides at 96 Hunswood Drive is 72 years of age. He was employed by the Bert Street is 77 and Mr. Bone, 67 East Street is 68. All have over 40 years service with the Canadian National Railway.

Mr. Parrington, remembering his former "buddies" in Belleville, made a special trip with 136 other railroad veterans to enjoy the luncheon and participate in much mud and slush of Flanders, the chalk of the Somme and the shell-pocked areas of other battle grounds.

"It was a great experience to be able to meet and talk with each other again of the old days" Mr. Johnston said. "I hope to get together again soon."

Airman Tells Of 'Witnessing' Atomic Test

TRENTON — "It was just as if someone had turned on a powerful heat lamp and beamed it on the back of our necks."

FIt.-Lt. Jerry Foeberg of Winnipeg, one of the few Canadians who can claim the dubious distinction of having witnessed 27 miles of an atomic bomb test, told Trenton Kiwanis Club his experiences during the detonation at last night's club meeting.

FIt.-Lt. Foeberg said that, while he was on tour as an exchange officer with the RAF, he was commissioned a British atomic bomb test in the Christmas Islands. He said that air force personnel present at the test had been instructed to stand with their backs to the detonation area and cover their eyes with their hands. When the atomic device was detonated, he said that he could still see the blinding flash in spite of precautions.

FIt.-Lt. Fosberg said that he had spent seven years in the RAF as an exchange officer. Previously he was rotated with officers in the British, American and Australian air forces, with a view to how lating procedures and solidifying "their united air force."

At last night's meeting, Jim Cochrane was elected as vice-president of the club, with Lieutenant-governor Ted Parker, Jim Cochrane received his 10 year attendance award.

Next week, the club will hold a family dinner at the Trenton Memorial Hall with Junior Kiwanians (children of members) are to be invited.

Carrying Place Woman Injured

TRENTON — Mrs. Pearl Badgley of R.R. 3, Carrying Place, was treated by Dr. W. Bruce Todd for minor lacerations to her forehead, following an accident on 12 O'Clock Point Road.

Mrs. Badgley was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Harold Elvin Badgley. The car went out of control on the gravel road and struck a hydro pole, shearing off the pole. Damage to the car was estimated at $350. Mr. Badgley was unhurt. The accident is investigated by the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Around 7:45 p.m. Wednesday night, damage estimated at $3,500 was the result when Roy Dorsett, of Port Hope, Ontario, skidded his late model car on wet pavement at the Highway 401 traffic circle at Highway 33, north of Trenton. Hamilton was uninjured.

On Wednesday, Dorothy Jean Bowen of Trenton, sustained bruised ankles when the car which she was driving struck the curb when she failed to negotiate a left hand turn from Dundas St. East to Marmora St. The car struck the east curb on Marmora St., went across the street and struck the wes n. Damage to the car was estimated at $500.

Recently, Chamber headquarters received a letter from the Band of Nova Scotia bolding, 74 Dundas Street W.

Carlers Register

TRENTON — Today is registration day for those wishing to take part in ladies' curling at RCAF Station, Trenton.

Judging by the enthusiasm of those who have already signed up, the season promises to be a fun filled one. Beginners will be given a helping hand and there will be a baby-sitter at the rink to see that young mothers have their fun without any worries.

The executive of the ladies' curling club is planning a "get acquainted" shonspiel, late this month or early in November, when everyone can get to know her fellow-curlers.

POWERFUL BEASTS

An adult male puma — also known sometimes as cougars or mountain lions—will measure seven to eight feet in length.

The Saturn is three times more powerful than any previous rocket launched by the United States and tops the estimated 1,000,000-pound thrust of the Russian space rockets. The success will give added emphasis to the U.S. goal of placing a three-man Apollo spaceship on the moon, hopefully by 1967.

Nine more Saturn research shots are scheduled, by 1965, the operational two - stage, configuration is scheduled to be ready to hoist the manned Apollo craft into earth orbit. By 1965, an advanced 2,000,000 - 4,000,000 - pound - thrust Saturn should be geared to whirl Apollo and its three-man crew into lunar orbit.

Manned landings on the moon will be accomplished with the 12,000,000-to - 20,000,000 - pound-thrust Nova rocket, the development of which depends greatly on the Saturn program.

Dr. Kurt Debus, head of NASA's launch operations, said before the shot that he would consider 60 seconds of flight time "100 per cent success, with anything above that 150 per cent."

NASA reported that the four inboard engines of the 462 - ton rocket burned today for 109 seconds. The four outboard engines which are used to help control flight, burned for 125 seconds. Both figures were within two seconds of the intended time.

Your United Appeal

(Below are two questions frequently asked of the volunteer canvassers working for your United Appeal. The answers, it is felt, are of general interest to the citizens of the community.)

A: Why do campaigns cost so much? This was true in the past when each agency conducted its own individual campaign for funds. Under the United Appeal, however, campaign economy has been a special feature, no longer does a campaign cost more than it raised. The United Appeal is able to conduct its annual request for funds at a cost of less than 10 cents of each dollar raised, thanks to the combined efforts of many volunteer workers.

B: Why couldn't Mrs. X get help? This can only be answered if the facts of Mrs. X's case are known. Possibly Mrs. X was eligible for assistance from a public tax-supported service and did not fall within the scope of the United Appeal agency. In any event the local United Appeal office will check on any inquiry and, in due time, determine the facts of the matter.

Dean of Ontario Special Speaker To Brotherhood

Very Reverend A. T. Brierly Browne, D.D. Dean of Ontario, was the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of Anglican Church men, St. Thomas' Chapter, held Tuesday evening at the Parish Hall.

Special guests for the meeting were Queen's Counsel, Father Canon A. S. McConnell, introduced the guest speaker, while Mr. A. W. Abbott represented the Queen Scouts. The meeting was in charge of the president F. H. Bellstedt.

Dean Brierly-Browne spoke on the Psalms as contained in the Book of Common Prayer and told of their origin and materials on which the original Psalms were inscribed. Difficulty in obtaining the right materials resulted several of the subjects being written on calf skins or vellum.

ABBREVIATIONS USED—

For a long time there were no vowels in the ancient written Hebrew language, so abbreviations were used and the various scholars in their translations differed in their interpretation. Thus Fr. Canon read Jehovah as Fear to ore and Fright, Fearful Peerless or Fought to oth-ers. The Dean spoke of the Dead Sea Scrolls resulted in clarification of many of these differences.

Reference was made to particular Psalms to show how the Psalmist was inspired by circumstances. As examples No. 137 deals with the fifty years captivity of the Jews in Babylyria; while No. 84 and No. 122—are Pilgrim songs written on the return to Jerusalem.

The address was most interesting and illustrative. Appreciation of the group was expressed to the Dean by Rector's Warden Ronald Keel.

The Queen Scouts showed colored slides of some of their activities in Scouting and of their participation in the recent Canadian Jamboree held in Edmonton. The boys' comments added to the enjoyment of the pictures.

Mr. A. S. Lewis outlined to the group the part it is hoped it is to play in the coming Church Membership Canvass.

Commence Work on Monday On Sewage Disposal Project

Bright and early next Monday morning, work will commence on Belleville's $2,400,000 sewage disposal project, it was announced today by Alderman Jack Ellis. The Ellis-Don Construction Company Ltd. of Montreal, which has been awarded the contract for the first two stages of the seven-stage program, representing some 50 per cent of the entire project, will commence activity on the east bank of the Moira River crossing and proceed west as Dundas Street.

On Tuesday work will commence on a tunnel crossing at Highway 2 and the CPR tracks, as well as trunk sewers at the pumping station site on the north side of Highway 2 opposite the Ontario School for the Deaf. The initial work on the sewer proceeding will start on Tuesday, following ground breaking and sewer proceeding east on Wednesday.

The first stages of the sewage disposal project, which will eventually provide total treatment of all sewage from the west, east and north sections of the city, will be completed involve the construction of the Moira River crossing and Ellis said.

TRUNK SEWERS

Carrying sewage from the west side of the city will be a sewer running east from the city limits to Sidney Street, then south to the CPR tracks, turning to proceed east to the Bayridge Road. At this point it will head south to Dundas Street then east once more to cross over the Moira River to join into a pumping station to be constructed later at Firesan's Park.

The trunk line servicing the northern part of the city will connect into the above line at James Street and will run north on James and Cedar street's, then south on Coleman Ave. to proceed north on Fahey Street to College.

The new Fireman's Park pumping station will be connected to the sewage disposal plant by a line starting south on South Front to St. Paul Street, then proceeding east to George Street, then south to the sewage plant location.

The trunk sewer servicing the east side of the city will initially commence at the height of land on Hall Road, running south to cross Highway 2 and the CPR tracks then proceeding South of these tracks to the Bakelite plant, then west and turn south to continue on its easterly path at the old Grand Trunk Railway right of way as far as Macdonald Street. From this point it will proceed to the sewage plant over private property easements.

City engineer Malcolm Turnbull stated that the work will be undertaken with a minimum of inconvenience to local citizens and where any inconvenience was liable to involve property owners there would be advance warning given. There will be no streets torn up during the winter, he stated, even though the project is expected to be completed in some 30 weeks.

FINISHED IN 1963

The entire project, expected to be finished by March of 1963 in order to qualify for the 18 per cent government grant through the financing arrangements with the Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation, is divided into seven stages. The first three involve the trunk sewers. The other stages involves the sewage disposal plant itself, the three pumping stations, the main sewer to Prince Edward County, the sewage plant and the final outlet to the Bay of Quinte.

The entire first stage of the project, the construction of the three trunk sewers, has been approved under the Winter Works program and the contractor, Beaver Construction, has stated that a reasonable amount of local labor will be used. This work will be for semi-skilled and unskilled laborers. All necessary employment involved on the project will be handled through the National Employment Service, it was stated.

Although the sewage disposal system which is expected to be in operation by the first part of 1963 is expected, to only partially treat all of the city's sewage, by about five years the final sewer extensions and provisions for treatment will be obtained to totally treat sewage. It is necessary to do this in two stages, Mayor Willis explained, because the Ontario Municipal Board will only allow a certain amount of funded debt.

Two Women Hospitalized After Accident

PICTON — Two Picton women were hospitalized today following an accident at Glenora ferry, five miles east of Picton. A car driven by Mrs. Gladys Shannon was struck on the rear of a parked milk truck at the ferry dock. The truck, en route to Napanee dairy, was driven by Donald McKenzie of R.R. 4, Picton. The impact caused the car was badly damaged and it came to rest under the platform of the truck. Mrs. Shannon received a broken wrist, abrasions of the knee, and a passenger, Mrs. Elmer Hinchman, sustained a broken left leg, head injury, cuts and bruises. Wet leaves on the pavement are blamed for the accident Walter Bond's automobile took the injured women to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital. O.P.P. Constable Ken Thatcher investigated the accident.

Farmers' Wells Getting Low, Rain Needed

Less than six inches of rain has fallen in the Bay of Quinte district so far this month and farmers' wells are getting low but not critical as yet. No marked increase in the amount of city water being trucked from the local pumping station.

So far in October there has been but .79 inch of rain and only just over an inch was received last month. Fields are parched dry and farmers are feeling that slow points have less than their customary life as they are worn off by the hard ground.

At the present time about ten truckers are hauling water by tank truck for resale to farmers. This number has not increased with the advance of the fall season. Water hauled by truck is used to fill wells and cisterns for household and stock use.

A few district farmers haul their own water. When they deliver milk to the dairy they continue on to the city pump house and fill their cans with water.

New Skipper at the Helm

John Parmenter Robarts, at 44, is the new leader of the Progressive Conservative Party in Ontario and the premier-designate of the province.

When a party is in power, and when its power has rested for many years primarily on the talents and personality of its leader, it faces an almost overwhelming temptation to let his mantle fall on one of his contemporaries.

It is to the credit of the delegates to the Progressive Conservative convention that this temptation was staunchly resisted, two of the last three nominees in the race for the leadership being young men divided by many years from Premier Frost's generation.

Premier Frost himself deserves some share of the credit for this situation, he having brought young men along and given them the responsibilities necessary to test their capabilities for leadership.

Premier Frost now surrenders his duties as leader secure in the knowledge that the party is equipped to carry on not merely for the remainder of the life of the present Legislature, but for many future elections, if it continues to hold the confidence of the people of the province.

Whether public support will be accorded as freely and as continuously as when Premier Frost was at the helm will depend in large measure on the new leader, on the men he selects to fill cabinet posts and on the policies they put into effect.

Mr. Robarts has been described in some circles as "a little bit of Frost." To the extent that this is true, it may account for much of the support which Mr. Robarts received from the delegates. Though Mr. Robarts may share with the former leader the tendency to "play by ear" in determining policies, to let events rather than predetermined principles be the guide to action, it would be a sign of superficiality to suppose that the change in leadership will not eventually produce a change in the political temperament and tempo. No man is the twin of another in his mental processes and each man is the child of his own age. Whatever likenesses there may be between Mr. Robarts and Premier Frost will be more than offset by differences in temperament, talents and outlook.

Even in this matter of differences in the tide of public opinion and in the nature of events would make new policies necessary in the face of new problems. No man can accurately forecast how the new leader will acquit himself in discharging the heavy responsibilities which rest on his shoulders.

Change, far from being undesirable, is essential to continual vitality in the life of any political party. Mr. Robarts is a young man who may be expected to face the necessity for change with zest, rather than with reluctance. That by temperament he blends new ideas with the old and for progress an appreciation of the benefits of caution is all to the good for a party which calls itself Progressive Conservative.

The fact that it required six ballots before Mr. Robarts received the vote of a majority of the delegates from being a liability, must be considered an asset. It provides ample assurance that his election was not stage-managed by a small but influential group within the party but was the result of wide support amongst the grass roots.

Despite that, it is still true that Mr. Robarts' abilities and views are comparatively little known amongst the great bulk of the electorate. It is only ten years ago that he was first elected to the Ontario Legislature and he has been a cabinet minister for only three years. Those who have followed the changes he has made in the Department of Education may have been impressed with his energy and ability, but if the truth were told it would be admitted that there was no other department of the government in which a new minister would have faced such a wealth of opportunities. Mr. Robarts' predecessor having been something short of the acme of modernity in his views on educational matters. It now remains for Mr. Robarts to provide an equally impressive demonstration of his abilities and energy in the much wider field offered by the premiership. Here his task will be much harder, for Premier Leslie Frost is no easy man to follow.

In donning Mr. Frost's robe of office, Mr. Robarts will have to step much more nimbly than was required in the education department in order to create a comparable impression. He will, however, have a choice of good men to aid him, and indeed, one of the most impressive features of the balloting was that, on the deciding ballot, Mr. Robarts received the support of that other young man in a hurry, Hon. Robert W. Macaulay. Men like these, assisted by such older heads as Hon. Keiso Rob...s and Hon. James Allan, should make a good team.

Teaching With Machines

New York Times

Not long ago on the eve of the current school year two dozen companies making teaching machines and vitally interested in their promotion held a two-day conference and exhibit under the sponsorship of the American Management Association. Representatives of these companies reported on how such machines were being used. Automation, probably the most controversial issue in the labor-management relations today, has at last made its impact on teaching, probably the most personal service the spirit and the mind of man have ever rendered. Although for years back certain types of tests have been checked and rated mechanically, the use of machines for purposes of actual teaching and drill is still a novelty. Already, however, it is patent to educators that the classroom robot can be either "quite dangerous" or "tremendously effective," as Prof. Paul C. Lange of Teachers College, Columbia University, emphasized in a recent address before a session of the Associated Public Schools.

It must be remembered that useful teaching machines have used many helpful audiovisual devices. The teaching machine is only one which offers psychological and connected sequence material to be learned, and it also tests the student as he proceeds to make sure that he has grasped fully what has been presented to him. The most dramatic error he has made before allowing him to go on to a new subject-matter. According to Prof. B. F. Skinner, the Harvard psychologist who helped develop these mechanical aids to learning, it is the preparation of the material to be learned and the art of programming, which is the author's responsibility rather than the machine itself doing out subject-matter piecemeal at a time, that is responsible in the learner. As in the case of all the ingenious mechanisms of our age of gadgetry and automatic appliances effectiveness or failure ultimately depends on the human factor.

Recently a panel of junior high school teachers, supervisors and educators made a serious considered just this aspect. One thoughtful query was "How is the psychology of the learner affected by machine learning?" Others received only tangential replies such as "a child can't kiss a machine," "machines are basically sequential and logical thinking" "the machines aim is to sharpen the student's specific, sequential facts," with an addendum that "research on concepts are best given by the machine but by the teacher." Perhaps the most pointed observation made by a panelist was that the machine "enables students to discover new relationships by themselves" since no machine presumably can do this for them.

Because programming, the indispensable preparation, the indispensable preparation, is so important the future usefulness of teaching machines will depend upon it. Kenneth Komoski, president of Sch...astic Teaching Systems, Instruction, has often warned that emphasis on machines, especially the fixed, functional operation of any one machine, is likely to result in stultifying treatment of imaginative programming while it does not conform to it. He cites the contradiction that while there are currently 100 companies engaged in designing teaching machines only a mere dozen or so programs have as yet been fully tested and made available. In the teaching machine of the future it is inevitable that such machines will find their rightful place with television, films, tape recorders and early cue new projection devices.

It cannot be said too often, however that behind even the most successful machine for teaching there must be the capable, resourceful, the stimulating teacher. No real teaching can even make a start until a pupil catches fire, until an electric spark transmitted by an instructor starts a chain reaction which even the wisest teacher cannot completely foresee. That is what must have happened when Mark Hopkins at one end of that famous log faced James Abram Garfield at the other.

Opera Rigged With Claquers In Audience

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A friend who returned from his first trip to Europe this summer remarked to me that he was surprised to find that an opera was attended, in Italy, with claquers in the audience.

"The house was papered with them," he said, "and they set up a racket of cheers and applause every time the tenor sneezed his throat. I didn't know that the claque was still a going concern."

As a professional fraternity, the claque has never played a role of a rule in American entertainment as in Europe — nevertheless it is obvious that the only place we bother to organize claques, like the highly successful one that opposed Mussolini's oration in Philadelphia in 1940.

The idea of a claque was born, but revived, in France more than a century ago, when M. Sauton founded the Claque Paris in 1820 to "ensure the success of every dramatic musical piece." He was — although the public didn't know it — reviving the old Roman institution of hiring Laudicinoti at all initial performance. The Laudicinoti were professional praisers.

Originally these men were slaves who were employed to applaud the occasional pieces written by Roman rulers. With literary pretensions of their own, they became so popular it was soon needed by poets and dramatists as well.

With true French subtlety and finesse, M. Sauton divided this technique into a fine art. He ordered that claquers attend would send an order to their offices for any number of claquers desired, ranging in price as 500, each of whom was paid a few cents apiece. The organization of vin ordinaire—in much the same ways that Skid Row bums are picked up in the early days, given a dollar and a shot of vino and packed off to the voting booths.

The claquers were rigidly divided into five classes, each of which according to their roles and talents. They would be known as chefs de claque, rieurs, who laughed at the puns and jokes; the pleureurs, chiefly women, who wept and handkerchiefs to their eyes during the moving parts; bisseurs, whose job was to keep the audience in good humor; and bisseurs, whose main duty was to shout "Bis! Bis!" for many encores.

Over 100 years ago, Paris was laughing at the story of the famous Russian basso, who was hooted off the stage on his first night and for the despair of his voice. He ordered 300 claquers for his first performance, and he was indeed wonderful, his final notes exceeding in every possible detail. As he bowed, the applause was deafening — but as it subsided, the lone voice of a claquer in the gallery shouted "Bravo!" a full second later than the basso's lowest note.

Snow may be flying in the air and frost hovering over the grape-vines but that does not deter a touch of summer during the farm of Mrs. Blakely brought to the office of the Ontario Intelligencer a box of raspberries that had all the characteristics of their summer counterparts. The berries were full size firm and of good quality.

Mrs. Thos. Gilmour of Point Anne brought a cake with several berries of good color and size. She said that several of her bushes were bearing fruit.

The first touch of winter arrived today heralded by the appearance of flakes of snow and the whistle of the wind during the mid-morning. Visitors from the northern parts of the county at the time of writing stated that snow had been falling in that section and that ground was white with the fall.

How to Dine Indian Style

(Government of India Tourist Office)

Dining in an Indian home is not complicated but requires experience for Westerners. Unlike Indian hotels and restaurants, where meals are eaten from tables, the meal is served on the floor. Every guest will have his own plate and will receive your food in a thali—a round, shallow tray made of silver, brass or steel—and you will be expected to eat with your fingers. In a number of houses you will sit on the floor on a heavy low wooden stool, and the thali will be placed in front of you, also on the floor or the stool. In the middle of the thali will be a small bowl, and all around the edge in little matching bowls will be vegetables, curds, pickles, chutneys and different sorts of sweets. Every guest will receive and you decide for yourself in what order the combination you want to eat the various dishes.

Eating with your fingers is not as difficult to learn, as even liquid food becomes manageable if you mix it with a certain amount of rice. You must, however, obey certain rules. Never use your left hand in eating, even if you are left-handed, as the left hand is considered unclean. Never try to serve yourself. Your host or hostess will do it —your right hand (with which you are eating) will leave the serving spoon sticky, and you can't touch food with your left. If you want to be really perfect in your technique, you shouldn't let the food cover more than the first knuckle of your fingers—people are judged for their table manners by this. Never offer anyone food from your thali, even if it is in one of the little bowls and you haven't touched it.

After a meal it is usual to serve pan, which consists of betel-leaf with a dash of limestone and a piece of cocoanut (juice of a bark) and a stuffing of grated betel nuts, spices and caramon. This acts like a slight astringent, gives a pleasant taste, is never in bad and a clean feeling in the mouth.

New Moral

Fort Williams Times-Journal

There has been a short supply of grapes from Southern Ontario at local stores this fall. We are told the crop is smaller than usual, and also that the available supply has to meet the demand of wine manufacturers.

That seems to teach that we cannot drink our grapes and eat them to.

Psychosomatic Illness Is Not One's Imagination

By Joseph C. Hubner, M.D.

"Dear Sir: Please write about psychosomatic illness. I understand it's mostly imaginary. Is this correct?

"Is there a special treatment, and do people really get well? — Reader."

No, it's not "mostly imaginary."

And yes, they do really get well — especially if the doctor has a good grasp of insight, and the patient has better than average good sense — underneath his or her nerves.

The word psychosomatic means symptoms in the body (the "soma") either related to or produced by the emotions or "psyche."

It's a case of both. He just talks or acts.

Perhaps the simplest example is blushing. People who are chronic "blushers" do so when in public. Their emotions do this. But they don't, when all alone, suddenly blush when their minds are at ease. Or headache — purely somatic, or purely physical headaches are rare, they come when you are tired, or upset, or nervous, or feeling guilty about something, or worried, or what can possibly do all the things you should have done yesterday, or what you'll do when you get to the right thing tomorrow.

But the tough headaches aren't necessarily the ones we have to deal with. Most psychosomatic illnesses are much more complicated. Patient may be solidly convinced that the emotional disturbance causing the trouble. They just don't connect anxiety with the physical symptoms. That's when they go to doctor.

After many years of groping study, we now know emotions when are upset, disturbed or in the "calm" patient keeps "swallowing" his feelings, until he no longer realizes where they come from. To such a patient, only the symptoms are evident.

It is not fair to say that the psychosomatic is "imaginary." The symptoms — the headaches, the upset stomachs, the fatigue, the sleeplessness, the rashes and itches are real. They are not imagined. The result is real. For just one very common example, people with ulcers eat too much, are restored to eat all sorts of foods, and the shops are at this time going through a remarkable transformation. They are getting back to normal. Out of their show windows are going rushed all the spectacular goods that have filled them throughout the past four months of the tourist season. The leading general store of the community has put away its windows all summer and fall to gracious striped blankets, spectacular ladies' wear, tartan skirts, cashmere sweaters, dashing crew neck sweaters for

"Dear Dr. Molner — Recently I read an article which stated that a lot of people think they are upset almost all the time in their bed. Will you please tell me what is the difference between a nervous person and one who is upset? — M. H."

Well, I've got some publicity out of it. Beyond that, I guess you'll have to ask her.

"Dear Mrs. G. W. — No, alcoholic drinks never should be taken when one is taking tranquilizers. The combination usually compounds the effect of both, to the point where it can cause a person to be dull, or to lose coordination and become accident-prone. It can have other severe consequences.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers that relief is within reach. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times, Chicago, Ill., Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25c in coin to cover handling and postage.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARE

In the small towns and villages, all will soon be changed. The shops are at this time going through a remarkable transformation. They are getting back to normal. Out of their show windows are going rushed all the spectacular goods that have filled them throughout the past four months of the tourist season. The leading general store of the community has put away its windows all summer and fall to gracious striped blankets, spectacular ladies' wear, tartan skirts, cashmere sweaters, dashing crew neck sweaters for men, heavy shoes. The shoes are as a real as a broken arm!

For all these examples, I would not that I have chosen the more simple and obvious. Actually, and also, I trust, the likeliest. Often, however, more than one symptom will appear, appearing the victim and for a time misleading the doctor. Symptoms become excessively complicated and subtle.

And yet most people overcome these troubles, sooner or later. This speaks well for the ruggedness of the human race. It also is a sound reason why we should tackle all psychosomatic cases with optimism — once we make up our minds to tackle them with sincerity and sound reasoning.

Part of the sound reasonings, if you'll pardon my blunt plainness, is for the psychosomatic person to admit, to himself, the fundamental fact that he is tense and anxious — and that too much of this can cause the most real of "physical" consequences.

"Dear Dr. Molner — Recently I read an article which stated that a lot of people think they are upset almost all the time in their bed. Will you please tell me what is the difference between a nervous person and one who is upset? — M. H."

Well, I've got some publicity out of it. Beyond that, I guess you'll have to ask her.

"Dear Mrs. G. W. — No, alcoholic drinks never should be taken when one is taking tranquilizers. The combination usually compounds the effect of both, to the point where it can cause a person to be dull, or to lose coordination and become accident-prone. It can have other severe consequences.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers that relief is within reach. TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PROPERTY

At some time or other we all want to own something. But if we hold to our sense of property we can never do this thing of owning something own us.

I was talking with a friend the other evening and we discussed many different people we knew. Each one, he said, or she must, however, obey certain rules in order to use their land in eating, even if you are left-handed, as the left hand is considered unclean. Never try to serve yourself. Your host or hostess will do it —your right hand (with which you are eating) will leave the serving spoon sticky, and you can't touch food with your left. If you want to be really perfect in your technique, you shouldn't let the food cover more than the first knuckle of your fingers—people are judged for their table manners by this. Never offer anyone food from your thali, even if it is in one of the little bowls and you haven't touched it.

After a meal it is usual to serve pan, which consists of betel-leaf with a dash of limestone and a piece of cocoanut (juice of a bark) and a stuffing of grated betel nuts, spices and caramon. This acts like a slight astringent, gives a pleasant taste, is never in bad and a clean feeling in the mouth.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

RE - EXAMINE

Modern science lofully disdains the ancient belief in evil spirits. And of course science is correct as per well justified in such contemptuous disregard. Yet modern world points in precisely the opposite direction to that of the ancient belief.

But we are arrested, as we ponder this seeming paradox, to discover that Jesus seems to have accepted the existence of evil spirits as real beings. Many would account for this by saying that Jesus was a man of his age, and therefore he shared the beliefs of his age, even though some of these beliefs may have been mistaken. Others would say that Jesus well knew that there was no such thing as evil spirits, but used the concept because the people of that day could understand no other.

Nevertheless, as we ponder the problem there appears to be another possibility. Perhaps those who disbelieve evil spirits, do, however, believe in angels, and if angels exist, why not evil spirits? We see little reason why there may not their opposite numbers still "on duty." Furthermore, are we not continually impressed by the realization that there is a distinct personal element in the evil which continually assails us? If we idea without considerable reflection.

Read the New Testament carefully, and think this over as you do.

Soviet Achievements Scare Canada Into Making School Whipping Boy Says Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Recent Soviet scientific and technological achievements have scared many Canadians into making the school a whipping boy.

This opinion is expressed by Dr. Charles E. Phillips, director of graduate studies at the Ontario College of Education, in a study prepared for the 1962 Canadian conference on education in Montreal beat March.

His paper is one of four essays in a booklet entitled the Aims of Education. Other contributors in the 59-page book-let issued Thursday are Dr. J. F. Leddy, vice - president and dean of arts and science, University of Saskatchewan; Dr. Northrop Frye, principal, Victoria College, University of Toronto; and Rev. Marcel de Grandpre of Federation des Colleges Classiques, Montreal.

Dr. Phillips says the aim of education must have living roots in the social environment.

"Scared by achievements in the U.S.S.R., adults in recent years have made the school a whipping boy and urged a more exacting preparatory education to give us more scientists, mathematicians and engineers.

"Few there who have observed how public education operates know that if there were an actual demand in the economy for people to make use of their training—in any field, for example, and not as merchandisers — young people and the schools would respond."

Other points raised by Dr. Phillips include opposition to religious indoctrination as sanction for ethical teaching by public schools and support for spelling reform which "would add almost a year to our time."

Dr. Leddy attaches special importance to the effective use of English as a medium of communication and of the power of ideas.

"We have raised a generation of students who fall into a panic and mumble and stutter if they are required to express themselves before an audience. It is a curious mistake for democracy to make; we need people who not only have something to say but who know how to say it in public."

It was also urgent that a student should be taught to interpret with precision what others have written, and to speak and write clearly what he himself thinks.

Dr. Frye says the danger in the increased number of students who will likely attend university in the future is that they will be processed rather than educated.

Father de Grandpre says civil society "too often ignores the spiritual values in its organizations."

Dr. Phillips suggested spelling reform would add almost a year to our lives in stating that the objective of education, for all is clarity, brevity and coherence.

"Most adults write as they play bridge—as if insensitive to the difficulties of the reader or partner with whom they are communicating," he says. "Formal grammar is of no help to most pupils, although it is an intriguing exercise for a few."

J. Hambleton, Newspaperman, Dies Suddenly

OSHAWA (CP) — Jack Hambleton, 60, newspaper man and author of adventure books for boys, died in hospital Thursday of a heart attack after an emergency stomach operation that apparently had been successful.

He had been unwell for days and came here Wednesday night from Toronto where he had been attending the Progressive Conservative leadership convention.

Among his boys' books was Young Bush Pilot, an adventure novel in which the hero flew over forest fires, saving lives and performing deeds of daring. His most recent book was Fire in the Valley.

Mr. Hambleton was born in Leek, Staffordshire, England, coming to Canada with his parents as a baby. Until 1910 the family lived in Valleyfield, Que. before moving to Sarnia.

He joined the Canadian Press in 1924 in Toronto as a sports reporter later transferring to the editorial department. He joined the Windsor Star in 1926, but returned to CP where he remained until 1934 when he became publicity director for the Ontario travel and publicity bureau.

In later years he wrote an outdoors column for the Toronto Star and the Toronto Globe and Mail. He became a free-lance writer in 1947.

Survivors include his wife in Pickering and a daughter, Mrs. A. Delahaviere (Jessie) of Goderich.

Funeral service will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. from the McEachnie Funeral Home, Pickering.

He sat in the presiding president's chair and went down on the floor to inspect the desks of members.

The half-circle arrangement of seats in both chambers, facing the raised platform and desk of the chairman and the Speaker's podium, was an interesting contrast to the arrangement of the Canadian Houses of Parliament. Visitors to Ottawa see pictures freely of Diefenbaker in the House of Representatives or something not allowed within the Canadian House of Commons is forbidden.

ATTEND RECEPTION

The Diefenbakers' first day in Tokyo was rounded out by a reception given by Canadian Ambassador Fred Bull and a dinner tendered by Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda.

The reception, given in honor of Diefenbaker by the Canadian community in Japan, was a rousing success. Some 300 persons were expected, but 700 turned up. Among them were Mayor Nobumi Tsuchiya of Tokyo and Mayor Fred Alabaster of Vancouver, in the Far East as guests of Canadian Pacific Airlines on a jet flight.

Diefenbaker opened his first day visit to Japan 14 hours behind schedule but set off to a good start when he delighted his airport welcomers by delivering his address carried him on the last hop to the Japanese capital.

By the time he arrived, Diefenbaker had travelled 7,200 miles and been in the air 26 hours. But he showed no signs of fatigue and appeared to be enjoying himself hugely in Tokyo.

In his airport address, Diefenbaker stressed the interdependence of Canada and Japan as Pacific neighbors. He said he looked forward to a strengthening of the bonds which unite the two countries.

The two prime ministers were to confer Saturday and then Diefenbaker was to address a joint meeting of the Canada-Japan Society and the Japan-Canada Trade Council before leaving by air for Hawaii for a weekend in and around the island resort country of Oesku, 500 miles from Tokyo.

Most of Leaves Now Off Trees In District

As late as last Sunday the maples and other trees in the Bloomfield district were a kaleidoscope of color as the unusual autumn woods coloruma reached its peak.

And hundreds of city and district motorists took advantage of the occasion to view the woods coloring.

But today the trees present a different picture with many of the leaves already bare. Indicative of the fact that November will soon be here.

The annual leaf fall commenced in earnest about the middle of the week and was speeded up by Wednesday evenings shower.

Since then city householders have been busy with the lawn rake and piles of leaves are appearing at the curbside and in backyards.

added that he would be concerned over "hot spots"—heavy concentration of fallout in some particular community or region.

Dr. Lester Machta, fallout expert in the U.S. weather office, said he couldn't agree with Eisenhower's additional amount of radiation from nuclear tests, he said, increases the danger of genetic damage to humans.

Machta said that if his job didn't tie him down to Washington his inclination would be to take his wife and two children and move to the southern half of the globe.

"The damage through absorption of strontium-90 may show in future generations, perhaps in bad eyes or other defects. There is no threshold below which humans are not affected genetically by radiation."

The U.S. weather office said the cloud of radioactive debris from Russia's big 30-megaton nuclear explosion likely will reach the west coast of Canada today, then will drift eastward over southern Canada and perhaps the northern United States, reaching the Atlantic coast Tuesday.

In accordance with present wind patterns, it then may move over Greenland to the United Kingdom and the northern part of Europe, swinging east into Russian territory in a week.

S. Midgley's 'Colorado Today, Yesterday' Delights Audience

Colorado, land of towering mountain peaks, and deep dark canyons; sapphire lakes and luscious mountain meats; shimmering waterfalls and golden aspens was presented last evening at the Collegiate to an entranced capacity audience by Ben Midgley, master narrator and photographer. This was the 360th annual in the World Travelogue Series presented by the Rotarain Club of Belleville.

Mr. Midgley, who was introduced by Dr. R. R. Brain, spoke on "Colorado Today and Yesterday", prefaced his narration by saying that whereas movies get old and out of date, travelogues never do; they are always fresh no matter how many years have elapsed. The first showing included Colorado of "yesterday", which had been photographed 15 years ago, and the second portion, the Colorado of today.

Beginning with the Californian "Freeway", of six lanes with its kaleidoscope of automobiles, then decreasing into a four-lane again into a two-lane, and then into a single lane, finally ending up in a footpath which led into a rattlesnake infested area, a scientific lating humor showing the "Lone Wolf" gazing at the 'end of the road!'

DELIGHTFUL STATE

Colorado is a delightful state to visit, especially in the month of September, the 'golden month of the year' with aspen trees lining the roadsides and creeping up the mountains foining in delph blue of lake and distant mountain tops in such pleasing contrast. But July and August are also good months to enjoy its rugged scenery.

Among the many lovely pictures shown were the trout streams, the snow capped mountains, abandoned mines, and log cabins in the centre of the city; artificial lakes and streams and Estes Park where then were no snow signs; Dream Lake and Emerald Lake; the shining of the Holy Cross; the skiting and tobogganing on the world's 1,000 feet high, ripening cherries in clusters on the trees in the valley, and the cavalcade of antigue cars.

The first city-visited was the capital, Denver, the fastest growing city in North America with a population of over 500,000 stands and towering skyscrapers, 1,000 feet above sea level.

BEAUTIFUL SCENERY

The Colorado of today included the scenery, beautiful in detail, of Pike's Peak; the advanced rock in the Garden of the Gods; Colorado Springs where an Air Force Academy is situated; Chian Mountain with its ever changing waterfalls and the gold fields at Triple Creek from which one third of one billion dollars worth of gold has been mined; the cogwheel road and the largest gorge in the world, 1000 feet deep.

Among the thrilling scenes were the Alpine passes, some of the curving roads with swirling red dust plowed up in clouds by the turning back wheels as the sharp curves were negotiated. An event witnessed by many; and the Kayak and Canoe down 18 miles of boiling rapids with the kayak sometimes overturning when hit by a turbulent waiter; skiing on the sloping mountain sides; the three miles of chair-lift dangling over deep gorges; and the Black Canyon, the largest in the wgld.

NARROW GAUGE RAILROAD

A especially interesting picture was that of the little narrow gauge railroad and the six car train winding from Durango to every day, packed with sightseers, to Silver, and the nominal price for the all-day round trip of $5.50 from which the government got 50 cents.

Among the native wild flowers are the wild roses which bloom in June, and the wild columbine, and blue flowers resembling the corn flower.

The main industries are ranching, with thousands of sheep, which eat everything in front of them, the wild flowers included which Mr. Midgley deplored; fishing is also enjoyed but not a regular industry.

CLIFF DWELLERS

Concluding a most educational travelogue was the scene of the former homes of the Cliff Dwellers, and the balcony house. What became of them is still credited to the 20 years of continued drought, forcing them to leave for parts unknown. These were the ancestors of the Pueblo Indians, and made their homes in the steep cliffs of the mountains.

CHARGE PLOT

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — All newspapers gave prominent play Thursday to congressional charges that a military plot against President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina is being hatched. The charges were voiced House and Senate Wednesday night but there were no outward signs of any plot. Frondizi is scheduled to visit Canada next month.

White chrysanthemums adorned the altar and white satin bows designated the guest pews in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, October 14, at 2.00 p.m. for a lovely autumn wedding when Berva Levine Yergens, of Oakville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Yergens, of Saskatchewan, became the bride of James A. MacDonald, of Oakville, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. MacDonald. The Reverend F. E. Smith, assistant rector of the church, officiated.

The church organist, Mr. John Croyden Withers, rendered the wedding music, playing the "Birds of Aristophanes," and accompanying the soloist, Mr. Curt Brinkman, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, who sang, "The Lord's Prayer," and "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her white peau de sole bridal gown with fitted bodice having a rounded neckline with white lace applique. The floor-length skirt was accented with a bustle back cascading into a chapel train. With the three-quarter sleeves she wore short white gloves. Her headdress was a circle of tiny roses centred by a large rose at the back misted by an elbow length cascade of illusion tulle. She carried a cascade of white gladioli and ivy.

Mrs. Colleen Henderson, of Edmonton, Alberta, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, gowned in street-length of gold peau de sole, featuring a rounded neckline and bouffant skirt. Her headdress was a flat gold band with wisps of gold tulle. Gold shoes and a cascade of bronze 'mums completed her costume.

Mr. John Baker, of Belleville, was groomsman, while Mr. Robert Moore, of Peterborough, and Mr. George Stockfish, of Oakville, were ushers.

The reception was held in Christ Church parish hall, where the bridal table was daintily appointed with white linen damask, with three-tier wedding cake topped by white wedding bells, pink roses and lily-of-the-valley, and misted about the base with silk tulle and scattered pink rosebuds. Silver candelabra with tall white candles completed the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received in a sheath of deep turquoise, with three-quarter length sleeves, beige accessories, and corsage of white carnations.

Assisting in the receiving line was the mother of the bridegroom, wearing a sheath gown in brown lace over beige with beige cummerbund, beige accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to New England States and Quebec, the bride wore a brown taupe suit with matching accessories, fuschia feather hat, and corsage of Pine Happiness roses.

Guests attending were from Oshawa, Saskatchewan; Edmonton, Alberta; Cleveland, Ohio; Toronto; Oakville; Burlington; Peterborough; Picton.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Curt Brinkman; also at a miscellaneous shower given by the nursing staff of Oakville Trafalgar Memorial Hospital, with Mrs. Raymond Beaudoin, as hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald will reside at Oakville, Ontario.

HOWARD — WATSON

Large baskets of pastel-tinted gladioli and dahlias interspersed with fern and variegated chrysanthemums formed a lovely background in Colling Hill United Church, Belleville, for a recent pretty wedding when Marilyn Joanne Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Watson, of Belleville, became the bride of Frank Hughes Howard, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howard, Sr. The Rev. Roy E. Vezey, pastor of the church, officiated.

The wedding music was rendered by the organist, Miss Carolyn Belcourt, who rendered, "O Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her cream satin brocade bridal gown in rose scroll design, featuring a tiny peplum, portrait neckline, and short sleeves. The full street-length skirt fell gracefully. She wore a pillbox head pearl hat with tiny mist veil, white accessories, and carried a white Bible crested by a single large rose corded and fern, with cascading ribbon ties. A triple strand of pearls, the gift of her bridegroom and satin brocade slippers, completed her ensemble.

Her only attendant was her younger sister, Mrs. Robert O'Hara, of Belleville, who wore a gown of lilac paper taffeta with full sweeping skirt in accordion and molded bodice with fitted midriff and deep Sabrina collar. Her tiny circlet hat was also in lilac taffeta with deeper shade ribbon and veiling. The accessories were of white and deep lilac and she carried a nosegay of mauve and white mums and fern tied with white streamers.

Mr. Clayton Drullard, of Belleville, was groomsman, while Mr. Daniel Howard, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Robert O'Hara, brother-in-law of the bride, both of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception and luncheon, at high noon, was held at Club Isabella, Belleville, where the bride's table was appointed with white cloth and centred by a three-tier silverplate basket filled with mauve and white mums and fern tied with white streamers.

Mrs. Douglas Watson, mother of the bride, received, attired in a floor-length, satin sheath gown and blue chenille with matching hat and white accessories and corsage of brown mums. Mrs. Frank Howard, mother of the bridegroom, was also gowned in brown crepe and fitted with matching trim, beige hat with feather trim, black and white accessories and corsage of white and bronze mums.

For the honeymoon to Toronto and points west, the bride wore a beige ensemble with brown and blue accessories and top coat in beige shade, with corsage of orchids and fern.

Guests were present from Belleville; Carleton Place and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard are residing at 249 Front Street, Apartment 3, Belleville.

WMS Members Meet at Cherry Valley for 35th Annual Rally

Nearly 150 women of Prince Edward Missionary Society members met at Cherry Valley United Church on Monday for their last annual rally as a WMS. The theme, "Churches for a New Time"; theme hymn, "Servants of God"; and the theme prayer, "That All May Be One. One in Purpose, One in Witness, One in Love, and One in Fellowship", all seem to point the way the work now was man's organization. "The United Church Women", Mrs. Ross Ward was chairman and Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg, assistant secretary and press reporter.

South Bay group presented the morning worship service. She took charge of Mrs. W. Bowerman, Mrs. Don Welbank, Mrs. K. Sherman, Mrs. Edwin Fraser, welcomed all on behalf of Cherry Valley. Mrs. George Carlisle of Shannonville, president of Belleville Presbyterial introduced the various Presbyterial officers present and called on Mrs. Frank Davidson of Belleville, to bring greetings from the Women's Association of Belleville Presbytery.

Mrs. R. G. Coulter and Mrs. H. M. Davis presented the financial statistics and urged all groups to send in their allocation and any surplus by the end of the year to facilitate reaching the allocation and also to have none over the Gifts.

Mrs. Davis spoke of her visit to Keswick, a spiritual retreat for women. She said there would be no problem in launching the new organization if it is made up of truly dedicated women. There's only one direction for them to go and that is forward. "Where our hearts are, so shall our stewardship efforts be."

MINISTERS NEEDED

Miss Hettie Unger, candidate secretary, pointed out the great need for ministers and 400 are needed each year to face the growth of the church. She stated that the forefathers sacrificed to send their children into the ministry and in turn the ministers and missionaries sacrificed to carry on their work. It is not quite so today and she urged all to encourage young people to seek careers in the church.

Mrs. N. McKibbon, Christian citizenship secretary, asked that all would think of Christian citizenship as "togetherness". To remember the importance of home, to the church, school, community and the world; the importance of patience with the quality of people; and the importance of people in committees and in the spheres in which each lives.

Mrs. P. Jones, Christian Stewardship, the new Mission Study to be used now and in the next year, introduced the study on church organizations. The theme will be for the total mission of the church.

Mrs. Garnet May told of the supply work being carried on. She said that supplies help to express the warmth and concern for others".

PERIODICALS

Mrs. Harry Pierson reported on the periodicals and gave an interesting report of the Keswick Conference which she had attended. She said it was a most inspiring experience of prayer and study. She told of some of the studies in which one leader spoke of the cross as where the horizontal met the vertical meet. She said "the cross should be brought down into the market-place again, as that is where the church (made up of the people) is. Jesus came to bind a church not to disorder. The church is one, and we need a closer fellowship." Christ's mission is to God".

Mrs. Roy Hobson and Miss Edith Burley conducted a lovely memorial service in memory of deceased WMS members.

After a bountiful luncheon, prepared by the ladies of Cherry Valley, the afternoon session began with the worship service conducted by Bloomfield Evening Auxiliary. Mrs. Harold Thompson sang a beautiful solo entitled "My Task", assisted at the piano by Mrs. Harold Thomas. Mrs. Ruth Weber, Mrs. Gordon Rose and Mrs. S. Shreve brought the service using the theme of the disciples' call to service as the theme.

Dr. George Carlisle introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Rosella Hooton, B.A., recently returned from Japan and present residing in Ottawa. Miss Hooton was born at Mount Pleasant when her father was a minister on that circuit. She has been teaching in Japan on Trinidad and back to Japan until her retirement. She told of many experiences in her work, of her thankfulness for having been privileged in knowing and working with the Japanese in the United Church of Japan which was originally established nearly 100 years ago. Our missionaries are now there on request of their church to assist them in their work. She said that they are assisting in sending missionaries out from their own church now.

Once young people she taught are now in Chicago on scholarship and will go back to Japan to help in their own church.

Mrs. Olive Fraser, assisted at the piano by Mr. B. Fred Kotchapaw sang the lovely solo, "How Great Thou Art".

Mrs. B. Kotchapaw, chairman of the Courtesy Committee thanked the speaker and all who had made the day so successful and inspiring.

Never Skip Nor Skimp on Noonday Meal

TORONTO — Far too many people skip or skimp on their noonday meal. For everyone — children, teenagers, adults — lunch is a key meal in every day.

So says Dr. Elizabeth Chant Robertson, research associate in the Hospital for Sick Children. Dr. Robertson, noted writer on child nutrition problems, adds: "We can eat little, study or work all the evening and still not be hungry without a well-balanced noon meal," says Dr. Robertson.

"Think mid-day 'refueling' is especially important for active, growing children. I have seen too many start off for school — and later, poor, pinched faces — without breakfast, or just a cup of coffee to choose a snack at the corner store. Or, if there is a cafeteria in the school, they may choose only sweets. Such children are apt to be tired by noon and lose their appetite for lunch. Skipping or skimping on lunch does not help guarantee a nourishing dinner, either.

"Milk is valuable for everyone, at any time of day, in soups, casseroles or desserts. Skim milk is best for adults and weight watchers.

"Then choose a good source of protein — meat, fish, poultry, eggs or cheese, in sandwich filling or in salad — and be teamed with vegetable or fruit, both best if raw.

"To round out the four-square lunch, include whole grain or enriched bread or rolls, to hold sandwich fillings or accompany salad or casserole. Since noon time brings a lag in energy as well as efficiency, these hearty food supply welcome energy calories along with cereal proteins, B vitamins and iron.

Considering the many centers—a good lunch is for you, too. Cut down on all the foods you eat — but don't cut out any of the four important groups.

Fruit or vegetable salad, with vinegar or boiled dressing, can be paired with low-fat animal protein, lean meat, chicken, fish, cottage or skim milk cheese. These, with a bran muffin or thin slice of enriched bread and a glass of skim milk, will keep you on top of your work, and in tune with your ideal weight.

Women's Activities

MOIRA W. A.

MOIRA — Mrs. Charles Wood was hostess to the ladies of Moira W.A. with 30 members and two visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Wesley Farrel opened the meeting in the usual manner with prayer by Mr. Dyson. Mrs. Miller Vanderwater read the Scripture lesson from Matthew and commentary was given by Mrs. Ross Ketcheson. Correspondence was read by Mrs. Angus Mumby to remind members that the tea will be held at Queensboro, October 25. An invitation to a bazaar at White Lake on November 1 was read.

Program convener was Mrs. Vanderwater and Mrs. E. Thompson gave a reading by Mrs. Donald Melnroy, "His Grace is Forgiven" and a reading by Mrs. J. Vanderwater, "Mary." Music was rendered by Mrs. Gordon Lapum, "He Giveth Again," and a reading by Mrs. Clayton Vanderwater, "Leave it Tomorrow."

Topic was given by Mrs. K. Thompson, "Forgiveness or Saving Grace" and a duet by Mrs. Angus Mumby and Mrs. Donald Mumby, "This World is Not My Home."

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

'Politics of Education' Topic Discussed at Women's S.G.

The Women's Study Guild met at the home of Mrs. G. H. Trill. The book under review was "Politics of Education," by Dr. Frank MacKinnon, which had been summarized at the previous meeting.

The summarized chapters were analyzed and discussed with particular reference to the Ontario Educational system. Even where the system advocated by Dr. MacKinnon were found to be already in operation at High School level, some of his criticisms of primary education were still justified. One in particular, that languages should be started earlier, was unanimously endorsed but it was deplored that even where this has been decided upon as policy by a Board, the lack of competent teachers prevents the implementation of such policy.

The second of Dr. MacKinnon's ideas to be found practical was the upgrading of the public school work, in order to awaken the child's interest in subjects for which he is ready in these years, and for which, too often he has lost his zest by the time they are being presented. By intensifying the public school courses it was also felt the child would have to study more, and thus be better prepared for the amount of study necessary at higher levels; as under the present set up some children reach grades 9 and 10 without having had to do any study.

A third point of the book, the down-grading of work to meet the "average" was also found justified, and deplored, but no agreement as to a solution was reached, although it was discussed from all angles.

The devotional in charge of Mrs. J. R. McLeod, was a most fitting prelude to the discussion. Based on Philippians 4: 4-8, it stressed vision as man's guiding star through the ages. All progress comes from vision, plus determination and one must pray that as parent and teacher that she may realize his or her responsibility.

A lovely duet was rendered by Mrs. Angus Mumby and Mrs. David Mumby, after which a piano solo was contributed by Miss Bates.

The guest speaker, Mr. Bittle of the Forestry Branch at Tweed was introduced by Mr. Ross Ketcheson, who gave a most interesting talk on "Wild Life of the Forest". Mr. Fred Naftel thanked the speaker for his most interesting talk after which the meeting closed.

Wife of Calgary's Mayor Would Rather Be Home, Feels Unhappy at Teas

By DENNIS ORCHARD

CALGARY (CP) — For 25 years Harry and Muriel Hays were up at dawn each day, pitching into farm work and the cattle business together.

They had a 700-acre farm on Calgary's outskirts and a 5,000-acre ranch 40 miles away. Harry became one of North America's best cattle auctioneers and traveled thousands of miles each year, often with his wife.

No wonder then that things changed in the Hays household when Harry ran successfully for mayor of Calgary in 1959.

The wealthy hard - working man whose hobby was his work and whose work was around home thrust his energy into new and unaccustomed public duties.

Muriel Hays admits that if she let her selfish side make the decision she just couldn't approve of her husband being at city hall.

"But it was Harry's decision," she said in the line. And she has resigned herself to a second two - year term following his victory in civic elections Oct. 18.

LIKES SIMPLE LIFE

A big, jovial brunette, disarmingly frank and frankly homespun, Mrs. Hays is friendly, prefers the simpler things and feels part a little uncomfortable at banquets, teas and club meetings.

"Im not much of a club woman. I've belonged to a few since Harry's been mayor, but I'm not active. Mind you, the things I have to do as mayor's wife are not unpleasant.

"No, speaking — I'm not a speaker and I just don't attempt it — but a little tea-pouring."

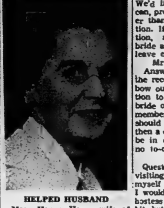
At home there is plenty of work to do, although they employ a housekeeper. For more than 30 years after their marriage in 1934, Harry and Muriel Hays worked together in a real partnership building Hays Farms Limited. Only five or six years ago did Mrs. Hayes hand over office duties to a full-time secretary.

A few years ago they sold all but 31 acres of their farm, keeping the modest 12 - room frame home they still occupy. The homestead now is surrounded by Hayshore, a subdivision that took its name from the family, and by the end of the year it will sit eight miles within the city limits.

SOLD FOR RANCH

They still find time to hop in the car most Friday nights and head southwest to their ranch near High River where they spend a peaceful Saturday on horseback.

Mrs. Hays readily admits to ill—the same age as her husband—and she has spent all her life in Calgary. She was the daughter of locomotive engineer Ernest Bigland and can't remember when she didn't know Harry Hays.



Before their marriage she worked as a comptometer operator for several firms and spent six years selling furniture and appliances in a Calgary shop.

When son Dan, now 32 and a law student at the University of Alberta, was in high school, Mrs. Hays was able to accompany her husband wherever his purebred Holsteins and his auctioneering ability were in demand.

When not travelling, the farm routine had Mr. Hays up at 5 a.m., his wife an hour or so later. They often retired by 9 p.m. These days things start for the mayor at 8 a.m. He's at his office less than an hour later and some days he isn't back until 9 or 10 p.m.

Mrs. Hays hasn't been able to find time for all the informal entertaining characteristic of pre-mayoralty days and it worries her a little.

"I think you neglect your friends a little. With so many things to do, you don't spend quite so much time with them. I think they understand."

HELPED HUSBAND

Mrs. Harry Hays, wife of Calgary's mayor, was an active partner in her husband's cattle farming business from the time of her marriage in 1934 until she handed over office duties to a secretary six years ago. The Hayses have sold most of their farm holdings but still live in their modest 12-room farm home now located in a modern subdivision. (CP Photo).

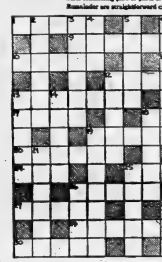
MAIL CALL

Question: The wedding of a close friend happens to fall on the same day that my husband's company has its annual party for long-time employees. We'd like to attend both, and can, providing we stay no longer than an hour at the reception. If we go to the reception, must we explain to the bride and groom that we must leave early and why?

Mrs. J. W., Newark, N.J.

Answer: If you have to leave the reception early, it's best to bow out without calling attention to your departure. If the bride or groom or some other member of the wedding party should notice your leaving, then a quick explanation would be in order. Otherwise, make no to-do about it.



Question — When we were visiting friends recently, I found myself suddenly feeling chilled. I would like to have asked my hostess to turn up the heat a bit, but I was afraid she might think I was critical of her hospitality. What's proper in such a case. — M. J. C., Orange, New Jersey

Answer — You could have mentioned quietly, that you felt chilly. Then she would have given the hostess a cue to check the thermostat or offer you a sweat. Or perhaps, with a little attention located in a modern subdivision. (CP Photo).

As conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I have been saving your recipes for the last ten years, and I couldn't get along without them, but now I have a problem. Our church group wants to make up some Christmas puddings to sell at our bazaar November 16th and we wondered if you could give us a recipe, also quantities for about 25 or 50 pounds to be mixed at one time. We plan on buying all the ingredients at one time and mixing them in our church kitchen to mix them, and each one of us take so many home to cook. I do hope you can help us out, you would be surprised how often you name comes up when we talk about cooking — Mrs. W. M.

ANSWER:

You will have to have a scale on hand to weigh these ingredients but with a group such as yours I do not think this will be a problem.

CHRISTMAS PUDDING (25 pounds):

2 lbs flour, 1½ tablespoons baking soda, 1 oz. cinnamon, 1 oz. allspice, 1½ tablespoons salt, 2 lbs. brown sugar, 6 lbs raisins, 3 lbs. beef, ground or finely chopped, 2½ lbs. bread crumbs, 1½ lbs. almonds, blanched, chopped, 1½ pounds, mixed peel, chopped, 2 cups (approx. 12), eggs, 1½ lbs. apples, pared and chopped, 1 lb. oranges, unpeeled, quartered and ground, 8 oz. lemons, unpeeled, quartered and ground, 3 cups fruit juices (pineapple or apple), 1½ cups molasses.

Sift together flour, soda, spices and salt. Add brown sugar, raisins, suet, bread-crumbs, almonds and peel. Beat eggs. Add apples, oranges, lemons, fruit juice and molasses. Add to dry ingredients. Mix well. Half fill greased tins. Cover lightly with wax paper. Steam approximately 4 hours. Cool. Remove puddings from containers. Wrap in wax paper and store in a cool place. 3 to 4 weeks. When required for use, replace in containers, cover lightly with wax paper and steam until thoroughly heated (1 to 1½ hours)

QUESTION:

... Could you give me instructions for pie dough to make 25 to 30 pies at once? — Mrs. A. L.

ANSWER:

The following amounts are for 17 nine-inch double crust pies If you think you can manage a larger amount of dough in one batch double the following to make 34 nine-inch double crust pies.

SHORT PASTRY (for 17 9" double crust pies):

7 lbs. 8 oz. pastry flour unsifted, 4½ oz. salt, 4 lbs. 8 oz. fat, 6 oz. sugar, 4½ cups milk or water (cold).

Sift flour and salt. Work in fat, using pastry cutter or fingertips until flour and fat are of fine crumb consistency. (If finger tips are used, have hands cold and mix quickly). Make a well in centre of mixture. Dissolve sugar in liquid. Pour liquid into well. Mix lightly to moisten flour and fat. Do not over-mix. Scale off desired weights (7 oz. bottom crust, 6 oz. top crust). Roll to ⅛" thickness on lightly floured board.

So-Ed Club Gives Report Of Activities

The second week of the fall session of the Y.M.C.A. So-Ed Club has ended with an excellent turnout.

The Beauty and Fashion course for girls has been quite successful with a public relations course presented by the Bell Telephone Company this past week.

Mr. Demeza from O.S.D. spoke about his connection and how to earn for the School for the Deaf and the place in the community here in Belleville.

The dancing class is well attended and the discussion group led by Mr. R. L. Perkin of Picton, on technical education was boisterously discussed by a small group of club members.

There are still openings to go in the Fall Session and all young adults are welcome to come and join us any Wednesday evening 8-12 p.m.

Successful Living

The Girl He Left Behind

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I'm going steady with a boy who went with another girl for a year. Then he broke off with her. Then we met and liked each other at first sight. Ma and Dad really like him too.

Now the other girl follows him around and knows every place we go. She phones his mother. She tells people I am going with him to hurt her.

Sometimes I think he still likes her but he gets mad if I mention her name One night I asked him to go jacks, with her and forget me but grabbed me and said, "I want you, not her!"

Is he going with me to hurt her? Should I break off with him and see if he goes back with her!—CONFUSED.

DEAR CONFUSED:—How confused can you get?

For heaven's sake stop helping her cause by discussing her with him. Can't a boy make up his own mind?

If you want him, keep him. Make it fun for him to be with you. He likes you for yourself so be yourself. If you were to break off for any such harebrained cause, it would serve you right if he stayed away.

DEAR DORIS:—I don't mean to criticize your answers, but twice recently you have had requests for information concerning drinking problems in the home.

May I suggest the Al-Anon Family Group? Their whereabouts can be obtained through A.A. groups. They will supply literature which helps those who are worried about loved ones who are alcoholics. Some people are afraid to write this group for help. I got help.—M. M.

DEAR M. M.:—Thank you. Not only can you get reading matter from the Al-Anons; they hold regular luncheons with other Al-Anons (wives or relatives of alcoholics) and share ideas.

The lift they give can save a marriage—by morale building and education about this heart-and-home-breaking disease.

(You can have help too. Write to Doris about what's troubling you, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. R. Z. — She won't let her little boy play with mine.

Mrs. A. F. — It would be too upsetting and difficult for my son.

Mrs. R. Z. — What do you think of people who are in the forefront of every good cause and on every committee for human betterment. Yet, when you ask them to do one specific kind act for one specific human being, they run a mile in the opposite direction.

We're in a new community. Our son has cerebral palsy and attends a special school. He's 8 years old and his I. Q. is above average. The family next door has a 7-year-old boy and a finished playroom in the basement which would be such fun for Raymond on rainy days, after school. But when I asked whether Raymond could play with her son, my neighbor, Mrs. F. recoiled. "You understand," she said.

Well, I don't! A child is a child no matter how he looks.

Mrs. A. F. — Mrs. Z. seems to be a fine person and, no doubt, her poor little boy has some wonderful qualities. But she doesn't seem to understand anyone else's position but her own. Perhaps she's too close to her problem to see it from my eyes.

Her son would be better off playing with children who have the same handicap. Our Donald brings home three or four friends every day and, believe me, they play rough. If I were home more, I'd be able to stay down in the rumpus room and show them ways to include a disabled child in their games. But I'm in the middle of every big community job and I can't give this problem my time.

To leave Don alone to figure out how to play with Raymond is unthinkable.

The Council In addition to her responsibility to her own child and to the community, Mrs. A. F. has a duty toward the neighbor who brings a human problem to her door. She cannot duck the moment of showdown, when fine words and noble protestations must be acted out.

But Mrs. R. Z. must realize that a warm-up period (colleges call it "orientation") is required, and it must be initiated by the two mothers. Friendship between the boys won't follow the natural course, which begins with communion of interests and activities. What's fun for handicapped Raymond may be Don-ald's idea of torture — such as a slow game of dominoes.

So let's throw the first ball in the good-neighbor game to Mrs. F.'s. Let's have her call upon Mrs. F.' quietly and "explain" Raymond's condition — his weaknesses and, above all, his strengths, capabilities and talents. It isn't fair to expect Mrs. F. to know the potentialities that lie beneath the child's puzzling "exterior."

Then she must accept Mrs. F.'s valid demurrer that Raymond's presence would prevent her son from playing his usual rough games with his friends, favor.

Mother's Helper

LARGE LEAVES make pretty place cards for your Hallowe'en party. Fry leaves have a good sturdy texture for this purpose, but almost any kind can be used. Write names on them with an indelible marker or a fine brush dipped in white ink.

Far from promoting friendship between the two boys, a sudden confrontation might lead to feelings of resentment and frustration. It might be better to start with a nice hello, while the mothers chat nearby in either home over a cup of tea. For even though Mrs. F. "understands" the desirability of having her Donald play with Raymond, there remains the issue of getting her 7-year-old to understand too.

And here the ball slides to Mrs. F. in "social work." like charity, begins at home. First she reminds her son of his own many blessings and rouses the juice of compassion within him. Then she whets his eagerness to meet a man with some common interests, but also with special hard-won skills. And once a week she cuts down on one "outside" job to foster this valuable inside one.

In time the Donald-Raymond play sessions will be seen as a fair exchange — not a one-way

Contact Club Plans Pot Luck Supper

The past two Monday evenings have found Contact Club members busy making delightful items for their Christmas Arcade which will take place the latter part of November. Gay aprons, sweet angels, frilly washcloths, stuffed toys, doll clothes, and many other interesting things were being made produced. By all appearances, the customers who attend the bazaar and "Coffee Party" will certainly have a wide choice of Christmas gifts, wrappings and decorations from which to choose.

On October 16, the hostesses were Goldie Miller, Irene Weatherstone, and Dorothy Kelly. Last Monday the lunch was served by Barbara Janes, Dorothy Sinclair, and Doris Durrand.

Next week the club will hold a "Husband and Wife" pot-luck supper.

Sunday School Lesson

Denominationalism

By ROY L. SMITH

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, Oct. 29: "The Church And Christian Unity," I Corinthians 12:1-30.

There are those, for example, who sit unmoved through a liturgical service, no matter how stately the ritual may be, or how ancient and approved the litany. And there are those others whose very souls are offended by the extemporaneous quality which is conspicuous in a service that is at the other end of the spectrum. To require the two kinds of people to worship in the same service and according to the same pattern would not be in the best interests of true spirituality.

Then there are those who believe that one doctrine is of such importance that it takes precedence over all others, and there are others who subscribe to another doctrine as being of greater import. The cause of righteousness is, obviously, best served by allowing those who believe alike to worship together.

There is a crying need in the average community for a certain polite understanding of one another, in religious matters. The cause of Christ is in need of a representation that is dignified, and it also needs a witness that is characterized by spontaneity. The Shugrits and the Holy Rollers both have a function in perform, and there is no reason why they should not respect one another while they are rendering the service they are capable of performing.

Just as each organ of the body depends, in some measure, upon every other organ, so each denomination to some degree depends upon every other. When any church in any town is compelled to surrender its witness all the churches suffer in some degree.

DEPENDING UPON MISSIONS

Just at this juncture in world affairs, it is becoming increasingly evident that the churches founded in the foreign lands by the missionaries are rendering an enormous service to the churches that sent the missionaries out to the fields.

As the stories come back from the Congo, it becomes increasingly interesting to notice how the mission churches, schools, worth their weight in gold to the orderly governments that have been endeavoring to control the disorderly elements.

Some of the most sobering influences in the lands that have fallen into chaos, have been the individuals and groups who have been trained in orderliness by the Christian forces. The Christian missionary institutions have been trained in orderliness by the Christian forces. The Christian missionary institutions have demonstrated their worth again and again. No one can possibly estimate what the circumstances of this world might be at this moment if it had not been for the Christian missionary movement of the last 50 years. Nor can anyone guess what allies we might have had in the under-developed world if we had sent three times as many missionaries abroad as we did, 25 years ago.

The Christian democracies were never as badly in need of Christian allies around the world, as they are today. We are just beginning to learn that we cannot survive if we undertake to live unto and by ourselves.

Difficulty of Retaining French Language Is Acute On Prince Edward Island

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Only half of some 16,000 Acadians on Prince Edward Island can speak French.

The difficulty of retaining the French language is acute for those members of the French-speaking minority group who live in Canada's smallest province, but their leaders don't consider the problem insurmountable.

J. Edmond Arsenault, general secretary of the St. Thomas Aquinas Society, is even optimistic. He thinks the French language is bound to survive in those parts of the island where Acadians have their own parishes and school boards.

Surrounded by an Anglo-Saxon population of more than 85,000, the Acadians have to be constantly on the alert to maintain their native tongue.

English is almost everywhere in the province and there is no French - language newspaper, radio or television station.

In the early 1900s, there was a French - language weekly newspaper, Christeneol L'Impartial, it disappeared after 22 years.

Added to the lack of French-language news is the scarcity of French - speaking Acadian priests, Mr. Arsenault said in an interview.

Although the Acadians comprise more than one-third of Prince Edward Island's Roman Catholic population, only 11 of the province's 100 priests are French-speaking.

Mr. Arsenault said mixed marriages contribute heavily to the Acadians' losses. Next in importance was a shortage of Acadian teachers.

In general, the teaching profession in Prince Edward Island doesn't seem to attract many of the province's young people. Male teachers are in particularly short supply.

The shortage seems to boil down to a matter of salary. A male teacher who would make $6,500 annually in Montreal could count on only $3,500 here for the same qualifications and experience.

There are only about 100 men in the teaching body of 950, and among the women, some 400 have returned to teaching after marrying.

Acadians feel that the island's normal school in Charlottetown should be training Acadian teachers in their own language.

At present, the provincial government spends Acadian teacher candidates who have completed Grade XII to normal schools in Quebec. The Quebec diploma is recognized as the equivalent to those issued by the Charlottetown normal school.

Despite the contentious points between them, there is no overt hostility between the French minority and the provincial government.

The Acadians also enjoy excellent relations with their English-speaking neighbors.

The 1,500 members of their St. Thomas Aquinas Society concentrate on bursaries and loans to Acadian students and to school libraries.

Mr. Arsenault thinks Quebec-style nationalism has no place in problems of the island's Acadians.

"They don't even know us," he says.

"But on the other hand, we Acadians should learn to know them better and actively seek their support."

Teen-Age Canada

World Affairs in UN Pamphlet Interprets News

By JACK HUTTON

A visiting teacher walked into a Grade 7 classroom the other day—and took a quick second look at copies of World Review lining the rooms' blackboards.

"Didn't you know," he asked the teacher in hushed tones, "that World Review is meant for kids far older than this?"

The truth, as he quickly found out, is that the four-page pamphlet is being read each month by a teen-age audience which amazes the adult writers.

This week I decided to look behind the scenes at the little pamphlet which bravely tries to interpret for high school students world events which adults apparently can't understand.

Probably every high school student in Canada has at one time or another read the pamphlet, prepared by the United Nations Association in Canada. It tackles a different world topic each month.

What is surprising officials of the UN Association, I found, is that teen-agers seem to be reading about world affairs at a much earlier age than most people suspect.

And World Review, published in 70,000 copies each month, makes no attempt to "write down" to its audience. One of its most successful pamphlets was written by Lester Pearson, Liberal leader.

Willson Woodside, national director of the UN Association for Canada, says: "We do avoid writers who are unable to say what they mean in clear language. But we never write down on any topic."

Looking back over the issues which have gone into a countless number of classrooms is like taking a quick trip through recent history. Issue No. 1, written in September, 1950—was based on the Korean War.

The high school audience across Canada received in quick succession issues devoted to Canada and Southeast Asia, UNICEF, the power of the veto in the UN and the defence of Europe.

"Some of our issues have certainly been redhot ones," admitted Mr. Woodside. "But we've had few complaints. If there are going to be any changes, they will simply be to make the pamphlet easier to use in the classroom."

High schools across Canada can look forward to future issues on the Canadian Overseas Volunteers and the controversy over allowing Red China into the UN and Canada's role in the UN. None of them will be "watered-down" in the slightest.

Supporting the pamphlet are Departments of Education in Ontario, British Columbia, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick—and an untold number of schools who take it on an individual basis.

There may have been a time when teen-agers didn't care about what was happening elsewhere in the world. But this week I decided we can look forward to the most generation coming up with some new answers for old problems.

Just remember World Review and its brave attempts to interpret a changing world for teen-agers when one high school model UN General Assemblies get underway.

THIS ONE FOLLOWS

Heard the story the other day about a girl applying to an exclusive American women's college. She figured the way through when her parents had to answer the questions "Is your daughter a leader or a follower?"

Back came the answer: "One of the reasons we are accepting your daughter for admittance to Vassar is that it appears we are going to have 529 leaders this year. It might be nice to have one follower."

TEENS IN POLITICS

Now that the youth march on Ottawa protesting the spread of nuclear arms is over, I find it interesting looking at the response I got from a column on students protesting nuclear arms.

The column attracted quite a few letters—but most of them were from adults either blasting teen-agers for discussing the subject or praising them to the skies for doing so.

Typical of those praising the student movement (which is still growing across Canada) was Mrs. J. Walsh who said:

"More power to the kids. It's their future we've been tossing around for quite a while and I hope they make some of the adults ashamed of being a nation of sheep!"

Hasty Pees Want Recruits For Special Training Course To Open on November 6th

The Hasty Pees are swinging into action again. Men are required for a new — job that of preparing themselves to go into action, not on foreign soil, such as Europe where the regiment won so many battle honors, but right here in Canada in the event of a nuclear attack.

In line with the government's program of having 100,000 men trained in National Survival the local regiment will be training some 200 men in both its Belleville and Picton armouries over a six-week period commencing November 6th.

Recruits are needed immediately for this special Militia course which will be scheduled for six five-day weeks. This Saturday some 75 varity applicants will be taking their medicals, previous documentation having already been accomplished. A battery of local medical doctors will be giving the regiment a hand on this task and any male between the ages of 18 and 50 years who would like to apply will be welcomed any time on Saturday at the local armouries.

Those unable to attend Saturday may find out the full details of the course on any weekday between 9.00 a.m. and 5.00 p.m. or on the regiment's regular parade nights, Monday and Thursday, recruiting officer Lt. Carl Hubel advises.

$173 MONTHLY

Successful recruits will be issued with uniforms and the necessary equipment and will receive $173 a month with pay parades weekly. It is expected that the majority of local inductees will co-operate by allowing leave of absence for any struct employees wishing to take the course and a number have already indicated their willingness to make up the difference between the recruits course pay and his regular pay.

The course will cover instruction in general military training, use of weapons, map using, drill and field craft, as well as the National Survival training course. The latter includes such subjects as basic rescue skills; effects of nuclear detonation; decontamination of personnel, food equipment and buildings; actual evacuation; traffic and crowd control; use of dosimeters an dradiacmeters to calculate rates and amounts of radiation; and radiation and monitoring of blast site.

Lt. Hubel points out that many of the skills learned, such as first aid and basic rescue techniques, can be carried over into a recruit's civilian life both at work and in the family after he has completed the course.

For those persons in outlying districts who wish to take the course there will be regular transportation laid on into the Belleville armouries from both the Trenton and Marmora armouries if there are sufficient numbers of recruits from those areas to warrant it, according the Mr. Col. Angus Duffy, commanding officer of the regiment.

The course in Belleville is under the direction of Major A. W. Cunningham, whilst Captain James Fawcett will be officer - in - charge of the course at Picton. Regular force personnel and officers and men from the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will be instructing on the course.

Charlotte Calls Special Meeting On Resignation

OTTAWA (CP)—The resignation of Major R. F. Walker as emergency measures co-ordinator for Ottawa and Carleton County still hung fire after a special meeting called by Mayor Whitton Thursday night.

The mayor, who earlier this Thursday called the meeting of board of control and the executive committee of Carleton County council to begin for acceptance of Maj. Walker's resignation, said after the in-camera session that the decision would be taken "next Thursday at a meeting of the city and county EMO committee."

Maj. Walker said earlier this week he was resigning because the mayor was downgrading his position.

Thursday night Mayor Whitton produced a chart which she said showed that any downgrading of his position had been done with provincial approval.

The chart traced the line of command in the municipal-EMO setup in such a way that the co-ordinator was under direction of civic department heads.

Speaking to a workshop discussion at the Resources for Tomorrow conference, the 75-year-old scientist said the main job-training plan to bring Canada's 11,000 Eskimos out of depressed aboriginal existence and fit them into the framework of civilized Canada.

"It's most confusing," said Maj. Walker. "No other municipal Emergency Measures Organization has such a setup. The co-ordinator usually works with the police-fire group."

Alderman Murray Reid, who earlier called for the mayor's resignation as co-chairman of the committee, said he did not believe the mayor had received provincial approval of the set-up.

"I'd have to see it in writing," he said.

Three of Ottawa's four councillors stayed away from the meeting.

Conference Told Canada Should Get the Eskimos Off Taxpayers' Backs

MONTREAL (CP) — A crash program to get the Canadian Eskimo off the taxpayer's back and onto his own feet was proposed Thursday by one of the country's foremost arctic experts.

Dr. Diamond Jenness, retired chief of anthropology at the National Museum of Canada, called for massive job-training and education such a setup. The co-ordinator usually works with the police-fire group."

Alderman Murray Reid, who earlier called for the mayor's resignation as co-chairman of the committee, said he did not believe the mayor had received provincial approval of the set-up.

"I'd have to see it in writing," he said.

try is disdainful to the Eskimo worker.

He said the only hope for the future is to equip the Eskimo with the skills necessary to fill the job opportunities which will come as resource development progresses.

Dr. Jenness emphasized that the job was something like a hill should be launched immediately. Each year Canada had 400 babies added to its mouths to feed and 100 Eskimos entered the labor market—with its 80-per-cent unemployment rate.

He described various experiments in training Eskimos for new industry in the Arctic—among them sheep and poultry raising. All had failed. Only handicrafts and char fishing were successful and these had limited potential.

R. A. J. Phillips, assistant director of planning in the northern affairs department, contended that Dr. Jenness' pessimism about Eskimo economics was not accurate. Things weren't that bad and the department had reported on the problem of retraining.

Report Shows Imports Down From Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—A continued lag in imports of machinery—Canada's biggest import item—helped keep the country's foreign purchases below 1960 levels during the first half of the year.

Imports of non-farm machinery and parts during the six months were 21 per cent below year-earlier levels, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The bureau's final report showed imports during the January-June period totalled $2,771,300,000, down 1.2 per cent from the $2,803,600,000 of last year.

However, it reported that an upward trend in import buying began in May and imports in the second quarter totalled $1,434,400,000, up fractionally from $1,429,500,000 during April-June 1960.

There were import declines in the first half of the year, compared with a year earlier, in non-farm machinery and parts to $282,300,000 from $308,400,000, in auto parts to $154,900,000 from $176,000,000, in trucks and cars to $92,70,000 from $137,000, and in electrical apparatus to $126,900,000 from $138,400,000.

THERE ARE SMILES — Everyone seems to be enjoying the situation as Harvey Wilson (centre) is interviewed by Captain Jim Fawcett (left) when he made application to take the National Survival Training Course at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's armouries yesterday afternoon. Cpl. Connie Stickle (right) makes note that Harvey is the 75th recruit for the course. Some 125 more are needed.

Teen-agers in model UN General Assemblies like the one above have probably a better grasp of world affairs than most adults — thanks partially to World Review.

Four Teams Form Quinte Handgun League

The Campbellford Pistol and Revolver Club, at the Bay of Quinte Handgun League's meeting Wednesday night, joined league to assure the grouping of at least four teams for the winter indoor competition.

Other teams who will take part in the approaching competition are the Northern Electric Handgun Club, the Quinte Marksmen and the Trenton Handgun Club. Efforts are being made to have teams from Brighton and Picton join the league to round out a six-team grouping.

The Campbellford representatives at the other night's meet included Claude Morgan, Harold Robinson, Walter Scott, George Wall and Earl Weeks. They took their turns at the range, firing a few practice rounds which indicated they will hold their own when the actual competitions get under way.

The Quinte Marksmen also welcomed three new members to their club this week. New members will receive tuition and instruction from Harold Hoering and Range Director Cliff Smith.

Next Wednesday there will be a general meeting of the club members and officers at the Belleville Armories at 7:30 p.m. This will be a brief meeting, with shooting afterward. All club members, past and present, are requested to attend, with a special invitation to any other men in the district who are interested in this sport.

Alice Faye Back on Lot After 16 Years of Absence

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Sixteen years ago, Alice Faye burned the key of her dressing room door at 20th Century-Fox and drove off in a huff. She didn't return.

"I'd had it," she recalls. "I had got married to Phil (Harris) and I'd had my daughter Alice and then Phyllis. That seemed more important to me.

"Besides, I was mad about that last picture I had made, Fallen Angel. I was doing it with Otto Preminger and I loved Laura, which he had done. I was hoping for the same sort of picture, something that would get me into dramatic parts.

"They cut my big scenes right out of the picture. The studio was building up Linda Darnell at the time, and they made her scenes more important. Now I love Linda, but I didn't think they should be do. But I got to me.

LEFT TREASURES

"So I gave them the key and told them to keep it. I didn't even take my things with me. I understand they've still got a couple of trunks full of stuff of mine. Might be fun to go through it some day."

Alice is back on the old home lot, looking much the same as she did in her heyday—roundfaced, blonde and cheerful. She is playing Pat Boone's mother in all things, in a third go at State Fair. It doesn't seem to bother being recently a grandmother.

Alice belongs to the old school of film personalities, the ones who had a ball doing their jobs.

"Henry King used to say he couldn't do a thing with Ty (Power), Don (Ameche) and me," she said. "And I guess he couldn't. I remember the time Don was called to a screen test he couldn't put on his shoes. I had nailed them to the floor.

"Then there was the time I slopped on Ty's teeth—he used to wear some caps in front. I didn't really do it on purpose, though I was accused of it. He never wore them after that."

ANNUAL RITUAL — A effigy of Guy Fawkes, who tried to blow up the British Houses of Parliament on November 5, 1605, is carried toward a bonfire during Britain's annual fireworks ceremony. Guy Fawkes Night Becomes Excuse for Hallowe'en Spirit Of Teen-Age Hooliganism

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—Guy Fawkes has been cruelly treated by history.

On Nov. 5, 1605, he nearly blew up the British Houses of Parliament.

Anarchy no doubt, but something others have felt an urge to do ever just again. The Germans once succeeded.

Fawkes, who had the double misfortune of paying for the attempt with his life and becoming the chief scapegoat for more than three centuries of national grievances?

In most countries fireworks night is a festive occasion celebrating some joyous national anniversary.

But in Britain the rockets, bangers and glittering Catherine Wheels summon up repeated images of gunpowder treason and plot.

REASONS FOR HATE

This would have been intolerable to Fawkes, a devout if fanatical Roman Catholic supposed, was intended as a protest against religious persecution by Papists.

Today most adults, especially politicians and firemen, have good but unhistorical reasons for wishing Guy Fawkes had never been born.

Nov. 5 has become an excuse not only for fireworks but also for a Hallowe'en spirit of teen-age hooliganism.

The mixture is volatile. Every year on Guy Fawkes night people pour into Trafalgar Square, Piccadilly Circus and such as to fill the heaths and commons, throughout suburban London and other cities.

Crackers explode under unwary feet, rockets whiz into crowds, people are injured, riots start and the weary police cart off legions of youths to serve one night sentences in unwarm cells.

PENNY FOR GUY

As a final insult, Guy's chair is treated as a lucrative business proposition by most younger children.

Nowadays as early as September unimaginative, straw-stuffed dummies begin to appear on every street corner. The passerby is constantly assailed by plaintive cries of:

"Penny for the Guy, guv'nor."

"Do you use the pennies to buy fireworks?"

"Naw, guv, Dad gets 'em. We usually buys the."

"Who was this Guy anyway?"

"Oh 'e was a bad man, guv. Tried to 'ave the Houses of Parliament 'e did."

"Then was this?"

"Yeahs ago, guv. Sometimes before the war. Penny for the Guy, ma'am?"

Richard Boone Heads Big Cast in "A Thunder of Drums", in Color

In "A Thunder of Drums", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer presents a rousing outdoor adventure-drama in Cinemascope and Color depicting the gathering era of the U.S. Calvary-Indian wars of the 1870's.

It was written by James Warner Bellah, noted historian writer whose scenarios have given the screen some of its most memorable Western action stories, among them "Fort Apache", "Rio Grande", "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon" and "Sergeant Rutledge".

The picture's cast includes both Hollywood veterans and some of its most popular young er players.

Richard Boone, star of Television's "Have Gun, Will Travel" and "Medic" series, plays his first starring role in a major film as Captain Maddocks, battle-scarred commander of the under-manned garrison stationed at Fort Canby whose lack of experience brings him into conflict with his commanding officer; and Miss Patten cast as Tracy Hamilton, his former fiancee who has come to the post to marry another officer because she believes Maquade had deserted her.

The story of "A Thunder of Drums", presents its action-filled events from the very opening sequence, a terrorizing scene in which a little girl witnesses the murder of her mother and sister by raiding Indians and builds-up to a hair-raising climax to one of the most exciting battles ever recorded on film.

"A Thunder of Drums", in Color and CinemaScope is playing tonight and Saturday at the Belle Theatre.

The Ziegfeld Touch Will Be Narrated by Joan Crawford

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — When William Hitchey, producer of next Sunday night's The Ziegfeld Touch needed a narrator with glamour he called on Joan Crawford.

She had never been in a Ziegfeld show, she had never run the fabulous Fix. But Joan has that elusive quality, glamour, notably lacking in the current crop of male and female starlets.

"It does seem to have disappeared," Miss Crawford admitted. "Glamour takes preparation and hard work. It has to be lived with, the hours are long and they can't do it alone. The studios have to help and they just don't bother today.

"In television, they have to work so fast the hours are so long and the contracts with the players so different, that there just isn't time to prepare the attractive young performers for real stardom. Instead, they just shove them into being personalities—and that's very different."

IS IMPORTANT

Joan, conceding that ability is certainly an important asset for an actress, feels that equally important is the way in which he—or more likely, she—is presented to the public.

"In the great days of Metro," she reflected, "they carefully developed the great, the glamorous stars, particularly the women. They protected them, they made them remote, because, to another, more wonderful world. But today there is none of this protective quality. Why today, there is no chance for any person to be developed like Garbo—who is still a figure of glamour, still aloof and unknown."

England Defeats Pakistan

LAHORE, Pakistan (Reuters) — England, sparked by a score of 68 not out by captain Tex Dexter, defeated Pakistan by five wickets Thursday in the first match of a three-match cricket test series.

Final scores were Pakistan 267 for nine declared and 200, England 330 and 209 for five.

Set to make 208 in 250 minutes to win, England suffered early setbacks, but kept pace with the clock. Two wickets went for 17 runs and half the side was out for 108 with England needing 100 runs in 130 minutes.

But Dexter, playing his best innings of the tour, maintained the scoring rate and, with Bob Barber playing a valuable part in an unbroken stand of 100, England won with 35 minutes to spare.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

According to a hunter friend of mine who has just returned from the Cobalts where he has been doing some legal nudging, that part of New York State is suffering from an epidemic of raccoons.

The masked marauders are said to be in such quantity that state officials have been exhorting hunters to get out and reduce the coon population to reasonable proportions.

A story out of Maine seems to substantiate the New York yarn. A young lady residing in the New England state had an oversize pet raccoon, which, it seems, has been impressed with Smoky Bear's television exhortations to stamp out forest fires.

The yarn says the animal, "Cooney" by name was reputed to be a cigaret hater. Whenever it saw a lighted "gasper" it would grab the offending fag, tear it to bits, stamp out the burning and and disperse of the rest.

"It must be said," the story goes, "that having a ten-pound raccoon climb a person as it would a tree to snatch a filter-tip from the lips, was mildly disconcerting, to say the least."

"Cooney" loved peanuts as much as he hated cigarettes. He also had a yen for human flesh. When a cameraman offered him a bag of goobers to pose for a picture the coon promptly yanked the bag out of his hand and chewed happily on a digit.

The raccoon is in any cust. He won't do any more work than he has to to support himself. He likes others to do it for him.

Take the case of the angler who was fishing for pan fish standing in a stream and tossing his catches up on a high bank. He caught a half dozen, figured it was enough and clambered up the bank to claim his catch. All he found was the tracks of a well-fed raccoon.

And like bill collectors and landlords Brer Coon always shows up when he is least expected, or wanted.

This is proven in a winter's night coon caper in a tiny village in Vermont a couple of years ago. Heavy snow covered the ground and travelling was difficult on highways and especially the rural byways.

One of the villagers was aroused near midnight by a neighbor who explained that his car was frozen and that his wife about to deliver him an heir. He wanted transportation to a hospital in a town fifteen miles away.

The village was off the beaten track and the road to the town was narrow and bordered with high banks. The car was loaded with the heavy freight and they took off. A mile or so out in the village the road was blocked by a convention of raccoons who decided to move double horn-shrinkings and shorts. The men got out and threw snowballs at the pesky cusses.

The coons thought it was a new game and cavorted and hopped but refused to yield the right of way.

The expectant mother waited patiently. After a while she assumed that although the national guard was called, or some other weapons than snowballs were used, she would call off the trip and guarantee special delivery on the spot.

A two-man charge sided by a jack-handle and a baseball bat dispersed the raccoon regiment and everything went according to schedule.

The story got around the village and the boys decided to gang up on the coons and wipe them out of existence.

A few nights later a dozen or so gathered, and well fortified internally and heavily armed, they crept in the village where the coons dined daily and nightly on community handouts.

They saw nothing for about an hour then a shadowy form that moved in and among the garbage promised to be the daddy of all the raccoons. The hunters froze in their tracks. An occasional "tic" broke the silence.

Then at a given signal a dozen rural arquebuses roared out a thunderous volley. Somebody whistled a cavalry charge and the boys raced in on the kill.

Car spotlights were turned on to aid in examining the "body," and it was discovered the village clerk's prize pet cat had come to an untimely end.

Bruins Blank Wings 4-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins were propelled to their first victory of the 1961-62 National Hockey League season Thursday night on net-minder Don Head's data.

The 20-year-old goaltender got involved in a brawl with Ely Staniuk of Detroit, Red Wings midway through the first period and both drew five-minute penalties. The Bruins went on to win 4-0 after suffering seven defeats and being held to one tie.

"Head helped the team get going by getting into the fight," said an enthusiastic coach Phil Watson, no stranger to fiery displays of temper himself.

At the other end of the standings, the unbeaten Montreal Canadiens regained first place from the idle New York Rangers by whipping the Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3 victory over Chicago Black Hawks, the floundering Stanley Cup champions. The Habs have five victories and a tie in six starts and lead New York by one point.

HORS POWER PLAY

At Boston, the lineup came at 11:32 with the Bruins shorthanded on a penalty. Head, 28-year-old Bruins rookie from Ontario netminder in his second year of professional hockey, made five stops on the Detroit power play. He robbed Staniuk, a former Bruin, twice.

Boston rearguard Bob Armstrong and Staniuk sprawling near the Bruins' nets and moments later Staniuk swung his stick at Head.

Head charged from his net, dropped his gloves and waded in. Referee Red Storey moved to the ice. It took a minute to break up the battle while the small Boston Garden crowd of 7,081 sent up a roar befitting a Stanley Cup playoff game.

It was the first major penalty suffered by Head this season in years and the first in memory for a Boston netminder. Ted Green served Staniuk's sentence.

Head logged 101 minutes in penalties with Portland Buckaroos last season when they won the Western League crown.

"I saw Head get the Buck-aroos going the same way last year," said Boston's general manager Lynn Patrick.

Of course, Head had to be good in goal and needed offensive help against the Wings.

He made it tops, many of them spectacular, and got his four goal edge from Doug Mohns, Johnny Bucyk, Charlie Burns and Dick Meissner.

HABS THRASH HAWKS

For the Canadiens, good scoring punch from two forward units and solid checking by the third are making up for the loss through injuries of centre Jean Beliveau and left-winger Dickie Moore, both 20 - goal men last season.

Seven different players got into the scoring act. Claude Tremblay got one in the first period and Billy Hicks made it 2-0 in the second. The Canadiens poured it on in the third as Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Henri Richard, Claude Provost, Don Marshall and Bobby Rousseau scored.

Murray Balfour spoiled a shutout bid by Montreal goalie Jacques Plante with Chicago's lone goal at 4:25 of the third period.

The Hawks had a slight advantage over the Canadiens for two periods, only to be thwarted by Plante and some erratic shooting.

Hall, usually steady, had a bad night. He knocked the puck in his own net for Trembley's goal and was beaten on two breakaways by Provost and Rousseau.

SHOVES REFEREE

There were several flare-ups which caused referee Frank Udvari to hand out 18 penalties, two of them 10-minute misconducts to Richard and Chicago's Stan Mikita.

Richard got his misconduct for shoving Udvari after a bout off in the first period. Mikita got his for flipping the puck on the ice after being called for tripping in the second.

First after the games, Montreal and Boston announced completion of a three-player trade. They acquired centre and right winger Wayne Connelly, a journeyman NHL star, and two Bruins for Armstrong the loan of defenceman Dallas Smith for the balance of the season and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Connelly, believed to be the key man in the deal, reports to the Bruins immediately. He played the season with Hull-Ottawa Canadiens of the Eastern Professional Hockey League after attending the Boston training camp on a look-see basis.

Armstrong, a 27-year veteran, and Smith, only 20, are to report to Hull-Ottawa, where Armstrong will become player-coach of the Montreal farm team.

There are no games in the NHL until Saturday when Montreal is at home to Detroit and Boston opens the season with New York.

Sunday it will be Montreal at Detroit, Toronto at New York and Chicago at Boston.

Rodgers Wins Sahara Golf

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Paul Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., won the $19,500 Sahara golf tournament Thursday by finishing with a 67 and a 54 - hole total of 203 to take top prize of $3,500.

Billy Maxwell of Dallas and Bob McCallister of Yorba Linda, Calif., were tied for second with 205, worth $1,500 each.

Al Balding of Toronto and Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., finished in a two - way tie for fourth place with 206. Balding's card was 66-71-69. He and Lema won $750.

Jerry Magee of Toronto and Bob Johnston of Montreal finished out of the money. Magee had a 220 total and Johnston a 224.

Ole Arch Comes Back For 'Moore'

Would Stop Moore Fight

Tunney Seeks Injunction

MONTREAL (CP) — Irrepressible Archie Moore, a journeyman boxer before Bob Cleroux was born, signed Thursday to meet the Canadian heavyweight champion in a 10-rounder Dec. 5.

No official title is at stake but Moore's associate, Jack (Doc) Kearns, is billing it as the Middle Division at a press conference "north American junior heavyweight championship."

The fight announced by Eddie Quinn at a press conference at which Archie made a grand entrance, wearing a fedora, swinging cane and flashing an ear-to-ear smile.

No figures on the split of the purse were disclosed officially. But a reliable source said Moore has been guaranteed $20,000 and the 35 - year - old Cleroux, Canadian heavyweight champion, $10,000. A spokesman said negotiations are under way for rating the victor even up and the fighters would share in the ancillary receipts.

The Montreal Sporting Association has stripped Moore, who age has been given as 44 and 47 of the world light - heavyweight title on grounds that he defended it in Minneapolis. But he is still recognized as champ in New York, Massachusetts and Europe and by Ring magazine.

Quebec Nips Rochester

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jean-Marie Cossette slammed in an overtime goal for Quebec Thursday night that put the American Hockey League standings glove tight.

His 4:30 goal was the winner in the Aces' 2-1 verdict over Rochester and boosted Quebec into a three-way tie for second in the eastern division standings. Quebec, Providence and Buffalo field now trail leading Hershey by four points.

It also spoiled Rochester's effort to climb out of a tie with Buffalo for the top spot in the west.

Cossette picked up a pass from Michel Labadie and beat Rochester goalie Don Simmons at 51 seconds of the overtime in the only league action.

Defenceman Lowell Mantha got Quebec's first marker early in the first period. It was matched late in the period by Larry Keenan in the second.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh Hornets, with three players on the injured list, are getting two new players for their game with Quebec Saturday night.

Ray Ballard, a right winger, arrived here from his Toronto home Thursday night. The Hornets said they'll sign Eagle Lach of the National League will send goalie Ray Cheevers to Pittsburgh to fill in for injured Gerry McNamara.

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs' promoter Frank Tunney says he will seek a court injunction to prevent a scheduled bout between light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore and Montreal's Bob Cleroux at Montreal Dec. 5.

"We want to stop the fight until after Cleroux holds a contract to fight George Chuvalo in Toronto," Tunney said Thursday night.

Cleroux took the Canadian heavyweight championship from Chuvalo last August and Tunney said after Cleroux holds a contract to fight George Chuvalo in Toronto," Tunney said Thursday night.

Cleroux took the Canadian heavyweight championship from Chuvalo last August and Tunney said the contract called for a rematch in Toronto Sept. 18.

"This was not honored and Cleroux and his manager, Al Bachman, are avoiding the fight. We offered various dates after Sept. 18 . . . we have heard nothing."

Sticky Case Big Race Favorite

LORDON (AP) — Bookies made Sticky Case a stronger favorite than ever Thursday night for the Cheerio Keystone Handicap Saturday.

At the final call-over at London's Victoria Club, the odds against the F. Phillips's filly came down from 10 to 1 to 9 to 1.

If she wins, she will be the first filly since the Second World War to carry off the coveted race—the last of the seven-furlong events for fillies and mares. The race is scheduled for 9:40 a.m. EDT Saturday at Downsview.

Rachel, another filly, was a firm second favorite at 10 to 1. Odds lengthened at 10 to 1 against Plaza and Thames Treasure. They slipped from 12 to 1 to 14 to 1 and were bracketed with Detun, Henry the Seventh and Indian Conquest.

Henry the Seventh is the dark horse. He was rated a 25-to-1 shot a week ago but bettors have poured money on him during the last week.

Johns Court, a six-year - old grey who won this year's Lincolnshire, was sold for breeding purposes for $3,143 Thursday and was pulled out of Saturday's race. He will be sent to stud in Australia.

Other odds quoted were: 18 to 1: Midsummer Night II; 20 to 1: Stast, Little Rockskin; 25 to 1: King's Messenger, Gallopor Mondi, Miss Bliffin; 33 to 1: Light Year, Harris, Salmon King, Smuggler's Joy; 40 to 1: Violette, H, Water Skier, Bonnet; 50 to 1: Lucky Jones, Dale One, Fawton Lady, Lucky Grey; 66 to 1: Don't Look, Robson's Choice; 100 to 1: Fuel, Tunet.

Hamilton Red Wings and St. Catharines Teepees are the favorites in early rankings as the revamped junior A division of the Ontario Hockey Association moves into its opening phases.

While St. Catharines does not see its first action until tonight, Hamilton has already run up two victories in its first two starts.

The Red Wings upset Montreal Junior Canadiens 4-2 in the season opener at Montreal last Sunday and Barrie Flyers, Sayids 7-3 Thursday night. Peterborough Petes edged Montreal 6-5 Thursday night.

The series has undergone changes since last season. Gone are the Toronto Michael's Majors, 1960-61 Memorial Cup champions, and Toronto Marlboros. They and three Toronto-area teams have formed the Metropolitan Junior League.

The addition of Montreal gave the OHA Junior A series six teams.

St. Catharines and Hamilton boast the greatest number of holdovers.

Anything Can Happen

Key Weekend For Riders, Ti-Cats

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Things could get hot atop the Eastern Football Conference this weekend.

Each team has two games left in the season and the situation favors the new guy.

Hamilton holds top spot with 18 points; Ottawa, four points behind, can still catch the Tiger-cats and reap the first - place prize into the final playoff; Toronto, one point behind the Rough Riders, can take advantage of any Ottawa lapses to jump into second spot; Montreal, in last place and out of playoff contention, can boost those aspirations haywire.

The Rough Riders have to win their last two games, including one Saturday at Hamilton, before they can even hope for first spot. The Alouettes would have to connect things by beating the Ticats next Saturday.

That would leave Hamilton and Ottawa tied for first spot in points, but Ottawa would take it, having defeated the Tiger-Cats in their three meetings this season.

ARGOS CAN GAIN

But one loss by Ottawa and seven victories by Toronto would knock that picture topsy-turvy, leaving Hamilton first, Toronto second and Ottawa third. Montreal plays the Argos in Toronto Sunday.

Tiger-Cats coach Jim Trimble isn't getting fancy in the home stretch. He and he intends to go with virtually the same lineup that beat Montreal 15-5 last Sunday. That means Tom Pate rson, All-Rack Bob Jacus and centre Willie Taylor will still be on the sidelines.

Ottawa coach Frank Clair has a little juggling in mind with Doug Daigneault back in run at right half in place of Ron Stewart and Dick Desmarais at left half. He says the Riders have to "get a little mad and a little mean, but they definitely aren't down."

There will probably be several changes in Montreal's line-up. Rick Sawyer, acquired from Calgary, will probably replace Bill Bewley at halfback. Bewley's has left something to be desired in coach Perry Moss' eyes lately and there is talk he won't be back next season.

MEADOWS MAY PLAY

Defensive end Ed Madows, sidelined with a shoulder injury for more than two months, is expected to rejoin the club, freeing Don Paquette to work at defensive guard. A spot Moss felt was weak in the game at Hamilton last Sunday. Ron Brooks, another offensive guard, is also likely to dress.

Billy Wayte, a defensive halfback with the flu last week, is expected back and Bobby Jack Oliver, who booted a 45 - yard field goal last time out, will handle kickoffs, field goals and converts in place of Bewley.

Gerry Thoroughgood and Jon Francis will alternate at quarterback.

Toronto coach Lou Agase has a slight problem in making room for Chet Hlasko and Stan Wallace, who have been out with injuries. He plans to make his choices tonight.

As a sidelight to the Montreal-Toronto game, fans are holding a Bobby Kunto Day for the Argonauts halfback who announced Thursday this season will be his last in football.

Simpson Fined $2,755

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference fined Jackie Simpson $2,755 Thursday and warned the renegade linebacker to Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Simpson jumped the club last weekend and turned up in Denver. His action was discovered when Stampeders decided to use him in a game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday night, but failed to reach him Sunday morning by telephone from Regina.

General manager Jim Finks said Thursday Simpson was waived out of the Canadian Football League and sold to Denver. Spenders decided the $2,775 fine as "stiff" but he added "we'll get it."

Simpson came to Calgary earlier this year in a deal with Montreal Alouettes and played a few games at inside linebacker while Ernie Danjean was laid up with a rib injury. He has been inactive since.

YANKS MAKE CHANGES

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees changed trainers Thursday, hired a scout and signed two young pitchers from the New York area.

The club announced that Gus Mauch, the team's trainer for 14 years, is being replaced by George Soares, the assistant trainer. Mauch then signed with New York Mets, new entry in the National League.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston's Johnny Bucyk and Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion produced three-point outbursts to lead Thursday night's National Hockey League action moving up behind leader Andy Bathgate in the individual scoring races.

The two each added a goal and a pair of assists to their totals while Bathgate's New York Rangers were idle.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Bathgate New York	4	11	15
Litzenberger, Chicago	6	7	13
Bucyk, Boston	4	8	12
Hull, Chicago	6	5	11
Geoffrion, Montreal	4	7	11
Backstrom, Montreal	6	4	10
Mahovlich, New York	5	5	10

Kings Of the 'Gophers'

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a good reason why pitchers Pedro Ramos of Minnesota and Mike McCormick of San Francisco had poor won-lost records in the 1961 baseball season. They were too generous with home run serves.

Ramos whose record was 20-11, yielded 39 homers to lead the American League while McCormick (13-16) topped the National with 32, figures compiled by The Associated Press revealed Thursday.

Ramos, who set an American League record by allowing 43 gopher balls in 1957, has served up 200 homers in seven big league seasons. He also paced the circuit in 1958.

Gene Conley of Boston was the junior circuit runner-up with 32. Lew Burdette of Milwaukee Braves was second in the National League with 31.

ALMOST DOUBLED

Population of Communist North Korea at the end of 1960 was 10,080,000 compared with 5,612,000 in 1945.

WINS WOMEN'S TOURNEY

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Defending champion Maureen Orcutt made up four strokes Thursday to shoot 4-74 and win the North and South women's senior golf tournament with a 36-hole total of 152. Mrs. John Pennington of Buffalo, the 1959 winner, finished second with 154. Mrs. Ada McKenzie of Richmond Hill finished eighth with 165.

Moira Juniors Win

BCI Seniors Whip Moira

By JOE CLAPP

BCIVS Seniors moved to within one win of the Bay of Quinte COSSA football championship yesterday when they nipped Moira 48-7 in the first half of a double-header.

In the junior tilt, Moira took a 20-6 decision over BCIVS, urging a playoff for the junior crown with the highly-rated Quinte crew.

JUNIOR GAME

BCI opened the scoring early in the starting a drive on their own 40-yard line and moving to be Moira five in six plays. Braydon Scott scored the touchdown on a quarter-back sneper through the middle. Peter Weston made the convert good. Pete Weston scored BCI's second major through the middle from four yards out. Weston made the extra point good.

B.C.I.'s third touchdown came after a ball snap from centre when Regensburg dove on the loose ball for a touchdown. The convert was missed.

After the kick-off Moira was held and punted. Doug Ellis of Moira intercepted a B.C.I. pass and scampered thirty - three yards to score. The convert was missed.

BCI scored again late in the third quarter when G. York picked up a Moira fumble and ran forty yards to score. The convert was blocked.

B.C.I. kicked off to Moira but they intercepted a pass and Scott passed to Muir who ran twenty yards to score. The play covered forty yards, the extra point was missed.

Midway through the fourth quarter Weston tried a forty-five yard field goal for B.C.I. the Moira receiver was caught in the end zone for a single point. Moira was forced to kick from their own twenty-five and B.C.I. with the aid of a penalty moved in to the Moira six. Jim Muir scored his second major on a reverse. The convert was good.

JUNIOR GAME

Moira Don Fraser opened the scoring on a thirty-two yard run through the middle for a touchdown. The convert was missed.

After the kickoff BCI fumbled. Moira moved in five plays to the BCI 3-yard line. Bob Murray scored the major on a drive through the middle. The convert was missed.

Later in the second quarter Moira penetrated to the BCI 3-yard line where they were held, but Moira's Bob Bailey caught a BCI backfielder behind the line for a safety touch and two points. The half ended with Moira in front 14-0.

BCI kicked off to open the second half. Moira punted and BCI took over on the Moira 42. Tom Dolan scampered all the way to score BCI's only touchdown of the game. The convert was missed.

In the third quarter Moira powered their way to the BCI 11-yard line, but here they were held and BCI took over after a fumble on their own 8-yard line. A pass from Anderson to Babcock put BCI out of danger.

Neither team scored again until midway through the fourth quarter. BCI after losing yardage, punted from their own thirteen and Ron Faulkner returned the kick 39 yards for the major to wrap up the scoring. The convert was missed.

Take Twin Bill

Quinte Defeats Trenton

By BILL BURLEY

Quinte Secondary scored a long spoiled Trenton High's playoff chances yesterday in a COSSA twin bill, with a decisive 48-12 victory.

The schools junior squad racked up its fifth win decisioning the Tiger youngsters 8-2.

Trenton kicked off to Quinte, keeping the Saints deep in their own half. Strong Tiger defences kept from advancing and Trenton took over possession of it. Then Hess of Trenton smashed over the Quinte line for the uncontested major. Quinte then reinacted the play with Hall passing over the Trenton line for the score. The convert was missed.

Skinner of Quinte took to the air for a 33 yd. pass and Oliver rolling in for the TD. The convert was wide.

Quinte kicked to the Tigers and stopped their forward play on their own 35.

Quinte took possession of the ball. Skinner faked twice on a double reverse and passed once again to Oliver in the Trenton point area.

The third quarter saw Brian McBride intercept for a 10 yd. gain.

This set up the next Quinte T.D. as Gilroy rambled over the line for the points. Hall made the convert. Mike Chitard of Quinte sent a long 65-yard punt into the Trenton end zone where the play was stopped.

Trenton came back by pushing Quinte 35 yards up the field and Hess charged over for the major. The convert was low.

Quinte scored again with Davis crossing the line on a pass from Skinner. Hall unable to get the kick, carried the ball over for the convert. Shirley of Quinte picked up a fumble and was brought down on the Trenton 1-yard line. He scored on the next play. Less Hall made the convert good. Inside 2 minutes remained in the first for the major. "Toe" Hall brought in another convert.

JUNIOR GAME

Doug Davis of Trenton pulled in the kickoff and pushed to the Quinte 45-yard line. On their first play Trenton fumbled and Manister of Quinte got possession.

Quinte drove to the Trenton 2-yard line where Ewes, the Quinte quarterback, took to the air and hit Joe Rabel in the end zone for the major. The convert attempt was low. On a Trenton third down the snap went into the end zone where McAlpine was tackled by Manifer for a safety.

In the second half the Tigers started to move, with Reynolds skirting the end for a 22-yard gain. With Trenton in close Quinte's defence tightened and the Tigers were forced to punt. Mike Chitard sped a punt into the end zone and Quinte conceded the point.

Quinte was unable to move the ball and Trenton took over after a punt. They carried the ball into the Saint's end of the field but then were forced to punt. Bob McAlpine booted a 80-yard single deep into the end-zone.

Late in the third quarter Leslie of Quinte quick-kicked for a single which ended the scoring.

Astrological Forecast

By CAROLL RICHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES—

This Saturday is one of those days when you have every sort of chance to early know exactly what you should do now to get your ideas and your products or wares across with ease and facility. Get in touch with all who can merchandise and discuss with them, then give them carte blanche to carry through. Plus for art, color, culture, music, recreations and romance. Have a good time tonight.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Follow your intuition now concerning how to make your future more productive by proper organization and by getting the information you need that is up-to-the-minute. P.M. Have a fine time with loyal one by being kind.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Take the time now to read your paper and other journals thoroughly for the ideas that will help you in the future. Later, get out and do your shopping, keep appointments, etc. Then the evening is free for fun and bobbles. Be wise.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Look over all real estate and other holdings to see where improvements can be made. Then contact the people who can assist you in these things, get prices, ideas, be economical yet artistic, etc. P.M. Set up a good budget.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Concentrate upon expansion this Saturday and be sure you contact those persons difficult to see during the work week who can be instrumental to your increased success. Also, seek to make new contacts socially in P.M.

Leo (July 23 to August 21) Endeavor to be less imperious and talkative and be sure to listen to those who have fine ideas for your advancement in the future. Real expansion is possible at this time. Cultural pursuits are especially fine to P.M.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) While comrades will certainly co-operate with you now, it requires tact on your part to get your ideas and plans are. Support and backing can also be yours. Be very sociable in P.M. Meet fine people.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Your finest profits come now from activities in the outside world. Contact the powerful and get their co-operation for your plans, P.M. Dine at some fine restaurant – make further headway socially.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) One of those days and nights when putting dull routine behind you and stepping out into the bustling world of activity will bring fine benefits to you. Be with those whose background has been quite diverse to yours. Grow.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) While yours is rather a blunt nature, it is best that now you use more diplomacy in dealing with others if you wish to get the support and co-operation you need at this time. Then get out and have fun in the evening.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can increase success at this time by stepping out with persons whose interests are quite similar to yours for mutual helpfulness. Be ready for all opportunities that present themselves – you have been too adamant in the past.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure you finish whatever duties are important to complete right now, whether at home or outside. You will then be ready to get started on new system of operation that will bring you real success and happiness in the future.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) If you early get the most necessary duties out of the way, you can then have a fine time at whatever recreations or social affairs please you the most. See that your appearance is at its best. Go out of town, if need be.

If your child is born today he, or she, will be one of those highly evolved people who is full of emotion and sensitivity, which is fine, provided you are very careful in the handling of this divine child and slant education toward the artistic, cultural or religious for greatest happiness and success in life. Early rid your progeny of any inclination toward selfishness, which could be disastrous if carried too far.

By IRENE MOYSE

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — How do you go about making a baby gorilla feel at home several thousand miles away from its native African jungles?

How—with a $4,000 investment in the baby at stake—do you try to make sure the 30-pound weakling will grow into a mature, 400-pound monster?

Those are the problems that faced Gilles Charbonneau, director of the Granby Zoo when the zoo decided to add a gorilla to its attractions.

Getting a gorilla is a fairly simple job for a reputable zoo with the money to spend, but raising it to maturity is another matter.

A gorilla, for all its bulk and strength, is one of the most difficult animals to raise in captivity.

It can, as Mr. Charbonneau put it, get sick at nothing or, if it feels lonesome, just sit in a corner, refuse to play and to eat, until it dies.

To overcome these problems—when the 1¼-year-old male gorilla arrived here at the end of July, Mr. Charbonneau looked around for a foster parent who could give the baby the constant attention and affection it needs while adjusting to its new life.

He settled on Mrs. Huguette Charron, a young, pleasant farm wife who lives 15½ miles from the zoo.

Mrs. Charron's approach to the job of keeping the gorilla alive and happy—a problem that has been too much for many a professional animal keeper—is simple.

She treats it as much like a human baby as possible.

A regular schedule of eating, sleeping and playing has been worked out and the baby is thriving on it, gaining about two pounds a month—exactly what a young gorilla should, Mr. Charbonneau says.

Occasionally, Mrs. Charron admits, the gorilla gets a bit rambunctious and when he's bored he bites. But a slap is enough to make it mind its manners again.

The daily schedule starts at 7 a.m. when the gorilla wakes up. It sleeps in a cage, partly to get it used to bars and partly to prevent wandering off and getting lost at night.

Breakfast, like all meals, consists of plenty of greens, fruits, milk and concentrated vitamins.

During the morning the gorilla plays in the house — it's fascinated by kitchen utensils—before being put down for a nap about 11 a.m. After awakening for lunch, the baby and Mrs. Charron play together outside or, if the weather is bad, in the house again.

During winter, of course, the gorilla will be kept indoors all the time.

After the afternoon play time comes supper, a bath and a rubdown with lanolin oil—both of which the gorilla hates—and sleep.

The gorilla has become afficionado since moving to the farm, running to Mrs. Charron whenever she calls.

"He is such a good baby," Mrs. Charron says. "I will be sorry to lose him. But I'm sure he will remember me."

Mrs. Charron, who is expecting a baby of her own, will lose her guest next spring when it is moved to the zoo, where officials hope to have a new monkey house built to house it as guest of honor.

The zoo is arranging a contest to pick a name for the gorilla.

BARNYARD BARRYMORE — This baby gorilla, being cared for by a Granby, Que., farm couple, has a variety of facial expressions that would do credit to a graduate of a school for actors. These moods, ranging from wily reflection and deep thought to anger, were caught by photographer Marcel Cognac.—(CP Photo).

Jumping to Conclusions, Do You Agree With Them?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions (and how many do you agree with?):

No parent who loves a child can ever quite forgive it for growing up.

In the next 10 years, at least four major league hitters will better Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs in 154 games.

Women who are natural blondes are usually better - natured than dyed blondes.

The best possible wife for a man over 30 is an ex-nurse who also has worked for at least five years as an airline hostess.

The most troublesome wife is a former secretary who was strong enough in the office to boss her boss.

A pretty woman who is nearsighted is more physically alluring to most men than a really lovely woman with 20-20 eyesight.

Beware a man whose fingernails are always beautifully trimmed and whose shoes are always brightly polished. He'll con you if he can.

It is also unwise to place trust in, or lend money to, a man who brags he never has had a quarrel with his wife—unless he is only two days returned from his honeymoon.

The odds are 1,000 to 1 you'll never make a lifelong friend of any stranger you find interesting the first half hour after you meet him at a cocktail party.

No woman who looks better in a $6,000 mink coat than she does in a $15 pair of slacks is entirely happy with her lot in life.

A movie star with true humility is as rare as a persimmon with feathers.

It is always easier to get a raise in a salary from a boss who inherited his firm than from an ex - office boy who had to claw his way to the top.

No career woman, however talented, can do as many different things ably as a successful housewife.

Most millionaires who take you to lunch are secretly annoyed if you don't echo their menu choices and eat exactly what they do.

Making money when you're older is never quite as much fun as catching fireflies was when you were younger.

Firemen's Ball Most Successful

DESERONTO—It was a gala Friday night at the Lions Hall, on Green Street for the annual "Firemen's Ball. The hall was packed with a crowd that was almost overflowing. The firemen and their friends from the town and vicinity came early and stayed late for what many refer to as the most enjoyable dance held in Deseronto in many years.

The hall was tastefully decorated with branches from trees in their glorious colors and the colored lights within the hall added to the attractive appearance. The music was supplied by the Modernaires orchestra from Tweed, and was most suitable for the occasion.

Dancing began at 9.30 and continued until two in the morning with the floor always packed. As a feature of the evening a square dance was added to the program for this year and the music was supplied by Vic Brant.

A canteen was available for the crowd with sandwiches and soft drinks.

The prize on which tickets were issued was won by Mrs. Jack Edwards Sr. The committee in charge of the event was comprised of Firemen, Don Kimmett, Albert Fraser, Mitch. Roebuck, Ralph Lawlor and Percy Knight.

Russian And U.S. Tanks Withdraw Without Fanfare

Berlin Border Tension Eased After 16 Hours

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet and American tanks withdrew quietly awo without fanfare today from the Berlin border front line easing tension at the East-West crisis point where they had remained face to face for more than 16 hours.

The 10 Russian tanks pulled back to their East Berlin quarters about a mile away first. Then about a dozen tanks near the four American tanks withdrew.

The Berlin dispute over allied rights of entry into East Berlin was by no means settled. But it obviously meant that the road to possible negotiations would be easier with Russian and American tank guns no longer trained on each other.

The sharpest shout-down from the front answered the hottest question in this tense divided city: would Russia or the U.S. tanks be the first to back away from the explosive border.

Only a painted white line, a two-foot-high barrier 200 yards of asphalt had separated the tanks which zeroed in on each other at point-blank range.

TROOPS GO IN

U.S. Army cars had been travelling back and forth from the Communist sector all night. But it marked the first time during that period in which they were spared the trouble of detouring around the Russian armored vehicles.

The Soviet tank departure was preceded by a visit by a group of East German army officers to the border.

The movement came after a tear gas battle broke out during the night between East and West German police.

The exchange started with East Berlin police hurling more than 20 gas grenades at a West Berlin loudspeaker truck which was broadcasting to East Ber-

RAILWAYS FACE WAGE STRUGGLE FROM TWO SIDES

Running Trades, Non-ops Negotiate

MONTREAL (CP)—The possibility of a two-pronged struggle between Canada's railways and their employees is shaping up.

With the settlement of a prolonged fight between the rail, wage and their 110,000 non-operating employees only six days away, more than 100 representatives of the 15 non-ops unions are to meet here next week to draw up new demands to replace their contract expiring Dec. 31.

And while these representatives huddle in closed session to decide what to do, the railways are in conciliation with their other labor group, the running trades.

Failure to get a reasonably quick start to a meeting with either group would once again bring the threat of a rail strike.

RUN THEY TRADES

The running trades, involving some 35,000 men represented by the CLC-affiliated unions, are the men actually involved in operating the trains — the engineers, firemen and trainmen.

The much larger non - ops group comprises 75,000 men in all other jobs. The 15 CLC-affiliated unions involved have negotiated jointly with the railways through a special committee since 1957.

The non-ops last dispute with the railways was settled only after they threatened a strike hung over the country for months and after the government intervened to prevent a pre-Christmas walkout.

Some union officials are reported to be worried that the railways will blame them for presenting a new series of demands so soon after the last settlement was reached.

Public opinion, these officials feel, will forget that the agreement took 18 months to hammer out and so actually was 1½ years in the making by the time it is signed.

Another possibility is that the representatives could decide to press for a one-year extension of the present contracts in return for a 10-cent an hour raise.

The last settlement gave the non-ops a total wage increase of 24 cents an hour over a period of about 31.91.

The running trades struggle involves demands for wage increases ranging from 15 to 18 per cent. Their present rates are from $2.62 an hour to $2.50. Rule changes also are in dispute.

Dead-Heat Finish Marks Sweeps Race

NEWMARKET, England (CP) — In a fantastic photo finish, Henry VII and Violetta battled in a dead heat for first place in the Cambridgeshire Handicap today on which an Irish Sweepstakes was based.

Miss Biffin was third in the field of 27 starters over a nine-furlong turf course softened by rain.

Henry VII was 100 to 8 in the betting, Violetta 33 to 1 and Miss Biffin 20 to 1.

The stakes decided on a dead heat after looking at the photo of the finish of the classic, first by Sovereign.

It paid $2.60 to 8 finished fourth.

'The Redeemer' Becomes Dictator As Ghana Flirts With Red Camp

ACCRA (AP) — After four years of independence, Ghana is in a virtual dictatorship, often flirting with the Communist camp.

President Kwame Nkrumah likes to be known as Osagyefo — The Redeemer. His picture is everywhere. He uses Parliament to rubber stamp his decrees. The threat of arbitrary arrest hangs over all who speak out against him. Eavesdropping is a forgery have made a nervous man export cargoes—almost a national characteristic.

Nearly 400 political prisoners are held in jails. Nkrumah says "I see the sun," said a minister privately recently.

New legislation will set up special courts that can hang a man for "offences against the state". There will be no appeal against the courts' decisions.

Surf boats bring in tons of freight from ships moored off Accra because there is no deep-pronged with traffic. Statistics tell a less prosperous story.

Lavish government spending on prestige projects, loans to neighboring Guinea and Mali, and lower prices for cocoa—the main export earner—has combined to cut foreign exchange reserves to the equivalent of $280,000,000 against $500,000,000 in 1957.

Last July, Nkrumah introduced compulsory saving, taking five per cent from pay packets of all wage earners. At the same time, new import and sales taxes raised prices.

Last July's budget sparked the United Appeal Returns Are Low and Slow

The Belleville United Appeal is moving slowly, much too slowly towards its objective of $80,000. To date $15,934 or roughly, 20 per cent of the objective, has been received. Directors are greatly concerned with the slowness of the receipt of returns. The amount received to date is well below that of a comparable period of a year ago.

Out of 54 firms whose employees contributed through the Payroll Giving Plan in 1960, only seven have forwarded complete returns. However, these show an overall increase of seven per cent. The National Corporations Division has returned 43 per cent of its membership showing 53 per cent of a $14,000 goal.

The Business Divisions are showing a definite lethargy. Only 13 per cent has been completed but approximately 32 per cent are new contributors, their total donations representing 19 per cent of the amount received.

Every day brings the close of the campaign nearer. This means decision on prospective donors must be made as soon as possible. The success of the United Appeal here, as everywhere, depends a lot on personal decisions to participate in the common effort. The time to decide is, NOW.

Campaign teams should redouble their efforts. Only by such efforts can the goal should be the knowledge that anything of real value is greatly reduced activities for the community good by the participating agencies.

It is hoped this appeal will find a responsive hearing in the ears and hearts of all in the city who have not yet given. Surely, no other call on our generosity has so wide a field of service.

This anti-cancer house-to-house canvass or "Blitz" takes place in the city Monday morning, Oct. 30th. This is the opportunity to do the thing that, probably unintentionally, have left undone. Please give as generously as you can.

Free Trade Proposals Highlight of Conference

MONTREAL (CP) — A sharp criticism of trade talk most of it directly opposed to present federal government policy, highlighted Friday session of the Resources for Tomorrow conference.

An economist and an industrialist told the 700 - delegate session that Canada should not join with the United States in a free trade area.

The alternative was for Canada to remain surrounded by its present tariff wall, isolated from major markets by the ever-growing international trade bloc.

Present Levels of Fallout Not a Danger to Health

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal health officials state that all fallout is bad but that present levels from Russian nuclear tests do not constitute a danger to health.

But they are uncertain about what effect it will have if these let explosions are continued over a long period of time.

The officials say that information in their possession makes it clear that if Russia ceases test explosions at the end of the month with the firing of a 50-megaton bomb the amount of fallout products which will fall on earth should not cause undue concern.

However, the officials say it is certain of possible effects on health if Russia continues testing over a long period of time. They also admit that science as yet cannot state precisely at what point a fallout from a clear explosion will become a danger to health.

There was a tendency, they said, for the public to confuse the effects of a local nuclear strike with fallout from testing of nuclear weapons.

Radiation in an immediate area of a nuclear explosion is very high and can cause death to those who survive the blast. The best way for individuals in this position to survive is to build a fallout shelter.

However, fallout from a nuclear explosion on areas far removed from the location of the

Expect Russia Will Ignore UN Plea to Abandon Test

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Soviet Union was faced today with a solution getting attention in the United Nations General Assembly to ban the bomb and its nuclear-bomb test, but there was no indication that the Kremlin would back the plea.

The assembly passed by overwhelming majorities two items regarding nuclear tests Friday night, with evidence that the fear of fallout is getting attention day by day.

But Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said in assembly debate that his government would not budge on its demand for test plans which he said we prompted only by a "dead arm"

Jury Brings in Clemency Plea

WALKERTON (CP) — Arthur James Kendall, 31, a part - time carpenter linked to the mysterious disappearance of his wife nine years ago by the testimony of his own children, was convicted Friday of capital murder and condemned to the gallows.

The execution date was set for Jan. 23, exactly 100 days away. Defence counsel M. A. Craig said no decision had been made immediately on an appeal.

The aszize court jury which weighed four days of evidence brought in its verdict after two hours and 10 minutes of deliberation. Asked by Mr. Justice L. B. Parker if it had any recommendation, the jury deliberated briefly and handed in a recommended clemency.

Kendall remained calm, as he had throughout the trial. The fallow - faced father of five, clad in a somber grey suit, bowed deeply from the waist to the judge before being escorted to his cell.

WIFE SCREAMS

But his second wife, the former Beatrice Hogue, broke down and screamed: "It's not right. I know it isn't right." Kendall tried to calm her by saying: "Never mind, Bea Never mind."

Kendall's three eldest children who had testified for the Crown in the most dramatic moment of the trial—waited in a downstairs corridor with the courtroom of the Grey County farm community and heard of the sentence. Among them was Kendall's mother and sister, the Rev. Ernest Kendall, one stage.

Mr. Justice Parker had told the jury Thursday that it was prevented the jury from convictin a person of murder because of the absence of a corpse. Mrs. Helen Kendall, 33, described by Crown Counsel James Cummings has not been seen since Aug. 2, 1952, the day Kendall was accused of murdering her in a one - room cabin on the Bruce Peninsula.

The judge said evidence from witnesses could lead the jury to find that Mrs. Kendall was dead — "and if she is dead, then her husband killed her."

He reminded them of the children's testimony that they saw their father's head in the back of their father from their cottage and then wipe blood from the floor and place a blood - soaked mattress and place a blood - soaked mattress chip knife on the table And ordered the conflict in the evidence of the children's stories could be expected after some nine years.

A parade of seven witnesses testified during the trial that Mrs. Hogue, Kendall was Mrs. Hogue, Kendall was Mrs. Hogue, respondent in a divorce suit by Mrs. Kendall.

Red Hair, Green Eyes, 6 Feet Tall Ghostly Beauty Haunts His Hall

HENNIKER, N.H. (AP)—Legend has it she was six feet tall with red hair and green eyes — a striking Irish beauty who set hearts aflutter in the mid - 18th century.

Not many people have seen her lately, since there are no known pictures of Susan Boyle Augusta Roy is having a smidgeon of fun with publicity-night to try to get a good look.

To him she is not just a colorful legend and sometimes ghost. She is a beloved friend who has been lulled him asleep because he is taking care of her house she loved.

Couple And Son Die At Crossing Near Marysville

Car Struck Broadside By Piggy-Back Freight

Three persons were instantly killed early today — one of them a six-months old baby — when their car was struck by a westbound Canadian National Railways freight train on the C.N. double track line south of No. 2 highway near Marysville.

Dead are Thomas Franklin Boyd, 28, of R. R. 1, Deseronto, Miss Ethel Lorraine Maracle, 23, and the couple's six-month-old son Timothy.

Provincial police said the Boyd car was southbound on what is known as Drummond sideroad when, as it crossed the C.N.R. double track a quarter of a mile south of the highway it was struck broadside by the westbound "piggy-back" freight. The accident occurred about 3.30 a.m.

The car was carried 125 feet from the point of impact, with two of the bodies strewn along the right of way. The car was a complete wreck.

One of the bodies was found at wrecked auto, another was found 40 feet away—from the car and one 75 feet away.

TRAIN GOING 70

The westbound freight, thundering along with it known as the Shannonville Flats, was estimated to have been travelling close to 70 miles an hour when the diesel locomotive caught the car broadside. Engineer Lorne Fevef of Belleville was unable to stop his heavy freight until over a mile and three miles past the crossing.

Leon Smith Belleville conductor on a following freight, searching the right-of-way for bodies possibly thrown from the wrecked car, picked up the body of the infant and carried it back to the caboose with the assistance of giving artificial respiration.

It was only when he arrived at the caboose that it was discovered the baby was dead.

Provincia' Constable Howard Adamson was in charge of the police investigation.

This morning's triple death toll established a record for the crossing accident in the Shannonville area in recent years.

On Dec. 31, 1958, a six-car Shannonville area residents met death when a C.N.R. train struck by a C.P.R. train on the Second Concession of Tyendinaga east of Shannonville station.

Police said an inquest had been ordered following date this morning's crossing accident.

Motion Asks Senior Govts. To Pay Two Thirds of Capital Costs for New Hospitals

As result of a Belleville resolution passed this week in Toronto by the Ontario Hospital Association the senior Canadian governments will be asked to pay two thirds of the capital costs of future hospital construction.

The resolution to be presented to both the federal and provincial governments by the Hospital Association asks that Ottawa pay one third of hospital capital costs, the province one third, and the local municipality the remaining third.

The resolution was placed before the Ontario Association at Toronto on Monday and was approved by that body.

Present capital grants from senior governments for hospital construction is on an area and bed basis.

Yesterday at their regular monthly meeting, members of the local hospital board decided that consideration would be given to "closing the present visitors' driveway leading to the parking area east of the hospital.

The intention would be to move the driveway to east of the present Harris residence now used as a lecture room for the instruction of hospital laboratory technicians.

The present driveway would be restored to grass and new parking arrangement would keep cars from parking right up to the hospital wall.

The move would appreciably improve the appearance of the grounds, hospital board members feel.

Budget estimates for 1962 hospital operation are now being prepared by the hospital administration staff. Estimates for the next year have to be forwarded to the Ontario Hospital Services Commission by the end of October each year.

Retail Druggist Has No Control Over Drug Costs

By PAT USSHER

TORONTO (CP) — The retail druggist has no control over the price the manufacturer charges him, a Toronto retail drug store operator said Friday.

The point was made at the concluding session of the Retail Trade Practices Commission hearings here.

The commission, inquiring into the manufacture, distribution and sale of drugs, expects to conclude its public hearings in Ottawa next month. Since early June it has sat in 10 cities across Canada.

"There is no bargaining between you and the manufacturer druggist," Wilfred Isaacson, who operates several retail stores in Toronto, said in answer to a question by J. J. Frawley, counsel for the province of Alberta.

"We cannot question the prices a manufacturer charges for his drugs." Mr. Isaacson said.

Mr. Frawley asked: "Without offence to you, you are a captive market for the manufacturer?"

Mr. Isaacson agreed.

The witness, a member of the governing council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy and former chairman of its prescription pricing committee, was asked by counsel assisting, F. N. MacLeod: "Is price cutting unthinkable in the retail drug field?"

In prescription drugs, yes," he replied.

C. Rhodes Smith, chairman of the commission, said tentative plans call for the commission to meet in Ottawa Nov. 14 to 16 to hear representatives of Professor Brian Dixon, economic consultant to the Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

The Queen's University professor appeared as an expert witness for the CPMA when that organization submitted its brief earlier in the course of the two-week hearings in Toronto.

Mr. Smith, formerly attorney-general of Ontario, said lawyers who have attended the hearings also would have an opportunity at that time to make final summations, if they wished to do so.

Are No Awards For Collecting Cigarette Boxes

There is one hoax making the rounds of eastern Ontario communities these days which has extremely little to recommend it. It is the "cigarette package boaxt" and can hardly be considered even vaguely amusing.

The basic mechanics of this hoax is to convince children that if they collect so many empty cartons of one cigarette or another, the manufacturing company involved will donate a wheel chair to a local hospital or needy person. The reward has also been given as a sewing eye dog for a blind person.

The eventual result is that children, and even adults, have conducted an extensive collection campaign only to find that there is no offer on the part of any tobacco firm.

It has been pointed out by the Vickers and Benson advertising agency that no firm would be foolish enough to use either children crippling or invalids as a lure to promote its sales. This Montreal agency thinks that the hoax is usually initiated in a small way at a local level and has been heading west out of Montreal for almost year now.

Exactly who the perpetrators of this fake might be is not known but at least the hoax is known and local citizens should go right on tossing their empty packages in the waste basket.

West Berlin police retaliated by tossing more than 30 green-black cars across streets, erected border barrier. There were no reports of casualties.

NO ALARM

The mute display of military strength by the Russians and Americans before withdrawal had created no particular alarm here despite the fact it was the first time the two main contenders for the cold war faced each other with guns since Berlin officials developed earlier this year.

A relaxed air had prevailed along the border with the American armored crews sitting around casually smoking cigarettes this morning papers.

On the Communist side of the Russian crews posed for photographs and accepted flowers from East German schoolgirls. The flowers were strung up on the tracks, aerials, turrets and gun barrels, giving the tanks almost the appearance of bridal cars.

A high Soviet source told an American reporter that Russian tanks would be withdrawn into the Western sector if U.S. tanks moved into the Communist zone. He indicated there were a large number of Soviet tanks on hand.

Americans Confident Gap Can Be Closed in Space Race

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States still has a long way to go to catch up with Russia in the space race, but the brief, successful flight of the 460-ton Saturn, considered to be the most powerful rocket, has increased American confidence that the gap can be closed.

President Kennedy once stated that the United States was about 10 years behind Russia in production of rocket lifting power and space technology. Even with all the effort in the world, the United States may not be able to catch up in the 1960's.

MOVIES MOVE TOO

For while the United States is spurting ahead in its own technology, Soviet science is not standing still. Russia has shown great skill not only in lifting power but in developing more accurate rocket control and guidance instruments.

Creation of the eight-engined Saturn, fired on its maiden voyage Friday, is a striking advance in one segment of the race. Creation of electronic instruments that can match or exceed those of the Russians is still a matter for the future.

In over-all power, the 163-foot Saturn, hurled from Cape Canaveral, Fla., on its eight-million trip 95 miles high and 200 miles out to sea on a thrust of 1,300,000 pounds compared with an estimated 1,000,000 pounds for what the Americans consider to be the biggest of the Russian boosters. This figure is estimated to be capable of lifting about twice the Ruslan load that led to the launching of two Soviet spacemen earlier this year.

MORE TESTS AHEAD

But the Saturn, in its present shape, is only a test booster, designed to begin a new phase of American super - lifting power. Nine more tests, similarly rigged, will be shot in the next 2½ years before serious consideration is given to the possibility of lifting a man to the moon.

The American take of pot-possibly landing a man on the moon by 1970. A major financial effort is being made to attain that goal and restore the prestige and confidence of American technology.

But there is a feeling haunting some American scientists that the Russians will get there first.

County Judge Convicts Two Brampton Boys

BRAMPTON (CP)—Two Brampton youths were convicted on charges of theft Friday by a county judge after a magistrate had dismissed the charges on grounds that police evidence in the township had no jurisdiction over them.

The Crown appealed the dismissal of charges against Ralph DeVries and John Pistera, both 18. The youths pleaded guilty before Judge W. Grant Fry today and were placed on a year's suspended sentence. They were charged with stealing a radio from a Brampton poultry farm.

Magistrate F. H. Bisko convicted Pistera Oct. 12 and sentenced him. He was about to take a plea from DeVries when Brampton Police Chief Fran Keating argued the charge was improper because they were laid by officers of the neighbouring Peel County Provincial police force.

The chief argued that the officers had no jurisdiction in Brampton and Magistrate Bisko upheld his submission.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Here's Story of Man Who Found His Shangri-La in Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

A Midwesterner who retired to Clemson, S.C., has decided he ought to let the rest of the country in on his good fortune — so he has written a book — let about it.

His name is F. M. Simpson. He worked for 30 years with Swift & Co. in Chicago and retired three years ago. He and Mrs. Simpson moved to Clemson, where he had been elected a position teaching the marketing of livestock and meat at Clemson College, which is located in the city.

The booklet is a project of the Retired Men's Club of Clemson (32 members). Mr. Simpson suggested it, and the club asked him to write it.

He agreed, he says, because "the people here all seem to be nice and hospitable, the climate and natural beauty of the region an appealing kind of living so reasonable, I felt that by presenting such a booklet Mrs. Simpson and I could partly pay for the unmeasurable happiness that Clemson has given us - - - To this was added the hope that other senior citizens might find happiness here - - -

HELPFUL INFORMATION

He says he sought to include in the booklet the kind of information he's experienced as a retiree had led him to believe persons approaching retirement would like to know.

The booklet is called "A Good Place to Live and Retire Clemson." Among other things it says that:

Clemson has a population of about 2,000, is 31 miles from Greenville and 130 miles from both Charlotte, N.C. and Atlanta, Ga. It's 275 miles from the Atlantic Ocean and a four-hour drive from the heart of the Great Smoky Mountains. It's also just a short drive from something called Sassafras Mountain and what a retirement dream that would be.

Clemson, up to this week, has had no cyclones, tornadoes or hurricanes. Its temperatures as averaged over the last 30 years are: January 43.6; February 45.0; March 51.9; April 60.1; May 68.8; June 76.7; July 78.8; August 77.8; September 73.0; October 61.7; November 50.3; December 44.0.

The first interest of people especially retired ones, is the cost of living. Mr. Simpson tried to give definite figures that would be applicable to all. He says: - - - (However) many members of the Retired Men's Club and of the Clemson College staff, who have lived in other parts of the country agree that there is no area of the United States where living costs are as low as here. The Clemson area when available advantages are taken into consideration - - -

OLD SOUTH FLAVOR

Clemson still retains some of the flavor of the "Old South" (John C. Calhoun's home is here). And the cultural advantages of a college town - lectures, musicales, entertainments, drama, civic activities - - - and athletics. It has been said that retirement as "good, wholesome and substantial, neither poor nor wealthy." Mr. Simpson points out that Abiquerque, N. Mex., would be his Shangri-La. Clemson changed his mind.

If you want his booklet you'd better write the Clemson Chamber of Commerce. The Retired Men's Club had no funds to print it and the Chamber picked up the tab.

paign since the resolution was approved in the assembly's political committee Wednesday by a vote of 75 to 10 with Mali abstaining.

Tsarapkin described the resolution as a "NATO propaganda dirt arrow" and said it failed to comprehend that only general and complete disarmament could end the nuclear menace which were merely a consequence of Soviet fears of aggression.

The action said Tsarapkin, was "like pumping water out of the bottom of a sinking ship without closing the hole."

"Nothing will obstruct the Soviet Union in its efforts to strengthen its defence capacities or in its efforts for peace."

Tsarapkin charged that all the resolution's co-sponsors — Canada, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Iceland, Japan, Iran and Pakistan—are members of aggressive military blocs except Sweden, which served as a "cover-up."

CLOSEST TO AREA

The countries initiating the appeal, however, had said they acted because they are closest to the Arctic area where the bomb, exploded 30,000 miles off TNT, is expected to be detonated.

They would therefore be in a direct line with radioactive fallout. Etienne Gilbert Alfaro Minister Howard Green of Canada announced in the UN assembly that radiation would be the main consideration of his decision.

It was on this subject that the unanimously approved earlier Monday the Canadian plan — cosponsored by 8 countries—for a global network to measure and report on radioactive fallout.

This formula would use existing facilities of the World Meteorological Organization, a UN agency with HQ in Geneva.

Another provision asks the UN Disarmament Committee on Atomic Radiation to expedite, if possible, a report on fallout scheduled for next spring and to consider an interim report. The resolution was passed by 9 with 17 abstentions — the abstainers including the Soviet bloc.

Mrs. Kendall, 32.

The late Mrs. Kendall had gained fame in 1952 to tell police Superintendent Miss Hilda Neelands that her husband had left her.

Mrs. Kendall's disappearance that she had left home. They had kept the secret from newspapers, but not from amongst themselves, from her father's arrest.

Shortly after Mrs. Kendall's disappearance, Arthur and his five children moved in with Mrs. Hogan.

Police witnesses testified to finding a trail of dried blood across the floor of the long, abandoned cabin and a neighboring boat contained the discovery of a box containing clothing identified as Mrs. Kendall's and a red checked newspaper under a nearby clump of trees.

But there was no evidence of what happened to Mrs. Kendall's body.

White Cane Club Holds Oct. Meeting

At the October meeting of the White Cane Club President Pat Baverstock welcomed the members and escorts and a special welcome to Ted Rowe, Mike O'Malley and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright who have been absent a long time.

Secretary Violet Waite called the roll from memory White Cane Week was discussed and Clarence Morris was appointed to the charge, assisted by Dick Philbin and Theresa Chisholm.

The birthday song was sung for Doris Lloyd, Sara O'Shea, Ted Rowe and Charlie Dolan. The president announced that Sara O'Shea and Alice Smith who are in the hospital are improving.

Helen Wardlaugh was presented with a birthday gift which she will share Monday evening's meeting.

On behalf of the White Cane Club Pat Baverstock made a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lowe, who are leaving to take up residence in Toronto. Mr. Lowe stated how much they enjoyed their association with the Belleville club and "expressed thanks.

Maude Rollins read a letter from a former member Mildred Hanna from Winnipeg who is enjoying all club activities there.

Miss Laurie Towner collected the flower fund. Mr. Jerry Clement entertained with many lovely violin selections including waltzes and old time music. Tea was thanked by Helen Wardlaugh. Artie Scott also played two violin numbers impromptu.

Meryle Lowe favored with a beautiful reading called "The Highwayman" by Alfred Noise. This was outstanding.

A large number were present for the birthday party of Mr. P. I. Timmins and Mr. Don Ferguson was played by Clarence Morris on his recorder, which gave a description of the camp for the blind at Lake St. Joseph.

Miss Myrtle Peck and Maude Rollins conducted a contest which was making as many words as possible from the word Hallowe'en. The winners were Pat Baverstock, Vi Waite and Clarence Morris.

Lunch was served by the Kinsmen who were thanked by Mr. J. A. Wright.

A feature of the lunch was a beautiful cake decorated in Hallowe'en style and donated by the Kinsmen.

Final Arrangements Made For United Appeal 'Blitz'

Monday afternoon and evening 825 volunteer workers, mostly public-spirited women of the community, will conduct the city-wide house to house canvass for the final stage of the Belleville United Appeal for 1961.

Under the direction of Mrs. Jane Forrester, the organization of this final "blitz" has been completed with canvassers' kits and instructions issued to all the workers, many of whom are from the eleven agencies in the United Appeal, as well as many other citizens who have volunteered their services to the community's major appeal for funds for its welfare, social work and youth work agencies.

The purpose of the household "blitz" is to contact the housewives of the community and the retired persons who could not have been reached through the other methods of fund-raising used by the Appeal, Mrs. Forrester said.

Not every home in the city will be reached, she advised, due to the fact that there have not been enough workers assembled to canvass every district within the city limits. These not contacted during the household "blitz" or the other portions of the campaign may, however, make their contributions directly to the Appeal's campaign headquarters in the former Victoria and Grey Trust office opposite the city hall.

Hospital's Visiting Hours To Be Extended to 1 to 9

In a move to improve hospital conditions for patients, members of the hospital board of governors have decided to extend the visiting hours at Belleville General Hospital.

The new schedule of visiting hours will go into effect on December 1st, it was announced yesterday following the regular monthly meeting of the board.

Instead of the present visiting hours from 3 to 4 in the afternoon and from 7 to 8 in the evening, under the new schedule the visiting will be extended to 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 in the evening.

Visiting hours for the pediatrics ward will be changed to 3 to 7 p.m. instead of the single afternoon period at the present. Visitors to be maternity ward under the new schedule will be admitted from 3 to 4 and from 7 to 8.

NEED CO-OPERATION

"We hope the new schedule of hours will make for better conditions for the patients", Hospital Administrator Wendy Darchael said, "but to make it workable all visitors will have to make themselves partners to the scheme.

"We place more responsibility on the visitors who will have to make their visits short and they will also have to adhere to the ruling of only two visitors to a patient at one time".

To make the extended visiting hours workable, Mr. Darchael said that a requirement would have to be that all visitors leave the room when nurses are treating any patients or, when visitors have occasion to examine patients in their rooms during visiting hours.

Reid's Dairy Safe Is Robbed

Thieves who entered Reid's Dairy in Belleville last night got away with a small amount of money after they pried open the company safe.

Inspector McLauchlan of the city police department said this morning that the thieves gained entry to the premises by forcing a rear window.

It is understood they took the safe out into the milk room and forced open the safe door by using a sledge hammer and a prying bar. The amount of money taken was not available at press time.

Police are still investigating the theft.

Prices Remain Unchanged on Local Market

A small crowd of vendors and buyers braved the chilly weather this morning as they strolled through the market square hunting for bargains, which many of them found.

Prices have remained at a steady level for some time now, as the supply of fresh fruits and vegetables is running out. Apples are in season now and plentiful. There are many varieties to choose from, ranging in price from 5c to 75c a basket.

Vegetable prices remain unchanged, cabbage selling for 10c and the a head, carrots, beets and onions selling for 25c a half peck, and 50c a six-quart basket.

Now is the time to buy that Hallowe'en pumpkin for the small fry, as they are being brought to the market square in large quantities, and selling from 20-35c, according to size.

Butternut squash sold for 10c or 3 for 25c, according to size, table queen sold at 10c apiece and hubbard squash sold from 10-15c, according to size and turnips sold from 10-15c.

Potatoes have held a steady price and are selling for 50c a basket and tomatoes ranged from $1.00 a basket to 25c a berry box.

Apple cider is still plentiful, remaining the same in price as previous weeks, $1.00 a gallon and smaller bottles selling for 50c, 25c and 15c, according to size.

Fresh eggs varied in price this week, extra large selling for 60c a dozen, large, 55c a dozen, medium, 50c a dozen, and pullets' eggs sold for 44c a dozen. Roasting chickens at $1.25 and up.

blast consists of fission products shot high into the atmosphere. These products remain suspended in the atmosphere for periods ranging from days to years.

The radioactive materials in the atmosphere are of two types. There are short - lived products which decay over a brief period and long - lived ones which remain active for many years.

Increases in the levels of fallout in air samples are caused mainly by the short - lived fission products. These disintegrate rapidly and fallout levels drop almost as quickly as they build up.

Because the short - lived products retain their strength for only a short period, they have not in the past been considered a health hazard.

PICTURE CHANGING

However, this picture has changed as a result of the resurgence of Russian nuclear explosions. Knowledge is incomplete concerning the possible effects on health of high levels of these short - lived fission products.

The long - lived fission products from present Russian tests are being injected into the air to earth until next spring. The chief one is strontium-90 which finds its way into human bones and can cause cancer.

Effect of short - lived and long lived fallout on humans is not known precisely but scientists have ideas about the possible long term effects on the closest data on which to make conclusions and it will take a long time to get it.

Fallout readings from air samples are obtained by a public health report on atmospheric radioactivity. They are not related to abnormal causes of radiation and do not give other than indirect information on probable fallout at ground levels in the days immediately following a nuclear explosion.

Tractor Goes Out of Control' One Injured

A tractor-trailor float owned and driven by Albert Marritt of Woodbridge Dist., was damaged to the extent of $400 this morning when the driver lost control of the vehicle on highway No. 2 about one mile south of Marysville.

Ontario Provincial police said that the driver, Albert Marritt, apparently fell asleep at the wheel of the truck and plowed into the north ditch. They said the vehicle then struck a driveway culvert and bounced across the highway into the southern ditch where it came to rest.

A passenger in the truck at the time of the accident, Gerry Tattam, of Paulgrave Ont., is in the Belleville General Hospital suffering from a broken collar bone.

Mr. Marritt was not injured in the accident. Police said the float type tractor-trailer was that used for transporting heavy construction machinery.

Joyce Barber Tops Class in Meteorology

TRENTON — While the average Canadian is casting his ballot benevolently, asking himself apprehensively how much radioactive fallout is liable to come tumbling down out of the clouds, Air Woman Joyce Barber, 21, of Vancouver, who recently graduated from the School of Meteorology, will probably be measuring the fallout, nonchalantly, and including this information in her weather reports, transmitted by teletype, to a national network of communication mediums.

Recently Joyce participated in a 10 weeks' course at RCAF Station Trenton. She is now a qualified meteorological observer.

Sixteen persons entered for the course; eleven graduated, and Joyce had the highest marks out of the 11. Her passing marks are classified information, but one of her instructors, Flt. Sgt. T. S. Lee, said that Joyce was the one "honor student" graduating.

Joyce attended the University of British Columbia for two years before joining the air force in 1960. Aptitude tests established the fact that her special forte was weather reporting. She has been posted to Gimli, Manitoba, around 50 miles north of Winnipeg.

She is looking forward to her three-year stay at Gimli. The station is under Training Command, and Pilots are interested at this station. An active recreation program is carried on for RCAF personnel there, and Joyce is particularly interested in the fact that around the station live members of a transplanted Icelandic group of Nordic origin, who still maintain many of their ethnic customs.

50 WOMEN IN GROUP

Joyce, along with around 50 other airwomen in Canada and Europe in this special service, will take visual observations of the weather and record observations gained through the use of instruments. She will plot weather charts, send aloft weather balloons to determine the velocity and direction of the wind), code her reports and transmit them by teletype. Observations must be taken and recorded every hour.

All RCAF procedures are carried out under the direction of the World Meteorological Organization which is an integral part of the United Nations Organization.

In her three years at Gimli, Joyce may take two sets of examinations in order to place herself in the third grouping of this branch of the service.

Members of the three armed services are taught to be weather observers.

No Place to Hide

Thursday we dealt at some length with radioactive fallout from nuclear explosions, putting particular stress on the fact that the effect of radioactivity on human being, or on any animal, is cumulative.

There is one important consequence of this fact which may be overlooked.

Soviet Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky announced at the Soviet Communist Party Congress on Monday of this week that the Russians have devised a way of destroying missiles or rockets. Whether the Russian announcement is true or not is propaganda, the discovery of methods of destroying long-range missiles before they reach their targets is certainly one of the main objectives of military scientists today. If the problem has not yet been solved, it will probably eventually be solved.

This, though, does not remove the danger of mass annihilation as the result of a nuclear war. The destruction of a missile would almost certainly involve the detonation of its nuclear warhead. Indeed, one of the arguments advanced as to why the Bomarc, which Canada is acquiring, should have a nuclear warhead is that such a warhead would detonate an enemy nuclear device in the air. A conventional warhead, on the other hand, even if it destroyed the vehicle carrying the enemy device, would not detonate it. It could then be set to detonate on striking the ground, which would result in an increase in the radioactive fallout it would produce.

In the event of a nuclear war, therefore, even if all the nuclear devices speeding across the continents, in planes or in missiles, were destroyed before they reached their targets, they would all explode. This great series of nuclear explosions would increase radioactivity fallout to unheard of proportions. Fallout shelters would be no solution to this peril. The fallout would continue over a long period of time, not merely in proximity to the places at which the nuclear devices exploded but all over the globe.

What the results would be, even scientists can only guess. Even if nobody suffered radiation sickness in a form which could be diagnosed, however, the danger of an increase in leukemia, still-births and mutations in future babies would be increased many fold.

Like it or not—there is just no place for man to hide if he persists in polluting the air with nuclear and thermonuclear explosions. Destroying bombs before they reach their targets is no better than a partial answer, which will, perhaps, do no more than postpone death and make it slow and painful instead of instant and painless.

Cautious

If consistency is a jewel, the majority of the members of Belleville City Council are bedecked like maharajahs.

Monday evening the Council turned down two resolutions seeking referendums on Sunday sport and Sunday golf. One of the resolutions would have provided for a referendum early in 1962, the other for a referendum at the next municipal elections. There was considerable debate as to the effect such a referendum might have on the election or defeat of candidates for Council, and whether it meant the referendum should be held at municipal election time or after it. Council, however, rejected both proposals.

Council also had before it a by-law to provide for raising the speed limit on Dundas Street West, but declined to give it a third reading. Avondale residents continued their fight against the increased speed limit. Council decided to postpone third reading of the by-law until a by-law is passed for construction of a sidewalk in the area affected, although Avondale residents indicated they would still oppose the higher speed-limit when the sidewalk is completed. Council declined to even discuss the issue, deferring action on the by-law without comment.

There is one common theme evident here. The majority of the members are evidently determined not to do or say anything which would become a "political issue" at the time of the municipal election.

Under the circumstances, it might save a lot of time and even perhaps some money if Council just stood adjourned until next year's council has been elected. The majority of the present members are evidently prepared to deal only with routine non-controversial matters, and it would seem reasonable to suppose that in matters where no decisions are really needed the conduct of the city's affairs could be safely left to appointed officials without any danger of grievous infringements of our democratic rights.

Churchill Blamed Again

General Governor

Churchill is being blamed again. This time the charges appear in the new volume of the official history of the "War at Sea". The author of this most recent book, Capt. Stephen W. Roskill, says that Churchill wanted Britain's resources in the early years of the war by his determination to make submarine attacks upon the enemy, though he did not have sufficient reserves even for defence. Capt. Roskill says it is a good thing that some other premature attacks upon the enemy that Churchill planned did not come off, for one reason or another.

Inquiries have been made whether Churchill is contemplating a reply. His secretary says that Sir Winston is aware of the book, but he "never comments publicly on such matters."

Perhaps, by now, Sir Winston has grown used to published criticism of this kind. When Viscount Alanbrooke published his memoirs a few years ago he quoted from his diary: "God knows whether I shall ever be without him, but God knows where I shall find another." Churchill never faces realities.

. . . He is quite incorrigible and quite impossible."

But almost these very words were used by an earlier military critic, Lord Chelmsford. On December 14, 1951, Sir Douglas Haig was writing in his diary:

"I have no doubt that Winston means to do his utmost [as Minister of Munitions] to provide the Army with all it requires, but in the sense of time he can hardly help upsetting the larger questions of strategy and tactics by the introduction of the latter he has no real training, and his agile mind only makes him the more likely to suggest changes which the experts will not be 'easy. He has no need to 'concentrate publicly on such things."

No one will official war historians criticize Churchill more than amateur among the generals. The official history of the British Army in the Second World War has this letter from Churchill to the Australian Minister who were recommending the sending of reinforcements to Hong Kong.

"This is all wrong. If Japan goes to war with us there is not the slightest chance of holding Hong Kong or relieving it. It is a useless effort to increase the loss we shall suffer there . . . We must avoid frittering away our resources in untenable positions."

But in this instance the chief of staff did not like the amateur general bowed to their judgement.

Any attempt to describe Churchill as a great national leader, but a supreme meddler among the experts will not be "easy. He has no need to "concentrate publicly on such things."

I am an military historian, and I wonder if you would publish a letter from me to ask some brief space on your editorial page, or your letters to the editor column?

For some time now I have been attempting to trace each and all of the Battalions in the Canadian Expeditionary Force of 1914-18 and the Pipe and Drum Bands, and I am in need of a photograph of the 21st Battalion, the 33rd Queen's Universities Highland Battalion, or of a photograph of the entire Band constituting the units. STRENGTH for the DAY
By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
BOTH CORRECT

What of evangelism?

Among very sincere Christians there is a difference of opinion on this matter. Some people want their religious observances so to be characterized by dignity and restraint that no emotionalism will ever arise to corrupt it. Others love great evangelistic campaigns that appeal to the sinner to come forward and repent before the world. Those who discuss evangelism confront us at the Biblical caution that everything in connection with our faith should be done decently and in order, and to the edification of the saints. Those who favor evangelistic methods point to the undoubtedly good results which have followed the efforts of certain sincere evangelists.

Both points of view appear to be right, yet neither is right if accepted to the exclusion of the other. Worship and all religious practices should indeed be characterized by dignity and decorum. On the other hand, Jesus was a freelance preacher recognized by many in his generation as an evangelistic type of preacher. Wesley, Moody, and in more latter days, Billy Graham, have certainly performed immense Christian service. We cannot cast men of this sort and their work aside as we want to be realistic and just.

There was, about Christ, the Great Evangelist, a life and a witness which impressed even such a materialist and worldling as Pontius Pilate. His utterances were characterized by a passion which stirred men to deep devotion. Modern Christianity needs the dignity of established worship and the passion of evangelism.

High Heels Spoil Charm

Brockville Recorder and Times

Thanksgiving weekend activities after providentialized for the fair set to look their best. The fun shone with an unusually mild holiday that tempted the ladies to display a summery look often mistaken at this time of year because of cooler temperatures.

The ploughing, plowing championship at Belleville was such an occasion. Dressed in pretty girls a-plenty at this display of the world's oldest farming competition, their well tractors and other up-to-date farm machinery, plus the aids rendered by agricultural researchers. While the men folk in their sweaters and caps attended the serious business of the plow, the ladies occupied themselves with the equally serious business of being seen while strolling around the many exhibits in the tent city adjacent to the plowing area.

Without attempting to probe the tricky subject of high fashion, I feel safe in saying there is no surprise to see some of the ladies trudging over the fields in high heels. Fortunately, the hard, dry ground was an asset to high heels. If it had been wet and soggy then we suspect there would have been no high heels.

More suitably garbed, it seemed, were the pretty blonde in white blouse, grey pleated skirt and black socks. She and those companions looked like city folk, and the blonde herself would have been one of those delectable young ladies one sees in the advertisements, passably for a change. For the course of a long country ramble. Her grey flannel ensemble, were flat-heeled. All in all she appeared perfectly attired for the outdoors, while the other women looked as if they might have been at a cocktail party.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARKE

Driving around Texas New Mexico and Arizona, the impressive thing is the size of the cities and towns take of their school children as far as traffic is concerned. There is no fooling. One half hour before school opens in the morning, at noon, and before closing at three-thirty, big determined-looking men move out into the middle of the pavements, a white circle of them maybe two blocks long. Signs announce speed to be reduced to 20 miles an hour.

And woe betide any driver who exceeds that speed during the prescribed hours. Fines are a minimum of $2, and in some cases run to $100. Police cars around a school all crossings are similarly restricted during the hours children are obliged to travel on foot.

The principle of the system is that there is a reasonable limit to what you can expect of children, but no reason in the world why anybody should drive as fast as they naturally go, if uncontrolled.

To Your Good Health

Patients Visiting Doctor Ought to Keep Patience

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

Here's a letter that might help a lot of people — both doctors and patients:

"Dear Dr. Molner — I follow your column pretty well and enjoy it muchly. I'm not very strong for doctors as such, because I refuse to spend the afternoon sitting in their office when I have a definite appointment. I wish you would write about that, along with your opinion on a broken appointment. I have each year in July and August. It's hay fever, and if it's an allergy, why just those two months?

"It's a breaking out, mostly around my ankles, which burn as hell.

Here you have a case of irritation — at the nobles and at the other end. At which end shall we start? Oh, I know the end, I guess — the viewing about wanting to see the doctor.

I cannot, in all honesty, or science, deny that sometimes patients have. As you wait, they say we have "waiting rooms," presumably with magazines containing old articles that you read in five minute or less, so that people don't get half way through one, only to have to run in to the doctor and never to finish it. Remind me to suggest that somebody publish a magazine designed entirely for waiting rooms.

The fact is that I don't know of any way of making appointments like search of the clock. You can't tell when a patient is going to arrive, any more questions, thought and testing.

There's, no way of knowing when a day's schedule will be thrown off balance by a patient who insists on talking for long about nothing — or, more important, when one of the five unexpected but real emergencies will arise. And obviously you can't observe that much less refuse, a real emergency.

I do ask, however, that patients with 2:30 appointment sometimes have to wait until 3:45 or even, in a few cases, in fact, of office schedules to be thrown off by more than three hours — which is tough on everybody, the patient who is undoubtedly angry, the doctor who is tired to death, and his receptionist-nurse who usually has a date that night and wants to get home and dress.

Believe me, I'd love picnic for anybody when the schedule gets all scheduled!

But an occasional really bad day, receptionistic sometimes prospers. "Unexpected emergencies (emergencies are always unexpected, are they

EVERYDAY LITTLE THINGS

He who has no time for little things rarely finds time for big ones.

For life is composed of little things all along the way. Everything is made up of little things. Matter starts with the tiniest atom.

I had a friend who was extremely able. But for 30 years he had always been talking of doing great things. Some of I can think of no worthy little thing that he did!

I had another friend who was busy doing little things all his life. But he was known by all who knew him. No little thing escaped him and he could turn it to the good or happiness of someone else. I remember laughing a gathering scene this friend was host. Everybody seemed to be busy, but I took particular interest in watching this man who studied the comfort and happiness of everyone else — forgetting that he was a part of the group, too.

I have always felt that if I can handle the little things of life efficiently I wouldn't have to worry about the big things. And so far I am finding that this is a safe supposition.

Little things are the ways in which we can turn the little things to big account. Even the salesman studies the little things. So does the politician. He may not remember your name but he'll shake your hand, remember your address, send a birthday card, or remember your interests. Everything is made up of little things. Matter starts with the tiniest atom

Hold to Absolute Value BCI Graduates Are Told By RCN Chaplain Dr. Foote

Graduating students were complimented on the great honor which they had won but also were charged with realizing and facing up to the great responsibilities, which were incumbent with these honors by Rev. Dr. E. G. B. Foote, D.S.C., C.D., R.C.N., Protestant Chaplain of the Fleet, guest speaker at the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School's graduation exercises yesterday evening.

Although examinations may be over with technically, this graduation each student must now face the greatest test of all—self, Dr. Foote declared. Graduation is merely the recognition that a person is capable of carrying on to greater and better things, he added.

Now was the time to take stock of oneself — to look within and see if one is in harmony with and able to cope with the forces of life, the Acadia University graduate suggested. Each graduate owned a debt which only he could pay in the years ahead by using his potential to the full for the good of himself and those about him, Dr. Foote said.

All is not clear sailing ahead, he advised. There is much confusion, new situations and experiences are confronting mankind and they will need new answers and decisions; but these decisions would have to be based on the values not only placed ones, he cautioned.

Although people are entering into one of the most trying times of history, it is also a time when offers perhaps the greatest opportunity for service and challenge to any person told in man's history the virtues of an 18 years service in the Royal Canadian Navy said.

It is important to hold to absolute, not relative, values; to maintain the mental, spiritual and character values which have come from the land by which our forefathers found their strength, determination and inspiration; and not to be deceived by the opulating superficiality of material things which lead but to dissipation and decay, the Chaplain of the Fleet emphasized.

LARGE CROWD ON HAND

If Canadians fail to appreciate and believe in their own way of life, to have faith in it and its values, which were used to found and build up their society, it offers absolutely nothing and the decay of this way of life is the only end ahead, Dr. Foote concluded.

Close to 1,100 people heard the guest speaker and the very edifactory address by graduate Rodney Follwell as only standing room was left in the court room more outside of the assembly hall.

The valedictorian mentioned that he was speaking in place of Bob Wannamaker, who was the victim of a drowning accident last August. His advice to him was what he would say would be what he felt the former BCIVS student, friend and classmate, in such a source of pleasure for those who knew him, would have said.

Thanks were due to one's parents and teachers for having that it was more important to learn how to live rather than to learn how to earn a living, Mr. Follwell said. Through their guidance students were able to develop one's character and to believe in himself and his life.

After graduation, he said, the student is now on his own — to make his life as full and rewarding a one as can be achieved through intelligent pursuits. One does not become educated merely because one has received a formal education or attended the valedictorian observed. It is not until one becomes mature through the intelligent application of his knowledge and from his experiences that he becomes educated.

During his opening remarks, BCIVS principal E. A. Ormsby offered his congratulations to the parents of the students which formed perhaps the finest graduating class in the history of the school. He noted that 85 per cent of them were carrying on their education to greater heights and that almost $11,000 had been won by them in prizes and scholarships.

Mr. Orr attributed this success to three things : a willingness to work, co-operative effort, and a determination to succeed.

Also speaking during the course of the evening's program was Mr. A. L. Greatrix, chairman of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board who advised the graduates that success was a personal thing and not something achieved by luck or at the expense of other people. Each experience should be used as a building stone towards success, he suggested and cautioned each graduate to be honest and upright and to take pride in his way of life.

Between the speeches and presentations, musical entertainment was provided with a couple of piano presentations by Roger Ling and two vocal selections by Wayne Soble. The school band provided the musical prelude to the evening's activities as well as the processional and recessional.

Afterwards there was a general reception for students, guests and visitors, as well as the graduation ball, both of which were very well attended.

Wings of Motherhood

By ALMA MASON

You are now a man. You have taken your place among the talented, chosen few of the world. You are sagacious with spoken words. It needs refinement of brilliant minds. You are crowned with the mercy of confidence bestowed those who seek and absorb priceless jewels of modern special seers; from powerful words.

To me you are still a beloved of freckle-faced boy. Mother parts and braids it needs to ment they are needed hearts, flatter it aloft and shims it back to your childhood. You no longer need me, now are you possess wings that are strong and sure wings that are more powerful than mine ever been or ever will be. wings are perfect for your agile and dewy as moth wings. Then I knew I would try to strengthen them for you would have to try them in your place; in and time. The fibre of your wings must be spun closely and perfectly.

Aware that your small cob-web wings must be stretched by the loom of example, my wife has assumed a more tardacious and difficult design. Scarlet threads of courage were dropped on the pattern; iridescent threads of honesty and truth covered the scarlet for endurance. Golden threads of purity mingled with the silver strands of brotherly love and kindness. Azure threads of patience and cheer, an optimistic yellow woven in, then pattern of loyalty and devotion looped in. Every white deed grew the whole.

Your wings were almost ready for flight. I looked over the delicate strength of the finished product. Here and there a strong tracer of silver a thread and slipped and been cleverly repaired. I felt often become weary and depressed. Sometimes impatience, had stood at my side and urged me to relinquish the seemingly endless task. Sorrow and frustration; days of fatigue had helped me to gain the courage.

Many long years had been definitely spent at the loom. My wife had become bent with the task and my fingers had grown gnarled and calloused — but my heart — had remained true and firm and now it soared with ecstasy for I looked on my labor and found it stout and fine and good.

Your lovely wings lacked one thread that could not be woven by human hands alone — for many days I journeyed to a quiet, sunny spot of prayer and slowly and surely they were overlaid with the golden fibre of faith in God.

Now they were ready to carry you aloft over the jagged mountains of despair and defeat; over the grey crags of insecurity of mind and soul; over the treeless wastes of cowardice and prejudice and deceit; over the dry arid deserts of evil and the desire for evil.

The day came when I had to watch you spread your wings in unknown skies. They carried you upward into the blue as straight as an arrow. You soared and skimmed into the sunset; then, suddenly, you were gone!

My days spent at the loom for you were over. Now my own life could be patterned again. I discovered that, strangely my worn-out and battered wings had gotten in irrevocably tangled with yours and would be forever enmeshed with the heart of a little boy I did not know how to fly alone. My child, the wings of all true mothers are really angel wings. Human eyes cannot discern the diamond-studded threads [illegible] fine; the very fabric is [illegible] that is almost divine. These blind eyes ally the soul wings of all mothers. Once you are clothed in the eternal and exquisite consciousness that is reflected in the wings of motherhood!"

BITES LIZ VICTIM

ROME (Reuters)—A monkey objected to being stroked by movie actress Elizabeth Taylor and bit her on the finger, it was learned Friday. The star's advisor tried to hush up the incident—while he papered it in a Rome pet shop Thursday — appropriately unaware that a photographer had recorded it from his beginning.

Quinte Field Naturalists Enjoy Geology, Mineral Talk

Mr. Friedrich Hellingbrunner of Peterborough Nature Club was the guest speaker at the October meeting of the Quinte Field Naturalists Club. He was introduced by the president of the Club and announced his subject as dealing with geology and minerals.

Mr. Hellingbrunner said that in his opinion he believed the study of geology to be the basis of most of the other natural sciences. He stressed the soil and rocks, vegetation and other forms of life would be unable to exist and mentioned types of soil and vegetation directly influence the wild life populations.

EARTH'S CYCLE

The speaker developed his topic and showed that the earth follows a pattern of both build up and erosion. Rocks and mountains are worn down by weather and the rocks are slowly turned to soil which eventually collects in the valleys until the land is relatively low. This may take many centuries, but eventually all present-day hills and mountains will be weathered away. Internal pressure and heat then transform the soils back to rocks, and the mountain building processes continues to complete a cycle probably started billions of years before.

The speaker also described some of the fossils and showed that the rocks may take during these processes and how mineral deposits were included.

COLORED SLIDES

Mr. Hellingbrunner further illustrated his talk with many excellent coloured slides taken both in Europe and Canada, and after a short intermission he gave his audience some pointers on the identification of rocks and minerals. The various methods used by "rockhounds" to recognize samples they collect was dealt with, and the speaker showed samples of many minerals and rocks found in Eastern Ontario.

Mr. William Watson thanked the speaker for covering such an extensive subject so well and clearly. After refreshments, everyone was invited to examine the rock and mineral samples more closely and question the speaker.

LAS VEGAS VIGNETTES

"Gambling in one form or another is legal in at least twenty-five states of our nation. At least six other states derive more tax revenue from legal gambling than does Nevada. Some of them get more than seven times as much. Every State—except Nevada—has some form of illegal gambling."—Gov. Grant Sawyer, 1960.

Recently, we found ourselves in Las Vegas for a few days. Here are some notes of observation and conversation that came our way:

Conversation with a Cigaret Girl at the Stardust Inn: "I lived here in Las Vegas for eight-teen of my nineteen years. I like it here. But for all the people you meet, you never get to know any of them. The men are either married or divorced and of such diverse interests: business men, doctors, engineers, lawyers and so on, and I refuse to date any of them. I feel I most certainly do not know my way around at all . . . She stood a very slight six feet seven inches tall, her slim figure, set off daringly in a scant black costume of black lace bodice above a brief satin skirt, had flattered gracefully about slender legs in wide scarcet net black hose, and she threaded her way amongst the people on matching spike-heeled pumps, sitting beside her tray of cigarets. The wide blue eyes in her youthful face topped by a mound of chestnut hair, were veiled with a puzzled, rather sad look in one so young and lovely. "But, well, the way I see it, isn't all life a big gamble?" she queried in conclusion .

Overhead in the lobby of The Desert Inn: "My husband doesn't approve of playing the slot-machines, so when he left me for a few hours I borrowed the my coat from our room, I very boldly played a dollar or two and after putting in three nickels found myself richer by fourteen new shiny ones. Later when he left to get the car, I played again and won three nickels and found a quarter in one of the 2¢ machines into the bargain."

Said a clean-eyed, good-looking young gargeman at a gas station on Fifth St.: "Just over the place where The Silver Spur had burned down, some time ago: . . . I really had specified business for the . . . He looked at his watch, "with some little disdain: "Or, in them? Not much. Oh I have been around, but look around. And I'd never think of going to any of the casinos just by gambling in them. I've better things to do.

Young colored girl attendant in the powder-room at the Tropicana: "Don't play the slot-machines here? Many days a week I'pon my soul — No! I can't afford it. I've been here since the Tropicana since it opened. Once I lived in Washington State where I worked with my husband on a farm. But I came back, which I now live with my sister. My husband and I separated. She grinned with sly ask-ance, her dark eyes crinkling in a rather piquant face, "I've been married three times. But my last husband I had a little son, but when he was eight years old he died of a mastic fever. Yes, three husbands, three times married and lor' a little son all a great heartache, but I'm over it now, and quite sure. Nice of you to say I look sixteen. If I only was . . .

At The Riveria Casino: As we walk about the avenues of slot machines, a dark small unsophisticated girl of woman is kind of motherly Italian woman, who might tend a fruit store if not here, rolls at our feet. My husband picks it up for her and she tells us: "Every time my husband and I come up here from Los Angeles I work very hard in a store and am glad to get away from it for a few days, — I always have the most fantastic luck. Sometimes I get embarrassed about it. For instance, no sooner had we arrived yesterday, when I hit a $120 jack-pot. It's as though I couldn't go wrong with each one I try. My husband has fair luck with craps and wins me his keep. But I won't do it. I prefer the slot machines, I like a decided "feel. ing" for them. I'll walk up to one and lif'play it or avoid it, just according to the way it makes me feel. And I'm certainly lucky; there's no denying it." And we shake her hand just in case there's a possibility that such luck rubs off — on us.

Perhaps that's why, later that evening, as we strolled among the casinos in uptown Las Vegas where night is unknown on the blinding Fremont Street, we, at one "to try our luck" to have our bets come up need then — can you believe it! the shiel slides into place. Three bars in a row. We, two stunned on a jack-pot!

Pigeon Raising OK

DEAR DORIS:—I have started going steady with a boy my family has known for years. My mother objects to him.

He is not the best behaved. He drinks. He fights and drives fast. But when he is with me he is a perfect gentleman. I wrote and told him we could not go together any longer and now I feel like two cents.

I know his heart is broken too.

I don't want to hurt mother, but I am 22 and I think I know my own mind. I asked him if we could remain good friends.—UNDECIDED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR UNDECIDED:—It's your life and your decision.

How bad are the fighting, drinking, fast driving? If you get on his hand wagon for life, will you end up ditched? Are there any signs that he will grow out of such reckless behavior? Your honest answers to these questions will tell you whether your mother is right.

If you do break off, don't try to stay friends. It doesn't work.

DEAR DORIS:—I noticed your letter about the boy that wants to raise pigeons. I sure think it is a very good thing for a boy. If he is really interested, his mother won't ever have to worry about a boy.

If he is a local boy, just put him in touch with me and I will help him—maybe give him some good birds.—PRESIDENT, RACING PIGEON CLUB.

DEAR PRESIDENT:—Our boy lives in another city! Perhaps members out there will be all for the birds, too, and get him started. Thanks anyway.

DEAR DORIS:—I like a boy in my room at school and everyone says he likes me. Two of the girls in the room are my enemies and they are causing trouble. They tell me he hates me and lies of that sort.

One of the girls told me something about him the other day and he said it wasn't true. They also tell him lies about me. Please help, me.—ADVICE WANTED.

DEAR ADVICE WANTED:—Having enemies is for the birds. If the girls think it's fun, leave them to it.

Your job is to keep your own affairs clean.

The boy that will soon tumble that they are making things up if he hasn't already.

DEAR DORIS:—I would like to apply for my old age pension. I am 63. I asked at the post office and they gave me a paper to fill out, but it is for people 70 years or over. I live with my daughter. Although I don't pay regular board, I have to contribute something to the household expenses. I have a small bank account around $300.

Would I be allowed to have that much money? Would the fact that I live with my daughter and son-in-law prevent my getting my pension.—GRANDMA MAUD.

DEAR GRANDMA—You got the wrong form. Go to your local welfare department and apply for Old Age Assistance, which takes care of needy people between the ages of 65 and 70. The pension comes later; is available to any person in Canada over 70, needy or not.

Savings of around $1,000 are permitted. The investigator will want to know just what amount you do contribute to your support, so be prepared. You won't have to move out to get assistance.

DEAR DORIS:—I would like to give a baby shower for my sister-in-law and I would like to know if I should invite some relatives of my husband's only.

Would you also answer the following questions, please:

(1) What should I use for pepper when I use salt cellars?

(2) What individual dishes are used in individual dishes, should you put them on the dinner plate or set them to the individual plates?

(3) Should you eat the salad first or with the main course when serving a full course meal?

(4) Should one give a gift to both his godparents or only to his godmother?—FRIENDLY SIS.

DEAR FRIENDLY SIS:—Relatives may be invited if your sister is well acquainted with them and you know they would like to be asked.

As for the other questions:

(1) Pepper grinders, table size, are becoming popular, and will go well with individual dishes. In the way of a salt cellar. - If the salt cellars are tiny individual ones, in glass or silver, you might obtain tiny glass or silver pepper shakers, perhaps a salt and pepper pair, using both for pepper.

(2) Eat from the individual plates.

(3) It is done both ways.

(4) If the godparents are a married couple, the gift could include them both by being something for their house. If godmother and godfather are two friends, not associated with each other, and gifts are being given, they should each receive one. But at a baby shower it's the baby who is on the receiving end.

* * *

(Where there's a will—you know the rest. Don't let things get you down. Write and ask Doris the answer for your dilemma.)

MANY GOOD CAUSES

There are many good causes calling for our support. But think how many of these were first inspired by the Church. The religious sources of our hospitals are known by their names — St. John's, St. Joseph's, St. Sinai, Presbyterian, Methodist. The YMCA, YWCA, Boy Scouts and other community agencies — whence came they? Directly or indirectly from church people. And the first institutions of higher learning in America's colleges before the Government got into education.

Close the churches and see how many streams of charity would dry up. Close the church, and see how higher education would suffer and our political freedom decay.

We are approaching the season when the churches raise their budget for the year. One denomination asks its members to pledge their prayers, their presence, their gifts and their service.

A Lift for Living

Showing Our Loyalty to God

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

If we were in an audience when the National Anthem was sung and we did not rise, we would be suspected of disloyalty. Yet despite the fact that America is "a nation under God," our Government leaves its citizens free to affirm or deny belief in God. No man's loyalty is challenged if he does not give open allegiance to his Creator or attend a place of divine worship.

When it comes to applying religious loyalty tests, no patriotic or social measure can be applied. All "that can be done is to beseech. And that is what we do—we by a Romanciliben who was also a Christian. I request his words: "I beseech you, brethren, by the mercies of God that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."

Saint Paul, the writer, realized that reason and conscience demand that we show by some sacrifice our indebtedness to God. It was by the mercies of God that this planet was made habitable for man's life, its floods and hurricanes it is a good earth.

By the mercies of God, a Savior was born in Bethlehem. He gave strength to the burdened, freedom to the enslaved, comfort to the suffering and hope to the dying. His influence reached from the Atlantic to lay the foundations of new nations, Canada and the United States. By the mercies of God our lot has been cast on a continent where all we have never known the pricks of hunger or the cruel ravages of invasion. The person who enjoys the blessings of God like ours must realize that some return is a despicable indignity.

To whom shall we show our gratitude?

We often speak lightly of prayer as if it were the easiest thing we can do. And sometimes it is. But it is truly work for it. So pray for the budget.

And then support it with your presence. As we passed a church in Copenhagen this summer, the guide on our sight-seeing bus said, "In Denmark 96 per cent of our population belongs to the State Church, but only about 1 per cent attends regularly." We have to get into a church's activity to enjoy it.

HURT WILL STOP

When we really support a church with our prayers and our presence, we want to help it with our gifts. Jesus said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Not at first. Giving is an acquired taste. The first effort comes hard. The plea is sometimes made, "Give till it hurts." Better is it to say, "Give till it stops hurting." And the hurt will stop.

The world is trembling on the brink of a crisis in Berlin. A godless communism proves itself so intolerable to the East Germans that they rushed to the West to prevent the loss of their lifeblood the Communist Government has set up a wall. Walls only make matters worse. If we drift into a nuclear war over Berlin, it will mean annihilation without reprieve. Perhaps just the hurt we get it through their heads that "if we do not end war, war will end us."

The issue between the Communist dictators and the free world is His. Let the deaths Godless must soon triumph over tolerance or the curtain will be rung down.

Let the church people stand up and be counted!

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

SLIGHT DIFFERENCES
By WINIFRED E. WILSON

Some warblers are still with us, but because they are almost silent, we need to be on the alert to notice them. Being about half size, and in autumn many wearing leaf color costumes, it is extremely difficult to differentiate between them; at warbler pace, they give us no chance to see details. Even the experts admit being stumped. For instance, being flash we see an olive colored bird with what appears to be white eye-rings and yellow on departs. Which warbler might it be?

Neither Canada nor Wilson warbler fits the description because their eye-rings are really pale yellow. The mourning lacks the complete white eye-ring, and wears a black-grey bib though the nest of the hanstorre is quite indistinct. This yeung-ster is remarkably like the Immature Connecticut, when its parents also have slate-grey hoods, but the adult female's is not noticeable. Connecticut warblers may also be identified by their unusual action of walking instead of hopping. Anyway, as the hoods cover the throat area, there can be no yellow there. So these birds are out of the running.

HAS NO HOOD

Now, let us investigate a Nashville which has no hood and a very yellow throat, in fact, completely yellow under parts. Can this be our choice? No, because the white eye-ring has a narrow white line running from it to the bill, giving the impression that the bird is wearing white rimmed spectacles. But there is yet another hood colored warbler which might fit our original description; the well known and wide spread yellowthroat. Of course the male is an impossible choice, because he wears a black mask. But the female and all her children a these suggestions entirely fits the general impression we got when the spry little olive warbler flitted in and out of our view. Which shall we choose?

Wings, Habs Tilts Feature Weekend

Blues, Leafs Lock Horns

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Doug Harvey may find out this weekend just how strong his New York Rangers really are.

The Rangers, surprise holders of second place in the National Hockey League race after 6½ weeks of play, lock horns in an home-and-home series with Toronto Maple Leafs, starting in Toronto tonight.

The two games could tell a thing or two, especially since Toronto coach Punch Imlach says the Leafs "may have just enough to finish on top" this season.

Unbeaten Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings also meet twice this weekend — tonight in Montreal and Sunday in Detroit.

Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins take tonight off, then clash Sunday in Boston.

The Rangers and Leafs both will be weakened defensively for tonight's game.

Goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley, injured a week ago in Detroit, is not expected to dress for the Blueshirts but may be back in action for the return game Sunday.

Worsley has been working out the last two days after leaving Detroit Olympia Stadium Hospital where he was under observation for a head injury suffered when he fell on the ice midway through a New York Detroit game.

Toronto, meanwhile, will play S. S. Marie

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Myles Robert Clerouxx, the Montreal "tank" who will help provide the "sabs" sauce tw the ageism greying lion of California Professor Archibald Moore in his fourth Canadian boxing banquet on Dec. 8th, next to the old philosopher at a press party the other night.

The Satchel Paige of the squared circle, sat to be 44 going on 48 (it's his word against Mamma's), was immaculately turned out in a midnight blue tuxedo complete with cummerbund, butterfly tie, and although the picture didn't show it, probably a commercial on the back of his jacket.

The young Canadian heavyweight champion of the world tangles with the partly-recognized light heavyweight champion of the world the night after they have picked up the pieces of one Thomas Mc-Nabney, fit-wired them neatly together, and mailed them back to Boston, while world champion Floyd Patterson gently buffs his fingernails, fondles his $100,000 cumulus, and wonders when the suckers north of the border will invite him back again.

And praised Archie probably will be doing the same thing around midnight December 5th only it will take him half as long to count it. He is guaranteed $250,000 at the 1961 gate, and Clerouxx $15,000. Both have an alternate percentage and will share in any radio or television gimmicks.

Author, composer, actor, philosopher, bills collector (60-ish, tens, twenties, fifties, one hundreds) and diet authority Moore, said he will be in excellent condition and will weigh in at 182 or 187, "the best one might expect from a man of my age."

The aging Socrates of Sock when asked by a reporter what kind of a fight he expected with Clerouxx, finished his hard and murmured, "If Mohammed doesn't come to the mountain, the mountain will have to come to Mohammed."

This Sande-loving Mohammed has come to the mountain (Mount Royal) on two previous occasions. The first time he raised the hopes of the New Brunswick fisherman Yvon Durrelle) being decked three times in the first round before coming to and stiffened Yvon after a period long enough to warrant a return bout.

The second time, Archie, who had been dieting on tangerine milk or whatever his secret Australian recipe is, left no doubt as to whom was the better boxer. He dismissed Yvon rather coolly, then rushed from the dressing room to help count the loot. Durelle, by the way, is now reduced to manual labor and one fishing boat.

After these fights, Canadian exports of currency to the United States were augmented by the amounts contained in two large carpet bags, consigned to Archie Moore Enterprises, c/o the State of California.

Last year Ole Arch went to Italy and lost a decision to Italian hero Rinaldi, with his stomach hanging jowl-like over his trunks. The Moorian imagery worked. The return bout was fought in the United States and was nothing short of a pathetic farce.

Last Monday night Moore worked out with Pete Rademacher, knocked him down eight times, let the referee stop the bout and waddled his 196 pounds out of the ring.

Asked about his opponent in weight and his Rademacher victory, the ebullient philosopher merely shrugged his shoulders, yawned and gurgled, "What's the difference Only much I weigh just as long as I'm strong enough to render my opponent horizontal!"

To use the vernacular, Archie has not only put on weight but "the dog" as well. He considers himself an after-dinner personality, coating himself with a veneer of sophistication.

At the press wine-dine the other night a photographer asked Archie to pose several times for different shots. Moore simulated a yawn, waved a hand and said, "I'm afraid this man is going to try my patience."

These affectations may be old-age eccentricities or more likely Hollywood gimmicks acquired during a brief sojourn as a movie actor in "Huckleberry Finn" when Arch played the part of Jim, the old slave.

Be that as it may. You cannot take away the fact that Clerouxx has been one of the more sensational figures of the ring. He has won 185 of his 225 bouts in 15 years of professional boxing.

But he has never, nor will he ever, realize his secret ambition—to become heavyweight champion of the world.

Will Referee Title Bout

Jersey Joe Selected Third Man

TORONTO (CP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, a specialist in juvenile delinquency with the Camden, N.J., police department and a former world heavyweight champion, will referee the Floyd Patterson-Tom McNeeley world title bout here Dec. 4.

This was announced Friday by Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commission chairman. Patterson will be defending his title against the 19th-ranked McNeeley from Boston.

McKenzie selected the 47-year-old Walcott from a final list of six former world lightheavy and heavyweight champions. He told a press conference that the use of an out-of-Ontario ref, over objection of "contingent factor" in obtaining the fight for Toronto and "I agreed to this with the stipulation the referee would have to be an ex-world light-heavy or heavyweight champion."

"All parties concerned approved of this idea and a slate of ex-champions was drawn up and from this I selected the referee."

McKenzie said Walcott was chosen from a final list of six—former heavy champions, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jersey Joe Walcott and Jack Sharkey, and Tommy Loughran, former light-heavy titleholder.

McKenzie said he selected Jersey Joe because he was the present title holder, between Toronto's George Chuvalo and Bob Cleroux of Montreal in the Quebec city ring. He added that appointment of the referee and details of the fight would be announced later although the five-point-must system, whereby a fighter can be declared winner if the 13 - round fight went the distance.

Face Frame-Up Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief of police of Newport, Ky., two detectives and three other persons were indicted Friday for the alleged frame-up of George Ratterman, a reform candidate for Newport sheriff and former pro football quarterback who once played for Montreal Alouettes.

The indictments, alleging violation of Ratterman's civil rights, were announced here by the U.S. Justice department.

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy said the charges is that the men conspired falsely to arrest Ratterman, who has contended he was drugged before he was arrested in an apartment with a strip-tease dancer, and to deny him a fair trial.

The indictment names Upshire White, 42, who was a detective at the time of the arrest and recently became police chief of Newport; Patrick Clardini, 39, and Joseph Quitter, 43, both Newport police detectives; Charles E. Lester, 53, a former Fort Thomas, Ky., lawyer; Tito Carinci, 32, president of the corporation owning the Tropicana night club in Newport, and Edward Anthony Buccieri, 39, a northern Kentucky for a half century.

Portland Hot

Flyers Bomb Blades 7-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's no question what has to be done by Western Hockey League clubs to stop Edmonton Flyers, the northern division leaders, and Portland Buckaroos, who top the southern section.

The Flyers would be less trouble if a check could be put on the line of Chuck Holmes, Len Lunde and Roger Delgrey. The Bucks could be had if their top unit of Art Jones, Arnie Schmautz and Gord Fashoway was throttled.

But how? The question wasn't answered Friday night.

Sparked by Holmes' three-goal performance the Flyers bombed Los Angeles Blades 7-1 before 3,700 Edmonton fans, while in Seattle, Jones, Schmautz and Fashoway were in on three goals as Portland came from behind to nip the Totems 5-4. In Vancouver 2,500 fans saw the Canucks get their first victory of the season, shutting out San Francisco Seals 3-0.

The small left Edmonton with 10 points and a four-point margin over Seattle in the northern division. Vancouver moved into third place, one-point ahead of the idle Calgary Stampeders and three behind Seattle.

SE..WELL AHEAD

Portland, winning its sixth in seven games, paces the southern division with 13 points, three more than Spokane Comets. Los Angeles, with 2 3-4 won-loss record, is third while the Seattle trail with but one victory in nine starts and on the road.

Other Edmonton scorers were: Forbes Kennedy, Larry Jeffrey, Lloyd Haddon and Ed Joyal. Wally Hergesheimer scored for the Bucks.

Portland goal - getters were Jones, Schmautz, Ron Matthews, Ed Panagabko and Tom McVie. Seattle goals were by veteran Rudy Pilous and one each by Gerry Leonard and Howie Hughes.

Meet Giants, Eagles

Dallas, Skins "Spoilers"?

NEW YORK (AP) — Wide-ot Washington Redskins and fleet-booten Dallas Cowboys are the spoiler spots—potential jugglers of the Eastern Division standings—as the National Football League resumes Sunday.

They play rematches with previous conquerors Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants and each is a decided underdog. Dallas is at New York and Philadelphia at Washington.

Washington (0-6), which hasn't won in 14 games, came close against the powerful Eagles early this season. A field goal in the third period touchdown passes by Sonny Jurgensen pulled out a 14-7 Philadelphia victory.

In the west, rampaging Green Bay Packers (5-1) go against Minnesota Vikings (1-5) and San Francisco 49ers (4-2) play Pittsburgh Steelers (1-5), in the others. Cleveland Browns (4-3) visit St. Louis Cardinals (3-3), Chicago Bears (4-2) visit Baltimore Colts (3-3) and Detroit Lions (3-3) meet Los Angeles Rams (1-5).

At Statehouse, Rochester Ray Nitschke and flanker Boyd Dowler, who have been ordered to military service, probably will be making farewell appearances in the Green Bay Packer lineup. Packers' league-lead, top scoring place kicker Paul Hornung, Packers' league-lead, top scoring place kicker Paul Hornung, Packers' league-leading scorer, is expected to play.

He was ordered to take another physical examination, which probably will require a least a 10-day delay in his induction.

Cleveland's Bobby Mitchell, also service-bound, will be making a farewell appearance at St. Louis. The Cardinals, restored offensively when Ken Panelli replaced their roster Friday in place of Ernie McMillan, who left for army service, Panelli suffered a dislocated knee in an exhibition game against Toronto Argonauts Aug. 2 and has been out of action since.

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank Clair, coach of the defending Grey Cup champion Ottawa Rough Riders, said today the level of competition in Canadian high school football is a long way from what it should be.

Writing in The Citizen, he criticized the schools' athletics system "which I honestly feel has failed to develop a well integrated athletics program, and particularly in football."

"Despite a marked improvement in the calibre of football in Canadian high schools in recent years, the level of competition is still a long way from what it should be," he said.

The plight of the Canadian Football League Eastern Conference club urged that athletics, including football, be made as vital an element in school's academic program, although in a secondary role.

"The discipline instilled by a rigorous, but intelligent, football program is not simply advantageous, but actually necessary for young men," the writer said. "There is no greater place for a youngster to learn about the hustle of life than in the sport of football, under the type of coaching leadership which sports seems to lack today."

Clair noted that in some schools there has been emphasis on football, but it was not as widespread as sometimes suggested.

"The last thing I would like to see is football set out to develop players for professional sport. It is purely a by-product of a school activity and I would be something less than intelligent to suggest such course for any school system."

Bisons Grab Top Spot

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, coming off a 3-3 overtime verdict over Providence Reds, have taken over sole possession of first place in the American Hockey League's western division.

The Allen brothers, Barry and Brian, collaborated for the winning goal after 25 seconds of overtime in the league's only action Friday night.

With the Reds a man short, Barry passed out to Brian from behind the Providence net and Brian flipped it into the open left corner of the rare.

The victory pulled the Bisons out of a tie with Rochester Americans for the western division lead. Providence remained in a three-way jam with Springfield Indians and Quebec Aces for second place in the east.

Providence, down 3-0 goals into the third period, tied it on goals by Ron Stewart and Ed Macqueen, setting the stage for the Allen heroics. Earlier Buffalo goals were scored by Aut Erickson and Bob Courcy.

Other American AHL developments: Kent Douglas, Springfield defenseman, was suspended for 10 games for striking a linesman. Douglas, a native of Oshawa, was charged with a "striking" of Bob Foreman, a linesman, at Hershey last Wednesday in an argument over icing the puck. Hershey won the game 7-4.

Factor in Injuries

Would Change Grid Gear

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Association committee on football injuries said today he has become highly suspicious of the helmet and face protector.

"I'm speaking only for myself," said Ernie McCoy, Penn State athletic director, "but I am concerned about the helmet we have been using and some changes may be required."

Already this season, four collegians, two semi - pro players and 16 high school boys—a total of 22—have died, most as a result of injuries.

"We haven't come to any official conclusions yet," said McCoy. "We are gathering the facts. In fact, we have scheduled to take over some of the research that the Touchdown Service League has protested against the CAHA choosing Port Arthur instead of Moose Jaw Pla-Mors to make the tour.

The Pla-Mors, Winnipeg Maroons and Manitoba Rockets, the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, were other teams considered. The Bearcats were selected after surveying the members, of the CAHA executive.

Shaw said a meeting of the NOHA in Sudbury decided to ask for a recorded vote of all CAHA members saying who voted in the ballot to choose a team, and why they voted against Moose Jaw. He said Moose Jaw had had their bid in for two years.

Shaw said the BSSHL would be ready to withdraw from CAHA affiliation if it does not receive a "satisfactory" reply.

Bearcats, winners of four Allan Cups, were defeated in the Canadian Senior semi-final last season by the Maroons, who in turn were defeated in the final by Galt Terriers.

Juckes said the Bearcats would leave Canada Dec. 7 for seven games in Czechoslovakia, two in Berlin, East Germany, and one in Bonn, West Germany. They are scheduled to return Jan. 2.

Bearcats For Europe

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP) — Port Arthur Bearcats, a member of the smallest senior hockey league in Canada, have been chosen by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to make a 13-game tour of Europe this winter.

The announcement that the Bearcats, who with Fort William Hurricanes comprise the Thunder Bay Hockey League, would make the tour of Czechoslovakia, Germany and Sweden was made Friday by Gordon Juckes, CAHA secretary-manager.

The tour, arranged by communists criticism.

Tod Sloan, Yorkton Terriers vice president, said Friday night that the Touchdown Service League has protested against the CAHA choosing Port Arthur instead of Moose Jaw Pla-Mors to make the tour.

The scoring punch of Hamilton Red Wings has sent them off to a flying start in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series.

They blasted four goals against Guelph Royals in the second period Friday night to win 8-4, their third victory in as many games. That gives them an average of almost six goals a game and a one - point edge over second - place St Catharines Teepees and Peterborough Petes.

The Teeps scored all their goals in the third period to edge the Flyers 4-3 at Niagara Falls in Friday night's other game, a season opener for both.

Lowell MacDonald paced the Wings at Guelph with a pair of goals, the second fired into an empty net. Wayne Rivers, Bob Dean, Bob Hamilton and Howie Menard each scored once as Hamilton came from behind a 3-0 deficit. Oscar Allen, George Standing, Borden Smith and Bob Pater scored for Guelph.

Niagara Falls fans, who flocked to the gates last year when the Flyers moved from Barrie, again turned out in goodly numbers. Some 2,500 saw the over - zealous Flyers attempt vainly to tie things up in the third.

The second of Ray Cullen's two goals wear it for the Teepees. Dennis Hull and Bill Speer got the others. Bill Hergott, Bill Ghaban and Howie Dietrich scored for Niagara Falls.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

A six-foot-three Negro has had a ringside seat at most heavyweight fights in Toronto and Montreal the past six years. Some fans who don't know him may think the big fellow is a little punchy as he almost-unobtrusively moves his hands and head while watching two other guys fight it out.

But there's nothing wrong with Earl Walls of Teronto, former Canadian heavy champion. He's a clean-cut, conservatively dressed chap with all his marbles. He could easily be taken for a fairly successful business-man, which he is.

There isn't a mark on him from six eight-year 43-bout pro career. The only visible sign that he might be a former fighter are his big hands and shoulders, square jaw and tapered-down waist. He's in better shape than some of the so-called fighters who have shown in the two Eastern cities.

NO REGRETS

Earl is a real estate salesman dealing only with homes and small apartment buildings. He isn't making as much money as he would if he were a lawyer but he has no regrets.

"If I had my life to live all over again, I'd do exactly as I've done," he said in an interview the other day. I don't look back and regret anything. Including my decision to quit the ring six years ago."

The biggest come up following annual fight activity slated for Canada in December. World champ Floyd Patterson will defend his title against unknown Tom McNeeley of Boston with a post-price range of from $20 to $10. Then there's the thing in Montreal with aged Archie Moore meeting Canadian heavy champion Bob Cleroux.

Fantastic financial figures are being bandied around such as the possibility of a $250,000-$300,000 live gate in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

Walls drools when he reads about this. The most he's made in real estate is $35,000 a year, which he figures is enough to look after the needs of his wife and two small boys. He has security, which is a valuable commodity to him.

STILL IN SHAPE

Many fight experts around Toronto and Montreal figure he could still whip Clarence "Big" George Chuvalo of Toronto, former Canadian heavy champion but Walls refused to lead with his chin on such ticklish questions.

"It's easy to say I could, but you didn't hear it from me," he says.

At one time, in 1955, Walls was ranked fifth among the world heavies. He certainly was the best of the modern era of Canadian fighters and possibly could have gone a long way. But he decided to quit on Nov. 1, 1955, because, as he said at the time, "any win I had I felt the pride of victory is too great for a man with the responsibility of a wife and family."

He was 27 then, had been boxing since 1947 and went out with a good record. He fought 43 bouts, won 36, lost six and was disqualified once. He scored 27 fights by knockouts, 16 in the first round.

He knocked out Rex Lane in Edmonton in 1953 in 61 seconds of the opening round, the fastest KO in Canadian heavyweight history. And he was never knocked out. A year before he won the Canadian title when he KO'd 31-1-3 Vern Escoe in the fourth round at Edmonton, and held it until his retirement.

Waterfowl Hunters Being Asked In Survey-by-Mail How Many Ducks They Shot Last Year

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 50,000 waterfowl hunters in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island are being asked how many ducks they shot last year, and where they bagged them.

The survey-by-mail is being conducted by the Canadian Wildlife Service, conservation branch of the federal department of national resources, to help with the setting up of migratory bird regulations.

Questionnaires are going to one in every 30 of the thousands of holders of 1960 small game hunting licences in the four provinces. The "bill count" will help federal and provincial wildlife officials to determine what species are being hunted the most, and where the heaviest hunting takes place.

The survey was first tested in Quebec four years ago, and a new province has been added nearly. Some 40,000 hunters are being quizzed in Ontario, being surveyed for the first time. The biologists hope eventually to extend the survey to all 10 provinces.

The hunters are asked in simple questionnaires the number of ducks, geese, snipe and woodcocks they shot, and when and where they killed them, said Dr. D. A. (Dave) Munroe, biologist of the Canadian Wildlife Service.

"And we can find out how a new change in regulations affects the hunters and the kill," said Dr. Munroe.

The survey value has already been demonstrated in the provinces where it has previously been used.

The biologists can estimate, for example, that in Quebec last season there were 38,755 duck hunters among the 121,000 who had small game licences.

They bagged 300,614 ducks, an average of 8.3 per hunter, most of them in an area extending from Montreal along the St. Lawrence River to Cap de St. Peter, in that area—over which ducks migrate from Northern Quebec and Labrador—hunters shot 48,000 black ducks and 81,400 others.

Having that knowledge, the biologists can keep tabs on the area to make sure it is not over-hunted. So far, they feel, the harvest has been "reasonable."

About 3,000 hunters in 15,000 snow geese, mostly around Quebec City. In other parts of the province 3,200 hunters got 16,000 snipe, and 1,300 carted home 7,000 woodcock.

MANY BLACK DUCKS

Of the 54,000 small game hunters in New Brunswick last year 9,600 were after ducks, and they accounted down there more than 32,500 of them black ducks.

Heaviest hunting area in New Brunswick last year was the St. John River valley downstream from Fredericton, where 4,800 hunters bagged 20,300 blacks and 20,400 other ducks—about two-thirds of the province's entire catch.

The heavy kill of black duck in all the provinces suggests so far has the biologists wondering whether too many of the big birds are being taken.

Dr. Munro said the statistics gathered here, and in a larger survey in the United States, lead biologists to feel that "the kill of black duck is just about at the allowable limit."

The new survey in Ontario—the province with the largest number of hunters—will help to determine this, and whether changes should be made in the season's length and bag limits.

Along with the federal questionnaire the Ontario and Quebec hunters are being sent provincial survey cards to keep tabs on pheasant, deer and moose shooting, as well as to show how much hunters spend in the provinces.

In Prince Edward Island a select group of hunters is being asked to send in the wings of their catches. From these the federal b[illegible] to determine [illegible] and [illegible] as well as the types of birds, shot in that province.

French Version of Series Turned Out in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Each week the Hollywood trade papers print a production schedule for the TV producers. Nestled among the westerns and whodunits is a ringer with the title, "Sur Dernande."

What is Sur Dernande? Why, it's the French version of Top Asked for it, the venerable series in which Art Baker and later Jack Smith SAMEd the heart's desire of viewers.

But what is a French TV show doing in Hollywood? I reached producer John Elder on the line.

Sur Dernande (literally, Ou Dernand) Pain, to be exact, is French - Canadian. It is produced by Ettlinger's Medallion TV primarily for Canada's French-speaking population.

"We're also selling it in Switzerland and the Benelux countries," said the producer. France is the big problem. However, there is a resistance to a Canadian accent on French TV. We hope to overcome it."

The French-Canadian accent is provided by Jean Coutu, a handsome actor from above the border who has been under contract to Walt Disney. He substitutes in narration scenes for the English host in the American version, which is still seen in syndication in 94 cities.

SHOW AN ACCIDENT

How Sur Demande came to be[illegible] is a reasonable fiction. Medallion had been making a show called What's the Cha for the French-Canadian market. The sponsor pulled out when the Kennedy crash struck.

Ettinger had 40 days to come up with a successor or lose the account. One day he was having a drink with a friend who worked on You Asked For It. The friend mentioned that Ettinger did not convert it for French-Canadians?

Time was precious. Coutu, who had starred in a Canadian TV series, The Pacific Family, was flown down from Montreal. Bilingual writers were hastily hired.

"We had them stashed in a motel on Sunset Boulevard," recalled Ettinger. "A taxi was standing by to rush the script pages to the studio as soon as they were written."

The deadline was reached, and Sur Demande went on the air Jan. 30, 1960—36 days after it was first conceived. Its longer reports that it is in the top-rated shows in Canada despite heavy opposition in the time slot.

Sunday, October 31
By CARROLL RIGHTER

General Tendencies: A Sunday in which you are able to get a better sorting out of your ideas and viewpoints than has been possible for a considerable period of time past. Interviews, out on the town and be sure to consult with all experts in their respective fields and get them to join forces with you toward mutual advancement.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — It would be wise to confer with close ties and see how best to increase harmony and find advancement in the future through mutual co-operation. Begin by making abode more comfortable and beautiful, clean to the nth degree.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Raise your level of consciousness now by attending the services of your choice where you can hear the most inspired of preachers. Later, have a good time with very interesting friends of excellent character and progressive ideas.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Think over the fine ideas inculcated by your parents during early youth and be sure to apply these principles in daily living now. Be, like Caesar's wife — above reproach. P.M. Get new work planned in detail for best results.

Spend to time later with gifted and de-can be later attained easily. lightful people you know. Grow.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You find that you will have the co-operation of good friends, but it requires that you express yourself honestly and clearly as to your aims. They will be highly impressed and also get inspiration from your ideas.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Since you are not thinking very clearly now, it is best you seek solace and advice from spiritual leader or most trusted advisor. P.M. Get new week scheduled in a practical way.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —Truly live the Golden Rule now and be a source of inspiration to others as well. Forego any display of the dramatic of kind to others. Remember that nobody is quite like the ordinary you.

If your child is born today... there is every opportunity in this chart to find fame and fortune, provided that your progeny does not continually ask advice of others and relies on his own good judgment and uses a direct route to wherever headed. The nature is a dynamic one, so be sure to channel it in the right direction from the start, or when you must, perforce be the ones to guide as parents.

Monday, October 30
By CARROLL RIGHTER

General Tendencies: Until noon you can plan a well-rounded and well-balanced campaign through which to gain your routine objectives. However after noon and through tonight it is essential that you do avoid taking any big chances right now although it is certainly the time for making "think big", as such aims be later attained easily.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —Important you carry through with any plans formulated over the weekend with kin re property affairs. Later, don't be forceful with higher-ups or you may get into serious trouble. Diplomacy brings far greater results.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —Morning is best time for shopping, studying, writing letters, etc., particularly of a routine nature. However, you are to endeavor to convince close ties of your own ideas when they have others that may, though they may be in error.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be fine in A.M., as well as consulting with workmen in every category. Take particular care while out on the road in the afternoon or evening and be sure to act discreetly or there is trouble.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Anything of a personal nature is fine to handle during the [illegible]ing. After lunch financial and property affairs are apt to meet with greatest success if you are on the beam and act conservatively. Get all in order quickly.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Personal affairs and whatever requires investigation are fine in A.M. Later, be sure you get expert's order and see that all is about your is as you want it. Keep busily occupied and you will forget any worries that irk. Grow.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You have a fine opportunity during A.M. to consult with good comrades and talk over some new outlet that interests you. Get their OK. Later is fine for actually getting into the work connected with it, though now forego fun.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Take the opportunity offered you in a.m. to do some thoughtful and helpful thing for a neighbor or friend. Use diplomacy in dealing with a pro-crown comrade in P.M.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — By reading your paper or listening to radio, TV, etc you can learn across some invaluable ideas in A.M. Then the afternoon and evening are best for career or credit work. See that everything is as it should be now. Work hard and be happy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Get all bills paid and monies rated in A.M. so that you also put insurance and other security matters in order. The remainder of day and evening are then fine for garnering the information you require at this time.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Count better relations with any and all associates in A.M. Seek to clear up any misunderstandings with competition, too. Then tonight do everything in your power to make loved one happier. Be thoughtful, buy a nice present.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be sure you handle whatever task needs personal touch in A.M. and be of assistance to some co-worker as well. Later, be diplomatic, tactful in that slight misunderstanding with partner who is not feeling well. Be kind and just.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Forget dull routine in AM and meet as many interesting people as you can this morning. Be co-operative and they become friends of value. Later, plan your future time more wisely so that you have more leisure and comfort. Grow.

If your child is born today ... he, or she, is bound to possess a charming personality and will also have the desire to become somebody during the lifetime. However, the nature is a most secretive one and this could alienate higher-ups if you do not early teach that faith in others is a must if real success is desired. However, the chart is certainly adapted for any important work connected with the government, banking trusts, etc.

Cabinet Divided on Whether Canada Should Join OAS

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Observers here see increasing evidence that the Diefenbaker cabinet is divided on whether Canada should join the Organization of American states.

External Affairs Minister Green, who has been trying to rally public opinion behind the government to have run into stout opposition in trying to sell it to the cabinet.

Opponents in the cabinet are reported to feel that Canada cannot afford membership in the international association, at least for the present. They are understood to take the position that Canada's participation would entail commitments in economic aid to Latin America at a time when Canada is already incurring budget deficits.

However, observers note reactions that joining OAS is not the only way to manifest interest in Latin America. At ministerial recent opening of new diplomatic missions and generally closer liaison with Latin American countries under Mr. Green's guidance.

The latest word from the government on OAS is that it still has under study the question of Canadian membership in the organization which embraces the 20 Latin American republics and the United States. Canada is the only independent country in the western hemisphere which is not a member.

Mr. Green is seen by some as having been forced in the unusual position by the cabinet opposition to Canadian membership.

It is reliably reported that spearheads of public opinion favor Canada taking the plunge.

So Mr. Green, who by his active promotion seems to have brought public thinking a long way along the road to Canadian membership, now may be in the position of having to mark time.

In a recent speech Mr. Green, dealing briefly with the OAS question, said: "That is a political issue; I can't say anything about that now."

Mr. Lidecali favor Canada joining. The CCF and New Democratic Party, though not on record as favoring actual Canadian membership, support closer ties with Latin America.

Life of Sir James Dunn Related in Entertaining Way by Lord Beaverbrook

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When James Hamet Dunn studied law at Dalhousie University, Halifax, in the 1890s his evening meal consisted of a glass of beer and a little molasses and a glass of water.

At his death in 1956 he was a financier with net assets valued at $60,826,000. He had carved two successful careers, first as a financier and then as an industrialist, and had enjoyed splendid living to the full.

The story of his life is related in entertaining fashion by a boyhood friend, Lord Beaverbrook, in Courage (Brunswick) which carries the subtitle, The Story of Sir James Dunn.

James was one of four boys who came from the Bathurst area of New Brunswick in the latter part of the 19th century and left an indelible mark on their times.

Lord Beaverbrook cites three — Sir James, who turned from a successful career as a London financier at 51 to head the Algoma Steel Corporation of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; Andrew Bonar Law, only man from any of the dominions to become British prime minister, and Richard Bedford Bennett, who served as prime minister of Canada and was a British peer at his death.

'IMPULSIVE MAN'

The fourth was Lord Beaverbrook himself, who began life as William Maxwell Aitken and became one of Britain's great press lords.

Courage is an engaging narrative, sprinkled with anecdotes, rather than a formal biographical study. Yet it reflects the character of "this irascible and impulsive man," given to countless acts of human kindness, in more telling fashion than if it had followed the scholarly biographical approach.

Lord Beaverbrook tells of the setbacks overcome by the boy from Bathurst who was only a few months old when his father died. The first came when he prepared to go to university and found that an uncle had invested and lost $1,000 entrusted to him by James's mother for her son's education.

Later a man to whom he sold his Montreal stock broker's firm in 1907 went bankrupt. The financial reshaped the Dunn name and James lost the liabilities.

In 1913 his own brother was partner in London, defaulted and left heavy debts.

REVIVED ALGOMA

He gave useful service in the First World War, became a baronet in 1921, and operated successfully his investment business. In 1928 he turned to Algoma Steel, in which he had been interested in an investment sense for years.

Algoma was in bankruptcy. Workers at Sault Ste. Marie were inhoarded up. Some 8,000 people were on relief.

Sir James Kent won out in a struggle to gain control. Then he set out to put the selling business on its feet. He devoted the last 30 years of his life to that and at his death most of his assets were in Algoma stock.

Courage is basically a warm and sympathetic account but it records many of Sir James's idiosyncracies. It tells, for example, how he bought the Windsor Hotel at Sault Ste. Marie because he didn't like the cooking or the color of its china.

Leaflet Raid Brings Fine

TORONTO (CP) — A former RCAF pilot was fined $100 here Thursday for low flying last July when he "bombed" a Ukrainian camp at Oakville with leaflets.

His lawyer, Arthur Maloney, claimed the camp was a Communist centre and added that [illegible] Stephen Milko, with him in the plane, "deserve only the camp official denied the meeting on the camp was Communist-led.

Russians Hear Of Shoe-Banging Year Ago

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Russian people heard for the first time Thursday about Soviet Premier Khrushchev's shoe-banging at the United Nations a year ago.

The incident was brought up at the current Communist party congress by Khrushchev's arch foe Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the government newspaper Izvestia.

Adzhubei was urging the need for contacts with the West, which he termed "a rather complicated, sometimes unpleasant work."

And in dealing with the West, Adzhubei said, Khrushchev had shown flexibility and firmness.

He then cited the incident in which Khrushchev took off his shoe at the United Nations and banged his desk top with it.

As the delegates burst into laughter, he added that his "desk-beating" did not use the shoe to hit the Spanish foreign minister who was sitting in front of him—even though Spaniard had served in the Blue Division, a Spanish volunteer contingent that fought for Germany against Russia.

Here's How to Move Evergreens

By FLORA M. SAVELLE

Do you have some evergreens in the wrong places? It often happens that we change our minds about the right setting for our shrubs. What shall we do? Will we leave them where they are and become more and more irritated about them, or will we move them to a more suitable place?

Evergreens are expensive and each year they increase in price. Think, before you toss them out, or transplant them without proper preparation.

Evergreens should be moved in the early fall or in the spring. They should have a ball of earth around the roots and the roots should be a ball of short matted fine roots rather than a few long roots that spread far and wide.

To gain this ball of roots you will have to root prune six months to one year before moving. Mark a circle around the evergreen 18 inches across for a small shrub up to four feet high. A larger shrub would need a circle 30 inches across. Use a spade with a square end and cut straight down approximately one foot all around the circle. With larger shrubs or trees make a branch around it and cut each root as you come to it. Fill this trench with humus enriched with plant food, such as manure, granulated fertilizer or liquid such as rapidgro.

Keep the roots moist enough to encourage new growth. In the months, sand and medium sized evergreen will have formed a mass of feeder roots and will be ready to move. Larger shrubs and trees should be left for one year.

Soak the roots thoroughly three days before you plan to move the shrub. Try to keep

Advance Into Katanga In Defiance of Orders

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Troops of the New Congolese Army were reported today continuing to advance into Katanga province, razing villages and murdering women and children on their way.

The newspaper Echo du Katanga, said an all-day battle was fought Saturday near Katanga's border with South Kasai province.

It said two companies of Congolese troops crossed the Lukshi River into Katanga Friday night and started to attack village.

Katangan troops rushed to the area and met the Congolese head-on at Lupota, a village about three miles from the border. The paper said little was known about the outcome of the battle. It said fighting was also going to rob the bank.

Then without provocation, according to police, he pwed around and began firing with a .38 calibre rifle into a crowd of customers.

COMMANDER OAS

He then ran out of the bank and commandeered a car, mendacing the driver with the rifle. The car, travelling at speed down Yonge Street, the main north - south thoroughfare, collided with a taxi. One man was injured by the speeding car.

The gunman got out and fired two shots at the cab driver. Both shots missed.

More shots were exchanged with police and a suspect captured.

TEXTILE PLANT EYE-OPENER TO CANADIANS

Diefenbaker Is Impressed

TOKYO (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker's impression of the ingenuity and efficiency of Japanese industry was further strengthened today during tours of textile and television plants.

He visited in the Osaka area the Ibaragi factory of Matsushita Electric which produces 30,000 TV sets a month and the Yogogawa plant of Kanegafuchi spinning company which turns out 80,000,000 yards of textile products a month — more than enough for a foot-wide path across the Pacific to Vancouver and back.

It was understood the prime minister came away with the feeling that Canada's hard-pressed textile industry will have to take a hard look at its techniques and plant equipment if it hopes to compete successfully with the Japanese producer.

He told reporters that allowances return to Canada—he leaves for Ottawa tonight—are only five-day visit—he plans to visit Canada's textile factories to see how they compare.

Last year, Japan Chemicals reported $110,000,000 worth of goods from Japan, textiles accounted for $40,000,000 worth and electronic goods such as TV only $6,000,000.

MEMBER FOR CONGRESS

The ability of the industrious Japanese to come up with both quality and low costs in textiles and transistor radios and electronic equipment is a subject of concern in Canada. This is demonstrated by the fact that Canada has imposed voluntary export quotas on these products so as not to damage the industries and markets in Canada.

During his inspection in the Osaka industrial area 300 miles south of Tokyo, Mr. Diefenbaker flew back to the Japanese capital to attend a special Baptist service there. He laid wreaths at graves of Canadian war dead at the Hodogaya Commonwealth cemetery outside nearby Yokohama. He gave a dinner at the Canadian Club in Tokyo Sunday night for Premier Ikeda.

The visit to the textile plant was an eye-opener as the Canadian party saw seemingly endless lines of cotton yarn-producing roll through the rollers and spools.

In one section, mammoth scarves to be sold on the Italian market were being produced.

Greeting Mr. Diefenbaker, Kanegafuchi spinning's President Toji Hashi said he understood Canada's textile industry there be orderly marketing of Japanese goods. He said the company has every intention of facilitating this.

A gift photograph was received from K. Matsuzakis, chairman of the company, when Mr. Diefenbaker visited by the Canadians.

Chairman of Doctors' Policy Body Says Milk Drink for Babes Only

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — No one over a year old should drink milk, the chairman of the public policy commission of the American Academy of General Practice said today.

Dr. Walter W. Sackett Jr., Miami, Fla., who admitted his is a controversial position, said he is a bitter foe of free milk distribution in schools.

"I send notes to school for my own kids and ask that they be given tea or coffee instead of milk," he told the Louisville Courier-Journal in an interview.

"Why buy national suicide?" he asked.

Because they are high in cholesterol, milk and other dairy products should be eliminated from the American diet, he said.

Cholesterol is the saturated fat which sometimes piles up in coronary arteries and brings on heart attacks.

"Milk is for infants, he said. "Kids ought to quit drinking milk at that time when they would ordinarily be weaned, he said. "And at one year," he said.

Russians Vote to Remove Stalin's Body From Square

MOSCOW — Five thousand cheering delegates and officials at the Soviet Communist party congress voted today to remove the body of Josef Stalin from its place beside Lenin in the big tomb on Red Square.

The congress action came in the wake of speeches by Premier Khrushchev and others denouncing the longtime Soviet dictator as a murderer and despiser of mass repression. Communist and party leaders. Khrushchev said as a result of Stalin's purges, the Soviet army's efficiency was at a low ebb at the time of the German attack in 1941.

Sunday the mausoleum, which thousands visit each day, was suddenly closed, "for repairs."

a police guard on duty there said. The closing, coupled with Khrushchev's remarks was a tip-off to the subsequent congress action.

The name of Stalin, put alongside Lenin's on the tomb when his embalmed body was placed there in 1953 will be removed. The monument above will bear the name of the founder of modern-day communism, Vladimir Ilyich Lenin.

There was no immediate announcement where Stalin's body will be placed. The proposal for the removal was made in the congress in the Kremlin by Ivan Spiridonov, first secretary of the party in the Leningrad region.

It was promptly endorsed by

U.S. Asks Military Buildup By Britain, France, Germany

LONDON (CP-AP) — Britain, France and West Germany have been urged by the United States to organize a huge buildup in their military power to meet the Soviet threat in Berlin.

U.S. Deputy Defence Secretary Roswell Gilpatric was reported to have put the plan before European defence men during a week-long trip through western Europe. It calls for a significant boost in Europe's conventional military power at the strongest peace-time level ever, the United States already has started beefing up its forces in Europe. The six divisions already in West Germany are to be strengthened by 37,000 new troops ordered already on the move for Europe. Another two to six divisions may follow early next year.

Gilpatric is reported to have told his European allies that the United States hopes for increased military contributions from them and outlined the following points:

1. West Germany should take part action to fill the $200,000,000 gap between U.S. spending and earnings in Deutsch marks.

2. France should assign two extra divisions, withdrawn from Algeria, to the Allied command in Europe.

3. Britain should strengthen her military reserves and step up their training.

Gilpatric held meetings with Defence Ministers Franz Josef Strauss of West Germany, Pierre Lecuyer of France and Harold Watkinson of Britain.

The U.S. official also has told Strauss the difference between the $800,000,000 a year the United States spends there and the $400,000,000 a year Germany spends on armies over and above United States is too high. He proposed the West Germans begin sharing costs.

In London, Gilpatric is reported to have told Watkinson the United States is not trying to sew up the German arms market, in which Britain is trying to share. Watkinson pledged to go ahead with arrangements to bring its Rhine army up to full strength and to increase home divisions to two instead of one.

Red Traffic Interference Shifts to Different Spot

BERLIN (AP) — Communist interference with Allied traffic to and from West Berlin shifted during the weekend to the autobahn between the West-controlled city and West Germany. The United States defied a new attempt at restriction.

A Soviet officer Sunday barred two U.S. "assistance vehicles" the U.S. Army sends up and down the 100-mile express highway to aid U.S. travelers with car trouble or other difficulties while passing through the Soviet zone.

The two cars were stopped at a checkpoint where traffic from West Berlin enters Germany. But the Russians later let a third military assistance vehicle through without difficulty.

An American spokesman said the Soviet's continue to send the aid cars out despite the Russian objection.

Western officials thought the Soviets might be reasserting control they first made in 1955 in 53 to American patrols on the autobahn. By a 1953 agreement the Soviet Army admitted responsibility for security on the highway.

The last show of force ended in an informal truce Saturday after American and Soviet tanks had stood on either side of the Berlin wall at the Friedrich, stras crossing for several hours with their guns trained at each other.

FALLOUT EDGE MOVING EAST OVER ATLANTIC

Will Pass Over Eastern Canada"

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leading edge of the giant fall-out cloud formed by last Monday's huge Soviet nuclear explosion moved eastward today over the Atlantic.

Robert Lidi, a U.S. weather bureau fallout specialist, said the cloud, an invisible mats of radioactive debris, was being propelled by winds of 70 to 80 miles an hour.

He estimated it would take several days for trailing debris to complete its eastward passage over New England and eastern Canada and head out over the ocean.

U.S. experts have said they saw no need for undue alarm or for any immediate action to protect health. Most of the debris from the explosion is believed to have gone into the stratosphere and was not expected to settle to earth for months.

NO CHANGE

Even while the fallout cloud was passing over the United States, a public health service spokesman said, the system of 38 monitoring stations in the United States recorded no particular change in radioactive material falling to the surface. A spokesman said readings in the atmosphere has been estimated by the U.S. atomic energy commission as likely in the 30-megaton range. A megaton is equal to the force of 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

The fallout cloud formed by the blast drifted over the Pacific Northwest Saturday. The cloud, an estimated 2,000 miles wide, generally kept to an eastward path as it moved across the continent.

Experts Differ In Estimates Of Blast Force

Said 4 Times Stronger Than Former Explosion

(CP from Reuters-AP)

UPPSALA, Sweden—Russia today set off a gigantic nuclear explosion estimated by world scientists to have a force of between 50 and 100 megatons.

British scientists said the explosion at the Russian Arctic testing ground was apparently the 50-megaton bomb Premier Khrushchev had threatened to explode before the end of this month. Experts in other countries said its force appeared to have been even greater.

Mauno Porkka, an official of the Helsinki University seismological department, said: "It is not impossible that this was a bomb of 100 megatons"—equal to 100,000,000 tons of TNT.

Porkka said recordings taken throughout Finland showed the blast to be three to four times more powerful than the Soviet test last Monday which was estimated at 30 megatons.

U.S. CONFIRMS

At Washington the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the blast had been recorded but released no details on its size.

Nikita Khrushchev has told the Soviet party congress that Russia had a 100-megaton bomb but said it did not plan to test it because "we do not break our own window."

An Official at the geodetic institute in Stockholm shared Porkka's opinion that the bomb was more powerful than 50 megatons. They said the explosion was "much stronger than the test a week ago."

"It is probably a bomb well over 50 megatons," a top official said.

In Moscow, Soviet officials said they had no information about any nuclear weapon explosion in the Arctic.

Dr. Hilding Bath, head of the Seismological Institute in Uppsala, said the blast "had a force two or three times greater" than the 30-megaton explosion of Dec. 24.

QUAKE CONFUSES

A spokesman at Britain's Kew Observatory said the signals recorded there had indicated a nuclear blast "of the order of 50 megatons." It was definitely a nuclear blast, he said, and not an earthquake such as the one which confused French scientists Monday.

In Denmark, Dr. Henry Jensen of the Danish Geodetic Inspectorate said the system of 38 seismological stations in the United States recorded no particular change in radioactive material falling to the surface. A spokesman said readings in the atmosphere has been estimated by the U.S. atomic energy commission as likely in the 30-megaton range. A megaton is equal to the force of 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

In Washington, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission announced today it had conducted a low yield nuclear test underground during the day. The blast was the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.

This is the fourth announced since the U.S. resumed testing.

Bomb Touches Off Chorus Of Protests

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Russia's explosion of a massive nuclear bomb at the Arctic testing site touched off a worldwide chorus of protests today.

The British government said the presidents of Norway, Sweden and Finland expressed disappointment that Russia went through with the test despite appeals from the UN General Assembly and several individual nations to call it off.

The British government said it "cannot find words to describe what it thinks of many who me feel in this situation.

"It is absolutely incredible that this could really happen. It is too unreasonable to expect that those who dispose of these gruesome powers will not let themselves be ruled by reason and responsibility, so that there may be an end to this gambling with death."

HOPED TO LAST

In Copenhagen, Danish Premier Viggo Kampmann said he had up to the last moment Denmark had hoped Russia would call off the explosion.

"I can only express our deep concern that it was found necessary to break the 2½-year-old great opposition which exists among people throughout the world, to continue tests of in-

The tanks were rushed up after four U.S. armed thrusts into Laos in the northern area to uphold the right of American civilian advisers to remain there without submitting identity papers to East German police.

The Soviet tanks withdrew Saturday morning, and then the U.S. moved in.

Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow, was to seek a second meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today or Tuesday to press Allied demands for an end to the threatened sovereign restrict Allied rights in Berlin. Their first meeting Friday was described "unsatisfactory" by state department press officer Lincoln White.

No U.S. official would say that the United States has decided to stage armed incursions into East Berlin with Thompson and Gromyko are talking. But there were insistent reports that such a decision had been taken.

The U.S. command has ordered its civilian officials not to enter East Berlin for the time being.

The East Germans still allow Allied military personnel in unarmed to cross the border unchecked. American, British and French army patrols in East Berlin continued without hindrance throughout last week's crisis.

Your United Appeal

"My husband gives at work" is one of the most frequent cries heard by the private citizens who have given of their time and energy to assist in the city-wide household canvass being held today for your United Appeal.

The eleven social, youth work and health agencies in the appeal need the help of everyone in the community in order to keep going each year; many housewives realize that this need for help exists, for these agencies do not give assistance to just one member from any family in need, and with it make a personal, contribution in their own name.

The many volunteer workers have already done this themselves, but are ready to do the tough slugging of a house to house canvass, as well.

bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagazaki in 1945. Those bombs killed 180,000 persons.

"The French Atomic Energy Commission reported that the Russians had set off their 30-megaton bomb Sunday, but the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission as well as seismologists in Sweden, London and Denmark attributed the disturbance to an earthquake near Vancouver, B.C.

Dr. Bandi said in a communique:

"The Uppsala Seismological Institution announces that the explosion of the Russian super-bomb occurred at 833 GMT. The first wave reached Uppsala at 0837 GMT and the distance was 10,210 kilometers (1,280 miles) in a north-east direction from Uppsala.

"The maximum registration (on the seismograph) was more than two and a half times as strong as at the explosion last Monday. The bomb was 'noisier' than the previous one."

BRUSHES ASIDE

A new UN General Assembly last Friday sent an appeal to the United States and Russia to test a 50 - megaton bomb. Khrushchev brushed aside pleas to abandon tests to exhibit the bomb as "mysterious clamor."

Location of the explosion by the Uppsala Institute would place it in the Novaya Zemlya area of the Arctic — the region where the Russians have been conducting their test series since August.

The biggest United States nuclear test has been a series of 15 to 20 megatons. American scientists have said making a 30 - megaton bomb is easy enough but its only purpose is as a weapon of mass destruction.

Radio Moscow in morning broadcasts made no mention of the explosion and there was nothing about it in Soviet newspapers.

At least 27 H-bombs have been tested since the Russians broke the truce on nuclear testing Sept. 1 and end of a series of bombs that grew progressively larger in strength.

Dr. Daniels "has-the-bomb" organization in Copenhagen organized a march on the Soviet embassy tonight to protest against the explosion.

In London, the Committee of 100, one of the main British anti-nuclear organizations, issued a statement saying it "utterly deplores" the new Soviet test.

In Amsterdam, Prof. H. Ates of the Institute of Nuclear Physics Research said he expected U.S. planes which went "flying along the Russian frontiers taking samples" would be among the first to know how "dirty" or "clean" the Russian bomb had been.

He estimated it would be about a month before a country like Holland would begin to notice the effects from the bomb but said he did not expect them to be dangerous.

Have Good Time But Use Caution, Police Ask Hallowe'en Funsters

Tomorrow night, October 31st is Hallowe'en Night and the witches and gobling will be on the prowl, along with hundreds of members of the younger generation out for a good time.

And Police Chief Walter Probert trusts that the Hallowe'en celebrants will be content to amuse themselves to having a good time.

"We want everyone to enjoy themselves, but we don't want any property damage," noted the chief.

And to guard against possible property damage, the chief said extra police will be on duty for the night.

At the sandy time Chief Probert asked attention to be exercised both by the Hallowe'en celebrants and by motorists.

Motorists in particular were asked to be exceptionally careful.

"Hundreds of children, their vision hampered by costumes and masks, will be roaming the streets, while wet streets and slippery pavements will add to the possibility of accidents," the chief cautioned.

The Curtain Rises

By Sylvia Dolan

From the printed text of a manuscript hauli it knows life to be a fragile symbol of stage action, the details behind the presentation of a play are both numerous and valuable. A play is a complex and difficult form of art. Tyrell Hall's stated succinctly, it must leave the audience interested and pleased.

A good play, expressed in theatrical terms, is an ordered arrangement of the psychological relationships that undergo believable changes as the action progresses. The minimum basic requisites for living theatre are the actors, the actors communicating a flesh-and-blood audience; but a lot is in a mass of machinery operating behind the face of a clock to carefully measure time. Here is a wealth of detail behind a play that accurately mirrors life: action expressed by voice, gesture and movement; scenery that calls for painting, architecture, and lighting; even music and dance, ing which are often integral elements of the work.

THEATRE GUILD LABORATORY

The theatrical laboratory of the Belleville Theatre Guild is the recently opened Work-Shop at No. 5 Campbell Street. It is here, under the spiritual guidance of Mrs. Phyllis Hall that all efforts are concentrated toward understanding the business of theatre and ultimately expressing that understanding in tangible form.

The Workshop holds its regular meetings every Tuesday at 8 p.m. On October 10th, under the guidance of Mr. Mark Fielden, members enjoyed a reading of Rosen's The Master Builder on a typical rotary basis — the participation of all present. While in earlier days Ibsen was mainly concerned with the relation of the individual to society, in "The Master Builder" he delves into the phenomenon of man alone with his own mind, and of the subconscious as the only of his actions but of his dreams. The members, on this basis of their reading, delved even more thoroughly in an analytical discussion of the play's significance, construction, plot, and characters.

SUMMER OF THE 17TH DOLL

Scheduled for October 31st, under the leadership of Mr. Harry Mulhall, is a reading of Summer of the Seventeenth Doll. These informal fireside sessions (I must point out here that there really is no fireside warmth is produced entirely by an oil burner and their enthusiasm) are open to anyone in the general public who can read and is interested in exchanging opinions on literary matters. Perhaps in the future may use the vernacular of the present generation, is the psychological one that is governed by a stimulating expeditence.

Scripts for the plays being read may be obtained by sending a postcard to the Community Branch, Department of Education, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, who will loan them out gratis for a two-week period. Additional information may be had by those taking from their local representative, Mr. Don Maddox.

OTHER ACTIVATORS

But there are other evenings at the Workshop, devoted to other endeavours. Last Tuesday Mr. Roger Greig supervised a papier mache bee, a craft whose origins are lost in antiquity while its utilization will likely continue to infinity. Professional artists use layered sheets of paper glued and pressed together, sometimes by pulping paper into a mass of doughy consistency, papier mache can be used for water resistance and fireproofing by the addition of certain chemicals. Its plasticity, ease of handling, and relative economy makes it the material of certain type of stage props. A side benefit is the back-happy lightness of the finished product, particularly when the end results are massive pumpkins for Hallowe'en, boulder supporting a masthead, and a lovenly bunch of coconuts that should fall from a palm tree to the force of gravity like Newton's apple. Again, anybody's stun a tired ant.

These stage props, among full - time activities of the imaginatively employed and embellished by Miss Rosalie Mosher, set designer, and Mr. Roger Greig, stage manager, to create a hushby whimsical and fantastic splendor: in the interim, Mr. Jim Alexander is launching the Good Old Days, which is the smooth seas of casting and direction.

"THE LITTLE HUT"

So much for what goes on behind the scenes. But have you ever wondered what you can do if you were marooned on a desert island? Perhaps simply the situation when the curtain rises on Act 1 of The Little Hut, which will appear at the Country Club in Trenton on November 3rd and 4th and at the Club Room,of the Hotel Quinte in Belleville on November 23 to 26 inclusive. Circle the date on your calendar right now, you won't want to miss this one. But if you just can't make it, and your curiosity is as insatiable as the next one's, it will tell you this much: between Acts 1 and 3 there is a most dramatic change whatever in the imperturbable existence of the coconut trees. They just aren't humans!

We have this memory to cling to,
Leave this world of strife and woe,
Rest in peace.
Sadly missed by his daughter Audrey, son and son-in-law.

Rodney Follwell Gives Valedictory At BCI Commencement on Friday

While I am here delivering the valedictory this year unto my own words, I should like to feel that I am expressing the thoughts of Sandy Bob Weese, who would have, had he been valedictorian, and myself. I should also like to feel that I am speaking for the entire class of '50 in paying a small tribute to him.

His was a full life, particularly during the years he spent at B.C.I. and V.S. Although he was an ardent member of the Key Club, a driving force behind the Prefects, an active church worker, as well as an eager participant in many other diverse activities, Bob always had time for his many friends, from whose comradeship he derived much pleasure.

However, his most remarkable achievements came in the purely academic field. This I feel, is best exemplified by his accomplishments this year. Truly Bob has been, and will be, missed, but greater still he will be remembered, since his life ought to serve as a spur toward a greater, more abundant life for all who were privileged to know him.

While reflecting on the years spent in school, we recall with fondness those years which have brought us to be the graduating class of 1951, those years during which we had many joyous hours, both as individuals and as a group. Who will ever forget the football games, or the clubs, or Kampus Kapers, or the many other athletic and social events. However our school's main purpose of educating its students was always in the forefront.

SCHOOLING NEEDED

During the weaker moments of our stay in B.C.I. and V.S. many of us were disheartened at the prospects of ever receiving our graduation diplomas. After all, we said, no one has to go to school to earn a living. Our grandfathers did not. Perhaps we need schools to train men for the learned professions but not for the ordinary jobs of an industrial society. It was during those moments that the true character and counsel of our illustrious teachers and parent parents shone bright and clear in advising us that we needed to go to school, not in order to learn how to earn a livelihood, but in order to learn how to use the life for which we are going to earn a living, and learn how to occupy ourselves humanely, to live our lives as we will and not to play them all away. We needed to learn how to do well and we will be called upon to do as moral and political agents, and to do well what we will have to do for the cultivation of our own minds.

Our teachers and parents we owe a debt of appreciation for helping us so willingly and tirelessly in this task, not only in high school, and for indirectly impressing upon us Goethe's nine requisites for contented living: Health enough to make work a pleasure — Wealth enough to support our needs — Strength to battle with difficulties and overcome them — Grace enough to confess our sins and forsake them—Patience enough to toil until some good is accomplished—Charity enough to see men good in our neighbor — Love enough to move us to be useful and helpful to others — Faith enough to make real the things of God — Hope enough to remove all anxious fears concerning the future.

COURAGE REQUIRED

We should also take note here of the words of an eminent American lecturer of the last century, Ralph Waldo Emerson—"Whatever you do, you need, "you need courage. Whatever course you decide upon there is always someone to tell you that you are wrong.

Oshawa, whilst "Quinte's" marksmen shot high scores in the shooting competition.

Competing for the Victoria and Grey Trophy competition trophy were boards from RCSCC "Starmont", Cornwall; RCSCC "Stormont", Cornwall; and RCSCC "Drake" Oshawa, which event, which proved most entertaining to the spectators, approximately 100 civilian spectators, and the Royal Cornwall Sea Cadet band for the second year in a row.

Other corps participating in the day's activities included RCSCC "Trent" of Trenton and RCSCC "Howe" of Peterborough. Individual awards for the various sports events in which events and the marksmanship shooting went for the second year in succession to RCSCC "Hallowell" of Picton.

Thieves Take Safe From CPR Office

TRENTON — According to Inspector R. J. Robertford of the Trenton police department, thieves, who gained entrance to the Canadian Pacific Express office on Dundas Street East in Trenton, Friday night, removed a small safe, 14 inches square and weighing 150 pounds.

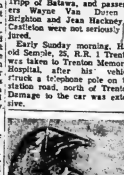
The safe were the CPR blank drafts valued at $1,000 each and 4 CPR express money orders valued at $100 each, as well as around $56 in cash.

Inspector Robertford said that CPR personnel at the express office had worked Friday night until 9.30. Around 11.30 p.m., the occupant of an apartment over the office heard a "thump", but thought that the office workers were still working downstairs.

Constable Gary Davis, while on patrol, discovered that the door to the office had been jimmied at 12.15 a.m. Saturday. Subsequently, it was discovered that the safe had been taken.

"It was a real professional job", the inspector commented to a reporter.

Injuries Slight In Car Mishaps



TRENTON — Miss Tricia Gerrtham, 10, of Don Mills, Ont., sustained minor injuries only when her small car rolled over on the 401 concession road of Brighton township around 7.30 p.m. on Friday.

Eldred Smith, 21, of Brighton also escaped injury Friday, the car which he was driving along the old Smith-field Road struck a telephone pole around 10 p.m. Friday night.

Extensive damage to both cars was reported by the investigating officers.

Barbara Bittrey, 13, of Colborne, was taken to Cobourg General Hospital Saturday night, when the car in which she was a passenger rolled over in the village of Colborne. The driver of the car, George Tripp of Batawa, and passenger, Edward Van Dusen of Brighton and Jean Hackney, of Castleton were not seriously injured.

Early Sunday morning, Harold Semple, R. R. 1 Trenton was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital, after his vehicle struck a telephone pole on the station road, north of Trenton. Damage to the car was extensive.

Saturday morning, "Blacky" the crow, was on hand to greet early morning shoppers in Trenton's downtown district. Blacky "parked" on a parking meter until almost time to leave. Then, evidently sensing that nine was the hour when coins must be inserted in the meter he flew around until an obliging motorist parked at the meter, then returned to eat his breakfast on the parked car.

RUSSIANS

The motion was also supported by a representative of the delegation from Georgia, Stalin's birthplace.

Millions of faithful Communists in the Soviet Union mourn since it was erected in 1930 the embalmed, waxlike body of Lenin, who led Russia's 1917, Bolshevik revolution.

Khrushchev, who demolished Stalin's image in a "secret" speech at the party's 20th congress in 1956, indicted him again Friday at the current congress.

Khrushchev said Stalin was responsible for killing "many scholars of people."

SAY DEMANDED

Spiridonov and Demichev said the removal of Stalin's corpse was demanded by workers in both Moscow and Leningrad.

Spiridonov said the presence of Stalin's body next to Lenin's is incompatible with the "illegalities committed by Stalin during the cult of his personality."

Demichev said the "iniquity and licence reigning during the cult of Stalin" are over but it is impossible to keep silent over them.

"From now on and for ever the Leninist principles have triumphed and will triumph throughout our life," he said.

CAN DISCUSS

The reign of terror during the Stalin regime has been cleared for free and open discussion in the Soviet Union.

For the first time Soviet newspapers have used the old dictator as a tyrant, publishing Khrushchev's speech before the party congress in which he charged "thousands of absolutely innocent people perished" in Stalin's purges before the Second World War.

Khrushchev combined his attack with a proposal that a monument be erected in Moscow to the victims of the purges, a proposal quickly approved by the Moscow city council, caretaker of the Lenin-Stalin tomb in Red Square.

Curb-Cruisers Under Fire

The Toronto city council has passed a resolution urging the federal government to pass legislation providing for fines against curb-cruisers.

We are all for curbing curb-cruising—but we doubt whether the federal government is the appropriate body to take such action.

There are two valid objections to curb-cruisers. They are rude and they are a traffic hazard.

Legal penalties for rudeness, though perhaps defensible in extreme cases, are always open to criticism. The proper control of traffic is, for the most part, governed by provincial legislation and we see no good reason why an exception should be made in the case of curb-cruising.

Of course, it is not difficult to divine why Ald. Margaret Campbell's resolution sought federal, rather than provincial, action to prevent curb-cruising. Coupled with the reference to curb-cruisers was a request for stiffer penalties against street walkers. It is evident that curb-cruisers are considered as the male equivalent, or supplement, to prostitutes and Ald. Campbell's resolution was designed to provide for some semblance of equal treatment for offenders of both sexes.

As most of us know, however, men and women, while they may have been created equal, were not created identical. There can hardly be any question of treatment to equal penalties for accosting when accosting by the members of the species is aimed at monetary gain and accosting by the male has no such end in view.

It is the custom of polite society to frown on "pick-ups" but the great majority of human beings do not conform to this view. The proposition that all accosting between male and female requires prior formal introduction is a pretence which is seldom matched by fact. The theme of many of our movies and much of our printed fiction is the determination of a boy to meet a girl and the ingenuity which he displays in achieving the "accidental" meeting, generally with the whole-hearted co-operation of the girl. Formal introductions play only a minor role in these successes. Real life is patterned more on this so-called fiction than on the pretence that it is a sin for two people to get to know each other without the assistance of an intermediary.

Any law which makes it a crime for one person to attempt to be friendly to another person, just because some persons' ideas of "friendliness" are indecent or offensive, is a law which is to be distorted.

If all the males who had ever "accosted" strange females, in the sense of endeavoring to become acquainted with them, were put in jail, there would not be enough men at large to act as jailers.

True—But Still Misleading

Premier Leslie Frost, answering queries by the press, is reported to have said: "One of the things that must concern democracies a great deal is the transition of power."

Now this is a true statement but it is also a statement which could be grossly misleading.

The smooth transition of power when leadership of a party in power changes hands, and even more, so when the identity of the ruling party itself is changed, is one of the troublesome problems in many democracies. We read a great deal about the steps taken by President Eisenhower to make certain that the nation's welfare would not suffer as he relinquished the reins of office to his successor, President Kennedy. Particularly if the transfer of power comes at a time of crisis, there is danger of the machinery of government slipping a few cogs.

This, though, must not be interpreted as indicating that the problems of transition of power are greater in a democracy than they are under other forms of government. The reverse is the case. Chaos is virtually unavoidable when power changes in a dictatorship. Democracies have their appointed officials, most of whom are above partisan politics. But who can imagine a dictatorship, whether of the right or of the left, in which any of the top administrative posts is not filled by a man believed to be completely loyal to the dictator? Not only the leading political figures, but the whole administrative hierarchy, has to be changed when there is a transition of power under any other system than a democracy.

We hear a lot, from time to time, about the inevitability of a democracy being less efficient than a totalitarian form of government—but when it comes to transferring power from one man or one party to another man or another party, democracies are many times more efficient than dictatorships, whether they be dictatorships by one man or by a junta.

True Satirists Are Teachers And Moralists

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I note that Tyrone Guthrie's new production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance" will seem to be treated lightly. Apparently the British and American publics never grow tired of these operettas, no matter how poorly or how often they are performed.

Whenever I listen again to Gilbert's lampooning of British institutions, the Navy, the Peerage, the law courts, culture and the social order generally. Yet he always managed himself in the laughter, which never had anything cruel about it.

In our own country, Mark Twain indulged in a great deal of "boisterous laughter" at Society bitter. But, unlike Juvenal and Swift, he never made himself above the objects of his attacks; he just felt sorry for the human race, including himself. "I have been an author for 35 years," he once wrote, "and a jackass for 55."

Young writers who attempt satire (and there are many of it, for it seems the easiest task at first) usually fail to distinguish between being a sharp but compassionate observer of human nature and merely a supercilious scold. Scolding merely alienates the reader; the satirist is he who is ruefully aware of his own defects and limitations.

For the satirist knows that all true satirists are teachers and moralists at heart. He writes, as so many sophomores try to be, I have on my desk a college freshman's theme with this satirical writing: it is one long sneer, and it fails utterly, however, defeats its own purpose because it estranges readers instead of winning them.

Although Gilbert poked fun at all that was pompous and decayed in the stuffy Victorian Englishman, his operettas were instant hits all the way. Today, we have even extracted a few tight little comic operas from Victoria herself. Behind her well-bred reticence, she was sharply aware of the follies and vices of which they seem: skim milk masquerading as cream.

The secret of satire, I suspect, lies in not acting superior about it, but in remembering, along with Gilbert and Twain, that jackassdairy is as much a part of the nature of writers as of readers. To get back to the perceptive Mr. Colby: "Humor is the satire of a fool exactly, without much patient self-inspection."

Deadly Eight Among Snakes

By Josef Berger in the New York Times

Of the world's 2,500-plus known species of snakes, about 300 are poisonous enough to be serious to man. The list of most unwanted creatures narrows down to eight.

In North America, the diamond-back rattler, the Mexican terrapin, the fer-de-lance in South America, the South American rattlesnake, the cobra with a venom many times as deadly as the rattlesnake's, the cobra sup a greater fatality rate pble for bite, than the Asiatic krait, and the sea snake. Undoubtedly the most unwanted of bushmaster look like a cross between the fer-de-lance and the puff adder; in Asia, the cobra and those groups of vipers known as the gaboon and in Australia, the tiger snake.

While millions of persons are bitten annually by venomous reptiles, these eight together account for only half the fatal deaths, most of which occur in Southeast Asia.

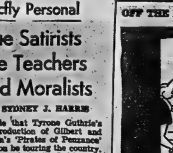
FACING LIFE CHEERFULLY

Jesus was constantly urging His disciples to be of good cheer. Scores of times these words were upon His lips. No man ever sounded the note of optimism as Jesus. Although His words are full of light and love, He occasionally became angry. Even that in the whole of the Bible we find no denunciation more severe than His. Yet this was the man who brought us to be of good cheer.



Why should we be of good cheer? For the reason we have nothing to fear. This does not mean that we do not have problems. This does not mean that we shall not at times be stricken to the earth and left lying with the disconsolate feeling that we can never arise. But we can. Millions have done it in the past. We can too. Some people live and act as if the world was presided over by the devil instead of by a God of love. The devil would conquer, corrupt and destroy. The God of love has always on His throne ways to lift up and heal.

How much we all need at times the divine assurance that God's reality and presence are so benign and thrilling that we can lift up our heads even in the darkest hour and know that all is well.

It was a Man who faced crucifixion and knew at the time it was coming who kept calling out, "Be of good cheer."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 30th, 1941

Lowell Yerex, son of the late George M. Yerex of Belleville, and nephew of Mrs. K. R. Earle of Lewis Street, is one of the men who have been making news. About ten years ago he was a young man in Mexico with just $25 to his name. Now he is the millionaire president of two air lines. Recently in Toronto he did not think it remarkable. He said, "It is just taking advantage of opportunity and working hard."

His link with Belleville goes back many years. His father, George M., who is remembered by many here, for he taught school at Foxboro, about the same time as Gilbert Parker (who later became the novelist and historian of the British Commons and was knighted for his services to the Empire) was teaching at Marsh Hill near Foxboro. George Yerex went out to Australia, taught there and then went on to New Zealand. He took Journey to the Antipodes he was accompanied by Harry McCrodan of the city. Readers of the old Ontario and of the Hastings Chronicle will remember many articles of his under the name "Orion" appearing in those papers, and had taught school at Honolulu on his way to New Zealand. George Yerex married in New Zealand. Their son, Lowell, left for the United States when he was sixteen years old.

Lowell served in the Royal Flying Corps in the First Great War — in which he did his first flying — and was shot down behind the German lines. His old comrades at arms all think of him as a devil-a fool exactly, without much patient self-inspection."

Soft Soap On Survival

Financial Post

Not a single bomb, nuclear or pre-nuclear, has yet been dropped on any part of North America (missiles going harmlessly by accident). Other countries, including the U.K., have experienced bombing and have something about the efficiency of shelters.

This undoubtedly explains why the British and the Americans are being told such entirely different stories about the chances of survival in a nuclear war.

U.S. officials and newspapers would be laughed to scorn if they tried to get away with the soft soap and Fallout Annex nonsense being peddled to the U.S. people in this life-and-death question. They don't try. Herold Watkinson, British Defence Minister, and his candidity: "An air raid shelter is not going to be on the slightest use in the next war."

The people of the U.K. are being told, baldly, shortlived and dangerous bunk on the subject. As if ordinary people in the nation, as they probably were, the U.S. mass circulation newspapers, were to tell the truth about the comforts and sensations of a thermo-nuclear attack. Associated Press sends out interviews with Edward Teller on how protected are our public fears. U.S. News and World Report tells how well Hiroshima is getting along.

Life magazine does the biggest job of all. Its contribution is that "97% can be saved," presumably by taking a solution of baking soda for radiation sickness and showing a pretty girl in a bathing suit who is safe from one well-stocked thermonuclear dugout to another.

It will be found that the American mind is conditioned by such soft soap fallacies to accept nuclear war as tolerable. For the object of all this nonsense is to make war tolerable, which can't be done, but to avoid it altogether.

New Cities In Britain

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Anyone looking on a map of the British Isles for the city of Basildon will find it hard to find it. Nor for 11 cities that have been established in England and Wales. Each is intended to be a complete community as complete as may be in itself with a wide range of employment for those who take up homes there, as well as the already-established people. They will ultimately absorb up to 700,000 people.

The first was started with construction of Letchworth, the first "garden city"; then others developed in new communities around London. War and other events changed the developments, but after the General Word for the government felt that the way of making big cities bigger, with overcrowding, was not to the people out of employment in event of a recession or a strike, but to start new cities where new ones.

So the government decided upon a policy of building these communities in predominantly rural areas. Some new industrial cities could be built from the ground up, as each of 60,000 people is planned for most of these cities, but allowance is made for that not to exceed 100,000, depending on circumstances.

To make the newcomers comfortable, each house will have a garden, the minimum which will be a boon to former tenants accustomed to city apartments. There will be movie theatres, bowling alleys and sports fields, theatres and special bungalow types of homes for retired or elderly people.

There is a predominance of small farms. Only 11 in all the 12 cities employ more than 1,000 people each; more than one-third employ 50 people or less; 27 per cent have fewer than 1,000.

Perhaps Toronto, for example, could direct its drain of newcomers to new cities that have no aspirations for bigness.

No Corpses His Problem

Ottawa Journal

A clipping from an English-language newspaper in Rio de Janeiro proves a mayor's troubles are never so bad that he can't find more.

Reporter Nestor de Holanda in Ubatuba, Brazil, tells the story, of an election in the town of Espirito Santo state which did not go to the cemetery. A candidate for mayor, exploiting the people's dissatisfaction over facing eventual burial in a neighboring town, developed his campaign under the slogan 'Vote for me and gain a cemetery'. He was elected by more than 2 to 1 despite his popularity later began to wane due to lack of deaths in town.

"He had been several months in office when the newly created cemetery remained virgin still, as no one died. In this emergency, the deadlock was solved with the lucky occurrence of a homicide, producing a corpse. But the victim's family threatened to live in the neighboring town and insisted on burial there. This touched off public demonstrations, with cries of 'the corpse is ours', and also a vehement speech by the mayor, declaring that 'in order to carry away the dead body they will have to pass over my own dead body'.

"The campaign was successful and the murdered man became the first for the Ubatuba burial ground.

"The papers now, however, that this was the only burial so far, and if no more deaths occur before next year's election, the mayor's chances of being re-elected are slim."

Mayors of Ottawa think they have troubles but politicians would look shallow beside vacant graves.

Difficult for Patient To Detect Tuberculosis

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

Of giving the disease to others around him.

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner — I am a young man and was told by my doctor that I have a mild case of TB. I am being treated at home. What I can't understand is that I feel perfectly well and when people ask me, I tell them so.

"How can I feel so good when I have this disease?" — B.E.G."

It's very organized the way people are put together. I'd fix things so that the first touch of tuberculosis would make them feel sick.

Then they would hop along to the doctor right off. And before long we'd have tuberculosis under control.

But TB doesn't act that way. The infection starts, and there is no sign by which the patient can detect it. He doesn't notice a thing. He goes his happy way, unconsciously distributing the germs to others — especially to those he most loves.

By the time the patient himself notices it, the disease may already be pretty well advanced.

As if ordinary TB were not reason why the early stages should bother you or make you feel miserable, there's more. In the beginning, there's a little cavity in the lung. This gradually has established a connection with the bronchial tubes. They affect a very small area at first, but spread and spread.

In advanced stages, after the TB bacilli with the germs has seeped your system, you get the disease makes itself obvious. You feel sick.

In fact, this very matter of feeling good becomes one of the great problems in treating sick people in a TB hospital — and I know, because I have been such hospitals under my direction.

Patients announce that they feel good and want to leave the hospital too soon. It takes some pretty strong persuasion to persuade some of these patients that, although they feel perfectly well, the disease is still active and must be put under complete control before they can safely leave.

The strongest argument usual. It turns out to be the realization that by leaving too soon, the patient is going to run the risk of giving the disease to others around him.

"Dear Dr. Molner — I would appreciate a high protein and carbohydrate chart for cirrhosis of the liver. — M. T."

There is no special diet for cirrhosis of the liver. Current practice is to give a complete, balances one with mixed vitamin supplement. Average protein would be provided daily by one or two eggs, a serving of meat, fish or fowl, about two pints from milk and dairy products. (There may be cases in which high protein is not tolerated. But I frequently salt is restricted if there is swelling.

Carbohydrate usually is average. If, for some particular reason, your physician finds that a special diet is best for your case, you should get the list or chart from him.

"Dear Dr. Molner — What is rosacea or 'whisky nose?' What causes it and can anything be done for it? — M. L."

Rosacea is a term used to describe a variety of conditions, and there are different varieties of "whisky nose". It's due to an accumulation and enlargement of tiny capillaries under the surface of the skin. Alcohol has that tendency — to enlarge tiny blood vessels and draw blood toward the surface. Hence some hard-drinkers have a ruddy complexion and "whisky nose." Others don't. Some people who don't drink have "whisky nose" aren't drinkers and never have been. The condition is found in a certain form of dermatologist (skin specialist) to determine what variety of rosacea is involved. Some varieties can be helped.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On a late bus last night there were only two or three passengers when a young man got aboard, carrying as a symbol of his calling a big, flat packsack set youth with a sombre and studious expression on his face. As he sat across from me, I tried to figure out what text books he had, what subject he was studying. Was he attending night classes? Maybe before me were books in which to learn a trade.

Maybe he was a student of life.

Then I saw the packsack in his pocket and drew out an orange. He bit it to start the peeling process, and then picked it up with his teeth and tore it place. And to my astonishment, simply shook the skins on the floor of the bus.

I have often wondered where the man came from who first tried to get the slogan of human progress out of the mouths of babes and sucklings and into public places.

It seems to me whatever this sombre young man learns from his text books, it will be worth-while. Not much so far as his fellow beings are concerned.

NO PARKING HERE!

I never see this sign but that I am made thoughtful. The fact is that there is too much parking in the average town.

I know of people who have life insurance premiums parked over their consciousness. They carry an extra burden because they have the sign up but never thought that they owned space in that life.

Then there are those who allow no parking on their property. They want every inch of space that is theirs that they may make life just as full for them as they can make. Of such is the Kingdom of Doing.

Some people make much waste of that type which finds it most convenient to park on his time. This type is always desirous of having that one of beauty and freedom justly due.

Nicholson College Holds PTA Meeting

The first meeting of the season of Nicholson Catholic College P.T.A. was held on Oct. 24th in the gymnasium. Monsignor J. P. Sullivan opened the meeting with a prayer and installed the officers as follows: Immediate past president, Mr. Paul Cleary; honorary president, Sister Mary Teresa; president, Mr. Oriel Griffiths; vice-president, Mrs. T. A. Kelly; treasurer, Mr. Barney Smith; secretary, Mrs. Marie Buckley.

Sister Mary Teresa introduced the teaching staff and the guest speaker, Rev. Robt. W. Meagher, S.J., was introduced by Monsignor Sullivan. Father Meagher's topic "The Paradoxes in being a Teen" was interesting, practical and informative. He felt that it was difficult to give an accurate definition of a teen but it is generally accepted that they are petrified of being different and desire the approval of their associates. They are determined to find a philosophy of life and crave adult treatment.

According to Father Meagher, there is too much emphasis on the material things and too little concern for the things that really matter. In this age of international strife, they see power but inability to recognize true intellectual and spiritual concepts. Father Meagher was also of the opinion that we as adults have given our teenagers "membership in the minimal club" and suggested that we strongly encourage our sons and daughters to aim for the stars and to instill in them an idealistic spirit. Intellectual pursuits should particularly be stressed. Contrary to popular belief, they are not looking for pals at home but parents who serve as models of maturity and authority. Mr. A. G. McAuley thanked Father Meagher for his talk.

The various committee members were introduced by Mr. Griffiths and a briefing of programs for future monthly meetings was given by Mrs. L. M. Daley. A display of books and pamphlets from the Catholic Lending Library was arranged by Dr. Edith K. Peterkin. Monsignor Sullivan closed the meeting with a prayer and a well-attended social hour followed.

Thieves Cause Damage to Elliott Motors

Inspector McLauchlan of the city police station, said this morning that as a cruiser patrolman was checking the premises of Elliott Motors on West Dundas St., Sunday morning he noticed a company safe lying on the floor in the showroom. He said an attempt had been made to open the safe but entry was not gained.

The inspector said the thieves took acetylene welding equipment to an upstairs office and attacked a large safe there. He said they gained entry to this safe by burning a hole in the door. As a result, some of the records were scorched. The safe is said to have contained petty cash and records, which were strewn around the office floor.

Inspector McLauchlan said damage was extensive but that there was no actual loss of funds.

City police are also investigating a break-in at Parson's Cleaners on Graham St., Sunday morning. It is believed some women's clothing had been taken.

PHILP — MACDONALD

at high noon in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, October 17, a lovely autumn wedding was solemnized by Archdeacon J. R. Crossgan, rector of the church. When Joan Carolyn MacDonald, of Cortyville, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. MacDonald, became the bride of Richard Allen Philp, of Long Dan, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Philp, of Cortyville. White gladioli mingled with snapdragons and Shasta daisies formed a pretty background for the ceremony. The guest pews were marked by white satin bows.

The church organist, Mr. John Croyden Withers, provided the wedding music and accompanied the choir of six boys who sang the 67th Psalm; "Brother James's Air," and "O Perfect Love."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of white mirrorlight taffeta sheath sliped with re-embroidered Bourdon lace at the scalloped neckline. A large bow at the back accented the floor-length skirt which cascaded into a chapel train. The three-quarter length sleeves were complemented by short white gloves. She wore a coronet studded with seed pearls and crystals holding the bouffant butterfly veil, and carried a cascade bouquet of dark pink Sweetheart roses mingled with Snowdrift mums. Pearl earrings completed her costume.

Her attendants were Mrs. McColl, as matron of honor, Mrs. George MacDonald, sister-in-law of the bride, as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in coalition-length dresses of goldenglow organdie featuring fitted bodices, of Chantilly lace, scalloped at the necklines. Their headdresses were in pillbox style, with bronze veiling, accented by back bows of Bronze pompe, short white gloves and cascades of white commercial mums, tinted with gold, accented their costumes.

Mr. W. G. Philp, of London, Ontario, attended his brother as groomsman and Mr. Ronald Philp, brother of the bridegroom, of London and Mr. George MacDonald, brother of the bride, of Belleville, ushered.

Following a ceremony, a reception was held in the Belleville Skating Club, with music supplied by Mrs. Reid.

The bride's table, beautiful with its lovely appointments of white damask, bronze candles, silver and gold leaves, was centred by an all-white three-tier wedding cake topped by yellow roses and white daisies and misted about the base with tulle and the bridal bouquets. The guest tables were centred by Shasta daisies and yellow roses.

Receiving the guests, the bride's mother, Mrs. George C. MacDonald, wore a beige gown of pure silk peau de soie; with beige lace, in sheath style; beige marlbon hat with matching gloves; tan accessories, and corsage of pink Castlemaid Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother, wore a goldenglow shade of sheath with green hat and gloves and brown accessories. Her corsage was of bronze single 'mums.

For the wedding trip by motor car, to Massena, N.Y., Montreal and Ottawa, the bride wore a chocolate-brown knitted suit trimmed with satin; matching shoes and bag, goldboned hat and gloves and corsage of white gold-flecked 'mums.

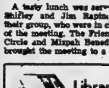
Guests were present from London; Kingston; Cannifton; Cortyville; Stewartsville and Belleville.

Showers honoring the bride were held at Mrs. Murray Wilson's, where the bride was presided with a coffee table by the Commercial girls of the Bell Telephone; a miscellaneous shower at Mrs. Alexander Ryan's home with Mrs. Ian McColl and Mrs. James Ueas as co-hostesses; and at the home of Mrs. George MacDonald, Jr., with Mrs. Fred Purnidge as co-hostess. A kitchen shower was also held at the home of Mrs. George Crowe, aunt of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Philp will reside at 20 Tecumseh Street, Apartment 402, London, Ont.

Energetic Club Hears Talk on Survival Steps

The regular meeting of the Energetic Club of Rolloway Street United Church was held on October 20.



Cam Hitchon introduced the guest speaker, Colonel Angus B. Dickey of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who outlined the plans to be followed by the citizens in the case of an atomic attack. He also explained what private individuals could do to protect their families from radioactive fallout and answered many questions during a question and answer period. At the conclusion of his address the speaker left copies of the booklet "Steps to Survival" for the members to take home and read.

The theme for the worship service was "Peace", and the call by the devotional period by the club president, Phyllis Lucas. Thelma Townsend led the group as they read a Psalm in unison, after which Shirley Hapkins read the devotional period with prayer.

Guests at the meeting, Linda and Pat Hannett, were introduced by Carl Brothour.

A tasty lunch was served by Shirley and Jim Rapino, their group, who were in charge of the meeting. The Friendship Circle and Mizpah Benedictin brought the meeting to a close.

"Anything Could Happen" (Young). Phyllis Brett Young, author of the popular novel "Cypche" and the "Torontonians" gives an outstanding glimpse of her childhood.

"The Queen's Necklace" (Monsaint). Diamonds purchased for Marie Antoinette disappear never to be seen again. The investigation that follows involves many personages of the French court but the mystery is never really solved.

"Great Canadian Disasters" (Rasky). The Springhill Coal Mine disaster, the collapse of the Vancouver Bridge, The Halifax Explosion, the Regina tornado, Hurrican Hazel are a few of the disasters included in this volume.

"Make It Yourself" (Bushnell) Directions for making a model catamaran, a wall shelf, mobiles, pantograph and several other items are included in these two volumes written for young people.

"The Complete Book of Knitting" (Day). Knitting, according to the author, is an inexpensive but thrilling piece of automotive machinery designed exclusively to provide its driver with all the thrills and chills of competitive auto racing without the high cost and the d[illegible]rally associated with [illegible] homes of motorized space.

Secondary Education Topic at WA

At the recent meeting of Bridge Street United Church W.A. the Reverend J. Alastair Haig, principal of Albert College, spoke on "Secondary School Education" of today. With the help of blackboard diagrams he showed how a senior student's day is broken up into unrelated periods of fragmentary bits of study of varying subjects. The graduate may have no clear picture which will give a depth and meaning to life.

"In contrast, in the 15th and 16th centuries the church was the 'Mother of Learning' with theology the primary subject. God was in the centre of the picture giving meaning to everything in education.

"Then came the Renaissance when learning was taken out of the control of the Church. This also meant a breaking away from God-centred things and a drift to secularism.

GOD CROWDED INTO CORNER

"Dewey, the pragmatist, completed the trend by stressing, 'don't study anything unless it is useful', now, we have lost the all-inclusive picture of life, and God has been crowded into one small corner. In the current struggle to get religious education on the curriculum of the Secondary School, it is to be hoped that all will give their support and not be content to let problems of our young people be 'God'. An overhaul of God changes from bless and white to cleanscope.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. W. H. Finkle, and thanked, on behalf of the members, by Mrs. Ralph Reid.

WORSHIP SERVICE

The first portion of the meeting, under the leadership of Mrs. C. Miller and Mrs. O. Stanton, who was in charge of the program, over which Mrs. D. G. Williams presided, included a resume of the Kerwick Presbytery attended by Mrs. Davis, who gave an outline of the topic, "The Church and You," and the spiritual enlightenment gained from the Bible study and the discussion groups. "One found herself asking," said Mrs. Davis, "What am I really like inside my inner secret spiritual life? How am I measuring up in my dedication to God?"

"In looking forward to the launching of the Kerwick United Church Women, there can be no real problem if we are truly dedicated and go forward in the strength which God supplies. "We shall be more than conquerors through Christ who loves us."

Mr. and Mrs. James Charles McDermott are shown signing the register in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, following their recent marriage. The bride is the former Miss Carolyn Ann Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cummings, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. McDermott, of Oakville, Ontario.

McDERMOTT — CUMMINGS

On Saturday, October 7, at 11.00 a.m. a very pretty double-ring wedding was solemnized in the Church of St. Michael, the Archangel, Belleville, by the Reverend Peter Murphy, when Carole-Ann Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cummings, was united in marriage to James Charles McDermott, of Napanee, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. McDermott, of Oakville, Ontario. Lovely white baskets of yellow Shasta daisies adorned the altar, and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

The organist, Sister Mary Joan of Arc, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke in his rendition of "Ave Maria," "Mother, At Your Feet is Kneeling," "Panis Angelicus," "O, Beautiful Mother," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. John W. Cummings, the bride was radiantly lovely in her bridal gown of white silk brocade shantung, featuring a molded bodice with pointed neckline and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands. The bouffant, floor-length skirt was accented by a shoulder panel which cascaded from the back neckline into the chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil of silk tulle illusion fell from a silk organza headdress touched with seed pearls, and she carried a white prayer book studded with golden Garnet roses and white satin streamers knotted with white feathered carnations.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. R. Sowden, of Belleville, as matron of honor, wearing a moss-green velvet gown in short length, with matching jacket, and headdress of velvet leaves, and carrying a cascade bouquet of bronze 'mums with trailing ivy.

Miss Judy Cummings, and Miss Nancy Cummings, as bridesmaids, both sisters of the bride, were attired in bronze silk velvet gowns in short length, with matching sheaths, ivy hats and veils. They carried cascades of bronze 'mums and trailing ivy.

Little Jacqueline, Cummings 7 year old sister of the bride, as flower girl, was sweet in her moss-green silk velvet frock, with matching hat, streamers, and shoes. She carried a little basket of bronze 'mums.

Mr. William McDermott attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Bob Cummings, brother of the bride, of Belleville, and Donald Dryden of Oakville, ushered the guests.

The reception which followed the ceremony was held at Club Canara, Belleville, where the bride's mother, wearing a moss-green gown of lace over taffeta in street-length, feathered matching hat, matching accessories, and corsage of bronze 'mums, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in cinnamon-brown lace in street-length, with matching hat and accessories with corsage of yellow roses.

The bride's table was appointed with white satin damask, and centred by a three-tier pedestal wedding cake topped by lily-of-the-valley and Sweetheart roses, flanked by two golden-toned wedding bells. Tall yellow and white candles in silver holders, and the bridal bouquets added a delightful nuptial note to the setting.

For travelling in the New England States, Cape Cod, through the Adirondacks, to Niagara Falls and other points, the bride wore a brown dressmaker wool flannel ensemble in box style with burnt orange and brown accessories, and corsage of bronze 'mums.

Guests attended from Belleville, Ottawa, Toronto, Oakville, and Pembroke.

The bride was entertained previous to her marriage, at miscellaneous showers at the home of Mrs. Ian McColl, Belleville with Mrs. Ed Coghlin as hostess, and at the home of Mrs. D. Dryden of Oakville.

Mr. and Mrs. McDermott will reside in Napanee, Ontario.

Vegetable Milk

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A Cuban born says it has developed a vegetable milk that could replace cow's milk commercialized by radioactive fallout.

The vegetable milk is canned and will keep for a year without refrigeration, according to the Rich Products Corporation. It tastes like cow's milk and contains equal or greater amounts of nutrition, the dairy said.

Scout Aux. Elects 1961-62 Officers

The 3rd Belleville Ladies' Auxiliary held its first meeting of the season recently in the Mickle-Dundas School with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. J. Black, warmly welcomed all and presided with the meeting. Mrs. Black gave an interesting report on attending the annual meeting of the Ontario Council Auxiliary. The treasurer and conveners gave their reports, which proved a most successful year. The funds received for the year bought the Scouts three new tents, helped purchase a uniform for the new Scoutmaster as well as treats for boys at Hallowe'en, Apple Day, Christmas and helped expenses towards a winner roast at the end of June. A potluck supper was also held, in February, for the boys and parents.

Mrs. Francis Gilhooley expressed thanks to the executive, on behalf of all the mothers for the work done during the past year.

Mrs. J. Farrell presented Mrs. J. Black with a past president's pin and thanked her on behalf of the Auxiliary for the good and unselfish leadership she provided for the past two years.

The meeting was turned over to the nominating chairman, Mrs. J. Brunner, and the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. W. Bunnell; vice-president, Mrs. J. Doyle; secretary, Mrs. J. Farrell; treasurer, Mrs. L. Collins; sewing convener, Mrs. W. Guyatt; social convener, Mrs. Glassco; visiting convener, Mrs. H. McAlpine; committee, Mrs. R. Clifford; telephone, Mrs. D. Jones, and publicity, Mrs. J. Doyle.

Dr. Robert Allore, group committee chairman, was present to install the new officers. He also reported on the progress made on the new Scout room now being used. The new committee took charge of the meeting.

The president, Mrs. W. Barnett, introduced the new Cubs and welcomed Guide and Brownie leaders who were present guests of the evening. Plans were discussed for re-registering the boys on the "Apple Day" and trends for Hallowe'en. The combined Scout and Guide bridge and archive card party was planned to be held in November in St. Michael's auditorium to which everyone is cordially welcome. Good prizes are to be won and refreshments will be served. Bridge players are to bring cards.

The meeting was closed and lovely [illegible] served.

Women's Institutes

MADOC W.I.

MADOC — Mrs. E. T. Naylor was hostess to the Madoc Women's Institute for their October meeting. The president, Mrs. George McCrimmon was in the chair and the secretary, Mrs. W. Forsstell read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. R. Bailey gave the treasurer's report.

The business was dealt with and the secretary was instructed to send money to the Foster Parent plan for the adoption of a Korean five-year old. Mrs. W. Forsstell and Mrs. E. T. Nicol were appointed delegates to the area convention, in Belleville, on November 14 and 15. The report on the results from the Madoc Fair booth was most encouraging, considering the inclement weather, as nearly $56 was taken in. It was decided not to take a bus trip this year.

The meeting was based on home economics and a favorite dish was used at the potluck supper after the meeting. A discussion regarding members' hobbies was held and each told of her respective hobby.

All enjoyed the lovely potluck supper with a large assortment of goodies to choose from.

The next meeting is at the home of Mrs. E. T. Nicol on the evening of November 17.

Ready For Hallowe'en Hi-jinxers

By Mary Moore

It looks as if I'm going to be in the candy apple business myself this year. For I have just come home from Ottawa, bringing with me my four-year-old grandson Darcy.

The 6-day collection of mail has fallers in it asking for candy and/or Hallowe'en.

Today I will give you that recipe and a repeat of a foolproof fudge which you can use for your little callers on Hallowe'en after dark. Also a recipe for gingerbread which you can cut into squares, top with whipped cream and an inverted canned peach. The peach can be decorated with raisins to represent a pumpkin "face".

CANDY APPLES (Guaranteed to caramel):

Joan Hanna and McIntoshes are good for this. Select 8 or 10 medium-sized ones and chill them, having inserted a strong wooden skewer into the stem end. In heavy saucepan mix 2 cups sugar, ½ cup each brown sugar and table cream, 3/3 cup each corn syrup and butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons vanilla. Cook to 300 deg. firm ball in cold water), stirring steadily toward end of cooking to prevent burning. Remove from heat and cool until it thickens slightly — but do not beat. Quickly twirl each apple to coat it evenly all over. Drain on wax paper. Speed is essential. For the last 2 or 3 apples tip the saucepan to make syrup deep enough to coat apples.

FOOLPROOF FUDGE (for Hallowe'en callers!):

1 3-3 cups granulated sugar, 2/3 cup evaporated milk (a little less than a 6-oz. can holds!), 1¼ cups miniature marshmallows, 1¼ cups semi-sweet chocolate chips, ½ cup coarsely chopped walnuts, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon salt.

In a large saucepan combine the sugar and evaporated milk. Bring to boil and boil 5 minutes exactly, stirring frequent. Remove from heat and add marshmallows and stir until dissolved. Add all remaining ingredients and stir until blended. Have ready a buttered dish (10 x 6¼" or 9" glass pie plate) and pour in. (Note: this size results in fudge ¼" thick.) Pour fudge in, unless quickly smooth top, and chill. Cut in 1" squares to serve.

GINGERBREAD:

1 egg, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup shortening (room temperature), 3-4 cup molasses, 1 cup buttermilk (or ½ cup sweet milk soured with 2 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar), 2¼ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Beat together the egg, sugar and shortening until blended, then beat in molasses and milk. Sift together flour, soda, salt and spices and sift over the ingredients; then beat in until batter is smooth. Pour into wax paper-lined (buttered) pan 12 x 8 x 2" and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 35 minutes.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Il ness Problems)

Concerned Friend

DEAR DORIS:—The daughter of a good friend is about to have a baby. She is just seventeen and unmarried. Welfare workers are advising her to give the child for adoption.

She feels that this will break her heart as she has come to feel a great fondness for her baby. The boy who is the father is fine and not at all suitable as a husband.

Many of the girls at the home for unmarried mothers plan to keep their babies, saying, "Where there's a will there's a way." Others give them up without a care.—JOHNNY.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR JOHNNY—There may be a way—but it could be a decidedly inferior way.

From the baby's point of view, he has a chance to two parents and a legitimate family, if he is given for adoption. This is usually better than having an unmarried mother.

No one can decide this but the girl herself. If marriage is definitely out, would she rather indulge her love for a child she has never seen, or give him and herself a chance at a better life? It's her life and her decision.

We don't condone illegitimacy in Canada, and the way is rough indeed (I am sorry to say) for the very young mothers who "nobly" hang on to their offspring.

DEAR DORIS:—When our baby daughter was christened, my sister and brother were sponsors. Incidentally, we are of the United Church faith.

Now that we have moved to the U.S.A. and have joined the Methodist church we have our little son to be christened. I would like to have the same sponsors. My husband has no family and I have only one sister and brother.

I am told this is not good taste and would appreciate your advice before we go ahead with our plans.—B. D.

DEAR B. D.—My adviser on things denominational tells me sponsors are even less common in the Methodist Church than they are in the United Church of Canada.

But your minister should be consulted. You might explain that with so few family connections, you would like your sister and brother to share responsibility for the spiritual welfare of your boy—as this is what being a sponsor implies. Then follow his advice.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Sinus trouble, snoring cool water as helps and poor diet that leads to bed wetter in school.

SINUS SEASON

With the fall season of colds and influenza comes the possibility of sinus trouble for many people. Doctors advise the best defence is early treatment.

Early sinus problems like headache are often masked by the general ill feeling of a cold or the flu. Later the headache may not be the most prominent complaint. In fact, most specialists find that only a tenth of their patients who complain of sinus headaches actually have sinusitis, says an article in the British Journal, Lancet.

Early treatment should be aimed at improving the patient's general condition—and at relieving the problem locally. Local heat and mildly medicated steam inhalations are helpful in draining and ventilating the sinuses. Nose drops may be useful in mild cases, but prolonged use can result in a chronic congestion similar to allergic reactions.

FIRST AID FOR BURNS

Cool water may be an effective first-aid device for burns and scalds, and a painkiller as well, says Dr. O. J. Ofeigsson of Reykjavik, Iceland.

Run cold tapwater over the mild burn, he suggests, or soak it in cold water, milk, sea water or some other clean, harmless fluid. Switch to clean water as soon as possible. If you choose a substitute in an emergency.

Under the tap, take care that the water pressure does not break or injure the skin. Avoid breaking blisters and don't apply dressings. Keep the burned area in the water until the pain has ceased.

WELL-FED SCHOLAR

Poor nutrition may be the cause of some bad grades in school, says Dr. George M. Cumming, Jr., of Northwestern University.

Bad eating habits can lead to physical and emotional problems that can impair scholastic performance, he suggested. Crowded conditions in some school cafeterias often lead children to a lunch-time diet of candy bars and doughnuts.

Barring disease, the commonest causes of bad nutrition in school age children are poor eating habits or emotional problems. Symptoms most often are weakness, lower body temperature, slow heart rate, even mental and emotional disturbances.

Migratory and Spawning Habits of Tuna Still Secret

ROME (CP) — Scientists are trying to penetrate some of the mysteries of the tuna.

They want to learn the extent of the stocks of this group of fish and study their migratory and spawning habits largely unsaid secret.

There is no agreement so far among biologists about how many species there are and there is only fragmentary information on the travels of the far-ranging fish.

One thing is sure, however. It is becoming increasingly important for fishermen. In 1959 more than 800,000 tons of tuna were taken compared with 500,000 in 1952.

With all these things in mind, the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations has taken the lead in convening a world scientific meeting on the biology of tunas and related species. It will be held at La Jolla, Calif., July 2-4, 1962.

In the past, says the FAO, the tuna fishing industry has chiefly concentrated its activities on rich fishing grounds such as those in the White Sea off Iceland, off the Canadian east coast and in various areas of the continental shelf of Europe, the Americas, Africa and Asia.

JAPAN LEADS

Only recently have fishermen discovered that the tuna and related species roam in hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, over the temperate and tropical oceans of the world.

Japan has taken the lead in development of the tuna industry, its fleet ranging throughout the world catching more than 500,000 tons a year.

French, American and Japanese fishermen have in recent years opened a profitable tuna fishery off the coast of West Africa. Norwegian and German fishermen found they could catch tuna in the North Sea and in areas off the Norwegian coast.

Commercially, the main types of tuna and related species are the bonito, yellowfin, albacore, skipjack, little tuna and bonito. The bluefin and yellowfin are among the most important commercially.

Horacio Rosa, chief of the marine resources section of FAO's fisheries division, will be technical secretary of next year's congress.

"We know very little about where tuna go in any of these migrations and there is some evidence to suggest from the catch of tagged fish that the bluefin tuna of the North Atlantic, for example, pass through the Mediterranean to spawn in the Aegean and Black Sea and then resume their thousands of miles of migration through the North and South Atlantic. But this is little more than hypothesis at present, supported only by the occasional catch of a tagged fish."

East German Policeman Lets Woman Pass

BERLIN (AP) — Shortly before U.S. and Soviet armor rolled into position at the tense Friedrichstrasse crossing Friday, a little old lady came walking slowly toward the border.

On the West Berlin side stood her son, Peter Kneudel.

"Mama, mama!" he shouted "Come on, come over."

An East German policeman barred the way some 15 yards from her son.

"Mother," Kneudel urged her quietly again, "Come over please come".

Stone - faced, the policeman still stood in her way.

Then her fat little black dog, a bow tied to its collar, bounced over the border.

Kneudel's eyes were wet. West German police nearby swept their hands across their eyes. Another East German policeman turned away, visibly shaken.

"Mama," the son called again. "Mama, I'm waiting mama. . ."

It was too much for the policeman.

He let the woman pass. She ran her hands across her eyes. Another East German policeman turned away, visibly shaken.

More Treat Than Trick In Present-Day Hallowe'en Property Damage Lighter

By NEIL SUTHERN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There's more head than trick in present-day Hallowe'en.

Old-timers may sigh nostalgically over the days when they used to play such pranks as pushing over a neighbour's privy, but the police say property damage is lighter and relatively small part in modern observance.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that while police will be out in full strength next Tuesday night, they aren't expecting much trouble.

One reason is that services clubs and other organizations have encouraged constructive wards parties that help keep the kids out of mischief.

There's a threat implied in the traditional "trick or treat" call that children will perform when he opens the front door to be confronted by costumed youngsters.

Only rarely is the youthful Hallowe'en bugaboo carried out without the treat he demands, leaving little opportunity for him to carry out his threat.

UNICEF — The UN International Children's Emergency Fund — has in recent years added a dimension new to this particular occasion.

About $300,000 was collected across the country last year by the "Pennies for UNICEF" campaign and that sum will be heard as often as a "trick or treat" and "shell out" again this year.

The pranksters haven't always gotten disappeared. In Halifax, for example, police reported unusual firecracker shenanigans the fact it's illegal in the city for children), opening of fire hydrants and slaughter of livestock.

Police Inspector Edgar Mahaney says the force isn't much surprised about Hallowe'en. "We've drawn the line at throwing eggs through someone's window. For instance when cabbages started being paraded through the streets

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Ruth L. — I'm content to forget about a career and be one hundred per cent a wife and mother.

Georgine A. — That talk is just sour grapes. She's envious of me.

Ruth L. — I wish my sister would stop nagging me about taking courses and keeping up my qualifications as a lab technician. I'm not like her. She's settled for a career with fame and distinction, even though she has a home and family to look out for. I'm satisfied to make a full-time career of my marriage. That'll be glory enough for me, if things turn out well.

Maybe I'll go back to college for refresher courses some day when my children are older. But it won't be because I'm out to win a Nobel Prize. It'll be because I enjoy the subject. Any professional work I may do will be either as a volunteer or in some insignificant part-time job.

Georgine A. — Ruth is just lazy and trying to make it sound noble. She fusses so much about her home, her husband and her kids that they'd probably become a little neglect.

It so happens that Ruth is brilliant — much brighter than I am. But I've never stopped studying and striving, as a fashion designer, and I've just been awarded first prize in a competition sponsored by a sewing company. Ruth push-pooh-pooh's and says I'd be better off using all my energies on homemaking. As for myself, she advises me to "dabble" rather than to be so serious and ambitious.

She's not as content as she claims, I'll bet.

The Council — Here are two sisters trying to make each other over. Each perceives that her way is best and, like Hamlet's worried mother, "doth protest too much." Let's warn them each against becoming so defensive about her chosen path that she begins to sound unreal; that she's being forced into the old saw, "It takes all kinds." The vital point is for Ruth and Georgine to know what kind they are — the domestic, homeloving, the ambitious Who-Gets-Our-Bust gal; the quiet altruist; the self-obsessed with gobs of inner confidence; or the self-doubter who must be told she's okay.

At this point Ruth seems to be content with giving her "all" to the big job at hand, but must assume she knows her own nature and needs best. Georgine, and we must adjure the self-doubter of "it", even though she feels Ruth isn't being true to herself, or fair to the outside world.

And Ruth, in turn, ought not belittle Georgine's achievements, lest such deprecation sound like a pathetic self-justification. Okay, now she seems so ee saying, as though her life must be a constant struggle to prove her worth! Actually nobody but nobody doubts it. Georgine, in her charmy prodding, rallies Ruth's defences but still evidences deep respect for her.

The grateful husbands, being willing, there's no reason for either sister to change her course. They have quite different temperaments.

Leave Ruth alone, Georgine, in doing what seems best for yourselves, you're doing right, too, by your families and the community.

Generation Ago Nice Girls In Japan Did Not Work

By REUTERMAN HERR

TOKYO (AP) — Akiko Yamamoto, 18, is an attractive, poised, mannered product of Japan's post-war democracy.

She is a college graduate and has other plans. Until a career or education age, a girl like Akiko would have had a husband and probably a mother by now. Today these days also girls don't work.

But today there are almost 2,000,000 of Akiko's age in Japan. They are the first generation to reach adulthood under democracy. The first to break free from the bonds of subservience and tradition that for centuries denied them all rights and shackled them to lives of drudgery.

The post - war constitution guarantees women equality politically, economically and socially. Yet in everyday life barriers of discrimination remain.

Akiko put her finger on what she believes is at the root of the resistance.

MEN ENEMY

"It's the men themselves. They've enjoyed being superior to women for so long that they don't want to give it up," she said.

In school, Akiko said, "we learn about democracy and equality, but once we go out into the larger world we begin to find out how unrealistic things still are."

She said a male employee at her office once told her: "Because I see my father treated my mother as a chattel and I would want to be treated like a queen."

But, in spite of the male attitudes Akiko says she enjoys her life, can remain she has the career into an experience that means more than previous generations. Women were never permitted to work.

What does she plan to marry? SOCIAL CHANGE

"I'll do the right man comes along," Akiko said.

There was no doubt from the way she said it. Akiko answers the one question that she meant the choice would be hers.

That's the way it should be, her mother says. "In my generation our feelings were taken into consideration to a certain extent but it was still a 'mai' marriage in which boy and girl exchanged pictures of each other and saw them formally introduced for a go between at a meeting attended by families of both sides[1]. I was married at 20 after I'd known my husband for five months."

Times still that's quite a change from many times," says her grandmother. "I was disappointed at 17. I had nothing to say about it."

According to Akiko Iutaro-kure (meaning, terribly feudal and humiliating).

Adult Education Conference Told Canada Now Engaged In Search for Its Identity

OTTAWA (CP)—Adult educationists today were urged to speak up and act at a time when Canada faces "a crisis of goals, of character and of identity of distressing proportions."

This challenge was issued in a keynote address, by Alan Thomas, associate director, Canadian Association for Adult Education, at the national conference on adult education.

In another keynote speech, Napoleon Leblanc, president of L'Institut Canadien des Adultes, called for bold innovations in teaching methods to enable Canadians to realize their full capacities.

The four-day conference, attended by 275 delegates from some 60 national and provincial educational, cultural, social and economic groups, was opened Sunday night by Governor-General Vanier. The Governor-General said the need for adult education is becoming greater every day as people acquire more leisure but do not know how to use their new-found free time.

Mr. Thomas told delegates that Canada, no longer under the protective shadow of Great Britain and the United States, is in a deadly earnest and enthrilling period of growth.

"We are, in a way never before experienced, alone," he said. "We are faced with an environment which we must define for ourselves."

Mr. Thomas said Canada would develop a form of society that will provide a model for other industrialized societies. He spoke of a "viscous society," whose main concern is not with formal, institutional objectives but with the goal of developing social and individual interest and well-being.

Achievement of such a goal, he suggested, would require a national governmental structure designed to support continuous learning, and a national program of financial assistance to adult education.

Among specific recommendations were tax concessions for industrialists and other agencies operating educational programs, and tax deductions for tuition fees incurred by any person improving education by attending an accredited institution.

CAN LEAVE JOBS

Mr. Thomas said he envisaged a system in which men can leave their jobs and be paid their previous full salary while engaged in learning.

He called for establishment of institutes of learning at every Canadian university, for at present there was a "disgraceful vacuum" in the area of responsible learning. The bulk of what was known about learning was derived from children and animals.

Mr. Thomas added the administrative structure and teaching methods used for educating children are not adequate to the needs of adults.

In the field of foreign policy, opportunities were needed for Canadians to learn about and from the rest of world. Such a concept, he said, would encourage about foreign affairs, subsidized travel and exchange in both directions, enabling every citizen to become part of a peace corps.

Texts of the speeches by Mr. Thomas and Mr. Leblanc were made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Sweeps Winner Hopes Heart Can Stand It

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Reactions ranged from a Canadian soldier's "nothing changes" to an 80-year old widow's hope that the excitement doesn't give her a heart attack as 18 persons in Canada answered their first day as $101,500 Irish Sweepstake winners.

Mrs. G. Ellis, of Ancaster, Ont., who held a ticket on Violetta, the horse that finished a dead heat for first place with Henry VIII in the Cambridgeshire Handicap in England Saturday at Newmarket, England, said she had no idea what she would do with the money.

"I hope the excitement isn't too much for me," she said. "I have a bad heart."

The most apparently unconcerned of the winners was Canadian Army Quartermaster Jim O'Rourke, a member of the Queen's Own Rifles stationed in Calgary, Alta. He'll be back in Germany for Christmas as usual, he said.

O'Rourke said he has been buying tickets "ever since I started to work I guess," and "have no idea" what he'll spend the money.

Mrs. Ethel Stevens of Bessemer City, N.C. the only non-Canadian in the group said he would put some of the money into a trust fund for his children Bob, 15, and Larry, 14. The family, living in Ottawa since the U.S. air force sergeant was stationed there two years ago, may visit North Carolina, he said. But Stevens said he's sure what to do with the rest of the fruits of the first sweepstake ticket they ever bought.

No such problem faces Lyle Beckett, 23, of Lloydminster, Alta. The manager of the securities department of the Bank of Montreal in his home branch, asked where he will put his winnings said "in the bank, of course."

Good Old Golden Rule Days Brought Boredom to Many — Declares New PC Leader

HAMILTON (CP) — Education Minister Roberts said Sunday the "good old days" were probably far less good in the field of education.

Making his first speech since being named last Wednesday to succeed Premier Frost as leader of Ontario Progressive Conservative party, Mr. Roberts said he had recently talked with an elderly lady who had made a survey among people her own age.

She found that they had disliked school intensely, that they had commended on the boredom of rote learning and that they had objected to the role played by punishment in the schools of their day," he said.

They said that education in those days was a very form or mold into which everyone was relentlessly willy-nilly."

Speaking to the annual convention of the Ontario Council for Exceptional Children, he said the number of special classes in Ontario has nearly doubled since 1954, and that 2,081 retarded children are attending special classes and 72 associations operate schools for handicapped.

Mr. Roberts, scheduled to succeed Leslie Frost shortly as premier of Ontario, said Saturday he will maintain his post as provincial education minister.

His statement ended speculation that he would keep the education portfolio as well as being premier.

Asked whether there were any political successors to the minister's job, he replied: "These are decisions that have yet to be made."

Quebec Secessionists Seek End of Federal Income Tax

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's most vocal secessionist group called on French - Canadians Monday to stop buying Canada Savings Bonds and urged the abolition of the federal income tax.

Le Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale, holding its first national convention, branded the federal income tax as "an onerous and inacceptable burden" from which the Quebec government should liberate the French-Canadian nation.

The Quebec government should issue its own bonds in place of the Canada Savings Bonds, the group urged.

The assembly promoted a program to promote Quebec's independence from Canada, to organize demonstrations, and to create, if necessary, a political party to assure Quebec's secession from the Confederation.

Dr. Marcel Chaput, of the Defence Research Board biochemist whose activities on behalf of RIN caused an uproar in Ottawa earlier this year, was elected guest speaker.

Last summer there were calls for Dr. Chaput's resignation from the RIN after he had been vociferous speech urging the breakup of the Confederation. The board decided later to take no action.

'APPALLING' EXPERIENCE

Mr. Chaput said he was a little apprehensive about how he would be received after his return back to work, considering his election and the debacement "by all persons we do not belong to" at the Ottawa War Memorial with separatist emblems.

The 120 delegates were mostly between 25 and 40 years of age.

Retiring president Andre d'Allemagne said at a press conference the movement has grown this year, made independence the principal preoccupation of the French-Canadian people and is "irreversible."

It is no longer something to be laughed at, he said. "It is an ideal, to be considered carefully."

British Workers Ordering Champagne by Mail-Order And Happy With Tory Rule

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Talk about your affluent society! Now, they say, British workers are ordering champagne by mail-order catalogue.

The report has political significance. It comes at a time when Britain's Conservative party is ostensibly savoring a 10-year anniversary of power and looking ahead confidently to another 10 years of the same.

The general election of Oct. 25, 1951, put the Conservatives under Winston Churchill back into office with a majority of 17, only six years after Labor's surprise 1945 victory that many thought would produce a generation of Socialist rule.

"We are the masters now!" proclaimed Labor's Sir Hartley Shawcross, and few observers challenged his assurance. But the Conservatives came back in 1951 and increased their majorities in two subsequent elections. They now have held office longer, than all but one, of any administrations since 1832.

They may not be through yet. Current opinion polls show Labor out in front, but the next election is probably two years off and most independent judges would still give the edge to the Tories.

REGIME MODERATE

As long as prosperity continues, it certainly seems as though the British public will continue to support a Conservative party that presents itself as a moderate, slightly left-of-centre regime, blending prudence in foreign affairs with welfare capitalism at home.

The "time for a change" philosophy may win some votes for Labor, but ordinary citizens content with the present state of things will probably remain suspicious of a Labor party with an extreme left, though subdued, still rumbles itself from time to time to hurl thunderbolts at its moderate leadership.

Socialist Leader Hugh Gaitskell?

Well, he seems all right, the public will reply, but what about those fire-in-the-belly boys? The Labor party, some people say, just isn't up to the calibre of the man who leads it and so, barring some catastrophe, their vote is for the Conservatives.

Prime Minister Macmillan knows the state of play. He and Home Secretary R. A. Butler have consistently followed a left-of-centre course. The emergence of youthful Iain Macleod as the party's man of the future ensures there will be no sliding back to the old ways.

A British editor who has been watching political and economic trends for 25 years told a reporter that Macleod's rare eminence is one of the most notable events of the post-war period.

It signified, he said, the transfer of power in the Tory party from the upper class to the middle class, from big business and the landed aristocracy to commerce and the professions, from the old generation to the new.

"Britain is changing, and the Conservative party is changing with it," a diplomat said in a recent private conversation. "The old county families don't count as much any more."

Nodding over their port in the high - ceilinged clubs on St. James's and Pall Mall, most members will agree with the sheaf. Then the table talk may switch to the working man, and some one will tell you—confidentially, of course—about the mahogany order from whoop sales to British workmen and sending of grapes skyward in Epernay, the champagne centre of France.

Let them drink champagne, it would seem, is the bobby Tory slogan for another 10 years of power, and it may be a winner.

How Good Are You At Double Talk?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — How good are you at double talk?

You may think you don't use double talk at all. But you do—probably many times every day.

To double talk merely means to say one thing when you actually mean something else.

Here is a partial glossary of double talk phrases—and what they really mean — which you may read or use yourself at almost any time:

"What a pleasant surprise—bumping into you this way!" (If I'd seen you coming, I'd have run the other way.)

"What's new with you?" (Don't tell me it. I've got my own troubles.)

"Haven't you put on a little weight, man?" (He must eat from a trough to get that fat.)

"Do you it looks good." (It couldn't look funnier if it was on a giraffe.)

"What a cute baby! Please may I hold him." (If the little monster is wet, I'll fling him on the floor.)

"We like to regard this as a team organization." (I call the signals; you get the bruises.)

"Mrs. Messmore is visiting" (I'm the boss. Then throw yourselves out the back window, for all I care.

"You must get together again real soon." (Soon after the start of the 22nd century.)

PHONE DODGE

"Sure, call me at the office anytime." (And if my secretary tells you I'm in, she'll be looking for a new job.)

"I never saw you looking better. Her in your life." (I wonder if I ever looked that bad.)

"How do you manage to keep so young?" (Gosh, girl, you're really falling apart fast.)

"Are you sure there isn't anything I can do for you?" (Meanwhile, you do something for her. Drop dead.)

"No, I mean it. I think you're a very good dancer." (Get off my feet, you bum.)

"Cross my heart, honey, I'll be on the 8:12 train for sure." (I will if it don't leave until midnight.)

"The boss piled a last-minute job on me. I'll be at the office late." (I will that is, if every night club in town closes.)

"Whatever gave you the silly idea I married you for your money?" (Whatever gave you the silly idea I didn't?)

It's early yet. Why don't you all stay and have one more for the road?" (What's the matter with these people? Don't they have homes of their own to go to?)

"I enjoyed your last column very much." (Who wrote it for you?)

A NEWSPAPER'S CIRCULATION IS A FACT— not a guess or a rating

Canada's largest and most successful retail advertisers invest 82% of their advertising budgets in daily newspapers. They have proved without question that newspaper advertisements give them, by far, the best value for their money. They also know exactly what they are buying. Daily newspapers in Canada have an audited count of the number of copies they sell. There's no guessing or estimating, no seasonal fluctuations. Summer and winter, day after day, Canadian families buy 4,091,025 daily newspapers. And, even more important, they are read by not less than 2.5 people per family. The biggest ready-made audience for any advertiser.

Daily Newspapers—the best meeting place for advertisers and their customers.

Egyptian Girl Belly-Danced Way Out of Fine

MONTREAL (CP) — Night-club performer Fazzia Hanko Friday belly-danced her way into the good opinion of a judge and out of a charge of giving an indecent performance.

The shapely, 21 - year - old Egyptian gave the first scheduled performance of tummy-twisting ever in a Montreal court, and after a scientific appraisal Judge Gerald M. Almond dismissed the charge against her.

Lawyer Myer Gross arranged the performance earlier "just to let Your Lordship see for yourself" whether his client was giving an indecent performance at the downtown Sahara Nightclub.

"That's all right with me," Judge Almond said. "But I don't think it will be necessary for her to appear in costume."

She did't. Fawzia appeared in a satin-tight dress and, with three members of her own orchestra accompanying her, performed the King Farouk Dance, the police had objected to.

OPPOSE CONTROL

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — The South African Society of Journalists unanimously adopted Sunday a resolution opposing any form of press control. A spokesman for the society said an extraordinary meeting was called because "private discussions" had taken place between newspaper proprietors and Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd and because of "threats" made by a government man against press freedom.

Radio and TV Stations Given Pointers on Handling News

OTTAWA (CP) — Former newspaper man Carlyle Allson, now vice - chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, has given Canadian radio and TV stations a few reminders on handling their news and opinion broadcasts.

The BBG Friday released a letter sent by Mr. Allson to broadcasters "in the hope that it will help to raise the standards." The letter makes clear that its contents are the vice-chairman's "notes for guidance" — not board regulations.

Among other things, Mr. Allson reminds the stations that there are "other forms of news besides tragedy, accidents and mayhem" and says that their commentaries and editorials must be labelled clearly so they can't be mistaken as newscasts.

He also said stations should not omit pertinent facts from a dramatic documentary party program. When this is done, he said, "the program is no longer a legitimate documentary but a slanted production that scorns truth for effect."

J.B. Alson, 54, former editor of the Winnipeg Tribune and a newspaper man for 32 years before being appointed to the BBG in 1958, has been a frequent critic of the way some stations present the news.

RAPS SENSATIONALISM

During public hearings by the board he has chided certain broadcasters for using only sensational stories in their newscasts. He once blasted one radio station for spending so much time in news reports on local fires and accidents that it forgot or ignored national and world news.

Some extracts from his notes:

"There are often two or more sides to issues of concern to the public and relevant views should be sought out . . .

"When an interview is conducted by use of a tape recorder the interviewed person should always be made aware that his voiced quotes are being recorded. There have been cases of concealed tape recorders being used. . . .

"Where news is conjectural this should be made clear to the listener, even if the source is identified only as a "usually authoritative source" . . .

SHOULD WITHHOLD NAMES

"The board also trusts that broadcasters will be careful not to announce the names of accident victims before next-of-kin have been notified. There have been cases of heart attack involving relatives when startled by premature news announcement. . . .

"Radio stations also have tied up traffic, and ambulances, by exciting the morbidly curious, to dash to fires and highway mishaps.

"The board knows, of course, of the assistance often rendered by broadcasters in times of disaster and accident, and of requests by police and fire departments for help which have been gladly; met without charge. There are, however, other forms of news besides tragedy, accidents and mayhem.

"Commentaries) always should be labelled, before and after presentation, as comment and opinion broadcasts and attributed to the author or speaker so the onus may be. Author and speaker are usually one and the same person. . . .

"Editorializing is opinion broadcasting on behalf of the station and should be labelled as the station speaking, regardless of who reads the editorial.

"The broadcasting of editorials should not be reserved to by a station whose all media all

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARYER, Sports Editor

Head coach Frank Clair of the Ottawa Rough Riders, in an interview published in a weekend magazine, delivers a harsh criticism of Canadian high school football. He said pro football depends on American talent because the high calibre potential in Canadian schools is not developed because of "inferior coaching."

Mr. Clair also stated "Any Ohio State high school football team could beat any Ottawa high school team 60-0."

I won't argue with Mr. Clair on that point, but I would say a small wager that any junior "B" hockey team from the smallest hamlet in Canada could beat any Ohio State junior club by a 20-0 score, and for the same reason.

Football in the United States, like hockey in Canada, is started at the squirt and peewee level. By the time a student reaches the senior club in high school he is a potential coach. The coaches even there are better equipped because of long experience. They have their own fields and training and are not handicapped by school and departmental non-support.

I interviewed Mr. Stan Barbour and Homer "Red" Townsend of BCI on the matter. Coaches of other city secondary schools were not available.

Both Mr. Barbour and Mr. Townsend agreed that the time allotted for football in Canadian schools is much too short. Coaches are not allowed to hold practices before school opens in the fall. Then they have but two weeks to whip their squads into shape before interschool competition.

Mr. Townsend felt, despite this, that Canadian high school coaching has marked a tremendous improvement over the past ten years. A decade ago, he said, COSSA teams were "doormats." They never got out of their district and never met proper competition.

Coaches in the district worked their heads off. They "put in ten times as much work as the boys." "Now," he said, "in a district of 16 schools and with improved coaching, we have come up with teams as good as any in OASSA. We have even won championships."

He said he admired Mr. Clair as a pro coach, but he had spoken perhaps on the spur of the moment. "With the advancement Canadian schools and coaches have made in the past ten years, and under the circumstances governing time and cost, there is not, perhaps, much room for criticism."

"In the United States," he said, "emphasis is placed on the 'play-to-win.' We do that here too, but we also teach the boys how to lose. It is part of the game."

Coaches work their heads off," Mr. Townsend said. "Here in the city Messrs. Barbour, Simms, and Bell put in many hours, a lot of them at night, getting plays and schedules ready, bodies other work that's necessary."

Mr. Barbour said that he agreed in a certain extent with Clair that Canadian school coaching is not so good. The time is so short, he said, that Canadian coaches have to be keen students of the game. They have to take refreshers and be on top of changes. "In fact," he said, "this is a little distasteful to some of them. It is a problem to have to continue year after year."

For some three Boards of Education and the Department of Education did not recognize inter-school sports. Now the department has a policy that covers these. It is the first time that it has recognized that interschool participation in sport is part of the educational program.

Mr. Barbour felt that Clair in his criticism was probably thinking along professional lines. The idea of preparing high school players for the pro ranks is a little vague yet in Canada.

"We do not put the emphasis on football like they do in the United States," he said. "Besides it is a costly proposition and I do not see any Canadian professional football clubs coming across with any money."

Brown Defends World Title

MANILA (AP)—Fast-punching Joe Brown of Houston, Tex., twice flooring his younger opponent, easily outpointed Bert Somodio of the Philippines Saturday night while making a record 11th successful defence of his world lightweight championship.

Brown, 35, Sent the 27-year-old challenger to the canvas for no count in the fifth round and for a nine count in the 11th. He rolled open a cut on Somodio's left cheek and staggered him with a solid right cross in the seventh.

Referee Arch Hinckman scored it 74-67, Judge Tony Petrocelli 74-65 and judge Daniel Torres of Manila 71-65, all for Brown.

A crowd of 25,000 saw the FIL-pino start and finish fast.

The victory was the 81st for Brown, who won the crown from Wallace (Bud) Smith Aug. 14, 1956.

Unbeaten Habs Defeat Wings Twice

Leafs Split With Blues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Now it's up to Toronto Maple Leafs to devise a formula to stop Montreal's goal - happy Canadiens.

The National Hockey League's four other teams each have had two cracks at the Habs and wound up second best.

Detroit Red Wings were the latest. They lost 7-5 at Montreal Saturday and 6-3 on home ice Sunday night.

The victories lengthened the Habs' lead atop the NHL standing to three points.

New York Rangers held on to second place by turning back the Maple Leafs 4-2 on home ice Sunday night.

Toronto and Rangers 5-1 Saturday. In the only other weekend game, Chicago Black Hawks tied the Bruins in Boston Sunday night.

THIRD LIMIT SETBACK

The Canadiens' third line of Billy Hicke, Phil Goyette and Gilles Tremblay shot most of the damage against the Wings.

Hicke scored four times—twice in each game. Goyette added two assists. Goyette helped set up six goals while Tremblay scored once — on Sunday's game — and got three assists.

Other Montreal scorers in Saturday's triumph were Jim Mahaffy, Jean - Guy Talbot, J. C. Tremblay, Ralph Backstrom and Marcel Bonin.

Norm Ullman scored his first goal of the season and helped set up two others for the Red Wings. Other Detroit scorers were Gordie Howe, Julius Johnson, Val Fonteyne and defencemen Pete Goegan.

At Detroit, the Canadiens packed four of their goals in the first seven minutes of the second period. Other Montreal scorers besides Hicke and G. Tremblay were Tom Johnson, Henri Richard and Claude Provost. Provost's game was his 500th of his seven - year NHL career.

Allan Johnson was the Wings' big man on offence in scoring twice and setting up the other for Vic Stasiuk.

HAWKS GET HELPFUL

In New York, Andy Hebenton scored once and assisted on two other goals for Ted Hampson and Dean Prentice. The league's leading scorer, Andy Bathgate, got the other — an unassisted effort. The game marked the return of New York goalie Gump Worsley. He suffered a concussion in Detroit Oct. 21.

For the Leafs, the marksmen were veterans Red Kelly and Bob Baun.

At Toronto Saturday, sophomore Dave Keon scored twice within 46 seconds and assisted on another goal to lead the Leafs' attack.

The Leafs spotted the Rangers a 2-0 first period lead — by Camille Henry — and Billy Harris evened the score 1-1 in the second period. Then they tallied home four goals in the third with Frank Mahovlich and Dick Duff scoring besides Keon.

Murray Balfour's goal at 18:13 of the third period gave Chicago a tie at Boston. The Black Hawks had fallen behind 2-1 just 15 seconds earlier on a Boston goal by Doug Mohns. Bobby Hull scored for the Hawks in the first period and Don McKenney for Boston.

Redmen Edge Varsity

Undefeated Gaels Whip Western

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The senior Intercollegiate football title race is shaping up as a battle of the passers. Quarterback Cal Conner fired three touchdown strikes Saturday as Queen's Golden Gaels downed University of Western Ontario Mustangs 37-7 to remain undefeated in four games.

Ron Skypeck, whose throwing arm was the big factor in McGill Redmen's march last season to their first championship in 28 years, duplicated the feat at Varsity Stadium as the Redmen squeaked past the supposedly hopeless University of Toronto Blues 24-21.

The Redmen's second win left them four points behind Queen's. The Blues and Mustangs bring up the rear with a victory each.

The Mustangs, playing on their home campus at London, made little headway after tying the score 7-7 in the third quarter. Conner threw two touchdown passes to Frank Tindall Jr., son of the ex-Argo coach, and one to halfback Bill Strman.

Mike Petill barged over from the Eyrard line to tally Queen's first quarter to open the Gaels' scoring and Gary Strickler added the two converts. Fullback Gary Cranmer bucked over from the one for Western's lone touchdown and Tom Wayne punted for a single.

All told, Connor was good on 13 of 17 passes for 183 yards. The Blues' total scoring output in three previous games was one touchdown, started out with a vengeance before 7,000 Toronto fans.

Defensive tackle Murray Rowan scooped up a blocked Skypeck punt in the first quarter and raced 18 yards for a touchdown. Harry Haukka's field goal put the first of his four touchdowns. Jim Rhodes, up from the junior Blues, kicked three converts.

Skypeck heaved a scoring pass to Tom Don Taylor in the third quarter and early in the fourth a dislocated kneecap suffered by quarterback Jim Israel started the Blues' downfall. Keith Acheson took over but was unable to move the team.

Skypeck started firing again, hit Taylor for his second touchdown and clicked for another to John Slobodian. Haukka again kicked three converts in addition to his field goal.

Ti-Cats Clobber Skidding Riders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tiger-Cats locked up first place in the Eastern Football Conference Saturday and did it with an awesome display of scoring power that means nobody but trouble for their opponents when playoff time rolls around.

Fullback Gerry McDougall came up with a three - touchdown performance in his finest game of the season as the Tiger-Cats smashed the skidding Ottawa Rough Riders 44-29.

The loss, combined with Argonauts' 12-9 victory over Montreal Alouettes on Bobby Kuntz's 25-yard field goal with 2:30 remaining to third place, a point behind Ottawa.

The Argos and Riders battle it out Saturday in the season windup at Ottawa to see who gets the home venue for the sudden-death semi-final which will be Nov. 11 if in Ottawa and Nov. 12 if Toronto wins. The survivor meets Hamilton in a home - and - away, total-points series Nov. 17 and 25.

Kuntz, in a pro game career moving before 25,318 rain - dampened fans, was showered with gifts and acclaim for his six years of two - way service with the Argos.

WAS GAME'S STAR

The rugged 180-pounder from Kitchener, Ont., was the prodigal at the end of this season, emerged as the game's individual star following his two good chances to score touchdowns. Quarterback Bobby Rote made him the ball - carrying workhorse and he chewed out 126 of the 177 yards he gained on the ground.

The Alouettes suffered their eighth straight defeat by the Argos, jumped into the lead on their second play from scrimmage as end Marve Luster went 94 yards with Sackdevan as a pass - and - run play from quarterback Gerry Thomphins. In the third quarter Bobby Jack Oliver kicked a 14 - yard field goal for their only points.

Rote threw touchdown passes to halfback Dick Shatto and end Ron Moore. Dave Mann got two converts from Bill Mitchell and a 37 - yard single by Dave Mann.

A dark note in the victory was a shoulder separation and possible ligament damage suffered by Toronto defensive star Dick Fouts. It will keep him out of the lineup two or three weeks at least for the season.

The Tiger - Cats, watched by 30,371 Hamilton fans, completely outclassed the Rough Riders almost from the start in their previous two outings. Gerry McDougall took the league scoring lead from Ottawa's Ron Stewart with his ninth, 10th and 11th touchdowns of the season and upped up the Riders defense for 93 rushing yards.

McDougall scored on a 76-yard burst up the middle and took two touchdown passes from quarterback Bernie Faloney. Faloney also threw to end Paul Dekker for a touchdown. Fullback Larry Hickman and Al (Butch) Rogers, the latter through recovery of an end-zone fumble, scored other Hamilton touchdowns. Don Sutherland kicked four converts, a 37-yard field goal and a single off another field goal try.

For Ottawa, quarterback Russ Jackson and halfback Jim Germals each scored two touchdowns on short plunges. Gary Schreider converted all four and picked up a single on a field goal attempt.

Hull, Wolves Tie

Beavers Whip Kingston

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers, Eastern Professional Hockey League leaders, beat the second place Frontenacs 4-2 Saturday night. That widened their first-place margin to four points.

Sudbury Wolves played to a 3-3 tie with the third-place Hull-Ottawa Canadiens Sunday and caught up with North Bay Trappers in fourth place as the Trappers bowed 5-1 at Sault Ste. Marie to present the Thunderbirds with their first victory of the season.

Playing coach Red Sullivan, Leon Rochefort, Bryan Hextall and Dave Balon scored for Kitchener - Waterloo Saturday night as goalie Jack McCartan kicked out 33 Kingston drives. Lorne Ferguson and Tom McCarthy fired the only two that got past him.

A last-minute goal by Keith McCreary preserved the Canadiens' tie against Sudbury. Playing coach Bob Armstrong, meanwhile, the club for the first time, set up both McCreary's and Ted Snell's counters. Rookie Bill Masterton, Gord Haworth and Dennis Kaasan were the Sudbury marksmen.

The Thunderbirds got two-goal performances from Merv Kurylak and Rino Robazzo and another tally from Cliff Schmautz to end a seven-game winless streak. Gary Monk counted for the Trappers.

Indians Share A.L. Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springfield Indians, thanks to an unbreakable defence backed by goalie George Wood, have parlayed a pair of weekend shutouts into a share of first place in the American Hockey League's eastern division.

Wood was unbeatable as Springfield beat Buffalo Bisons by identical 3-0 scores Saturday and Sunday, the second shutout moving the Indians into a tie with Hershey Bears who lost to Providence Reds 5-3.

Rookie Americans capitalized into a western division first-place tie with the Bisons in the other Sunday game.

Dennis Olson scored twice for Springfield Sunday night as Wood had an easy game, having to make only 14 saves. Duane Rupp, with an assist from Olson, scored the other Springfield goal.

Three goals within a two-minute span in the second period won for Providence, with Danny Poliziani, Pierre Brillant, and Stan Rabuli scoring after Hershey had taken a 1-0 first period lead. Rabuli added an insurance goal in the third period for Providence, which trails the eastern first-place Bisons by only two points.

Hair Specialist Here Tuesday

Will Show Men and Women How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

OTTAWA, Ont. New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Belleville Tuesday, October 31st at the Belleville Inn.

Trichologist G. F. Thomson will be in charge, representing the dynamic Roberts Hair and Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 12:00 to 8:00 p.m.

This new treatment is neither "medical" nor "over-the-counter". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Roberts Specialist.

Who Can Be Helped?

Will the new Roberts treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are bald-aged after years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness", usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair-loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea— can be corrected by the Roberts home treatment if caught in time.

"DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE"

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced, you are going to keep right on losing hair 'til you're bald — unless you treat your scalp in healthy, hair-growing condition again.

Examine You Free

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Roberts Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied with in 30 days or it will cost you nothing!

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk for Mr. Thomson's room number. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

Examinations are given in private.

SHELLS WRECKED

NEW YORK (AP)—All eight shells of Columbia University's crew were found chopped full of holes Sunday. Police said an employee, identified as Frederick Michaelson, 30, whose job was to maintain the shells, had an argument with crew coach Carl Ullrich and Ullrich fired him. Ullrich said repairing the shells would cost more than $18,000.

Argonauts Honor BobbyKuntz

TORONTO (CP) — Bobby Kuntz, a two-way star with Toronto Argonauts for six years, was presented with several gifts Saturday at a ceremony in his honor prior to the start of the Eastern Football Conference game between Montreal Alouettes and Argos. The 30-year-old Kuntz, who announced last week that he would retire at the end of this season, came to the Argos in 1958 after three seasons with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen of the now-defunct Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Halfback Dick Shatto presented a 400-pound live steer to Kuntz from his teammates with the remark it was being given to him because "he is a little bit bull - headed at times." He also received a television set, an easy chair, a movie camera and, to top it all off, a $100 personal cheque from Montreal coach Perry Moss.

Kuntz, who plays fullback on offence and inside linebacker on defence, was cheered on by a delegation from his home town of Kitchener. Off the football field he is general manager of the handling electro-plating firm in Kitchener.

The idea for a Bobby Kuntz Day originated between managing director Lew Hayman of Argos and a former Toronto great, Art West. The last Toronto player to be given such an honor was the brilliant quarterback, Joe Krol, in the early 1940s.

Player Wins 'Down Under'

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Gary Player of South Africa swept past Australian golf stars for a victory Saturday in the professional tournament at the Lakes course.

Player won by three strokes with a two-under-par 286, firing a 71 and a 69 in Saturday's rounds. Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., finished eighth with a 294.

Eric Cremin of Australia was second with a 289 followed by Peter Thomson and Bruce Crampton, also from Australia, with 290 each. Stan Leonard of Vancouver was ninth with a 304.

Player took first-prize money of $1,792.

Matthews Helps Stoke Win

LONDON (AP) — The magic name of Stanley Matthews is back where it belongs — in the soccer city of Stoke.

Stoke was where Matthews, star for England in dozens of internationals, started his career 30 years ago as a gangling, barefoot, 15-year-old.

The bewildering soft - shoe shuffle of the bow - legged Matthews quickly made the name Blackpool bought him from Stoke 14 years ago. The townspeople of Stoke rebelled at the transfer.

Matthews spent 14 years bringing fame to Blackpool and England.

Then came an offer for the 42 - year - old Matthews from his home town of Stoke. Blackpool accepted and transferred the wizard of dribble back to Stoke for only £3,000.

Matthews played first for the first time for Stoke against Huddersfield Saturday. A crowd of 35,000 — four times the usual — watched the match.

It's wonderful to be with Stoke," said Mathews after helping Stoke to a 3-0 win.

The quinella of Champagne Velvet and War Bang in the fifth paid a surprising $197.00.

Despite a cold, dark afternoon, a total of $817,379 was wagered.

NEW YORK (AP) — Andrew J. Crevolin's three - year - old Mighty Fair won the $50,000-added Ladies Handicap with a mile surge through the stretch Saturday at Aqueduct.

The winner, third start, paid $12.20, $5.70 and $4.10. Craftiness $3.90, $2.90 and Tritoma $4.50.

Mighty Fair won $37,050 out of the purse of $50,000.

Carry Back won the $75,000-added Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park in Camden, N.J., but had to sweat out a claim of foul before the victory became official.

Jockey Johnny Sellers moved the winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness into sixth place to finish half a length ahead of Intentionally. Bill Hartack on Ambiopoise, the third horse, lodged the claim of foul against Sellers.

The purse was $53,855 to Katherine and Jack Price, who own and train Carry Back. To them in the event of 32,899 who bet on Carry Back, it meant a payoff of $8, $5.20 and $3.40. Intentionally paid $5.60 and $4 and Ambiopoise $3.

NEW YORK (AP)—Northwestern and Purdue pulled a pair of stunning upsets as the nine States college football season reached the halfway mark Saturday, but the big Mis—Michigan State and Mississippi rolled on as scheduled.

Purdue knocked off Iowa 9-0—the first shutout in nine seasons—scored against Iowa, ranked 12th in the current Associated Press poll. Northwestern came from behind for a 13-10 victory over Navy, while Notre Dame.

In some of the other major form reversals, Pittsburgh snapped a four - game losing streak with a 26-14 surprise win over Navy, West Virginia upset Army 34-7 and Harvard solved Dartmouth's good defence 21-15.

Eagles Win

Cowboys Nip Giants

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — Sonny Jurgensen, who collected millions and even a vehicle with a farm Van Brocklin was directing the show — eighths of touchdowns, helped in to guide the defending National Football League champions to the top of the Eastern Conference.

The 27 - year - old former Duke standout passed the Eagles into sole possession of first place in the East Sunday with a three - touchdown performance — the last a 41-yard heave to Tommy McDonald with 16 seconds remaining that beat the up start Washington Redskins 27-24.

The toss to McDonald was Jurgensen's 14th of the season — top mark in the league — and gave the defending titlists a 6-1 record and a one - game edge over New York Giants and Cleveland Browns at the halfway mark of the expanded 14-game schedule.

The Giants dropped out of a first - place tie when Dallas Cowboys' Allen Green kicked a 37 - yard field goal with 1:23 remaining for a 17-16 Cowboy victory, and the Browns moved up by beating St. Louis Cardinals 21-10.

In the western sector, Green Bay Packers kept rolling with a 38-10 thumping of Minnesota Vikings for their fifth consecutive victory since an opening game loss and consolidated a one - game lead over Chicago Bears, 21-20 conquerors of Baltimore Colts. San Francisco 49ers fell back, beaten by Pittsburgh Steelers 20-10. Detroit Lions whipped Los Angeles Rams, 26-10.

Lawrence Olivier Superb In 'The Power and the Glory'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "It doesn't matter that I am a coward and a weakling," explained the priest to his captor.

"I can put God in a man's mouth but the man, it wouldn't matter if every man in the church was as bad as one.

Here, after almost two hours of dramatizing a theme did not Graham Greene make the premise on which The Power and the Glory was built. The adaptation of the religious novel was presented as a special last night on CBS.

It was a powerful, slow-moving tragedy with Sir Lawrence Olivier growing once again his superb talents as he played an alcoholic — a "whisky priest" who had fathered a child.

The plot was put in a Latin American state with a socialist, anti-clerical regime in power. The weak yet devout priest—the only surviving father—was being hunted down.

BRUTAL AND ADULT

Because he believed he was the only man left in his state who could bear confession and administer the sacraments, he felt believed he could not leave and even permitted five persons to be shot as hostages because he was still free.

He was brutal, adult and certainly controversial drama. It was a fine, thought-provoking show. Not only was Olivier powerful and convincing. So were all the other performers in the large cast, particularly George C. Scott, playing the police lieutenant hunting down the priest. Scott was able to bring humanity — even sympathy — to the ruthless and efficient character.

Performers like Julie Harris, Keenan Wynn and Roddy McDowall had small but choice character roles.

Earlier NBC showed the first of a new series, this one called The World of Bob Hope.

By means of home movies of families documentary method—old film clips, home movies, family albums—Hope attempts to some specially filmed material—the hour show covered Hope's life, particularly the past 40 years in show business.

Examples of Hope's jokes and wisecracks kept things from getting too saccharine.

Flyers, Teeps Play 4-4 Tie

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A first period flip Esposito, his first in Junior A hockey, salvaged a 4-4 tie for St. Catharines Teepees Saturday night in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game with Niagara Falls Flyers.

The Falls took the lead in the first period on a goal by Garry Harmer but Teepees captain Ray Cullen tied the score three minutes later.

Bill Knibbs again gave the Falls a one-goal edge midway in the second period only to have St. Catharines rookie Jack Stanfield convert brother Fred Stanfield's pass for the tying counter.

The visitors went ahead again early in the third period on quick goals by Bill Glanham and Ron Hergott.

Western Prexy Fined $500

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Clarence Campbell, president of the Western Hockey League's San Francisco Seals, has been rapped with a $500 fine for stepping onto the ice to challenge a referee's ruling.

League President Al Leader announced the fine Sunday night as a result of a scrap he's during a game in Vancouver Friday.

Hall, who gave up a WHL franchise in Vancouver earlier this year, hammered on the sideboards with a hockey stick, then walked onto the ice apparently to attract the attention of referee Scotty Morrison, who had penalized San Francisco defenceman Jim Hay.

In other night action in the league Portland Buckaroos downed Los Angeles Blades 4-2 for their sixth straight victory. Last night's victories, on home ice, also strengthened their hold on first place in the league's southern division.

Bucks have 14 points, five more than Spokane Comets. Los Angeles follows, then San Francisco.

Portland netminder Bruce Gamble missed a shutout when Wally Hergesheimer beat him in the second period. Portland scorers were Bill Saunders, Ar-

General Tendencies: Until noon fixed problems of a strange and unusual nature can be in effect. Have everything very clear-cut and have surroundings immaculate. Afternoon much better aspects prevail and warm, magnanimous and generous traits of others as well as yourself come into be-ing. Fine evening for whatever has to do with romance, the lighter side of life.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be very certain not to spend so much in A.M. that you will have to worry about it far into the future. Then you find that this can be a most happy and interesting evening in the company of good friends you like. Do guy.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — If you exercise self-control, you will avoid a serious altercation with a close tie in A.M., or with an associate. Then you will see that the evening can be a most happy one right at home and with good friends about.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Make it your business to exchange good ideas with partners this morning. Also, eradicate any errors, quickly, whether at home or in office. It would be wise to get out together for a good time in the evening, too. Move fast.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — If you believe that a hideaway is not giving you the financial support you want at this time, try being more practical and watch the results. You can start increasing income early in P.M. Keep busy. Then retire early.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Morning is a fine time to get rid of the unwanted and obsolete, whether at home or at place of business. You are at your best tonight to get just about anything you desire simply by stating you wants in plain simple language.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — By studying paper and other printed material, you find that you can make the changes that are necessary in A.M. to achieve more efficiency and order. Relax this evening at some favorite hobby that is not strenuous.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Despite the fact that some friend may deem you penny-pinching, be wise and do not spend more than is necessary P.M. Get out socially and meet interesting and worthwhile people.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — Important civic duties are your lot this morning which would be wise to attend to intelligently or you could get into a pickle. Then you find that big-wigs will be delighted with your handling of financial and other matters.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Where there is much of interest in the outside world that you want to handle, home or office duties are also important, so be sure you plear them up early and leave real progress can be made in these new opportunities ahead.

Capricorn Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) —Be sure you do not instigate a battle between a friend and a higher-up today, since this could bring misfortune. Acquire a happier attitude and make this a joyful and productive day and evening. Be good to others instead. Grow.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be careful that you do not jeopardize prestige because some acquaintance wants you to help fight his or her battles. Avoid such coercion. Get together with associates and friends instead and make this a fine, happy, progressive day.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Morning finds you fighting with the temptation to get off to new outlets, but it is important you carry through with present obligations, to yourself or others. Later, put surroundings in order and assist some fellow worker, too.

If your child is born today . . . there will be every chance to do great things in life if during early youth the desire to just sit is the law of hunry is curbed. There is a great mind here and limitless vistas, so be sure the finest academic education is provided first and foremost then a big career is bound to issue from this chart. Give good spiritual training early, too, for best results when coping with fellow man.

Three Injured In County Car Crashes

PICTON — A man, woman and child were struck by cars in three separate accidents in Prince Edward County Saturday night. Ninety-one-year-old Manson Hawley of Cloyne, in a serious condition in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital. Police said the aged man was walking in the middle of Sonarie Road, seven-tilths northwest of Picton, about 8 p.m. Two cars were approaching from opposite directions and one driven by Geo. Frederick Ward, 32, of Belleville, sideswiped Hawley when the driver veered to the right slightly to avoid hitting the man. The car went into the ditch and struck a tree.

Mrs. Bowley, who was visiting relatives in the district, suffered a fractured left arm, deep head lacerations and internal injuries.

Mrs. Ruby Kleinsteuber, 71, Main St., Picton, was knocked down by a car as she crossed Main St. near the Amelia St. intersection. The car owned by Allie Armstrong, Picton R.R. 1, was driven by John Rankin of Picton. The two youths were enroute to Armstrong's home, a mile west of Picton, to inform his father that Mrs. Armstrong had been injured in a car accident a short time previously. Mrs. Kleinsteuber is in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital with a fractured left wrist, ruptured and fractured right hand and other injuries. Charges are pending.

Mrs. Clare Bittenbender, 45, of Bowery St., Picton, was knocked off his bicycle by a car at the corner of Main and Ferguson Streets, Picton, about 7 p.m.

Driver of the car, Wm. Henderson of Belleville, told police he was attempting a left turn off Main Street at the time. The boy, who was accompanied by his father, Clarence Rittwage, was not seriously injured.

Mrs. Ruth Armstrong of Picton, R.R. 1, is in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital following a head-on collision on Highway 14, a quarter mile west of Picton, Saturday night. Police said Mrs. Armstrong was exceeding a set at 6:15 p.m. when an eastbound car driven by Harry Franklin Juby, 18, of Belleville, made a left turn into the driveway at Calnan's dairy. The woman driver swung her car to the left and collided with an eastbound car driven by Gordon Wallace, 20, of Trenton.

Mrs. Wallace was treated at hospital for cuts and bruises and released. Four other passengers in the Wallace car were uninjured. Mrs. Armstrong has undetermined internal injuries and a possible broken leg. The Wallace car was wrecked and damage to the Armstrong vehicle estimated at $800. Charges are pending.

A third accident driven by Cecil Quinn, 28, of Belleville, R.R. 1, Picton, damaged when it rolled over several times on the Redmerville road Saturday night. Quinn, who was alone at the time, was taken to Prince Edward General Hospital, but later released.

The accident occurred on a slight curve on the Redmerville road, 25 miles northwest of Picton. No other vehicles were involved.

A Madoc man, Douglas Carl Nichols, 30, received serious injury when his car rolled over on Highway 2 about 100 yards east of Consecon village, at 1.45 a.m. Sunday morning. Nichols lost control of the vehicle on a sharp curve. He told police the pavement was slippery at the time. Damage to his 1955 model car is estimated at $500. Provincial police officers from Picton detachment and Picton town police investigated the accidents. Walter Bond's ambulance took the injured motorists to hospital.

Bell Telephone Asks Increase In 11 Areas

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bell Telephone Company today submitted a request to the Board of Transport Commissioners asking for a rate increase in 11 telephone exchange areas in Ontario and Quebec.

If approved, the increases would affect local service only and ranges from 10 cents to 25 cents for each of the 11 exchanges. Residence service. Increases for business service would range from 35 cents to $1.10.

The exchanges affected would include Hull, Aylmer, Eastview, Ironsmith, Meaford, Port Perry, Schomberg, Sault Ste. Marie and Strathroy in Ontario.

Rates for an exchange are governed by the number of telephones within a local calling area. This is based on the principle that the value of service to each customer increases as the number of telephones in the local calling area increases. Bell is required to report twice yearly to the board on the status of exchanges whose total telephones have increased, or decreased, more than five per cent beyond the limits of their group.

MIAMI (AP) — Dangerous hurricane Hattie veered westward today and was expected to hit Mexico by tonight.

Hattie was lashing the north-western Caribbean with winds of 90 miles an hour. The hurricane grew in intensity.

The U.S. weather bureau reported its centre at 11 a.m. EST at 250 miles east of Chetumal, Mexico, and 185 miles northeast of Coba's western tip.

High winds and tides will occur along much of Mexico's Yucatan peninsula coast, the bureau added.

Many hunters said they tramped through bush and field and didn't even see a bird.

C. M. Scafe of London said he was in a party of five hunters who had only one bird in the Charing Cross area of Kent and came home with only one bullet. Another hunter said he knew of one man who shot a hen, and that was a fact.

Ford President Backs Canadian Content Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Karl E. Scott, president of Ford Motor Co. of Canada, today expressed approval of the "Canadian - content" recommendations of the royal commission on the Canadian automotive industry, made earlier this year by Dean Vincent Bladen of the University of Toronto.

Addressing the Toronto Canadian Club, Mr. Scott endorsed the "broad principle" of the proposals both on behalf of the Canadian Ford company and on behalf of the American parent company.

He said, in order to benefit from the Canadian tariff, a company's Canadian sales must meet the set level of Canadian - nation content. Under the Bladen recommendations the Canadian-content credits could be acquired by sale to other countries of goods made by the automotive products.

Mr. Scott said the provisions would provide for the greatest economic use and exchange of goods wherever they are made and that would widen the opportunity for Canadian production and trade.

It could, he said, "breathe new life into the Canadian automotive industry by giving incentives into the economy of Canada, of which," said he, "all principles might be extended to other industries. It might also help to make Canada more than a custom o t i v e manufacturing industry and of the beginnings of a real industry."

THE RED LIGHT IS FLOOTING

He read a letter from Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Mich., stating that the whole American company as a matter of policy supports Canadian automotive parts manufacturers as sources of supply on an equal footing with U.S. manufacturers. The letter added that this applies to the Ford of Canada, but to all independent suppliers — based on the customary economic factors of competitive price and ability to meet delivery and quality requirements."

In line with that policy, Mr. Scott stated, the American company would "look to" Ford of Canada a small-million-dollar order for truck-axle components. The order had been one against competitive bids from U.S. manufacturers and would be a continuing one as long as competitive requirements were met. A substantial part of the order was being sub-contracted with several Canadian suppliers.

Second TV Popular in Many Homes

Television is no longer a novelty and there are very few homes left in Belleville without a TV set in the living room. In fact, an increasing number of families is now adding a TV receiver to be used in the recreation room, bedroom, kitchen or even in the cottage.

The chief reason for this trend is the surprisingly low cost of good quality used TV sets. A set can be had in A-1 working condition, with a large size screen and good looking cabinet either for less than a month's rental. In spite of their low price, the picture and sound work as well as new, and with no more service problems than new sets.

Because of their large-volume sales business, Booth Radio and Television Limited always has in stock a large number of these used TV sets. Before being sold they are put in A-1 working condition and many have brand new picture tubes which are guaranteed for one year. All sets are sold on Booth's Budget Television Exchange Privilege to assure you of satisfaction.

Drop in and see what good looking television set — at a fraction of the cost — a new one — drop in and look over the used models at Booth Radio and Television Limited, 170 Front Street (opposite City Hall), Belleville. oct27-tfn

Legion Members Urged to Serve Community

KINGSTON (CP) — Clarence Wood of Toronto, president of Ontario Provincial Council of the Royal Canadian Legion, said Sunday that individual branches of the police force become vital cogs in the community forces or "old men's homes."

Speaking to 300 delegates at the legion's District G convention, Mr. Wood said "we must bring out our secret weapon—community service — and grow up or just grow older."

He warned that a new membership drive is necessary to make every veteran outside the organization realize his debt to the legion.

An unsolved mystery is how migratory birds can not only navigate thousands of miles to and from warmer climates when they spend the winter, but...

...Orbits of these birds, when related from a page in the direction of the sun, can turn out wonderfully accurate for their destination.

Tests have been made with mirrors to throw the action of the sun off its course, but the birds simply fly on their course with precisely the same degree of action.

Still shows that they set their course by the sun during the early part of the day, and at night, but nothing is known as to how they work out the actual course.

Ban Bomb Group Stages Sitdown At Red Embassy

OTTAWA (CP) — Two ban-the-bomb delegations met with Russian Ambassador Amassup Abrassimov Saturday while 150 placard - waving Canadian Communists marvelled on Parliament Hill to protest the West's policy toward Berlin and Germany.

After a meeting with the Russian ambassador, four members of the Canadian Committee of 100 staged a three - hour sit-down strike at the embassy gates "because Mr. Arculshnikov did not agree to ask his government to renew the nuclear testing.

They refused to budge, although at one point both Ottawa City police and Russian embassy officials threatened to have them removed.

Several police cruisers patrolled the area around the embassy, and a police lieutenant attempted to move the demonstrators by force.

They then went just inside the embassy grounds but this latest attempt was made to remove them.

TALKED FOR 2 HOURS

A member of the group, Professor Roger Bray of the University of Toronto, said he had a two - hour interview with the Soviet ambassador in which all aspects of the nuclear arms race were discussed.

Others in the delegation were Allen Ertland, a civil servant; William Parker, a trucker's assistant; Kitty Bird, a nurse; a mathematician, all from Toronto.

Three Montreal mothers seeking an end to nuclear testing left the safety of our embassy" presented a letter addressed to Soviet Premier Khrushchev to the Russian ambassador, along with a 2,000 - signature petition.

The letter appealed to Mr. Khrushchev "as a father and grandfather" to show some concern for the safety of mankind.

It demanded that nuclear tests be stopped at once, and urged the Soviet leader to begin "business - like" negotiations for disarmament.

Following an hour - long meeting with the ambassador Mrs. Kitty Harris, chairman of the committee, said he had agreed to send the letter to Moscow immediately.

Time to Decide None Has Right To Pollute Air

OTTAWA (CP)—The time has come for the world to decide definitely that no nation has the right to pollute the atmosphere over other nations with nuclear fallout, Acting Prime Minister Howard Green said today.

He said that if Russia has, in fact, "refused to go against" united world opinion and to explode in Norwegian bomb, the United Nations should now call for a conference to consider seriously how it should revise its attitude towards Russia.

Mr. Green made these comments after a report that Norway plans to provide over a morning code to Canada. He also said:

"I. The Canadian government has no confirmation that this morning's incident that in the Russian arctic was a 50megaton explosion, or whether a still larger one is planned.

2. Canada's traditions of true neighborliness, and really serious faith can be brought into play in world affairs to bring all nations back to their senses."

25th Anniversary of CBC Will Be Celebrated Nov. 2, Longest Network in World

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — It took a "new national crisis," as one handful of men used it, to produce the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation 25 years ago today.

The crisis was "the growing fear of cultural annexation" by the United States through the widespread Canadian use—almost to the exclusion of everything else—of American radio programs.

It was the CBC's job to build the cultural wall. Whether it has succeeded or not, one conclusion is safe: it would take another national crisis to break up the publicly owned corporation.

The CBC has grown phenomenally, especially since television began in 1952.

It now is a $100,000,000-a-year operation, with a staff of 7,000, operating the largest radio and TV networks in the world, turning out more programs than any one of the three U.S. networks and more French-language programs than Paris.

It all began on Monday, Nov. 2, 1936, with royal assent to the Parliamentary act creating the CBC. This is the date on which the corporation this year is marking its 25th anniversary.

PROGRAMS IMPORTED

But the necessity that gave birth to public broadcasting had a much earlier beginning. The real start was the winter of 1919 when the first Canadian licence for sound broadcasting was granted to the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company for station XWA Montreal, now Canadian Marconi's, CFCF.

Within four years Canada had 34 private radio stations, largely unregulated as to programming. The number grew to 80 by 1930 but there was heavy concentration in big cities at the expense of smaller areas. Toronto had 10 stations, Vancouver seven.

American phonograph records dominated the airwaves. There was hardly a live Canadian program on the air. By 1928 four stations in Toronto and Montreal were hooked to U.S. networks.

There were growing fears that Canadian unity was being damaged.

The Aird royal commission on broadcasting, headed by Toronto banker Sir John Aird, saw the answer in public ownership of the entire radio system.

The Aird report was handed to the government on Sept. 11, 1929. The following Oct. 29 the New York stock market crashed. The Depression began. A few weeks later a federal general election was called and the Conservatives succeeded the Liberals in office at Ottawa.

PUBLIC DEMAND

The Conservatives supported the nationalization proposal. But the report gathered dust. In 1932 a parliamentary committee was set up to take another look at the picture.

That picture had changed since the Aird report. There were 10 fewer stations. In four years only three new stations were licensed—with the condition they might be nationalized. The outlook for commercial radio was at its lowest.

The committee successfully proposed creation of a three-man Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, to set up a chain of high-power stations and take over key low - power stations, and to regulate all programs. The stations "not needed for the national system" numbered 000—but interference from powerful stations in Mexico reduced effective coverage to 49 per cent.

Six hours of daily CRBC network transmissions included only 15 minutes of Canadian talent. Unable to get what news they wanted from the commercial stations, many provinces started to pick up U.S. newscasts holus-bolus. The old bogey was back.

Another Parliamentary Committee in 1936 said the CRBC should be scrapped. Without sacrificing the policy of public ownership and control, the committee said another body should be formed to extend national coverage and co-ordinate public and private stations.

CBC GREW QUICKLY

From this report emerged the CBC. It moved quickly, building 50,000-watt stations in Toronto and Montreal. In 1939 similar transmitters were erected in Saskatchewan and Maritimes. By 1941 the CBC had nine stations and had doubled its network coverage. A French-language network had been built.

In 1944, the national radio network was split. One side became the Trans-Canada network, which since has grown to 30 private stations, 25 CBC stations and 65 CBC low-power relay transmitters. The Dominion network has 49 private stations fed from the CBC in Toronto.

Now the CBC plans to put the two networks back together. It likely will mean the dropping of several of the Dominion network stations as they enter one consolidated network designed for better service at lower cost without reducing the present coverage of 98 per cent of the country. The switch is expected to be completed in the fall of 1962.

REDS MISCALCULATED BOMB'S POWER

Anger And Fear Over Red Bomb Sweep World

UN Puts Great Powers Under Heavy Pressure

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Waves of angry protest and alarm swept across the non-Communist world today in the wake of Russia's explosion Monday of the biggest man-made blast of all time.

And on the heels of the shock wave from this explosion, British scientists reported that the Soviet Union touched off another big nuclear device in the Arctic today.

Government leaders spoke out in anger against the Russian defiance of world-wide appeals not to test the bomb.

Newspapers denounced the blast as a brutal crime against humanity. A political terror weapon aimed at cowering the non-Communist world, a threat to the existence of the human race.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru, using stronger language than usual, said the Soviet action was highly regrettable and "no amount of argument that it was done in self-defence could wash off the wrong."

ANSAMS MAINLY BLUSTER

Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda called a strong new protest to Premier Khrushchev. But in general the Asian and African governments were silent, as they have since the Soviet Union resumed testing Sept. 1.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker of Canada said he was "greatly shocked" by the degree to which Mr. Khrushchev has thrown such a monstrous disregard for humanity in general.

If the overwhelming UN vote against the Soviet blast has not stopped Khrushchev, "there is little hope that the ordinary processes that motivate mankind elsewhere in this case."

He warned that if the Soviet nuclear tests are intended to cause dividends in NATO, they have not succeeded.

The superbomb explosion would not alter the conviction of the West that "the freedom of

Research Vital To Canadian Aviation Firms

QUEBEC (CP)—The Canadian aviation industry is enjoying a surge that may accept, says a research projects aren't encouraged, the Air Industries and Transport Association was told Monday.

Outgoing President F. T. Wood, assistant to the president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, told delegates to the AITA annual convention that military research especially is required in Canada.

"There are no current research and development programs of a major nature sponsored by the Canadian military services," he said. "This is a situation practically without parallel in the western world."

However, American aircraft orders and government research allocations are giving the Canadian aviation industry its brightest moments in a decade, he said.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The great powers came under heavy pressure today to quit nuclear tests forever.

Burning indignation — and fear — was apparent among United Nations delegates following Russia's test of a doomer H-bomb in the atmosphere Monday.

Canada, denouncing the Russian action, at the same time called for an immediate resumption of negotiations by the U.S., Britain and Russia to end tests.

With debate continuing today in the 100-member political committee, pressure was expected to grow over two resolutions, one sponsored by India and five other non-aligned countries and the other on Anglo - American draft which stresses the need for inspection to keep Russia honest.

CANADA SUPPORTS BOTH

Canadian delegate E. L. M. Burns told Monday his delegation believes it possible to reconcile differences between the U.S. and Russia on the nuclear test question, which should have the effect positively in disarmament. He pledged support for both disarmament resolutions.

The U.S. and Britain have for weeks taken the stand they were tricked by the Russians in the past and are not keen on tests and another would be meaningless.

J. R. Godber, British minister of state for defence, called it "a cold a press conference:

"We are still ready, in spite of this latest shocking act by the Soviet Union, to return to negotiations, to try to make a treaty. But if that is not [illegible] then we must reserve our own right to act."

Britain had no test plans now, but could see no hope of consolidation in another uncontrolled moratorium.

Norway joined other Western delegates in scathing criticism of the Russian megaton blast, saying the Canadian people regarded it with horror.

In other developments Monday:

1. Nine African countries and Iraq submitted a resolution condemning the Soviet tests as a threat to peace and calling on the UN, and diplomatic and trade sanctions against South Africa because of its racial policies.

2. Cuba, Ghana, Venezuela and Ghana were elected non-permanent members of the 11-member Security Council, a contest between the Philippines and Nigeria for another seat ended in deadlock.

3. The General Assembly approved a Canadian-sponsored plan authorizing the UN secretary-general to set up machinery as a stop-gap measure to maintain UN forces in The Congo for the remainder of 1961.

No Great Rush to the Armouries For National Survival Course

OTTAWA (CP)—There hasn't been any rush to the armouries to start the national survival training.

The first air and national survival militia course for 25,000 recruits starts next Monday. Officials said late Monday that so far only "about 5,000" have volunteered.

The government plans to have 103,000 trained in survival—the new term for civil defence—by next May 31. The four-week courses designed to train 25,000 in each are scheduled to start April 16.

The scheme was announced Sept. 7 by Prime Minister Diefenbaker but recruiting did not begin into high gear until a couple of weeks ago.

Officials said that even if the 25,000-man quota is not filled for the first course, they hope the same quotas for the other three courses will be met.

In some localities, such as in the Atlantic provinces, response has been good, officials said. In others it has been poor.

Because the recruiting is done by local militia units across the country, figures are elusive. Officials said they could not supply breakdowns by provinces, cities or towns of the figure is "about 5,000" recruited to date.

For the first course, the Atlantic provinces had a quota of 2,000 men, Quebec 7,500, Ontario 8,750 and the four western provinces 6,750.

The quotas are not specific, only related to population.

Recruits will be paid about $40 a week and will train in uniform between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday to Friday. They will be issued army boots but will live at home, not in barracks.

Officials said that 800 for the four courses, by cities in order:

Montreal 9,300; Toronto 7,600; Hamilton 2,000; London, Windsor, Guelph, Sault Ste. Marie, Ottawa 1,200; Kitchener, Owen Sound, Cornwall, Peterborough 1,000.

DIEFENBAKER LEAVES JAPAN, VISIT SUCCESS

Expresses Shock At Bomb Blast

TOKYO (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker left Japan today with the cheers of thousands of school children ringing in his ears, the key to metropolitan Tokyo at his pocket and convincing evidence that his five-day state visit here was a smashing success.

The Canadian leader earlier had told a press conference that he was shocked by Russia's disregard for the thinking of humanity in exploding the superbomb.

This was done despite the overwhelming vote in the United Nations calling on Russia not to go ahead with the test.

"I am still ready, in spite of this latest shocking act by the Soviet Union, to return to negotiate, to try to make a treaty. But if that is not [illegible] then we must reserve our own right to act."

Britain had no test plans now, but could see no hope of consolidation in another uncontrolled moratorium.

Khrushchev's threats had united NATO to a greater degree than ever before, for Berlin, "the explosion of a 50-megaton bomb will not alter the conviction of NATO that negotiations should continue for an honorable settlement there."

Diefenbaker reacted sharply to a reporter's suggestion that Canada, by selling large quantities of wheat to Communist China, "may be hurting rather

Russia Explodes New Bomb Not as Big as Yesterday's

LONDON (Reuters) — European scientists today reported another Soviet nuclear blast in the Arctic with an estimated force of between 35 and 30 megatons.

Officials at observatories in Britain, West Germany and at Kiruna, Sweden, said they detected in their belief that the signals they received were from another nuclear bomb.

But officials at Uppsala's seismological institute in Sweden said they might have come from an earthquake. Some other Swedish scientists said the disturbance might be the result of secondary effects from Monday's huge Russian bomb.

Jan Piegza, one of Britain's leading seismologists, said: "it was definitely another Russian bomb but not as big as yesterday."

He originally estimated the force at between 20 and 30 megatons but after checking the seismograph reading at Bayfield's Kew Observatory he revised his estimate to between 35 and 30 megatons.

Officials at the Kiruna Observatory in Sweden placed the explosion in the 30-megaton range, however.

Piegza estimated that the explosion occurred at 8:30 a.m.—about the same time of day as Russia set off its massive bomb Monday.

A spokesman for the British Atomic Energy Authority said signals had also been recorded there which could have come from "a fairly large nuclear weapon."

In West Germany, the Stuttgart seismological centre also reported that it had detected a nuclear explosion in the region of Russia's Arctic testing site.

An official at the centre described it as being a fourth or fifth of the power of Monday's blast—estimated to have had a force of at least 50 megatons.

Washington Denounces Blast As 'Fright and Panic' Device

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's huge nuclear burst definitely may double the fallout coming from all the current Soviet tests, the Atomic Energy Commission said today. The White House as a device to incite "fright and panic."

The immediate fallout from the blast is expected to reach 2,000 men, Dieterich 7,500, Ontario 8,750 and the four western provinces 6,750.

The quotas are not specific, only related to population.

Recruits will be paid about $40 a week and will train in uniform between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday to Friday. They will be issued army boots but will live at home, not in barracks.

Albert Liet, one of the AEC's fallout specialists, said six months of service and to [illegible] radioactive aftercraft clouds.

The blast could likely swing east ultimately and would "reach the North American continent in three to five days, depending on the winds."

The gigantic blast was estimated by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission at 30 megatons. Until Monday, the Russians almost equalled the explosive force of more than two dozen earlier tests. And the blast could have created almost as much lingering fallout as all the previous tests, depending on how "dirty" it was.

Britain Unveils Plan to Bolster Armed Forces

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters) — The British government today announced plans to bolster its armed forces at the opening of a new session of Parliament here.

The move was announced in the speech from the throne, read by the Queen, and came amid heightened tension over Berlin and a day after Russia's explosion of a huge nuclear bomb in the Arctic.

Legislation will be introduced during the session to retain extra troops for an additional [illegible] of service and to [illegible] reserve units.

RUSSIANS SEEK DEFENCE PACT WITH FINLAND

Cabinet Calls 'Emergency Meet'

HELSINKI (Reuters) — The Finnish cabinet today headed into an emergency session to discuss a Russian note Monday proposing a Soviet - Finnish defence pact against West Germany and its NATO allies.

Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Ahti Karjalainen was flying home from Honolulu to discuss the note with Soviet officials. Karjalainen and Finnish President Urho Kekkonen were in Hawaii at the end of a United States tour.

The note also was scheduled to be discussed today at combined meetings of the Swedish and Danish governments in Stockholm and Copenhagen.

Swedish Premier Tage Erlander said Monday the Soviet note was "so serious" he could not comment on it without first consulting with his cabinet colleagues.

Sweden has a 350-mile border with Finland and is separated from Russia by less than 175 miles of Finnish territory.

CLAIMS PERIL

The Russian note said leading circles in neutral Sweden underestimated the danger of the German military preparations in northern Europe.

Molotov, Malenkov, Kaganovich Likely to Be Expelled From Party

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Communist Party congress today was expected to wind up its purge of Stalinists with the expulsion of the "anti-party" group in the Soviet Union.

The move is likely to old-line Stalinists was freely forecast amid signs that Premier Nikolai Khrushchev's campaign to de-Stalinize Russia has been moved from the giant mausoleum in Moscow's Red Square.

Removal of the body was ordered only Monday by a unanimous vote of the congress but their disappearance during the night of a massive bank of wreaths outside the mausoleum indicated that the embalmed mummified remains may already have been taken from their resting place beside those of Lenin, leader of the revolution.

Final deliberations on the "anti-party" group—headed by former foreign minister Vyacheslav Molotov, former premier Georgi Malenkov and former heavy industry chief Lazar Kaganovich—took place at a secret

Suggests New Condemnation Of Soviet Tests

SIMCOE (CP) — Liberal Leader L. B. Pearson suggested Monday night that Canada sponsor a new United Nations resolution condemning the Soviet Union for its "total disregard for the world it is with contempt," Mr. Pearson said.

"Perhaps it is time today for Canada to go back to the United Nations and sponsor a resolution condemning this poisonous aggression against humanity."

He described Russia's detonation Monday of a thermonuclear device as "awful and grotesque."

"Even before the United Nations passed a resolution opposing the explosion of the bomb the Soviet delegate said his country would treat it with contempt," Mr. Pearson said.

"Perhaps it is time today for Canada to go back to the United Nations and sponsor a resolution condemning this poisonous aggression against humanity."

Mr. K. Admits Blast Exceeded Fifty Megatons

Says Red Scientists Should Not Be Punished

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Premier Khrushchev said today Soviet scientists miscalculated and set off a nuclear bomb of more than 50 megatons Monday.

Communist sources reported today that Khrushchev told the Soviet Communist party congress that the big bomb had been exploded Monday at 3:30 a.m. EST.

But he said the scientists "miscalculated and instead of 50 megatons it had proved to be more."

Khrushchev added: "I don't think we should punish our scientists."

Communist sources said that Khrushchev's reference to the big bomb came "right out of the blue."

He made the remark during his closing speech at the congress this afternoon.

Non-Communist journalists were barred from the session.

TESTS OVER?

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said a convoy of 10 transport ships and ice breakers was forming today in the Kara Sea to leave Arctic waters via the straits of Novaya Zemlya—the island site of the Soviet Union's recent series of nuclear weapon tests.

The broadcast seemed to hint that the series either had ended as expected with the 50-megaton blast recorded Monday, or was about to end.

FEAR HURRICANE FLOODED CITY IN HONDURAS

15-Foot Tide Ran In Front of Storm

MIAMI (AP)—Hurricane Hattie crashed with 150-mile-an-hour fury into Belize today and Miami weather bureau forecasters said the capital of British Honduras could be suffering a disaster.

A 15-foot tide running ahead of the storm probably engulfed the city of 65,000 population, the bureau reported.

"There could be a disaster there," said forecaster Gilbert Clark. "This hurricane is big enough to do it."

"Belize probably got the worst tides and the highest winds."

OPEN TO SEA

The British Crown colony's capital lies almost at sea level. A storm tide striking the coast would meet no resistance except from a sea wall which forecasters said was inadequate.

Residents of Belize fled from their wooden homes to concrete shelters Monday night. Power failed at 4 a.m., as first gales began to lash the colony, a U.S. official reported. "We look for a severe loss of life."

"It's likely the whole city will be flooded," Clark said, "and many homes will be destroyed."

The giant hurricane, with winds reaching as high as 200 miles an hour in gusts, probably will cause flood waters throughout Guatemala and the Yucatan peninsula before breaking up against interior mountain ranges, Clark said.

Local Improvement Work Slows Re-assessment Job

Pressure of regular department work along with a backlog of local improvement assessments in the newly annexed area of the city, has tended to slow the city's re-assessment program commenced a year or so ago.

City assessment commissioner Leighton Thompson said today that inspections and measurements in 29 of the city's 43 sub-divisions had been completed, with the phase of the work almost being completed in the old part of the city.

In seven of the sub-divisions valuations have been completed, while by the end of November another three sub-divisions will be entirely re-assessed.

"We have been hampered in our re-assessment program by a very busy year," noted Mr. Thompson. "Building in the city has been at a all-time high and that means more work for the assessment department."

DUE IN 1964

Complete re-assessment of the city was ordered three years ago and is expected to go into effect in 1964. The work is being done by the city's own staff.

Reflecting the construction boom in the city, nearly a million dollars worth of new assessment has been added to the city's rolls already this year.

The total in new assessment to date — subject to confirmation at court of revision and any assessment appeals which may be granted — is $973,975.

Mr. Thompson said the total city assessment has now topped the $30 million mark, the actual figure being $30,062,315.

Catching up on local improvement assessment in the annexed area of the city has slowed down the re-assessment work. Included in the work were sanitary sewers, new watermains and construction of paved roadways.

The re-assessment program means that every building in the city, which is over 20 years old is being gone over from basement to attic. Buildings are measured and inspected with values being later computed.

Generally speaking the assessment in the city is very conservative with exception from property owners who have proven very co-operative.

"We have had a good response," said Mr. Thompson.

BEFORE HOME FOLD

HULL, England (AP)—Two more cases of polio were confirmed in this East Coast fishing port, raising to 74 the number of persons stricken by the disease in the last six weeks. The latest cases were reported as the height of a mass immunization campaign and two days after the town's medical officers said they believed the outbreak to be on the ebb. Stricken were two boys, aged 4 and 5, and who had been vaccinated recently.

Fred C. Adams Heads New Canadian Chain

There is a touch of the Horatio Alger success in the story of Frederick C. Adams, who was recently named president of Frederick's Department Stores, an all-Canadian chain, in London, Ontario.

It is the first independent all-Canadian owned and operated discount department store organization.

The company is opening its first store at the Treasure Island Shopping Centre just south of the city limits of London on Thursday, November 2nd.

Nine other stores in selected centres in southern Canada are to be constructed in the near future.

Mr. Adams started his first job with the Metropolitan Stores as a stock boy. He had 20 years' with that chain and for the past ten years has been president of his own three-store group of variety stores in London.

He will remain as president of F. C. Adams Limited while actively supervising the activities of the new department stores across Canada.

Mr. Adams is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adams, 36 Stanley Street, here, and a brother of Mrs. Cleo Colling.

Assessment Appeals Least For Three Years

When the local court of revision sits in city hall around the middle of November it will have the lowest number of assessment appeals to deal with since annexation at the beginning of 1958.

Assessment commissioner Leighton Thompson said today there were only 68 appeals to date with the lowest in three years and only slightly more than the average dealt with each year prior to annexation.

A breakdown of the cases listed for the court of revision shows there are 30 property appeals on realty values, some of which have been instigated by the city on behalf of the owner, six business assessment appeals, and six school support appeals by taxpayers who wish to change their school support from public to separate schools or vice versa.

In addition to the assessment appeals, the court of revision will also deal with 21 applications for cancellation of property and business tax as the result of demolition of property or firms going out of business.

The last day for filing of assessment appeals was October 15th, with court of revision scheduled to sit Nov. 14, 15 and 17. Sitting on the court of revision are John D. O'Flynn, Sheriff Roscoe Robson and Max McLean.

Hallowe'en collections for UNICEF raised by Canadian children in 1960 were sufficient to pay for three and a half day's aid to the programs undertaken by the United Nations Children's Fund in foreign countries. Mrs. Jean Armstrong, Chairman of the National UNICEF Committee, states that over 1,000 communities participated in the nation-wide drive last year, collecting a total of $260,000 in a single evening.

Road Accidents Could Be Halved, Rotarians Told

Highway accidents could be cut in half if a proper effort was made to do so, local Rotarians were told by guest speaker Ian McNab of General Motors at their weekly dinner meeting in the Hotel Quinte yesterday.

Highway deaths, accidents and property damage must be accepted as an inevitable price to pay for the pleasure and convenience of modern highway transportation, he said.

A more concentrated effort, which could be done at the local level by a citizens' organization utilizing a broad approach, is the best answer to the problem of how to cut down on traffic deaths and accidents, he suggested.

A proper approach to the situation highlighted greatly by two elements, panacea seekers and those who think safety can be bought cheaply, Mr. McNab said. The former group usually picks out one isolated element from the overall picture as a scapegoat and urges drastic action on this big line. The latter group feels that there is no need for high-school driver education or increased police personnel.

HIGHWAYS SAFER

Despite the grim picture usually portrayed, driving is twice as safe, mile for mile, in 1961 as it was in 1939, he said. Cars today are being built with higher practical degree of safety than ever before but there should be a corresponding improvement of drivers and highways, he suggested.

A driver's certificate should be a real indication of driving ability, not just recognizing that a simple test has been passed and a fee paid, he speaker proposed. Individuals can do much to promote safe driving themselves through policing their own actions and adopting careful habits, educating their children in basic safety, observing their cars in good mechanical shape, acting as good examples and generally thinking while safe driving projects, he suggested.

Cars are being built to make it easier to drive safely - better brakes, better tires, better performance being but a few of the improvements contributing to this end. The variety of traffic accidents happen at moderate speeds, however, indicating that the level of driver ability is at a considerable variance with the mechanical advantages offered by modern cars in many instances, it was suggested.

It is because of a deep concern with this situation, which offers a challenge to both the automobile industry and the country's well being, that General Motors is supporting a number of safety projects outside of auto engineering improvements, Mr. McNab concluded.

He was introduced by Rotarian Walter Elliott and thanked by both treasurer Merv Jones. Rotarians celebrated the birthday of Josh member Fred Yeandle during the course of the meeting, which was conducted by president Cecil James.

TORONTO STOCKS

Industrials gained 3.73 to 288.13, mainly on the basis of strong gains among banks and financial institutions, utilities, papers and steels. Golds rose .18 to 89.96, base metals .52 to 130.45 and western oils .45 to 100.77. Volume was 2,776,000 shares, compared with 2,917,000 Friday.

Speculative interest among industrials heightened after being lax for the last four or five days with widespread rises apparent among some seldom-traded issues. Leader in this category was satellite, which more than doubled its price and finished the day at 37, ahead 19½ cents, on a volume of more than 177,000 shares.

Canadian Dyno, still active on rumors of a rich copper strike east of James Bay, added another 11 cents to $2.25 on $2,450 shares, while Martin - McNeely rose 10 cents to 38 on 311,800 shares to finish first on the daily most active list.

The senior base metals list was strong. International Nickel recovered partially from a drop of last week, when there were rumors of the possibility of an anti - trust action being brought against the company by the U.S. Federal Trade Commission. It gained 52 to 82½ on a volume of 3,675 shares.

Gold trading was moderate and Cochenour Willans rose 35 cents to a new high of 85.20.

General Wladyslaw Anders, commander of the Free Poles in the Italian theatre during the Second Great War, is nearing the end of a North American visit. At Montreal, in an interview with a Montreal Gazette reporter, he is said to have claimed that Russia is playing the same political game abroad as Hitler's Germany engaged in during the late 1930s.

This is not a new contention. It has been made before and, cold war tensions being what they are, is likely to receive greater credence in the West than it deserves.

Any person who accepts General Anders' contention as true could do no better than to read Sir Winston Churchill's "The Gathering Storm."

There, in the account of Hitler's Machiavellian manoeuvres, he will quickly perceive vast differences between the Nazi and Communist machinations.

In the first place, Hitler started with nibbles and continued with gulps, always contending that every bite was the last he planned.

Russia, on the other hand, gulped all of Eastern Europe at the conclusion of the Second Great War and all later acquisitions have been comparative nibbles. Moreover, while Hitler was always intimating that his appetite for territory was satisfied, Khrushchev and his predecessors have always frankly admitted that their ultimate objective is to control the whole world.

There is a second great difference. Hitler started playing his hand from a position of weakness. The Communists have always been strong. Perhaps, though, like the Germans, the Communists have gained in comparative strength.

Thirdly, Hitler and his Nazis always praised war, while the Communists, whatever their actions, talk the language of peace and negotiations.

The only places where Communist manoeuvres resemble those of Hitler have been in Asia, in the Middle and Far East.

None of these differences may be of a nature vitally affecting the appropriate conduct of the West in meeting the Communist threat. However they compare the situation confronting Western leaders today to that which faced Baldwin and Chamberlain and the various French premiers in the years between Hitler's assumption of power in Germany and the outbreak of the Second Great War is to make a wholly misleading comparison.

A Sudden Shock

Here we are back on standard time once more.

Most city people, we think, are in favor of daylight time during the summer months.

We are not so certain that there would be a comparable approach to unanimity regarding the time at which daylight saving should end.

It used to be that the end of September marked the return to standard time. Its extension to the end of October is not without major benefits, particularly in a year in which the Weatherman is as kind as he has been this fall.

Unfortunately, one cannot have it both ways. If one delays the changeover time until late in October, the inevitable result is that the shortening of the days is brought home to us with doubled force.

One day, thanks to daylight saving time, light lingers until the supper dishes are done. The next, darkness is upon us almost as soon as the day's work is completed. Of course, this "loss" of an hour of daylight is unavoidable in any case. But we were much less acutely aware of it, it was much easier to bear, when the changeover came at a time when the days were longer.

On the whole, though, after due consideration, we think we prefer the later date for the change. After all, the sudden shock lasts only for a day or two and as compensation we have the memory of all those wonderful evenings in the first four weeks of October.

When politicians claim that this (news coverage) turns their proceedings into a circus, it should be made clear that the circus was already there and that television merely demonstrated that not all the performers were well trained.—Edward R. Murrow, head of U.S. Information Agency.

Americans are infected, poisoned and ruined by the mad pursuit of money . . . The moral from top to bottom from Washington to the smallest hamlet is: Grab what you can.—Nina Khrushchev, wife of the Russian leader, in a magazine article.

British Code Really Strict

Toronto Financial Post

A British newspaper recently ran a story about a man named John Belcher, described as tall, stooped and a little shabby. At 55 Belcher is assistant fright agent at King's Cross Station, London, a modest job that pays somewhere around £30 a week.

What was the reason for bringing Mr. Belcher and his decent obscurity? The clue for any reader who wishes to exercise his memory is — politics. Belcher's name was at one time on the world's front pages.

In 1948 there were rumors that certain British officials were much too friendly with rich and powerful persons who might want government favors. An inquiry was held and John Belcher's name came up. He was found not guilty of bribery or corruption; but the tribunal thought his conduct indiscreet. He had accepted a bottle of whisky and a weekend at the seaside for himself and wife.

He was then an M.P., Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Trade, a junior minister at 46, with all the trappings of office and a fair chance of getting a Cabinet rank. The penalty for his indiscretion was his resignation from his post and from his Commons seat — for good. No question of his reelection possible; no self-adjustable book of memoirs expected.

This British code may seem pretty rough. But it's a lot more commendable than the code that prevails in some other places.

Germans Work At Coventry

West German Bulletin

As part of a project in which many countries are volunteering to do a variety of jobs of building and reconstruction, in European countries, 100 young Germans in England recently began in the ruins of the old Coventry Cathedral, destroyed in the Second War. Among the 16 are two girls who will do needle-work chores for the men.

The group will be known as Aktion Versohnung, or Operation Reconciliation. Funds to pay the costs of reconstructing the Cathedral are being raised by the Christian Churches of Germany with the help of schools and industry.

"These young people are deeply concerned in wanting to do all they can to make some kind of positive gesture to break down international barriers," said the Provost of Coventry, Rev. H. C. N. Williams. "We in Coventry cathedral believe that this is probably one of the most significant acts of Christian reconciliation which have ever taken place in Britain."

From the opening note of the recital of piano music given by Empson McCormick, the audience was carried away by the rare art of Belleville's remarkable young musician. Here, indeed, is an artist possessing singular gifts; for one so young he has already achieved considerable fame and he is now well on his way to an outstanding career on the concert stage.

Since the first of this year transients to the number of 1565 have sought shelter at the police station. Most of the wanderers spent the night at the police station.

Mr. Walter Belair has won the great distinction to himself of making a hole-in-one in the Bay of Quinte Country Club. The great event was at the fourth hole and is officially vouched for by two witnesses, Mr. A. F. Heyworth of Belleville and Mr. John Ryan of this city. This is the second time that a hole in one has been made on the country club course; Mr. Walter Reeves accomplished the feat three years ago. However, to Mr. Belair belongs the honor of first turning in the brick since the course has been re-constructed

Letter To The Editor

Says Women Would Make Good Rulers

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I am constrained to note that Bishop Carpenter of Oxford, Eng. has declined to allow a woman Missionary to preach in his diocese of Oxford. He is at least a man of courage. His decision may not prove to be a popular one. It is generally conceded, that women belong on a somewhat higher spiritual plane than men. Their spiritual nature is capable of preaching remarkably good Sermons, many of which would put to shame the rectors of our scattered churches where possibly there are no clergymen in attendance, and nearly enough men are offering themselves as candidates for Holy Orders. It looks as though the good Bishop may have to change his brief. Likewise Canadian may become rather increased against him. Many church-goers are of the belief that women should be ordained as clergymen, and that in all likelihood, they would prove to be a genuine source of added strength to our Anglican Communion.

Sincerely,
Chas. H. Woodforde.

DIM TAPERS

Newspapers some time ago carried the story, released by the scientists of the world's principal observatories, that a star had exploded, and that the event had occurred so far away that the light of the explosion, traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles per second, had taken 800 million years to reach our planet. How far away was it? To answer that in miles, one would certainly have to use at least twenty of thirty ciphers.

When I behold the heavens, the work of thy hands, the moon and stars which thou hast ordained, what is man that thou art mindful of him?" Our planet is a speck in the vast universe. We are very small specks on the planet! Is one supposed to believe that God could possibly be interested in our dwelling place, or in insignificant, little creatures like us?

Yes, we are supposed to believe precisely that. God is love. This, God is everywhere, which means that His love is everywhere. We are not only of more value to Him than many sparrows, we are more value to Him than any inanimate thing. He has created the universe which appears overwhelmingly large to us in the creation of Personal Power which brought it into being. What looks big to us does not necessarily look big to Him.

"By Him were all things made . . ." We are not insignificant, for we are in the loving hands of God. But our knowledge is insignificant. We know almost nothing at all. The papers we carry are dim indeed.

Strictly Personal

Trying to Get Enough Often Traps Us

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In an interview not long ago, David Low was asked his "recipe for happiness." He answered that the best recipe for happiness he ever heard was given him by Gandhi, and went like this:

"Have no possessions and want none. No trivial ambitions to win and hold fame, wealth or power. Do what you do because you think it right, seeking nothing, not even the personal gratification that comes of achievement of your purpose. Be simplicity, directness and strength to your aims. Be trivial ambitious. Be humble. Be satisfied."

The interviewer thought this was a very impressive statement, for one thing because that it is the recipe for happiness. But I can't do it very well because I suffer from an incurable belief that enough is necessary.

Low's burst of candor sheds a splendid and terrifying light upon all of us who have personal, intimate and honest moments, most of us would admit to ourselves that Gandhi possessed at least a large share of the secret of happiness. Along with Low, we believe that "enough is necessary."

And what is this "enough" that we first have to get? I suppose it is pretty relative. There's a constant drive for more health, more power, more security, more money, more fame, more pleasure and more of whatever we have already in our existence. "When I have enough of this," we say to ourselves, "I will stop."

But nobody can finally decide on what is "enough" — that is the perpetual human trap. And it is as true of the poor as it is of the rich. There is no security in the world; nobody can count his possessions, and the very condition of life itself is that the future is being created by the frantic efforts to get enough — enough knowledge, enough love and enough delivery relishes.

What is happening in the world is a magnified projection of what we do and desire as individuals; the real difference is that our individual goals remain in our control, while world affairs are running out of control. But our hunger for acquisition and our fear of loss together drive us toward accumulating more than we need or can humanly use.

Of course, we say, Gandhi was the unique thing to a saint our century has seen; his advice worked for him, but it is a counsel of perfection we ordinary mortals cannot be expected to act on it. How ever, history may be working in his direction, and not in full Bloch, that the world's ills may have to learn how to be extraordinary to cope with the unprecedented world of tomorrow.

Short Hours Create Jobs?

Montreal Gazette

Construction unions in Ontario have come out in favor of a 35-hour week. The purpose, it is said, is to create jobs for the construction workers who are unemployed.

But the occasion to support the 35-hour week was not created without reason. It was created by the convention of the Ontario Provincial Building Trades Council of Ontario, one member of the United Association of Plumbers and Pipe Fitters (CLC) believes that shortening the working week will only double the number of "moonlighters" — those who work at two jobs. Another delegate said if the unions could police the 40-hour week to eliminate overtime, "we could put all our unemployed members back to work."

There is certainly room for questioning whether shortening the work week will spread the work". If the week is reduced to 35 hours, many will still work 40 hours, but at overtime, while others, with time on their hands, will be forced to look for a job. In neither case will more jobs be created.

And there is the larger question of the effect upon the Canadian economy of a constantly competitive future, of increasing the overhead with a shorter week in the same rate of hourly pay. The amount of construction in Canada, like everything else, will depend upon how well Canadians can sell their products abroad, and compete with foreign products at home. It may be doubtful that reducing the working week will do much to reduce unemployment; it could, in fact, have the opposite effect.

Emotional Problems Often Cause Lack of Virility

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any medical cure for a man that will increase virility of a man in his early 40's? My husband recently had a complete physical and was found to be in excellent health. —Mrs. C.J."

It's hard to convince people that the usual reason for lack of virility is emotional. Business or other problems pile up, and the thoughtful concern of middle supersedes the febrile exuberance of young adulthood. Who is the wife who recognizes this but doesn't talk about it; who understands the fact that her husband loves her and is devoting his life to supporting the family; and who knows in her heart that their's is a sound, happy marriage. Surprisingly, somewhere along the line the hard working husband relaxes, and forgets that he is secure without losing his virility. Unexpectedly, and happily he finds that he's virile as ever. Maybe not as often as when he was young — but love is as ardent, and it's deeper and somehow a more meaningful than ever before.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you write something about pertinent for heart patients? I have taken it for four years following a coronary attack.—R.C.M."

This is a drug in the general classification of nitroglycerin, which dilates the coronary arteries. Its action is slower but starting, but more prolonged. For example, taken four times a day, it gives a more continuous beneficial effect.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I contracted infantile paralysis during the War II army service and have had it ever since.

"I have heard there is an effective pill to be taken orally. A friend told me there is one but it should be taken only on a doctor's prescription.

"I am only a half living and it would help if you would comment on the oral pill and why it is important to get it only through a doctor.—P.F."

There's some variance in reports on the effectiveness of pills for athlete's foot. Some have found yes, some don't, the real answer may be that all cases of athlete's foot may not be caused by the same fungus. The drug attacks some, not others.

The government decides which drugs require prescriptions. All powerful ones do so because there is no way, except by a physician's supervision, to be sure that the right amount is given, and that side effects (which can be anything from skin outbreaks to illness or nerves, to serious blood disorders or worse) will be detected soon enough to prevent them from doing serious harm. That's the public logical reason, but

In P.F.'s case, if the trouble began in the army, perhaps he can get treatment from the Veterans' Administration.

Likewise there are other and less expensive treatments for athlete's foot. Drug stores have various remedies that are sold over the counter without prescription. Also, it helps effectives to soak the feet in potassium permanganate, a one tb. 3.000 solution. The important thing is that it is poisonous if taken internally, and that it will stain the feet and also the pan or other container.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My twenty-year-old daughter has a sort of depression in the middle of her chest. She also seems to have trouble breathing at night — snores so she can be heard all over. Could this "chest depression" be the cause?—Mrs. W.K."

It depends on the depth of the depression. If it is extensive, it can be repaired surgically, before puncture. Where's the time, in other words, to have the condition diagnosed carefully; if the depression is small, I doubt that it has anything to do with the breathing process.

TODAY'S TALK

NOSES

The most characteristic feature of any face is its nose. It is the one feature that age tampers with the least. And it is the one feature that keys a character more than any other. The future from beautiful eyes in time must fade and grow dull. Rich, red lips that glowed in color, and cheeks that have blushed prettily, all in time drop as silently as the leaves of autumn and leave but the lovely memory of their former glow. But the nose remains its truest right up to the end.

I am always amused at those who think they can improve upon the Creator. Sometimes, and so have some "specialist" reshape their noses. As for myself, I have a nose that is not beauty, but I would not have it changed for the world. I would sooner have a new face entirely.

And what a useful member the nose is! It helps to give the flowers their perfume and more by rivalling their exquisite fragrance. And it guards the eyes as the eyebrows guard estate. While to the lips it lends its dignity.

Another interesting thing about the nose is that it is the one feature that runs in families than other in describing racial characteristics. And so we have the Roman nose, the Greek nose and others quite as noted. And we speak of each as being strong, weak, noble and honest. Employers have told me that they choose a man for office rather than by any other feature of the face. In a word, the nose is often much more to be desired than "great riches!"

But regardless of everything the very nose you have is the best one in all the world for you, so be good to it and keep it intact. It is beautiful, or handsome, only so long as it is beautiful.

Two Germanys

London Daily Mail

It seems doubtful if Germany will be reunited under any banner in our lifetime.

This could be an unsettling element if there were any chance of reunification in Germany itself. Such a passion is not evident.

It seems clear that we should be prepared to give some kind of recognition to the obvious fact that there are two Germanys, but we must have assurances from the Soviet Union that there will be no further moves or pressures against Berlin. Any interference, we must make clear, will mean war.

Council Backs Parents' Protest Of Rescue Bill

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — City council has agreed with protests of a seven-year-old boy who object to paying $53 for firemen's services in the rescue of the lad after he fell 80 feet into the Niagara River gorge.

Council signalled its agreement Monday night with the protests, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stewart, by deciding to send the bill back to the Niagara Parks Commission for payment. The parents contend their taxes cover firemen's costs.

Kenneth Stewart was in hospital for 19 days after he was rescued by city firemen following the fall Sept. 4.

Ald. A. J. McAliney said the bill was first sent by the city to the commission under an agreement providing for payment of services rendered by the city fire department on lands in the commission's jurisdiction.

RETURNS BILL

City Manager William S. Orr told council that Chief Edwin Rehbold of the park police returned the bill to him. He quoted the chief as saying the commission refused to pay the bill because "parents who allow their children to get into dangerous places should be prepared to pay it."

As a result, Mr. Orr said he had the bill sent to the Stewarts "because the fire department has to be compensated by someone." He said the city's agreement with the Firefighters' local provides for extra payment on rescue work along the river bank.

Both Ald. McKinley and Mayor Frederick J. Miller, who also are members of the Parks Commission, said the question of payment of the bill had not been presented to a commission meeting for decision. On a motion by Ald. McKinley, council decided to send the bill back to the commission with a letter stating the council's view that the bill should be paid by the commission.

The Stewart boy was with a group of youngsters when he slipped and fell.

Car Parts Makers File Protest

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's car parts manufacturers have protested to Finance Minister Fleming that importation of some sections of a royal commission report would seriously threaten their industry and increase unemployment.

The Automotive Parts Manufacturers Association of Canada released here a report copies of a brief sent to Mr. Fleming.

Royal commissioner Vincent W. Bladen, University of Toronto economist, recommended that Canada's automobile manufacturers be allowed to import car parts and parts into Canada duty free if they have bought certain percentages of Canadian-made components for them.

It was also designed to encourage export of Canadian components.

The association contended that "Canadian content" of cars would be achieved by exporting "items only slightly removed from primary materials." It added that such would not appear to be Mr. Bladen's idea in the recommendation, "but we fail to see how any other result could be obtained."

A recommendation in the royal commission report that any class of automotive parts be allowed duty-free entry once the guaranteed market obtained the required Canadian content was described as promising a "disastrous effect" on the parts manufacturers.

Canadian manufacturers would be forced to compete with duty-free imported parts.

The brief endorsed other sections of the Bladen report, however, which proposed tariffs on British cars and parts now admitted duty - free under Commonwealth preference agreements.

The prime minister said he was shocked by any suggestion that alleviation of starvation amounts to assistance to communism in any way.

"Mankind has never been possessed or starved into freedom," he said.

As far as trade with China is concerned, Canada has always followed the course that as long as this was not in strategic materials there was no reason why there should not be the fullest possible trade.

On his last day in Japan, Diefenbaker held final talks with Prime Minister Ikeda and visited a school.

TALKS COVER TRADE

Informants said the unscheduled talks with Ikeda covered trade problems and the like. It gave the Japanese an opportunity to speak in relation to Diefenbaker's speech here Saturday in which he outlined Canada's view on trade with Japan. Previously, trade talks were almost entirely on the international situation.

The highlight of Diefenbaker's busy last day in Japan was a visit to the burning for home after a five-day state visit to Japan.

Governments prepared to test their graves — important — and others for radioactivity. British officials made plans to distribute powdered milk for dried milk for babies should fresh milk become dangerously contaminated.

The British government denounced the Moscow test as "wanton disregard for the well-being and safety of the human race."

CIVILIAN SCOUTS HONORED — Mrs. Lionel Blaker receives left-handed handshake from Field Commissioner Larry Wilcox at last night's presentation of long service civilian Scouting awards at the Kiwanis Centre. Mrs. Blaker has 10 years' service, while F. J. Lancaster (left) has 10 years and Chris Leggat 15 years. Civilian Scouting awards are being presented across Canada this year for first time following requests by the Belleville Scout Association.

Long Time Civilian Service To Boy Scout Organization Given Tangible Recognition

Long time civilian service to the Boy Scout Movement in Belleville was recognized last night at the annual meeting of the Belleville Boy Scout Association as three workers were presented with certificates and ribbons.

Honored were Chris Leggat and Frank J. Lancaster, former presidents of the local Association, and Mrs. Lionel A. Blaker of Peterborough who headed the ladies' auxiliary of the Scout movement at Belleville for many years.

Mrs. Blaker was also recognized for long service but was not present to receive his award. The award was presented by Larry Wilcox, field commissioner for the Boy Scout movement.

Last night's meeting at the Kiwanis Centre was attended by nearly 100 persons interested in the Scouting movement, and reports of the year's activities presented as well as election of officers for the coming year.

Re-elected as president of the Association for another year was L. G. "Monty" Monteith. Vice presidents are P. W. Pickering, who is also treasurer, while W. O. "Bud" Walters was re-elected secretary pro tem vacated by John Hodgson after a four year term. Mr. F. J. Lancaster was re-elected as treasurer.

Elected as district commissioner to succeed Phil L. Allcorn who has relinquished the post is Maurice G. Mercy. Honorary president is Lt. Col. F. J. Ney.

Guest speaker for the annual meeting was Dennis Lewis, a working field Commissioner for handicapped scouting.

Scouting in the Belleville area has changed greatly by the times and bounds during the past 15 years, it was revealed at the meeting.

Little more than ten years ago there were only about 400 scouts in Belleville. Last night the total was 1,400 and the current enrolment was about 1,480.

Enrolment in the scouting movement has not been merely a matter of numbers, however, it was pointed out, but has doubled in little more than a decade but the increase in number of boys in the 11 and 12 year bracket has been matched by a corresponding number of adults to act as leaders.

Last night the appeal for more adults to assist in the scouting movement was heard from all sides.

Field Commissioner Larry Wilcox asked his listeners to accept the fact that Scouting was a way of life requiring from adults more than just a one day a week effort. He asked that more adults approach Scouting with enthusiasm.

Guest speaker Dennis Lewis stressed the importance of communication between scoutmasters and their young charges. He pointed out that Scouts and Cubs were always looking to their leaders as examples and urged adults to make certain the example they were setting led toward good citizenship and everything else the Scouting movement stood for.

He urged that Scouting leaders make certain they were "communicating" with their young charges.

Treasurer Monteith said there are 17 groups now included in the Belleville district, including the Belleville Rotarded Children's School Association which would commence Scout meeting early in November.

The district now has the title of the Mothers' Auxiliaries and also expressed his appreciation to members of the district council executive and to all others who have in any way assisted in the local Scouting movement.

In closing President Monteith noted that the local Association spends its money wisely, having to look for an alternate.

Following the treasurer's report by F. J. Lancaster, which revealed a balance of $343.44 in the kitty after expenditures of $3,752, President Monteith noted that the Association pay to the Kiwanis Club $100 for the use of the Centre.

Retiring district commissioner Phil L. Allcorn, who is leaving the Scouting movement after 16 years paid tribute to Mrs. L. G. Monteith and others for their part in the Scout training program.

In closing he said there was a terrific job of leadership to be done in the district ranks and the success or failure of the Scout movement would largely determine the future of Scouting in the district.

Field Commissioner reported on the year's activities at Sagonaska camp in Col. Vanderwater Conservation area at Thomasburg and also on local organization and extension.

George McIntosh as district Cub Scout secretary reported on the badges, honors and awards won by Scouts, while Mr. Angus Gilmour, Cub master, reported on camping and safety report. He stressed the importance of swimming and rehearsing to stiff swimming tests, said that "a Belleville Scout will be a Scout with a swimmer's badge up, is a proposition."

Mrs. Anne McDonald, secretary of the Ladies' Auxiliary executive board, also had report that the purpose of the group was to co-operate in every way possible with the local association. She said there were 12 active auxiliaries in the district.

Publicity committee chairman Oliver Owen urged that all Scouting activities be promptly reported in his committee. He admitted that father and son banquet according made interesting reading but said that other worthwhile events such as going up ceremonies, weekend camps and rallies, training courses and other activities, also made good reading.

New executive officers and members were installed by Regional Commissioner Archie Lowry who said he was glad to see the increased number of Scouts and also the number of Queen's Scouts in the district.

its final lap, no decision had been announced on what is to be done with Stalin's body after the removal from the mausoleum.

Cremation was considered the most likely possibility, but there also was speculation that the corpse would be buried in the Kremlin wall, where other Soviet leaders are interred or sent back to Stalin's hometown of Gori, in Georgia.

Another possibility was that it would be placed beside the remains of his wife, Allyueva, who died before the Second World War.

She is buried in her family's plot in nearby Novodevichy Cemetery. Her grave is marked by a seven-foot-high white granite block.

Belleville Leads Ontario In New House Construction

Building contractors have never had it so good in Belleville as during the current year.

As of yesterday close to six million dollars worth of construction has been carried out in Belleville this year with residential building accounting for nearly half of the total.

In fact, Belleville has seen more residential construction for its size this year than any other centre in Ontario. Total construction in the city up until yesterday amounted to $5,819,457.

Residential construction in the city so far this year is valued at $2,668,970 and numerous lesion permits are still being issued at the rate of one or more per day.

"We thought October might be a slow month, but so far this month 33 residential permits have been issued," stated Inspector Grant Shickle.

November normally is a heavy month for residential construction as it is then mortgage loans are approved in time for a construction start before the cold winter weather sets in.

LARGE PROJECTS

Biggest single project in the city of course was the new shopping centre in the eastern end of the city where Principal Investments of Toronto have invested one and a half million dollars. The first of the stores in the new shopping plaza are expected to be opened next week.

Other large construction projects in the city this year include the new Northern Electric office building costing $400,000; the new Tops Motor Hotel on North Front Street, at $350,000; the new Bank of Montreal building in downtown Belleville costing $200,000; the new Ontario Provincial Police building on Alberta Front Street, and the new St. Joseph's Catholic church in the east end of the city.

Remand Builder On Bribe Charge

GEORGETOWN (CP) — Land developer Rex Heslop, 39, was remanded Monday until Nov. 20 on a charge of attempting to bribe Georgetown Mayor Ernest Rose.

No plea was entered. New property bail of $20,000 was fixed before Crown Counsel Peter McWilliams said Heslop's original bail of $25,000, reported at the time of his arrest last Wednesday, was a surety in that amount by Heslop Realty Limited. Mr. McWilliams said he believed the property of the realty a limited company as surety for bail.

Heslop, who developed the Riverdale subdivision in nearby Etobicoke, was charged following a series of differences between himself and the municipal officials of Georgetown, northwest of Toronto, over the release of 1,063 building lots in a subdivision here.

Cracking Down On Oil-Dumping

OTTAWA (CP) — A strong crackdown on pollution of Canadian waters by oil - dumping ships was announced Monday by the transport department.

Under a new scheme of surveillance, agencies of four government departments will be on the lookout for oil pollution to enable speedy investigation of offences.

As well, 15 transport department officials at various ports have been assigned to coordinate reports of oil pollution, and 17 Crown legal agents are available in port cities to permit immediate legal action being taken.

Ask Research For Rendering Milk Safe

MONTREAL (CP)—The federal government was asked today by dairy processors to research ways and method of rendering milk safe from radioactive contamination.

President Pierre Cote of the National Dairy Council of Canada said safeguards exist now that help keep milk non-contaminated.

But, he told the annual meeting of the Associated Milk Producers, research is needed concerning milk fats present any danger whatsoever to human health, it may become necessary in certain areas to decontaminate food products."

Mr. Cote said it has been shown that the dairy cow herself filters out a lot of radioactivity that she might eat in fodder. The human body did too.

As for the current Russian nuclear test, Mr. Cote said, the industry was relieved that the Health Minister Monteith say last week that current fluid milk supplies are safe because cows from will move inside and graze to fodder from pre-fallout harvesting.

Monday night, W. R. Trehane, chairman of the milk marketing board of Ontario and Dr. Mills said that nobody in Great Britain seems to listen to warnings about radioactive milk.

"Nor should they," he added. "A recent British government experiment revealed that the cow is a natural radioactive filter, and even when fed large amounts of radioactive food, produces milk relatively free of radiation."

Mr. Trehane said milk is a much less dangerous source of radiation than contaminated air, water or food.

31 Members Couples Club Enjoy Bowling

Audrey Gibbons successfully destroyed the myth that females are the weaker sex by bowling both the high single (180) and the high double (360) for the evening. Apparently believing the saying, George Gibbons and Bruce Diamond did not give up until the end. George registered a single of 331 and Bruce a double of 281.

Although the evening of 10-pin bowling was the first for most of the group, it was highly appreciated, even by the young lady who expressed surprise and concern that a red light went on every time she bowled. However, when told that it was to inform her she was stepping over the foul line, she corrected it immediately.

Following the bowl, a business meeting was held in the conference room of the Belleville Bowl. President Ron Boate called the meeting to order at 10.45 p.m. and very quickly and efficiently carried the group through the agenda, adjourning the meeting after the Lord's Prayer at 11.30 p.m.

The Eastminster Couples Club plans to have a film on the DEW Line for their next meeting, November 27, 1961, and possibly a film on dialects we had experienced "brainwashing."

Urges CWL Review TV And Movies

TORONTO (CP)—A new job was suggested Monday for the Catholic Women's League.

Rev. F. W. Stone, national director of the Catholic Information Centre, Toronto, suggested that the league take part in reviewing movies.

Father Stone told delegates at their 41st annual meeting that a method of condemning moving productions for television and movies in commercial houses "must be and I am sure certainly can be a work of the CWL."

Father Stone said small groups would review movies. They would first select a set of principles by which they could measure the value of a movie. Their findings would be referred to the producers in writing.

Speaking of religious programs for radio and television, Father Stone said the demand is for informational type programs. The devotional programs have their place but do not cover all possibilities in broadcasting, he said.

He suggested workshops to interest people in radio and television production. These activities should include broadcasting auditions and the committee should establish friendly relations with Protestant groups working in the field.

CWL Warned About Red Infiltration

TORONTO (CP) — Delegates at the annual meeting of the Catholic Women's League of Canada Monday accepted the recommendation of the Nova Scotia council that they be "most cautious in joining any group that is in question as to its activities."

The recommendation, read by Mrs. J. Colin Dunn of Dartmouth, N.S., was passed without further explanation or discussion.

The warning was given "in view of communistic infiltration."

Delegates also approved a recommendation from the Montreal council that adult education be strongly stressed on all levels. Mrs. Valentine Fabris of Windsor, who read the recommendation, urged that the social teachings of the church and current events be discussed at meetings and suggested that at least one member of each local group attend leadership courses offered in a community.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question — A girl in my office has a horrible habit of borrowing my comb and compact every time we meet in the ladies room. I try to be a good sport about it, but, frankly, I just don't like to have anyone else using my things. Would it be impolite to refuse? — M.M.C. Trenton, N. J.

Answer — No. Personal items should not be handed about, and it's tasteless on her part to constantly borrow. Anyone who forgets to bring such essentials with her should have her memory jogged a bit. A few tactful refusals on your part should turn the trick.

Question — My husband drives to the city every morning. He leaves around nine, mainly to avoid heavy traffic. A neighbor, who knows his routine, often hitches a ride when he misses his train. He seems to do this on an average of two or three times a week. He does pay the tolls, but, since he's become a "regular customer," I'd like to discuss an offer to split the gasoline, too. My husband disagrees. He thinks it's show better manners on his part at least to offer? — A. C. T., Peekskill, N. Y.

Answer — Since your husband does drive in each morning, he's not really being "put upon" by your neighbor, and, since he obviously likes company, he doesn't mind being a part-time chauffeur. The tolls your neighbor pays actually take up any financial slack, so I don't think it bad taste on his part not to offer to pay for gasoline, as well.

Question — A woman I know always answers the telephone by saying "Yes?" I and many of her other friends think this sounds very curt. Should one or us mention it to her? — A.S., New Haven, Conn.

Answer — A simple "hello," of course, would sound more pleasant to the person on the other end than her business-like query. But making a point of such a minor thing might strain relations. It's such a slight flaw, I'd suggest you simply overlook it.

Question — A couple we know, who own a lovely old home in the country, inspired my husband and me for a weekend soon. Unfortunately, my husband will be out of town at the time. He says I should go anyway. Would this be proper? — Mrs. T. W., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Answer — Unless the people are extremely close friends, no, Mrs. T. Week-end plans involve around couples and there's always the possibility that the hostess might have trouble finding them a bit to accommodate an unattached female. From this standpoint, it would be more courteous to decline this time, and accept at a later date when your husband can be present.

Question — Why is it correct for a woman to enter a taxicab before her escort, when she has to climb or slide or slouch (whichever is the "proper" method) across the seat to the far side, then do the same thing getting out?

It seems to me it would be easier for the men to slide over, since he doesn't have to worry about keeping shirt in place and free from wrinkles like a woman does. Also, since he then would be directly behind the driver, it would be easier for him to give directions without having to shout or repeat them. J. W. T., Syracuse, Mich.

Answer — In getting in or out of a taxi, the only formality involved is that the men must enter last, so he can help the woman in, and exit first so he can hand her out. The woman doesn't necessarily have to slide into the far seat. She can enter and exit right next to the door. The only difficulty here is that the man then has to climb past her twice, and a compact cab this can be almost as crushing to a dress as the "slip and slide" technique. Both methods are correct, so it's up to the woman to choose the one that best keeps her skirt neat and unruffled.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. S. Z. — The teachers are so strict they frighten Patty.

Mr. S. Z. — That's the only way she'll ever learn anything.

The Council: We're with Mr. Z. — with one reservation. Leave Patty where she is, but let parents and teachers do some behind-the-scenes probing for the reason of the reading block. They can be physical, due to eyesight deficiency; mental, due to poor word-and-language grasp; or — and this is most common — emotional, due to inner tensions.

Our class in Patty herself who isn't complaining. Moving her to a new school would put her in double jeopardy — there'd be switching problems (not necessarily easier either, as Mr. Z. has learned), and a new circle of classmates to warm up to (and be accepted by).

The fact is that 3rd grade is acknowledged to be the one where the "test" is on. According to one elementary school administrator, "If you don't have problems of reading at the end of the third grade, you're home free." Which is extremely difficult to remedy errors in the later grades."

Perhaps the best reason for keeping Patty at her school is to give her the chance — her mother cooperating, we hope — to learn to grapple with, to "wrestle out" a challenge. With all the permissiveness at home, it seems to be a healthy balance to attend a place where she can't cajole (or sob) her way out of a tough, but bearable, situation. She may encounter little enough strictness later on. In our "anything goes" circles. There's nothing wrong with the school. In fact, Patty is popular there and has lots of friends.

Perhaps the best reason for keeping Patty at her school is to give her the chance — her mother cooperating, we hope — to learn to grapple with, to "wrestle out" a challenge. With all the permissiveness at home, it seems to be a healthy balance to attend a place where she can't cajole (or sob) her way out of a tough, but bearable, situation. She may encounter little enough strictness later on. In our "anything goes" circles.

At Ease At Home

By VERA WINSTON

A knit top and stretch pants of cotton suede add up to easy wear at home, pleasant for lounging and nice enough for informal hostess duty.

The front section of the cotton knit tunic top is done in a horizontal weave in pale gray, the rest in deeper gray with a novelty stitch border in black, red and green. The sash is optional. The tunic top is a nice foil for the slim black pants.

As Mr. Z. points out, here's her opportunity to be kept at trying something hard — a new experience.

To sum up, we remind Patty's mother of John Stuart Mill's advice: "The pupil who is never required to do what he cannot do, never does what he can do".

Cooking For Two On a Shoestring

By Mary Moore

A wise home page editor called to my attention the plight of married students: low budgets, big appetites, a minimum of space to cook. She said some married students actually are undernourished.

She is right for I know a pair who are managing on $20.00 per week for groceries and staples which some of their fellow students consider luxuries.

So I plan to help those dedicated young people by giving a three-installment series on nutritious cooking for two on a shoestring — starting today.

I will give you three economical menus and recipes for them. Some will have leftover possibilities that will make a subsequent meal easier to prepare. Budget-conscious couples who are not students also will find these a big help.

ECONOMICAL MENU

NUMBER ONE FOR TWO:

Clam and Green Bean Puff (see below)

Baked Squash Halves (see below)

Slaw

Fruit Tapioca (see below)

CLAM AND GREEN BEAN PUFF:

One cup milk, ½ cup chopped green onion (or 1 tablespoon instant minced onion), 1 cup coarsely crumbled soda crackers (about 16), 1 can cut green beans, 1 7oz. can minced clams and liquor, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 eggs well beaten, ¼ cup melted margarine. Combine milk, onion and crackers; let stand 10 to 15 minutes. Drain green beans and add with all remaining ingredients to cracker mixture. Turn into buttered baking dish, about 1 quart size, and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 40 minutes. (Save leftovers for next day's lunch.) Note: Hostesses please clip this recipe. I will be including it in a menu for your next buffet entertaining.

Squash Halves: Wash and cut squash into halves. Remove seeds and stringy portion. Add 1 teaspoon margarine and put in oven at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes before the Clam and Green Bean Puff is added then reduce heat to 350. If desired at this time, sprinkle squash with salt and pepper and 1 or 2 teaspoons brown sugar.

MUFFINS:

One and one-quarter cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder (1 tablespoon double-acting baking powder), ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ cup skim milk powder, ¾ cup wheat germ, 1 egg beaten, ¼ cup salad oil, 1 cup water, ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together in bowl. Add mixing bowl, then stir in wheat germ. In another bowl, beat egg until thick and light. Stir in salad oil, water and vanilla. Make a well in dry ingredients, add liquids all at once. Combine lightly (batter will be lumpy.) Turn into 8 large greased muffin pans until ⅔ full. Bake 20-25 minutes at 400 deg. Fahr. Bake at same time as squash. Keep warm. For tomorrow's lunch split leftovers and toast with cheese.

FRUIT TAPIOCA:

1¼ cups boiling water, 2½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, ¼ cup granulated sugar, dash of salt, 1 tablespoon margarine, 1 cup applesauce (canned is economical), 2 teaspoons lemon juice, spoon nutmeg, speck cinnamon. Combine boiling water, tapioca, sugar, salt and butter in top of double-boiler and cook 10-12 minutes over boiling water. Chill, then fold in applesauce and remaining ingredients. Serve with whole milk. Serve leftover pudding next day with applesauce.

RICE INFECTION

If a small cut or scratch becomes red or swollen, it should be bathed in hot solution of Epsom salt and water.

Mother's Helper

PLANNING to make candied apples for your child's Hallowe'en party? The safest procedure will be much less messy if you insert a stick in each end of the apple. With handles like this, biting the center and the apple is not likely to fall off before it's all gone.

Canada Celebrates Centennial of E. Pauline Johnson, 1861-1913

"Tekahionwake" Poetic Princess of the Mohawks

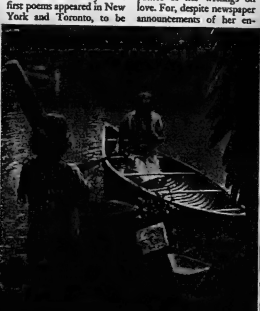
Whether wearing bear-claw necklace or high-necked Victorian collar, Pauline Johnson thought always of the redman. National Film Board of Canada Photos by Gar Lunney.

Tekahionwake to the Iroquois Indians, E. Pauline Johnson to the English, gold-en poetess to all Canada, this wild forest flower who inherited a double culture from the white and red races and devoted most of her life to the honor of the redman, this year was in turn honored by the country of her birth.

In March, Pauline Johnson Week was marked by the issue of a special Canadian stamp commemorating her birth a century ago. In August, the thirteenth annual festival of the Six Nations Reserve near Brantford, Ontario,—a yearly pageant of colorful folklore—took as its theme her life and work.

Pauline Johnson, champion of Canadian Indians, was the youngest of four children born to Head Chief G. H. M. Johnson and his English wife, Emily S. Howells. From her father she inherited Mohawk "Blood Royal", the Indian flair for oratory and direct lineage from one of the five great chiefs of the tribes banded together, some say, by Hiawatha 400 years ago. From her mother's family she received a gift for writing. This blend of cultures had a natural sequel in her poetic storytelling of nineteenth-century Canada. The fusion of ancestry from an English literary family and a line of Red Indian chiefs enabled Pauline Johnson to be at home both in the formal drawing rooms of Edwardian London or gliding down a wilderness stream in a birch-bark canoe, at peace with the spirits of her ancestors lurking in the darkness of the forest's edge.

Pauline Johnson began writing poetry at the age of 12 but offered none of her writings for publication until after her schooldays. Her first poems appeared in New York and Toronto, to be followed by many other publications in Canada, United States and England. For 16 years she made recital tours, fascinating her audiences with dramatic presentations of her work. Soon after her last visit to England in 1907, with failing health, she settled in Vancouver near her friends, and the coastal Indians. Here, between the blue waters of the Pacific and the giant cedar and fir forests of British Columbia, she passed the remaining years of her life.



In Vancouver her friends formed a trust to publish her work. It is reported that several of her love poems—considered too intimate for the public eye—were omitted. This facet of Pauline Johnson's life intrigues many of her readers charmed by the poignant passion and pathos of her writings on love. For, despite newspaper announcements of her engagement to Charles E. Drayton of Winnipeg in 1898, the answer as to why she never married has not been found.

Her published works not only assure Pauline Johnson a place in Canadian literature as the first English-language Indian poet but are valued for the rippling melody and harsh reality of the tales they tell. The bravery of her Iroquois brethren, the savagery of the Hurons, the myths and legends of the Pacific coast tribes, the white settlers and their trials—all these came as living ink to the inspired pen of E. Pauline Johnson. Few better illustrations of her poetic imagery can be found than this verse from Devondine:

There's a spirit on the river,
there's a ghost upon the shore,
And they sing of love and loving through the starlight evermore,
As they steal amid the silence,
And the shadows of the shore.

Setting the stage of the Six Nations Indian Festival. The pageant is held during August, ten miles southeast of Brantford, Ontario, in a natural outdoor setting. Lighting effects are provided by the setting sun and campfires.

The outdoor stage is surrounded by a moat in which a young Indian maiden paddles an authentic birch-bark canoe throughout the entire performance.

In years to come Joanne Green, youngest member of the cast, will learn to value the poetic legacy of the Mohawk Princess. For now, the wonder of the pageant is enough to give an air of magic to the name of Pauline Johnson.

Latest Award-Winning Roses

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The All American Rose Selection awards were posted early this summer but the plants were not for sale in American nurseries until this fall. Canadian buyers will find them listed in the spring catalogues, out this winter.

There were four awards, Christian Dior, a red hybrid tea, John S. Armstrong a red grandiflora, Golden Slippers a golden orange floribunda and King's Ransome a yellow Hybrid Tea.

Nine years have passed since a red H. T. rose has taken an AARS award, but Christian Dior well deserves it—it has bright crimson petals with a scarlet underlay. Under artificial lights its velvety texture takes on an iridescent glow. The buds are of classic shape opening to large, handsome blooms.

A RARE HONOR

In 1955 the first class for grandiflora was opened and only three have attained the honor of winning the AARS award. This year John S. Armstrong has made it. It is a deep red "Fiesta" color since it remains of the same intense tone from bud to open bloom. The medium size bud opened to a full four inch bloom and each bud is lovely from the first show of color to the full blown rose. The blooms are borne in clusters but the stems are long enough for cutting.

Bright gold but flushed with scarlet marks the beginning of this new wonder rose Golden Slippers. The flowers open to a large cup.

The upper petals are orange flushed with vermilion, and the underside retains its clear gold glow. As the petals fold back a brilliant yellow center emerges. The colors soften as the flower matures until the gold and orange are muted then intensifies again to the color of the new bud.

It has been twelve years since a yellow hybrid tea won the AARS award. King's Ransome with its exceptional size and color qualified this year easily. All the requirements are there, perfect bud, full bloom, sculptured petals and long lasting color quality. The five to six inch blooms have a mellow luscious perfume and the flowers are borne well above the foliage on long strong stems.

The rose breeders have perfected two strains that are hardier than the hybrid teas, the floribundas and the grandifloras. The floribundas are husky bushy plants with leathery dark green foliage. They are more resistant to disease and insects and make handsome hedges or solid border subjects.

BETTER FOLIAGE

The grandifloras are more like the HT's but have larger plants and better foliage than the teas. They too are more resistant to fungus and insect pests. The Peace rose and its offspring are good examples of the grandiflora roses.

Some examples of earlier winners of the AARS awards are Miranda 1945, Peace 1946, Forty Niner 1949, Helen Traubel 1952, Chrysler Imperial 1953, Mojave 1954, Tiffany 1957, Sutter's Gold 1956, White Knight 1958, Garden Party 1960, and Duet 1961.

An everblooming hybrid tea which is making a big hit in England and the U. S. A. is Love Song a bouny bi-color watermelon pink on one side and yellow on the reverse.

An old favorite, McGredy's Sunset- a yellow bi-color, also honors at the Canadian Rose Show. This rose is also fragrant a necessary quality to an all-round rose.

Income Tax Explained

INCOME TAX FOR THE WORKER

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C.A. Miller Former Supervising Assessor Income Tax Department.

Some occupations are outlined in the Income Tax regulations where special expense deduction is allowable. One of these is the lumberjack or bush worker who in these modern days uses a power saw. The bush worker has to supply his own power saw, as well as pay for the gasoline and blades it uses as well as all other upkeep.

To get away from all the bookkeeping by the taxpayer in recording his expense he is allowed to claim as a deduction a flat rate of 50 per cord of wood cut during the season. The employer is compelled by the Income Tax Department to show on the T4 slip the number of cords cut by the employee. In this way a quick calculation of expenses obergable against income can be made. If the bush worker is paid by some other system of measurement than by the cord she should contact his employer regarding the rate deductible. If his employer cannot advise as to the rate, he should write to his nearest Income Tax Office advising the unit of measurement and requesting the rate.

Another trade where the pay is on a piece work basis is certain miners who are paid by the load ore produced. In these cases the miner must supply his own explosives such as dynamite etc. When the miner who is employed under these conditions, he is allowed to deduct the cost of explosives used.

In other occupations where it is required that the employee wear safety clothing such as shoes and helmets and the employee must purchase these at his own expense, he is not allowed to deduct this cost on his tax return.

Question! In the winter I work in a lumber camp. I use a power saw which I had to purchase. Can I deduct the cost of the saw on my tax return?

Answer; No. If your productivity is counted in cords, you may deduct 50 cents per cord from your income. If your production is based on some other unit, then cords ascertain the rate applicable to the unit of measurement used in your work.

• • •

Question? My employer insists I wear safety shoes and a helmet, Can I deduct the cost of these on my tax return?

Answer: No. There is no allowance for personal clothing.

French Canadians Believe Main Feature of History 'Beaten With Conquerors'

OTTAWA (CP)—French-Canadians believe the main feature of their history has been the continuous confrontation of the beaten with the conquerors, a Laval University survey shows.

The conquest of Canada by the British was considered by all but one of the people who answered the survey as the major event in French-Canadian political history.

Confederation was also one of the decisive moments.

Professors Maurice Falardeau of Laval reported the results of the survey to the convention of L'Association Canadienne-Francaise pour l'Avancement des Sciences.

The conscription crisis of 1917 was one of the turning points for French-Canadians since for the first time federal government policy was made in spite of Quebec and against French-Canadian interests.

Equally important with the conscription decision was Ontario's denial of the right of French-language education in its public school system.

One replay placing the school decision equal to the conscription crisis in importance said Ontario's decision "made French-Canadians realize, once again, that they are not really equal to other Canadians and that their liberties are to be trampled underfoot at exactly the same time they are being called to battle for their liberties."

Keith Spicer, head of the political science department of the University of Ottawa, said the Canadian government does not take care of the technical expertis it sends abroad the way American and British governments do.

A survey among experts sent to Asia showed that a great majority of them complained that their main problem was lack of administrative backing from the host government.

They also said bad material and psychological and social conditions were often a problem. So was the unwillingness of local experts to give them real control of projects for which they were officially responsible.

In many cases, the antipathies that result neutralize or destroy the international good will each expert is supposed to be promoting.

Mr. Spicer suggested Canada should refuse to lead experts to projects that are not well-planned, should insist on rigorous preparation of the working facilities for the experts, and should work out the pay plan for them "on a strictly intergovernmental level."

Helpful Wing-Shooting Tips

The man who brings his truck each week to collect our accumulation of garbage and trash is an ardent hunter and fisherman. During the first week or so of the trout season, our garbage disposal problem is a chancy thing. The same thing holds true for the first few days of the upland shooting season and for all of the deer hunting season.

Every now and then I make it a point to check up with this admired to learn how sports afield and stream are progressing. One November, when he was piling our garbage into his truck three days late, of course he had been (I'll not neck hunting) I asked him whether or not he had found any birds on opening day.

"Lots of birds," he replied. "Nine hundred."

"Nine!" I exclaimed. "Didn't take you long to get your limit."

"Yes it did," he said. "Missed all nine of them."

Our garbage man is not alone in his wing-shooting troubles by any means. Two of our neighbors are excellent golfers, both club champions from time to time. Both are well coordinated and do things easily with their hands. Yet after more than a few fellows miss more ringneck pheasants than they kill.

NO EXCUSES

Believe me when I say that there is no possible valid excuse for missing a fair flushed ringneck. If a man can hit anything with a shotgun, he can hit a pheasant or ringneck cock. These birds lower on flush, as a rule, then fly straight away. It takes them a while to pick up speed and inside the 30-yard range a lively active boy with a good throwing arm can kill one with a handful of rocks. Yet many gunners continue to miss these birds, year after year.

The whole trouble lies, I think in two basic reasons. First, the average skilled gunner is using a gun which does not fit him. Thus, each shot, in order to be a killing shot, must be an aimed shot. You shouldn't aim a shotgun; instead, you should point it. Just as you would point your finger. If your gun doesn't point where you're looking, and pointing, it doesn't fit you. And, as a day, most shotguns do not fit their owners.

Second, few, very few, upland gunners will go to the trouble or expense of practicing. From one hunting season to the next the shotgun stays in the case. Then on the opening day one gets his' Hunter. Naturally, he misses birds. Moreover, he complains loudly and can't understand why.

All right. So how can you find out whether your gun fits you? That's easy. First put on the same amount of clothes as you would wear while hunting. Next, make sure that your gun is unloaded, empty. Now — shut your eyes and mount the gun to your shoulder, settling your cheek comfortably against the stock. Then open your eyes. If the line of vision of your right eye goes out over the centre of the breech and along the centre of the rib, your gun fits you.

CAN BE ADJUSTED

If things aren't exactly in line as they should be, take your gun to a good gunsmith. As a rule he can adjust the gun to your requirements without too much trouble or expense. Then, once all fall, you will kill your birds instead of missing them.

The matter of practice is a simple one. Take your gun to a trap or skeet range and shoot 25 or 50 rounds. You will be surprised how much confidence that will make on your next trip afield.

In the field, there are a few basic rules which, if not broken, will get birds for you. Take, for example, a bird going straight away. This can be, if you wish, an inside shot, and you have plenty of time. Place the front sight just under the bird, so that the rib of your gun and the bird are in full view. Then fire. On incoming birds, place the front sight under the bird, this for alignment then raise the gun so that it hides the bird and, as you do so, press the trigger.

On quartering birds, use the matter of lead rears its ugly head. Obviously, when a bird is flying across your line of vision, you can't shoot directly at the bird. Instead, you must estimate the location of the spot ahead of the bird. Aim or point your gun at his imaginary spot and swing your gun at the same speed at which the bird flies. Then fire. This is known as the "pointing out" method.

CONTINUE THAT SWING

The vital thing in this method is to remember not to stop your swing as you fire. If you do stop your swing, always, so help me, you will shoot behind the bird. Our great outdoors each year is peppered literally with them. If shotgun pellets which have passed harmlessly behind the tails of fleeting birds, it became the owners of those guns refused to continue the sport after pressing the trigger.

There is another method of wing shooting which solves the matter of lead rather simply if you can train yourself to do it. This method is known as the "swinging-through." Admittedly, it takes a helluva practice but once learned, it is deadly. This is the way it works.

With a quartering bird, first point your gun at a spot behind the bird, this for alignment. Now, swing your gun along the line of flight so that it catches up to the bird. As the end of sight passes the bird, press the trigger. The split second of time that it takes the firing impulse to travel from brain through nervous system to the muscles of your trigger finger, through the firing mechanism is just enough to provide automatic lead for that bird. Keep your gun moving after you fire. Swing

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The hockey situation in the city, as far as this corner is concerned, is as mixed up as a Greenwich Village beatnik society.

Sitting rumor from fact, whisper from loud talk and it seems the future of the city's proposed intermediate or senior setup depends on the generosity of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association.

A short time ago it was announced that a Belleville team had entered the Lakeshore Intermediate "B" League, along with Napanee, Uxbridge, Trenton RCAF, Bowmanville and Port Hope. The league is slated to get under way November 15.

Entry of a Belleville squad in this loop followed the off-again-on-again-gone-again antics of Belleville, Kingston, Oshawa, Toronto and Niagara to form a senior group which ended in pathetic failure.

Throughout the in-and-out capers of the senior loop, Jean Paul Lamirande of this city, stoutly maintained he had a team all set and ready to go. He didn't miss a meeting, and he was always first to submit a club entry. He did this at the Lakeshore meeting, too.

But he ran into a roadblock, when, after all the loop-forming antics had culminated in Napanee and Belleville being accepted into the Lakeshore League, he discovered no ice-time was available at Memorial Arena.

This was to be expected. With a packed winter schedule available across manager Jack Dickens held out potential ice time to accommodate a Belleville senior hockey entry. When it seemed inevitable that there would be no hockey here, Mr. Dickens closed his duties.

Then practically out of a blue sky came the announcement that the city would be represented in the Lakeshore League.

The arena management cannot be blamed. Nor can Mr. Lamirande.

However somewhat shrouded in mystery is the Belleville entry. Lamirande has kept a lot of facts to himself, for good reasons, no doubt. But he is adamant in his stand he has a club, a sponsor and the necessary equipment.

He has got in touch with the arena management and talked "ice time." It was decided that if the Belleville Minor Hockey Association would forego its claim of its allotted time on Wednesday nights, it was possible time for the Belleville hockey entry could be arranged.

President Bill Brennan of the Minor Hockey Association cannot be reached because he is on a brief vacation. However if the BMHA does not agree to forego some of its time, Lamirande says he will take the matter to the commissioner and the city council.

I talked with Jean Paul the other day and he reiterated his statement that he has a club and equipment ready. He also stated that "outside interests are trying to cut my throat, and certain people in Belleville who I can name, are behind it."

It is no secret that Picton hockey interests would enter an intermediate team in the Lakeshore League if ice time in Belleville could be secured. It seems "time" in the Picton Community Arena is not available for the local intermediate entry.

I do not imagine the commission or council here will "force" the BMHA to give up some of its playing time to the intermediate club. At last it is getting three hours more per week than it used last year. The matter probably will be left to the minor association executive. And M 16 turns thumbs down—that's it. Kaput.

Speaking of that, I am not altogether in favor of minor hockey teams, particularly the younger brackets, playing late night schedules. Some of the small fry have a habit of delaying the home-getting process and causing parental worries.

So, to get back to the second paragraph, it seems the fate of a Belleville intermediate hockey club lies in the hands of the minor executives. But something has to be done—and done quickly—if Jean Paul Lamirande's "mystery" team is to take the ice in competitive play on November 16.

Eskys Lick Stamps 20-8

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Saskatchewan Roughriders made partial amends for a maddening season by upsetting Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Western Football Conference action Monday night.

The fourth - place Riders knocked off the league-leading Bombers 20-13 in Winnipeg while Calgary Stampeders were beating 20-8 (S) Edmonton Eskimos in Calgary.

Nothing except pride was at stake in either game because all three playoff positions had been settled. Calgary holds third place and Edmonton second.

The win gave the Riders a total of 11 points on five wins, 10 losses and a tie in 16 scheduled games under coach Steve Owen. The other four clubs, including the last-place British Columbia Lions, have one more game to play.

The Roughriders surprised a Winnipeg Stadium crowd of 15,466 by striking for two early touchdowns and building this up to a 19-0 score early in the third quarter.

The Bombers then came to life, with quarterback Hal Ledyard tossing a short pass to end Ernie Pitts for the end zone to cap their first marck.

The Bombers got their last touchdown with one second remaining in the game on a pass to end Farrell Funston from quarterback Dick Thomas to tie his first offensive start of the season. Thomas's forward was good on one convert attempt.

Jack Gotta took a pass from quarterback Dave Green and Fardy Burket plunged over for the Saskatchewan touchdown. Burket also kicked a single. The other Saskatchewan points came on a field goal, a single and two passes by Reg Whitehouse.

The Bombers were kept off balance by three fumbles and two pass interceptions by defensive halfback Ernie Warlick.

Saskatchewan outrushed the Bombers 177 yards, to 105 but made only 85 yards passing compared with 166 for the Bombers.

Several Bomber regulars, including quarterback Kenny Ploen and fullbacks Charlie Shepard and Gerry James, were out of action because of injuries or for a rest.

At Calgary, a crowd of about 10,000 watched fullback Johnny Bright snap a six-game scoring slump to help Edmonton return to early-season form.

Bright plunged two yards—in the first quarter for a touchdown and Calgary got this back before half time on a 10-yard run by Gene Filipski. Filipski converted his own touchdown and quarterback Eagle Day later kicked a single for the final Calgary point.

Edmonton kept pressing Quarterback Jackie Parker kicked two field goals and a convert and tossed a 36-yard touchdown pass to Bobby Walden in the third quarter. The Eskimo's remaining point came when they fumbled the ball into the Calgary zone where a Stampeder recovered it.

Edmonton outrushed the Stampeders 214 yards to 183 and outpassed them 213 to 101. Don Getty and Parker completed 13 to 23 serials while Day and Gerry Keeling completed seven of 20.

Playoffs Time Changed

TORONTO (CP) — Eastern Football Conference playoffs this year will start at 2 p.m. instead of 1 p.m. as in former years, league officials decided Monday.

Club executives decided all parks now have sufficient lighting to permit the games to be completing a game before the early darkness of November evenings no longer exists.

The league decided that playoffs in Ottawa and Hamilton will be played on Saturdays, those in Toronto on Sundays.

'Thorough Team Slump'

Abel Drives Wings Hard

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League went through—an unprecedented double drill' Monday, 12 hours after losing their third straight game — 6-1 to Montreal Canadiens Sunday night.

Coach Sid Abel said the only way to break the "thorough team slump" was to skate and continue skating.

Abel couldn't recall when Detroit had ever had two practice sessions on the same day and neither could general manager Jack Adams, who has been with the Red Wings 36 years.

Abel broke up his first line. Vic Stasiuk was brought up from the third line, replacing Alex Delvecchio. Stasiuk will play left wing on the first line with Gordie Howe and Eddie Litzenberger.

Delvecchio, who had 11 shots on a goal Sunday but tallied no score, returns to his old centre position on the third line. Bruce Macgregor was shifted from centre to right wing with Val Fonteyne remaining at left wing.

Adams continued trying to make a deal for defenceman Marc Reaume. Detroit has offered to players in exchange for Reaume but Adams has refused to trade for waivers on the field from Sunday's game and defencemen.

Abel chased him off the bench Sunday night when he incurred his 14 minutes in penalties.

Detroit has asked the other NHL clubs for waivers on the Fouts Out For Season?

TORONTO (CP)—Dick Fouts's chances of getting back into the Toronto Argonauts' lineup this season are slim, medical reports indicate.

X-rays Monday showed the big lineman suffered a partial dislocation of his shoulder in Sunday's Eastern Football Conference game against Montreal Alouettes. Treatment for this type of injury usually requires immobilization for three weeks. The possibility of a further rest period being required, plus considerable pain in resulting from the layoff, might rule out any further play this year.

Provost in Second

Bathgate Clings To League Lead

Defeat Trenton, Juniors Lose

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Provost, Sept. Montreal Canadien right winger, picked up five points in three National Hockey League games last week and climbed into sole possession of second place in the league's individual scoring race.

Official statistics released today show Andy Bathgate of the York Rangers still leads the field with 37 points—two more than Provost. One week ago, Bathgate held a three-point lead over Eddy Litzenberger of Detroit Red Wings.

Bathgate had only one goal and one assist in three games last week, giving him five goals and a league-leading 12 assists.

Provost, off to his best start since joining the Canadiens seven years ago, scored twice and helped set up three other goals for a total of 15 points on seven goals and eight assists. He is tied with teammate Ralph Backstrom for the league lead in goals.

Litzenberger was held to two assists, but his games and tie into a three-way tie for third place with Montreal's Bernie (Boom) Boom Geoffrion and Johnny Bucyk of Boston Bruins. Each has 31 points.

COLLECTS FOUR POINTS

Backstrom is all alone in sixth place with 28 points. Last week he scored once and assisted on three other goals.

Henri Richard of Montreal, Gordie Howe of Detroit and Don McKenney of Boston are tied for seventh place at 21 points. Richard and McKenney each turned in four assists each but Howe was held to one goal.

Two Rangers—Dean Prentice and Earl Ingarfield—and Montreal's Phil Goyette share 19th position with 19 points. Of these, Goyette made by far the best showing last week, picking up eight points on three goals and four assists. Prentice scored no points.

Montreal's Billy Hicks also turned in an eight-point week—four goals and two assists—but these were his first points of the season. They placed him in a five-way tie for 29th place.

Johnny Bower of Toronto continues to lead the goaltenders. Bower, nearing his 40th birthday, has a brilliant 1.86 goals-against average for two green games. Jacques Plante of Montreal is second with a 2.50 average for eight games.

Montreal defenceman Lou Fontinato is the most penalized player with 24 minutes while Detroit is the most penalized team with 120 minutes.

BCI Takes Quinte Title

BY PETER CARVER

Belleville Collegiate's unbeaten senior gridders clinched the COSSA Quinte District "A" championship yesterday, defeating Trenton High School 14-2 in a rough, rugged battle.

Coach Stan Harbour's grew took and gave a heavy pounding in the wrap-up game played on the Trenton field. They meet a Peterborough team here November 11 for the COSSA title.

The school's junior squad ran its winless streak to six, completing the season with a 30-6 defeat at the hands of the Trenton youngsters.

SENIOR GAME

Both teams elected to play a rough and tumble brand of football as players from both sides were being helped off the field at regular intervals. Trenton's George Briggs was his team is a 1-point lead as his 35-yard punt rouged the visitors.

Again in the second quarter Briggs booted his second single, this time it was a 40-yard effort. The BCI defence pushed the Tigers into their own end. Trenton tried a fake punt but was backfired and Belleville took over on the Trenton 15-yard line.

Two passes went incomplete and Pete Weston attempted a field goal on the third down. The kick was wide but a Trenton player fumbled the ball in the end zone and BCI's Gene Yorke pounced on the loose ball for Belleville's initial touchdown. Pete Weston kicked the extra point. The half ended with BCI leading 7-2.

Early in the third quarter Brigg lofted another long punt and this time it travelled some 30 yards. The boot was fumbled and Trenton recovered, taking over at the Belleville 30. Harvey Quantrill and "Rugged" Ron Hess moved the ball to the BCI 10-yard line. Trenton could not move on the ground and a third-down pass went incomplete and BCI took over.

BCI drove to mid-field and both teams exchanged punts. A blocked BCI punt gave the Tigers the ball on the Belleville 30 but their drive was fumbled up by a determined BCI defence.

Belleville took the ball on downs at centrefield. They could not advance and were forced into a punt situation. John Peoples' long kick was dropped in the end zone and Trenton QB grabbed the ball for the winners' final touchdown. Weston converted.

JUNIOR GAME

BCI, using the "shotgun" offense, scored in the Trenton five yard line where quarterback Dave Anderson skirted the right end for the major. The convert attempt was no good. Trenton reached the BCI five yard line but on their first play they fumbled and B.C.I. took over.

Trenton's Bob McAlpine booted a 40-yard single in the second quarter and added another minutes later to make the half-time score 6-3 B.C.I.

B.C.I. folded in the third quarter as they were pushed deep into their own territory.

An attempted punt was blocked and Trenton's Lang picked up the ball for the Tigers' first major. Seconds later after the kick-off B.C.I. was forced to punt and once again it was blocked and the loose ball grabbed by a Trenton player in the end zone.

In the fourth quarter after several good runs and a long pass to Vic Watrisk, Davis converted the BCI end zone from 5 yards out to end the Trenton scoring. There were no converts scored in the game.

Auspicious Debut

Rams Whip Terriers

SARNIA (CP) — The newly formed Sarnia Rams made an auspicious home debut in the OHA Senior Hockey League before 1,800 fans Monday night, downing the 1960-61 Allan Cup champion Galt Terriers 4-2.

Galt dressed only 12 players and lost the services of defenceman Harry Neale in the first minute of the first period when he suffered a charley horse. Then at 9:01 of the third period, defenceman Ted Mail picked up a 10-minute misconduct.

The Rams were ahead 3-0 after less than four minutes of play in the first period and scored again at 1:21 of the second period. Winger Ross Darr, one of two Sarnia goals and captain Bruce Jones and defenceman Eric Haddon added the others. Ron Brain and Pete Conacher replied for Galt's goals in the second period.

Balon Leads EPL Scorers

OTTAWA (CP)—Dave Balon of Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers harvested eight points in four games last week to take the lead in the Eastern Professional Hockey League scoring race.

League statistics issued Monday showed the right winger with 15 points on six goals and nine assists. He was third a week ago.

Teammate Ed Hoekstra got a scored twice to hold second place with a total of 13 points on five goals and eight assists. Tom McCarthy of Kingston Frontenacs is two points behind with 11 points while Cy Thomas of Frontenacs, is fourth with 10.

Four players share fifth place with nine points. They are Bob Dillabough of Sudbury Wolves, Merv Kuntz of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds and Brian Hextall and Mel Pearson of Kitchener-Waterloo.

Ed Chadwick of Frontenacs is the leading goaltender with an average of two goals a game. He and Jack McCartan of Kitchener - Waterloo have registered one shutout each.

Apart from being top scorer in the lop, Balon also shares the title of most penalized player with Bob Wilson of Sault Ste. Marie. Both have spent 36 minutes in the penalty box. The most penalized club is Sault Ste. Marie with 187 minutes.

Big Mosca Blocked This Pass

OTTAWA (CP)—Big Angelo Mosca, defensive lineman for Ottawa Rough Riders, nailed a counterfeit suspect in downtown Ottawa Monday.

Police held him after tobacconist Joe Murray said the man tried to pay a $10 bill with a "funny bleached look."

Mr. Murray said he'd just verified with a trust company that the bill was bogus and was reaching for the telephone to call police when the man took off.

Mr. Murray said he saw the big football lineman out on the street and shouted: "Angie, grab that man. Angie went by me like a shot, lunged at the guy and caught him."

RCMP spokesmen said several cases of counterfeit money are being investigated in the Ottawa area.

Browns Oust Foeman 'Spy'

PITTSBURGH (AP) Mike Nixon, Pittsburgh Steelers assistant coach, can't be blamed for being cool toward Cleveland Browns.

Nixon, who scouted the Browns National Football League game at St. Louis Sunday, said he was forced to leave a commercial airliner on the return trip home, presumably at the request of a Browns official.

Nixon and Browns were on the same plane.

Nixon said he was sitting in the plane when an airline official came up and told him he would have to leave. The official, who would give no reason for his action, said they had booked him passage on another flight leaving at the same time.

Don Clark of Montreal Alouettes is still tops in the Eastern Football Conference in individual rushing gains after weekend games but Dave Thelen of Ottawa Rough Riders narrowed the gap separating them.

The Montreal fullback carried for 76 yards against Toronto Argonauts Sunday to increase his ground-gaining yardage to 1,059 for the season. Thelen added 176 yards against Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday to bring his total to 931 yards.

Clark's average gain for the season is 5.8 yards on 183 carries, Thelen is 5.7 yards on 161 carries.

Bernie Faloney of Hamilton is the big payoff man in the passing department. He has thrown for touchdown passes. He has completed 174 passes, completing 156 of them for a gain of 2,565 yards.

Toronto quarterback Tobin Rote has fired 16 touchdown passes. He has a 56% completion out of 353 attempts for a gain of 2,836 yards.

PASS RECEIVERS

Dave Mann of Toronto is still tops among pass receivers with 48 caught for 947 yards and an average gain of 12.9 yards. Hamilton's Gerry McDougall follows with 39 passes for 619 yards and an average gain of 15.9 yards.

He have to be waived out of all pro leagues, Lumley said. "I don't think there'll be too much trouble since I won't go away to play."

Lumley broke into the NHL in 1943. He was last with Toronto Maple Leafs, who won the Vezina Trophy as the league's top goaltender in 1953-54.

Political Rift Developing Over Financing of CBC and Corp. Caught in Middle

By DON HAVERSTT

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC has little time for looking back with pride on the occasion of its 25th anniversary Nov. 2. It is too busy worrying about the future.

Its main cause for concern is financing—specifically, how the corporation is to get public funds, and how much. A political rift has developed on this point and the CBC is caught in the middle.

On one side is the Conservative government which since 1958 has had effective cabinet control over the annual flow of federal funds to the CBC, although Parliament votes the money.

The Liberal opposition wants the federal grant pegged to a statutory formula — something like the old days when the CBC automatically received federal revenues from excise taxes on radio and TV sets. There would be no cabinet control.

CBC EMBARRASSED

All this has put the CBC itself in an embarrassing and worrisome spot. While striving as always to stay aloof from politics, the traditional CBC stand on financing fits in with the Liberal proposal.

At present the CBC management is maintaining this traditional stand, pressing for a five-year statutory grant starting at 86 per capita and rising five per cent a year.

It is known, however, that the government - appointed CBC board of directors, which includes only two management officials among its 11 members, has kept clear of the issue in its policy-forming meetings.

Meanwhile, a stalemate has developed.

The CBC and the Liberal party — an association which neither wants to exploit—claim the support of the 1958 Fowler royal commission on broadcasting, which recommended a formula that although more elaborate formula than that now sought by the CBC management.

PLANS NO CHANGE

But the government says that while such a formula may be possible in the future, it has no intention of changing the present system so long as the corporation is faced with the uncertainties of technical change—color TV, FM radio and the like.

And the government has an important ally—Transport Minister Maxwell Henderson, former CBC chairman, says the CBC should get its money on an annual basis "in the light of the appropriation existing with respect to the manner in which the corporation is spending its money."

A bit is at stake. In the first full fiscal year after its creation on Nov. 2, 1936, the CBC spent $2,600,000. A huge growth in the intervening years pushed the outlay to $108,000,000 last year and expenditures are predicted at $132,900,000 by 1965-67.

In almost 25 years public funds have accounted for two-thirds of that money, the other one-third coming from advertising revenues. The CBC's per-capita formula would maintain that ratio.

QUIRKE'S CRITICISM

Sharp issues with the present financing system was taken by Alphonse Ouimet, corporation president, when he appeared as a witness before the Commons broadcasting committee at the last session of Parliament.

He revealed that the CBC budget "at least one year" since 1958 was cut by the government before being presented to Parliament. Amount of the reduction was not disclosed, but it was a long-cherished wish of the CBC left to work out the economies itself.

A statement to the committee from "the corporation" — apparently without the approval of the CBC board—said the present system is inefficient and results in uncertainties and doubt about CBC political independence.

However, informants say there are deeper reasons for CBC managerial concern about the financing picture.

TIRED FROM ADS

Suppose, for example, the government slashed the CBC budget quite heavily in some year in order to bring the corporation's outlays or federal funds in line generally with the federal budget. What would the CBC do?

It could cut its national services accordingly; it could reduce the amount and quality of its programming. Or it could try to make up the financial difference through a drive for more advertising income.

The last - named possibility causes senior CBC officials to blanch. They are convinced that one-third of the total revenues from advertising sources is the absolute limit, if that is to keep the its integrity in programming.

Beyond that line, they feel, there would be a rush of business with commercial attempts to influence programming. There already are attempts of that nature, unsuccessfully; a sponsor will pull out, for example, if the CBC goes ahead with it anyway.

ANOTHER THREAT

Mr. Ouimet has said that to maintain the one-third commercial revenue ratio he would invite a Canadian duplication of the British TV network situation, where he claims the network would have handed all program responsibility to the advertising agencies.

However, even deeper CBC fear is that the new private Canadian TV network some day may fall on hard times. Then this all - commercial system below day will want to expand its program volume or cover-age—and look to the CBC to find its own money to do it.

CBC officials' scientifically pessimistic view is that in such a situation, a lobby—a strong political lobby—is sure to demand a share of federal broadcasting money, and it probably would be successful. The government-CBC management says the CBC can safeguard against that kind of pressure-splitting—at least for the life of the formula.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Strong Boy won the featured Augusta Purse on Saturday as 9,094 spectators saw the opening day of the fall harness meeting at Old Woodbine Park. The final day of meeting of the Canadian thoroughbred horse racing season runs until Nov. 23.

Frowde Seagram of Waterloo Farms, Toronto, and Maurice J. E. Cossette-Pominville Inc., Montreal, each had two winners on the six-race card. Total wagering on the six races was $76 miles in 1:52.4.

Hamilton sent Strong Boy to the front in the drive and he made the early pace under reinsman Bill Mosey. However, Amber Morn was beaten after they had travelled the mile and Strong Boy pulled away to an easy victory by three lengths. It was his fifth win in a total of 13 starts this season.

Frank Jurac, which set a world record of 2:01.4 for the 3-year-olds in his last start at the New Woodbine track Oct. 17, scored an easy win in the sixth race. Jurac defeated Skinny Minny by seven lengths.

Fair Juror, ridden by Jerry Harrison, paid $3.70 straight and combined with Skinny Minny for a quinella of $30.60.

Butler will be retired shortly after the 1¼-mile test to make way for a stud career at Fair Chance Farm in Washington Court House, Ohio.

Dowager Queen of Toronto's Burlesque Houses to Play Hostess to 'Legit' Drama

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP) — They're for five back years of showbiz doing things to the Casino Theatre that'swould make Sally Rand drop her fan and cause the Gregory Girls to pause in the middle of a provocative pirouette.

The dowager queen of Toronto's burlesque houses is having her face lifted while she bides her time for 26 years of bawdy vaudeville and prepares to play hostess to "legitimate" drama.

The Queen Street institution closed Oct. 12 with a G-stringed bump, the parting gesture of blonde New Yorker Jody Britt, and the lights went out "temporarily."

The 1,100 - seat theatre is scheduled to reopen Jan. 2 with a revamped stage, reconditioned dressing rooms, a new name, Civic Square Theatre—in recognition of its rich position opposite the front of Toronto's projected new $85,000,000 city hall.

In place of strippers and jugglers, singers and acrobats, performing dogs and class B movies, the theatre will offer "carefully controversial, contemporary" plays, in the words of manager Murray Little.

NOT SORRY

Little says he had been considering the current transformation for months and believes the demand is growing for good

TV Commercials Technique Suggested to Sell Democracy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of a big Madison Avenue advertising agency—Charles, H. Brower of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne—in a Chicago speech the other day asserted that the United States should sell democracy to the world with the techniques used to peddle soap, Baker and soap.

During the intervening days I have been watching TV commercials with special interest, attempting to figure out which one of the two might easily be hard-selling democracy. And I just don't think it would work. For instance:

Pretty girl stands smiling into camera, holding book marked Congressional Record, while man's voice is heard singing: "Nine out of 10 Hollywood stars use this document—and life is better, sweeter, with it."

Man is shown holding a ballot and saying, "For fast, fast, fast relief from pain of dictatorship use this . . ."

Man and woman are seen struggling up a mountain through thick clouds of swirling smoke, while a voice says, "Come up, up, up to the cool, clean air of democracy."

The well - tailored huckster could exhort alien viewers to "try the democracy with the new wonder ingredient — the noble one" or "clean your fin w i th a big democracy, caneral legislature," or talk about the "extra margin" provided by the court system.

Sunday night's super - special drama, The Power and the Glory on CBS came off a close second in the size of its audience, according to an overnight survey by ARB rating service. NBC's Bonanza was set out in front for the first hour of the show. The big show starring Fredric Oliver pulled out in front by a narrow margin for the second hour, mostly because a lot of viewers turned off their sets for the night.

One of Bandit's Three Victims Dies of Wounds

TORONTO (CP) — A woundbe bandit, cursing and screaming, mowed down three bank customers with a sawed - off rifle Monday, then fled through downtown traffic in a stolen truck and on foot. One of the victims died.

The bandit was captured by a passerby who thought the man had been running from a routine traffic accident.

Det. Insp. Robert G. Gill, died more than an hour after he took a blast in the abdomen from a sawed - off .303 rifle at close range. He was pronounced dead at hospital, but doctors revived him briefly by opening his chest and massaging his heart, only to have him succumb to his wound.

Frank Zdanceivicz was in serious condition in hospital early today with wounds in the right side and hip, while John C. McNeill suffered a leg wound.

HAS HEART ATTACK

A fourth man, taxi - driver Harry Richmond, suffered a heart attack and was taken to hospital when the bandit's truck crashed into the cab and rendered Richmond into the seat with the impact.

Police laid a charge of capital murder against Roger Allard, 34, who escaped from jail last week from Montreal.

James Miller, 44, was brought down the gunman with a flying tackle despite a shot fired over his head.

"I didn't know he had a gun when I went after him," Miller said later. "I went after the man because he had side-swiped another car which had wrecked the truck, and he was trying to get away from what I thought was the scene of an accident."

When he shot at me, I was already committed so I grabbed him. I don't know why, shortly before 11 a.m. EST when a bandit ran amok in a branch centered the Toronto - Dominion Bank at downtown Queen and Bay streets.

He nudged Mr. Mustart aside with a pistol, filled a satchel onto the counter and then without a word — lifted his rifle and fired. Mr. Mustart slumped to the floor.

Shaking his killer Mrs. Peary Baird, the gunman said: "I want money. I'm going to count to three."

He screamed out the numbers, then fired a shot into Mr. Zdanceivicz fell wounded. Cursing and running for the door, the bandit again, striking Mr. McNeill as he stood open doors away.

On Queen Street, he forced driver Roy Hill out of his panel truck and, pursued customers sidestepping two cars before getting a speeding turn which he took on Yonge Street, Toronto's main north-south artery.

The truck crashed into Mr. Richmond's cab and the bandit fled on foot. Richmond had also had knocked him to the ground, he fired again before off - duty police officer Robert Gardiner stood behind subdue him.

He had two shots winned by customers at the adjacent Eaton Company department store.

Fan Magazines and Writers Under Fire of Bobby Darin

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hallowe'en is perhaps an appropriate time to call another meeting of the anti - fan - magazine - Bobby-Darin club.

The secretary is sorry to report a number of withdrawals from the club since the last meeting. It seems they could not find a satisfactory reason why they should try.

Their point is well taken, but not unanswerable. The fact is that Darin has already made four starring movies and in all likelihood will make more. He continues strong in the record field and elsewhere.

To further club research, I made another field trip to see Darin. He was parked outside the State Fair set in his brand-new $10,000 trailer, complete with refrigerator, stereo and game table with chess set.

RELAXES WITH MUSIC

Darin was resting on the couch, listening to Swan Lake on the earphones. "What are you sorry about today?" I asked as an opening gambit.

"I'm only sorry because you asked me what I was sorry about," he replied.

Before I had time questioning it was apparent that he was sorry of his magazine articles writers and any who inquire or write about his marriage to Sandra Dee.

The number of reporters I will take it gets smaller and smaller all the time," he commented. When I see some of the personalities in this town—I won't mention names—who dish out their homes and families for the sake of personal publicity, it makes me physically ill."

I would never want to look back on my life and see that I had done that. Publicity? I hire an office largely for the purpose of saying no to people's requests rather than having to do it myself.

"I've nothing to anybody, except the person who puts down his dough at the box office or pays to see us in a night club. When the time comes that I'm sorry I'm pleased with what he bought. But I'm in trouble. But not before."

The major part of operating revenue for the CBC comes from public funds in the form of parliamentary grants.

Graph shows total revenue needed to run the CBC has jumped from about $20,000,000 for the 1953 fiscal year to more than an estimated $85,000,000 in the current year.

In recent years about two-thirds of the annual totals have come from public funds. —(CP Newsmap.)

Astrological Forecast

Wednesday, November 1

By CARROLL RIGHTER

General Tendencies: Excepting for the early morning when sequence and impulsive actions could bring you considerable trouble, you now have a day and evening when you can work up to a crescendo of action for yourself that is broader in its scope than for some time past. Don't force issues or put in effort, but make the decisions now that you can use to considerable advantage in the days ahead. Plan expansion.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —Curb your temper in A.M. and make it a point to be most charming with everyone with whom you come in contact. You are highly magnetic now. Evening is then ideal for getting out with good friends and having a wonderful time.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —Although you may feel in A.M. that others are abusing you, be patient and make no radical changes, since afternoon or evening assistance will be yours that you require at this time. However, be secretive and forge ahead quickly.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Care must be exercised this morning in driving to ward off a possible accident. Then the rest of the day is fine for accomplishment and making rapid strides forward in your work or career. Have fun with friends in P.M.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Take particular care with your reputation in A.M. — be like Caesar's wife, above reproach. Also, see that your credit is improved. Seek out the information you need from higher-ups later on that you go ahead more quickly.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Rather than scatter with closer ties in A.M., be busy and show your affection for those. Use remainder of day and evening to the most for fun. You'll have more and more lucrative outlets and making better contacts, both socially and financially.

Virgo (Aug. 2 2to Sept. 22) — Any recklessness in A.M. could bring about a downfall. Exercise greater care than usual. Instead, deal with those experts who can show you a better career way of operating in the future to reach more quickly.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Forget that feeling you have had for some time that good comrades are working against you. This is not so. Plan get busy making new contacts, working diligently and enjoying fine friends.

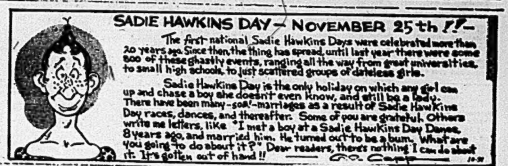
Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Act circumspectly in A.M. so that executives have no cause for criticism. Also, handle any civic affairs that concern you personally. If you think big, you will find that some higher post will be given you and you advance quickly.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You are apt to make quite a serious error in A.M. If you remain calm, there is no worry to disturb you. Make no changes. Later, fine new contacts can be made and important data can be yours from those of different experience to yours.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Steer clear of that situation between a good pal and a higher-up in A.M. Later, happy hours with your clever cross in improving relationships with key people and thereby making the future more secure and remunerative.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be sure you follow through this morning with your part of any contracts made with others. Later, get together with organizations associates so that your success can be really sizable in the future. Get a new start on things.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Impress co-workers with your spirit of co-operation and camaraderie today. Also, get a head better by putting through any new ideas you may have that are most practical and can be easily executed. Get into detailed work with enthusiasm.



If your child is born today, he will be one of those children with—seemingly—the energy of two, and it is necessary that you help give the benefit of sports to channel this flow in the right direction. Don't be afraid to give so heavy a schedule of education as possible, both spiritual and academic, since maturity brings great success commensurate with learning. Be understanding, patient with your fine progeny.

PRICE SLASHED

By more than $2,000. The owner is tired of waiting for a proper price and is prepared to lose money—he is losing plenty at this new price of $10,000. We were sold on this brick bungalow when it was more than $10,000 and we still are sold on it at the new price. Three bedrooms TOO when you grab this bargain. Large lot and no plumbicks. We only ask you to see and compare. See that it is brick, that it is in absolutely tremendous condition, that it is complete in every detail, that it has the extras that has been put into the parts. Be convinced. Then we are sure you'll find yourself a fever and respect that will make you buy. It's that good. Owner says, completely finished street.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Loses Boy Friend

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am 16 and I like a boy of 18 an awful lot.

We had about 10 dates and he never did anything he shouldn't. At the outdoor movie, with two other kids we watched the movie and he just held my hand and put his arm around me. Kissed me four or five times. The others were necking in the back seat.

Then he stood me up one night and when I saw him the next day he acted cold. Later he drove by me as I was walking down the street and asked me if I wanted to go for a ride with him. I went.

This time it was different. He parked in a dark spot and kissed me. He wanted to make violent love to me. Told me over and over that he loved me. I was not harsh in refusing. I just said, "I'm sorry, but I just can't. Please don't be angry."

What hurt me more than anything was when he stopped at my house. Usually he opened the door for me but that night he just sat and looked into space and said, "This is where you get off, isn't it?" I went straight to bed and cried all night.

Oh Doris, what am I going to do? Is there any way I could get him back? When I see him, he never waves, but he always drives around where he knows I'll be. Could this mean that he still likes me? I can't eat or sleep any more and my friends tell me that I am getting unbearable to be with.—M. W.

DEAR M. W.:—From where you sit, he is unreasonable. From his spot, you are. The thing we don't realize is that for a girl a kiss can be thoroughly satisfying. For a boy, a kiss is the trigger that begins a desire, sometimes overpowering, for complete physical expression.

It seems he still likes you but can't stand the agony of being with you. If you should chance to be together again, it will be your job to keep cool and help him to do the same. Long car rides are out. Safety lies in numbers, and in happy sporting activities which work off physical energy and make companionship grow.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—What do you think of a son-in-law who told his little boy and girl of nine and ten years that there is no Jesus or God—it's all a fable?

You can imagine, Miss Clark, how I felt when quite by accident I heard these two kiddies laughing and making fun of God one night after their mother put them to bed.

Then one said, "See, I'm not afraid. Dad says there's no God and it's all baloney. Dad says Granny is a crazy old girl believing in that baloney."

Well, to put it mildly I'm not over it yet. Could anything be done in a nice pleasant way to help these poor kiddies?—AUNTIE.

• • •

DEAR AUNTIE:—There are two hopeful signs. When he says he is not afraid, he is talking himself into something. And youngsters love to be daring and try out shocking words and ideas. At least he has been told "he old, old story" enough to know about it.

If Granny has a firm faith, I'm thinking that their mother was raised in it—and that her influence can win out.

Then one year will tell the tale. Dismissing God leaves emptiness, and young people search for spiritual satisfaction. Eventually they will make their own decision—but not yet.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HELENE:—You may arrange to have your baby adopted. Make an appointment with the worker at your Children's Aid Society, 68 West Moira Street, Belleville.

DEAR DORIS:—I have kept hoping we would have our own child, but now I am forty and my husband is forty-one. My husband says he would adopt for my sake but would always feel it was not his child. I am afraid to go ahead for this reason as I feel it takes two people to make a go of adoption just like everything else.

Another thing. I don't know if the agency would consider us as my husband is of the Protestant faith and I am Roman Catholic. We were married by the priest in my church and my husband promised to bring up any children we might have as Roman Catholic.—MARY.

• • •

DEAR MARY—Get together or don't adopt at all. You are so right in saying it takes two. Parents are made more by the fact of living with and caring for children, than by giving physical birth to them.

Your local agency has its own rules about what is considered a Catholic home. The one I talked to considered there was no great problem in this.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—My husband and I have been married 35 years. Last week he told me that before we were married he had an affair with a girl, which lasted two years. Then she left him and married someone else. Could he still be thinking of her? Your answer means a lot to me. —HEART BROKEN.

• • •

DEAR HEART BROKEN:—You're the one he lives with. What do you think?

Could be he has carried this guilty knowledge around all these years, afraid to tell you. Now he is relieved to unload.

If hearts are broken with every revelation of a past love, there's hardly a single heart without at least a crack.
